"COMMERCIAL PREMISES"—MEANING OF—COFFEE-HOTEL.—"Commercial premises" in the context of the classification rules for electric supply by an electric licensee means nothing more than "premises used for purposes of business." The words cannot be read as being in contradiction to trade premises. Premises used for running a coffee-hotel must be regarded as "Commercial premises" for the purpose of fixing rates for the supply of electric energy. 53 L.W. 359=A.I.R. 1941 Mad. 439=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 411.

RULES 31 AND 37.—The provisions of R. 31 deal with the point of commencement of supply of energy by the licensee to the consumer and not with the question of control over an electric line as a matter of fact. R. 31 is one of the rules relating to the conditions of supply which is a matter of concern between the licensee and the consumer rather than a matter affecting the

SEC. 37.—The power to make general rules for the whole of British India or any considerable part of it cannot make local control and the consideration of immediate local conditions unnecessary. public; whereas R. 37 is one of the rules of precaution for the safety of the public. A.I.R. 1933 R. 70=11 Rang. 162=34 Cr.L.J. 1040. R. 37 applies to all electric supply lines, and in considering whether the case is governed by R. 37 or not, it is unnecessary to determine whether the line in question is a service-line or not. Under R. 37 the licensee is responsible that all electric supply lines under his control, even if they are on a consumer's premises, are maintained in a safe condition. In truth and in fact the consumer gets the use of the control of the electric current only when it reaches his switch and not as soon as it passes through the meter. (Ibid.) See also 41 Bom.L.R. 878. The contention that if the consumer elects to take a supply of energy from the licensee's distributing main at any point outside his premises, and receives the supply through the licensee's meter, and thereafter it is conveyed through a line which has been constructed by the consumer and at his cost, the obligation to keep in a safe condition the line and works from the point of commencement of supply (i.e., the meter) to be consumer's premises and also the line and works on the consumer's premises, is cast upon the consumer and not on the licensee cannot be accepted, for it runs counter to the object and effect of the Electricity Act. The licensee is not entitled by agreement with the consumer to release himself from the obligation to see that the line, apparatus and works by which electricity is transmitted, so long as he retains control of them, are maintained in a safe condition because this obligation is cast upon him not merely for the benefit of the consumer and the licensee, but also for the protection and in the interest of the public generally. Where therefore the licensee allows the stay wire in the road to be in an unsafe condition the licensee fails to perform an obligation imposed upon him under the Act and is guilty of a breach of R. 37 and can be convicted under R. 107. But a conviction in the alternative under R. 107 and sec. 47 however is not in accordance with law, for, the case falls neither under sec. 236 nor sec. 367 (3), Cr. P. Code. 1933 Cr. C. 477=1933 R. 70. The evidence for the prosecution showed that when the officials of a licensee company visited the premises of the accused the seals which the company had affixed to the meter placed upon the premises of the accused had been removed. Held, that the accused must be held responsible for removing these seals and that his conviction under R. 106 read with R. 37 (4) was justified. 116 I.C. 889=1929 L. 867.

RULE 40-A : BOMBAY GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATION DATED 15-11-1934—"THEIR OWN WORKS"—INTERPRETATION OF—"WORKS"—MEANING OF.—The words "their own works" in the notification dated 15-11-1934, issued by the Government of Bombay under R. 40-A of the Electricity Rules, 1922, cannot be interpreted as being limited to works carried out on the premises of the various bodies referred to there. The words mean works carried out by the exempted bodies themselves or perhaps works belonging to them; and by "works" is meant the kind of works referred to in the rule and not the kind of works referred to in the definition in the Electricity Act. 43 Bom.L.R. 99=1941 Bom. 100; See also I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 496.

RULE 48 OF THE INDIAN ELECTRICITY RULES 1937, introduced by the Notification dated 27-3-1937, did not come into force until 22-3-1938; and R. 48 cannot therefore apply to any installation works carried out before 22-3-1938, and after March, 1937. Nor would the old R. 40-A of the Electricity Rules, 1922, would apply; because under the Notification of 23-3-1937 the old R. 40-A was superseded when the new rules were made applicable on 27-3-1937. Sec. 24 of the General Clauses Act of 1897 is of no avail in such a case and R. 40-A of the old cannot be regarded as superseded only when the new R. 48 came into force, because the notification of March, 1937 expressly superseded the rules of 1922. 43 Bom.L.R. 99=1941 Bom. 100. "COMMERCIAL PREMISES" in the context of the classification rules for electric supply by an electric licensee means nothing more than "premises used for purposes of business." 15. The definition of 'consumer' includes any person who is supplied with energy by a licensee, and any person whose premises are for the time being connected for the purposes of a supply of energy with the works of the licensee. Therefore in a prosecution for offences under sec. 44 and R. 106 prima facie it should be enough to prove either that energy was supplied for the use of the persons or that the persons were owners or occupiers of premises connected up with the licensee's electric system. 172 I.C. 940=18 P.L.T. 986=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 15. It is clear from the provisions of sec. 37 of the Electricity Act that R. 106 was one which the Government of India had power to make and the necessity of a rule fixing responsibility for the integrity of the seals of the meter fixed on the consumer's premises is obvious. It is equally obvious that in case of a conviction under R. 106, although the breaking of a seal on a meter fixed on a consumer's premises is sufficient to render the consumer liable to a fine, the fine would be adopted to the circumstances of the case. 151 I.C. 1039=1934 N. 245. Rule 106 is unreasonable and repugnant to the general principles of law, and is in excess of the powers conferred by sec. 37 (4). It is also inconsistent with the provisions of sec. 44 of the Act. Consequently this rule is ultra vires of the Governor-General in Council and is therefore invalid. 12 R. 515=35 Cr.L.J. 1364=A.I.R. 1934 R. 178.

RULE 107.—Rule 107 framed under sec. 37 of the Act imposes penalties only on licensees and owners (i.e. experts). It is not applicable to consumers, who are not experts. The only rules which any non-expert can observe are Rr. 29 and 40-A which are provided for by Rr. 106 and 106-A. 60 Bom. 770=37 Cr.L.J. 1124=38 Bom.L.R. 434=A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 327.

Under R. 123 it is not the workman who actually carries out the installation that is guilty of any offence; it is only the person under whose immediate supervision the work is carried out that is liable to punishment under the rule. RULE 62 (3) (a): LIABILITY UNDER—CIVIL RIGHTS.—The civil rights of a person would not in any way protect him against criminal liability for his acts and omissions under R. 62 (3) (a) of the Indian Electricity Rules. He has every right to move against the Electric Supply Co. to have the wire removed from over his land, but the wire being where it is he is not justified in law in effecting additions and alterations in his house making the aerial line running over land accessible otherwise than by the aid of a ladder or other special appliance. 15 Pat.L.T. 761=1934 P. 523.

SECS. 37 AND 38: RULES UNDER.—Validity of rules made and duly published by the Governor General can be canvassed in a Court of law. 12 R. 515=35 Cr.L.J. 1364=1934 R. 178. The definite policy underlying the penal rules framed under sec. 37 is to make licensees and owners who are experts, having or supposed to have some knowledge of the technical matters relating to electricity liable for breaches of the rules. An owner as defined under the rules is a sort of quasi-licensee; a person who is not a licensee, but authorised by Government under Part III of the Act to supply energy. The rules however, clearly are not part of the Act, and the provision in sec. 38 (4) giving them the same force as if they had been enacted by the Act does not make

Sec. 39.—The word "dishonestly" is a legal expression having the same sense as that in which it is used in the Penal Code. 27 I.C. 591.

BURDEN OF PROOF—CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

—Sec. 39 does not remove from prosecution the burden of proving an offence against an individual. Such proof must naturally be circumstantial in character. Where the person charged is the lessee or owner of the house and the consumer of the electricity (that is, the person who is officially on the company's books as the consumer in the particular house) and where there is a large and obvious erection on the roof of the house or in any part of the house, where it could not possibly escape the notice of the consumer and where in addition the person charged is the only person who would gain advantage from the theft of the electricity, the charge under sec. 39 is made out. 146 I.C. 814=1933 A.L.J. 1175. Sec. 39 does not say that dishonest abstraction or consumption or use of energy is theft. Sec. 39 means no more than that the offender is to be tried in the same way as if he had committed the offence of theft. A.I. R. 1936 Cal. 753. Abstraction is not always a necessary ingredient for an offence under sec. 39. The consuming of electricity and the regular causing of the record of that use in the shape of the figures on the dials in the meters to be altered, amounts to a dishonest user within the meaning of sec. 39, and the persons causing or allowing the alteration of the figures on the dial must be deemed to have committed theft within the meaning of sec. 379, Penal Code. (Ibid.).

OFFENCE UNDER SECTION—CONSUMER USING ELECTRICAL MACHINERY.—Bona fide CONDUCT.—A consumer employing electrical machinery is entitled within his own premises to use all reasonable tests which might be necessary to discover a defect. It is not obligatory on any one, whatever machinery he may happen to use, to call in an expert on every occasion when something goes wrong. A man is entitled, if he is able, to remedy defects himself in his own plant. If, in the electric supply, it is reasonable for a consumer to use an electric lamp and he bona fide uses a lamp for this purpose without permission, sec. 23 has no application nor is he guilty under sec. 39 as his action does not amount to dishonest abstraction of the company's electric energy. 151 I.C. 19=35 Cr.L.J. 1274=1934 A. 320.

SECS. 39 AND 44 (c).—Sec. 39 dispenses with direct proof of abstraction by the accused person, but does not indicate the person who is to be held liable for the constructive abstraction. Sec. 44 (c) also enables a presumption to be raised, under certain circumstances, that the prevention of a meter from duly registering itself has been knowingly and wilfully caused by the consumer in whose custody or control the meter is proved to be. But the prosecution cannot avail itself

Where an offence falls under both secs. 39 and 44 (c), the mere fact that a charge could have been made under sec. 44 (c) does not prevent a charge made under section 39 from being properly made especially where the offence under sec. 39 is clearly established. Sec. 39 is in fact the major offence. 65 I.A. 158=42 C.W.N. 621=1938 A.L.J. 382=174 I.C. 1=A.I.R. 1938 P.C. 130=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 647 (P.C.). SECS. 39 AND 50 : THEFT OF ELECTRIC ENERGY.—PERSONS AUTHORISED TO PROSECUTE.—Sec. 39 creates an offence, and prosecution for the theft of electric energy can be instituted only by one of the persons mentioned in sec. 50. Where the prosecution is not instituted at the instance of the Government or an Electric Inspector but by the Executive Officer of a Cantonment Board who are licensees for distribution of electric energy, the proceedings are liable to be quashed in the absence of evidence to show that the Executive Officer has authority from the Board to institute the proceedings, as he cannot be deemed to be an aggrieved person within the meaning of sec. 50. 37 P.L.R. 758.

SEC. 44.—The latter part of sec. 44 of the Act does not exonerate the prosecution from discharging the onus which lies on it to show that there has been improper use of the energy of a licensee, but merely provides that in case there has been such improper use, the consumer himself will not be able to avoid the liability by saying that the energy was used by some person over whom he had no control. SEC. 44 (b) OF THE ACT does not require that the "works" laid or connected up with any other works belonging to the licensee must also be works belonging to the licensee. I.L.R. 1939 Bom. 496=41 Bom.L.R. 878=A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 480. "Works" as defined by sec. 2 (n) of the Electricity Act, include electric supply lines. The point at which the supply of energy by a licensee to a consumer shall be deemed to commence, where the amount supplied is ascertained by meter, is the point at which the conductor enters the meter, in view of sec. 35 read with sec. 19-A of the Act. The supply line up to the point at which it enters the meter constitutes "works" within the meaning of sec. 2 (n). Where a person therefore removes the meter board to a new position, after breaking open the seals which had been placed by the licensee upon the meter, laying additional lines from the former position of the meter up to its new position, his act amounts to an offence under sec. 44 (b) of the Electricity Act as well as an offence under R. 31 (1) read with R. 122 (a) of the Electricity Rules. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 496=41 Bom.L.R. 878=A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 480. The words "connects up" in sec. 44 (b) of the Act cannot be construed as extending only to the workman or man who actually does the physical work. The words embrace the whole process of connecting the wires in an installation with other wires for the purpose of communicating with the works of the licensee. There is no doubt that the words "connects up" include the house-holder who gives instructions to connect up, the contractor, if any, through whom those instructions are transmitted to the workman and the workman who actually does the work. 1943 Bom. 76=44 Bom.L.R. 800.

SEC. 44 (d) : PROSECUTION UNDER—ONUS OF PROOF.—The latter part of sec. 44 of the Act does not exonerate the prosecution from discharging the onus which lies on it to show that there has been improper use of the energy of a licensee, but merely provides that in case there has been such improper use, the consumer himself will not be able to avoid the liability by saying that the energy was used by some person over whom he had no control. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 571=42 Cr.L.J. 472=A.I.R. 1941 Cal. 87.

SEC. 47.—A conviction in the alternative under R. 107 and sec. 47 is not in accordance with law. See 1933 Cr.C. 477=A.I.R. 1933 R. 70 cited under sec. 37. Sec. 47 deals in terms with default in complying with any of the provisions of the Act, or with any order issued under it, Penalty for offences not otherwise provided for. inclusive), makes default in complying with any of the provisions of this Act, or with any order issued under it, or, in the case of a licensee, with any of the conditions of his license, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees, and, in the case of a continuing default, with a daily fine which may extend to twenty rupees :

Provided that, where a person has made default in complying with any of the provisions of sections 13, 14, 15, 17 and 32, as the case may be, he shall not be so punishable if the Court is of opinion that the case was one of emergency and that the offender complied with the said provisions as far as was reasonable in the circumstances.

48. The penalties imposed by sections 39 to 47 (both inclusive) shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any liability in respect of the payment of compensation or, in the case of a licensee, the revocation of his license, which the offender may have incurred.

49. The provisions of sections 39, 40, 44, 45 and 46 shall, so far as they are applicable, be deemed to apply also when the acts made punishable thereunder are committed in the case of energy supplied by, or of works belonging to, ¹[any Government in British India].

50. No prosecution shall be instituted against any person for any offence against this Act or any rule, license or order thereunder, except at the instance of the Government or an Electric Inspector, or of a person aggrieved by the same.

Supplementary.

51. Notwithstanding anything in sections 12 to 16 (both inclusive) and sections 18 and 19, the Provincial Government may, by order in writing, for the placing of appliances and apparatus for the transmission of energy, confer upon any public officer or licensee, subject to such conditions and restrictions (if any) as the Provincial Government may think fit to impose, and to the provisions of the Indian Telegraph Act, 1885, any of the powers which the telegraph-authority possesses under that Act, with respect to the placing of telegraph-or in the case of a licence with any of the conditions of his licence ; but it does not deal with a breach of any of the rules made under the Act. Section cannot be held by implication to provide a penalty for breach of the rules also. 69 Bom. 770=37 Cr.L.J. 1124=38 Bom.L.R. 434=A.I.R. 1936 Bom. 327.

SEC. 50.—Sec. 50 of the Act applies to a prosecution under sec. 379, I. P. Code, read with sec. 39 of the Act for the theft of electricity. An offence of this nature is an offence against the Electricity Act as it would not have been an offence under sec. 379, I. P. Code, if it had not been for the provisions of sec. 39 of that Act. It is an offence which is created by that section and the Legislature intended sec. 50 to apply to an offence of this nature. 165 I.C. 689=1936 A.L.J. 955=A.I.R. 1936 All. 742. The phrase "at the instance of" in sec. 50 means merely at the solicitation of or at the request of. Where a prosecution under the Act is instituted by the police on report from the Electric Company whose officers come into Court and give evidence, the prosecution is really at the instance of the Electric Company who is a 'person aggrieved,' although they may not make the immediate complaint on which the Magistrate takes cognizance of the offence. 1936 A. 742. A prosecution originated with the complaint of the District Magistrate who acted on the recommendation of the Electric Inspector to Government, is legal. The expression "at the instance of" occurring in sec. 50 of the Electricity Act does not mean "on the complaint of" or "with the sanction of" but only means "at the asking" or "the suggestion of." I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 692=1944 N.L.J. 475=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 380.

A licensee company is a "person aggrieved" within the meaning of sec. 50. 116 I.C. 889=1929 L. 867. So also a person who is directly in charge of an Electric Company such as its Chief Residential Engineer. A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 15=18 P.L.T. 986=172 I.C. 940. ¹ Service of notices, orders or documents. 53. (1) Every notice, order or document by or under this Act required or authorised to be addressed to any person may be served by post or left,—

(a) where ³[the Central Government or the Provincial Government] is the addressee, at the office of ⁴[such officer as the Central Government or the Provincial Government, as the case may be, may designate in this behalf;]

(b) where a local authority is the addressee, at the office of the local authority;

(c) where a company is the addressee, at the registered office of the Company or, in the event of the registered office of the Company not being in India, at the head office of the Company in India;

(d) where any other person is the addressee, at the usual, or last known place of abode or business of the person.

(2) Every notice, order or document by or under this Act required or authorized to be addressed to the owner or occupier of any premises shall be deemed to be properly addressed if addressed by the description of the "owner" or "occupier" of the premises (naming the premises), and may be served by delivering it, or a true copy thereof, to some person on the premises, or, if there is no person on the premises to whom the same can with reasonable diligence be delivered, by affixing it on some conspicuous part of the premises.

54. Every sum declared to be recoverable by section 5, clause (f), section 6, sub-section (2), section 14, sub-section (2), clause (h), section 16, sub-section (2), section 18, sub-section (2) or sub-section (4), or section 26, sub-section (4) and every fee leviable under this Act, may be recovered, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction where the person liable to pay the same is for the time being resident, by the distress and sale of any movable property belonging to such person.

55. The Provincial Government may, by general or special order, authorise the discharge of any of its functions under section 13 or section 18, ⁶[or section 34, sub-section (2)] or clause V, sub-clause (2), or clause XIII of the Schedule by an Electric Inspector.

56. No suit, prosecution or other proceeding shall lie against any public officer, or any servant of a local authority, for anything done, or in good faith purporting to be done, under this Act.

57. (1) In section 40, sub-section (1), clause (b), and section 41, sub-section (5), of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, the term "work" shall be deemed to include electrical energy supplied, or to be supplied, by means of the work to be constructed.

Security and Accounts.

Security for execution of works of licensee not being local authority.

1. Where the licensee is not a local authority, the following provisions as to giving security shall apply, namely :—

(a) The licensee shall, within the period fixed in that behalf by his license, or any longer period which the Provincial Government may substitute therefor by order under section 4, sub-section (3), clause (b), of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, before exercising any of the powers by the license conferred on him in relation to the execution of works show, to the satisfaction of the Provincial Government, that he is in a position fully and efficiently to discharge the duties and obligations imposed upon him by the license throughout the area of supply.

(b) The licensee shall also, within the period fixed in that behalf by his license, or any longer period which the Provincial Government may substitute therefor by order under section 4, sub-section (3), clause (b), of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, and before exercising any of the powers conferred on him in relation to the execution of works, deposit or secure to the satisfaction of the Provincial Government such sum (if any) as may be fixed by the license or, if not so fixed, by the Provincial Government.

(c) The said sum deposited or secured by the licensee under the provisions of this clause shall be repaid or released to him on the completion of the works or at such earlier date or dates and by such instalments, as may be approved by the Provincial Government.

2. Where the licensee is not a local authority, the following provisions as to the audit of accounts shall apply, namely :—

(a) The annual statement of accounts of the undertaking shall, before being rendered under section 11 of the Indian Electricity Act, 1910, be examined and audited by such person as the Provincial Government may appoint or approve in this behalf, and the remuneration of the auditor shall be such as the Provincial Government may direct, and his remuneration and all expenses incurred by him in or about the execution of his duties to such an amount as the Provincial Government shall approve, shall be paid by the licensee on demand.

(b) The licensee shall afford to the auditor, his clerks and assistants, access to all such books and documents relating to the undertaking as are necessary for the purposes of the audit, and shall, when required, furnish to him and them all vouchers and information requisite for that purpose, and afford to him and them all facilities for the proper execution of his and their duty.

(a) where it is made by such owners or occupiers as aforesaid, the owners or occupiers making it do not, within fourteen clear days after the service on them by the licensee of a notice in writing in this behalf, tender to the licensee a written contract duly executed and with sufficient security binding themselves to take, or guaranteeing that there shall be taken, a supply of energy for not less than two years to such amount as will in the aggregate produce annually, at the current rates charged by the licensee, a reasonable return to the licensee; or

(b) where it is made by the Provincial Government or a local authority, the Provincial Government or local authority, as the case may be, does not, within the like period, tender a like contract binding itself to take a supply of energy for not less than seven years for the public lamps in such street or part thereof.

(2) Where any difference or dispute arises between the licensee and such owners or occupiers as to the sufficiency of the security offered under this clause, or as to the amount of energy to be taken or guaranteed as aforesaid, the matter shall be referred to the Provincial Government and either decided by it or, if it so directs, determined by arbitration.

Provided first, that the licensee shall not be bound to comply with any such requisition unless and until the person making it—

(a) within fourteen days after the service on him by the licensee of a notice in writing in this behalf, tenders to the licensee a written contract, in a form approved by the Provincial Government duly executed and with sufficient security, binding himself to take a supply of energy for not less than two years to such amount as will produce, at current rates charged by the licensee, a reasonable return to the licensee, and

(b) if required by the licensee so to do, pays to the licensee the cost of so much of any service-line as may be laid down or placed for the purposes of the supply upon the property in respect of which the requisition is made, and of so much of any service-line as it may be necessary for the said purposes to lay down or place beyond one hundred feet from the licensee's distributing main, although not on that property:

Provided secondly, that the licensee shall be entitled to discontinue such supply—

CLS. 5, 6 AND 10.—Clauses 6 and 5 cast the obligation on the licensee to supply electric energy to an applicant or a group of applicants for supply of electric energy only when the applicant or group of applicants enter into a written contract with the licensee. The only power reserved to the licensee by the Act in the matter of rates which may be exercised by him apart from contract is that he can charge on any one of the three alternative modes specified in Cls. (a), (b) and (c) of sub-sec. (3) of sec. 23 of the Act; and even when the licensee intends to prefer to go upon the basis of sec. 23 (3) (c) the consumer can by following the procedure laid down in cl. 10 of the Schedule, compel the licensee to adopt either of the modes mentioned in cls. (a) and (b). 63 Cal. 1047=162 I.C. 811=40 C.W.N. 789=A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 265.

CL. 6.—The licensee must bear the charge of the service line whether the consumer has paid the initial expenditure or not. 45 I.C. 171. As to discontinuance of supply of energy if the consumer's installation is defective, see ibid.

CL. 6, PROV. (2).—A part of the electric apparatus, namely, the seals of the cut-out were not in good order and condition. As a result of this defect there had been a leakage of energy. Held, such a state of things must certainly be deemed to be "likely to affect injuriously the use of energy by the licensee or by other persons," and accordingly, the electric company were entitled upon discovering this condition of things to discontinue the electric supply. Where a main fuse was burnt out, in other words, where the cut-out became defective, held, the Company was entitled to discontinue the supply of energy to the consumer. 75 I.C. 456=4 L. 182=1924 L. 142.

(a) if the owner or occupier of the property to which the supply is made has not already given security, or if any security given by him has become invalid or insufficient, and such owner or occupier fails to furnish security or to make up the original security to a sufficient amount, as the case may be, within seven days, after the service upon him of notice from the licensee requiring him so to do, or

(b) if the owner or occupier of the property to which the supply is made adopts any appliance, or uses the energy supplied to him by the licensee for any purposes, or deals with it in any manner so as unduly or improperly to interfere with the efficient supply of energy to any other person by the licensee, or

(c) if the electric wires, fittings, works and apparatus in such property are not in good order and condition, and are consequently likely to affect injuriously the use of energy by the licensee, or by other persons, or

(d) if the owner or occupier makes any alterations of, or additions to, any electric wires, fittings, works or apparatus within such property as aforesaid, and does not notify the same to the licensee before the same are connected to the source of supply, with a view to their being examined and tested; ¹[but the licensee shall re-connect the supply with all reasonable speed on the cessation of the act or default or both, as the case may be, which entitled him to discontinue it:]

Provided, thirdly, that the maximum rate per unit of time at which the owner or occupier shall be entitled to be supplied with energy shall not exceed what is necessary for the maximum consumption on his premises, and, where the owner or occupier has required a licensee to supply him at a specified maximum rate, he shall not be entitled to alter that maximum, except after one month's notice in writing to the licensee, and the licensee may recover from the owner or occupier any expenses incurred by him by reason of such alteration in respect of the service-lines by which energy is supplied to the property beyond one hundred feet from the licensee's distributing main, or in respect of any fittings or apparatus of the licensee upon that property; and

Provided, fourthly, that, ²[if any requisition is made for a supply of energy and] the licensee can prove, to the satisfaction of an Electric Inspector,—

(a) that ³[the nearest distributing main] is already loaded up to its full current carrying capacity, or

(b) that, in case of a larger amount of current being transmitted by it, the loss of pressure will seriously affect the efficiency of the supply to other consumers in the vicinity, the licensee may refuse to accede to the requisition for such reasonable period, not exceeding six months, as such Inspector may think sufficient for the purpose of amending the distributing main or laying down or placing a further distributing main.

(2) Any service-line laid for the purpose of supply in pursuance of a requisition under sub-clause (1) shall, notwithstanding that a portion of it may have been paid for by the person making the requisition, be maintained by the licensee.

(3) Where any difference or dispute arises as to the amount of energy to be taken or guaranteed as aforesaid, or as to the cost of any service-line or as to the sufficiency of the security offered by any owner or occupier, or as to the improper use of energy, or as to any alleged defect in any wires, fittings, works or apparatus, or as to the amount of the expenses incurred under the third proviso to sub-clause (1), the matter shall be referred to an Electric Inspector and decided by him.

(4) Every requisition under this clause shall be signed by the maker or makers thereof and shall be served on the licensee.

(5) Every requisition under this clause shall be in a form to be prescribed by rules under the Indian Electricity Act, 1910; and copies of the form shall be kept at the office of the licensee and supplied free of charge to any applicant.

“17. 8. (1) Where ⁴[after distributing mains have been laid down under the provisions of clause 4 or clause 5 and the supply of energy through those mains or any of them has commenced] a requisition is made by the Provincial Government or by a local authority requiring the licensee to supply for a period of not less than seven years energy for any public lamps within the ⁵[area of Supply by bulk-licensees.

(1) Where, and in so far as, the licensee (hereinafter in this clause referred to as "the bulk-licensee") is authorized by his license to supply energy to other licensees for distribution by them (hereinafter in this clause referred to as "distributing licensees") the following provision shall apply, namely:—

(a) any distributing licensees within the bulk-licensee's area of supply may make a requisition on the bulk-licensee, requiring him to give a supply of energy and specifying the point, and the maximum rate per unit of time, at which supply is required, and the date upon which the supply is to commence, such date being fixed after the date of receipt of the requisition so as to allow an interval that is reasonable with regard to the locality and to the length of the electric supply-line and the amount of the plant required;

(b) such distributing-licensee shall, if required by the bulk-licensee so to do, enter into a written agreement to receive and pay for a supply of energy for a period of not less than seven years of such an amount that the payment to be made for the same at the rate of charge for the time being charged for such supply shall not be less than such an amount as will produce a reasonable return to the bulk-licensee on the outlay (excluding expenditure on generating plant then existing and any electric supply-line then laid down or placed) incurred by him in making provision for such supply;

(c) the maximum rate per unit of time at which a distributing licensee shall be entitled to be supplied with energy shall not exceed what is necessary for the purposes for which the supply is required by him, and need not be increased except upon a fresh requisition made in accordance with the foregoing provisions;

(d) if any difference or dispute arises under this clause, it shall be determined by arbitration, and, in the event of such arbitration, the arbitrator shall have regard to the following amongst other considerations, namely:—

(i) the period for which the distributing-licensee is prepared to bind himself to take energy;

(ii) the amount of energy required and the hours during which the bulk-licensee is to supply it;

(iii) the capital expenditure incurred or to be incurred by the bulk-licensee in connection with the aforesaid supply of energy; and

(iv) the extent to which the capital expended or to be expended by the bulk-licensee in connection with such supply may become unproductive upon the discontinuance thereof.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in sub-clause (1), the bulk-licensee shall give a supply of energy to any distributing-licensee within his area of supply applying therefor, even although the distributing licensee desires to be supplied with only a portion of the energy required for distribution by him:

Provided that the distributing licensee shall, if so required by the bulk-licensee, enter into an agreement to take such energy upon special terms (including a minimum annual sum to be paid to the bulk-licensee) to be determined, if necessary, by arbitration in the manner laid down in sub-clause (1) (d).

(3) The maximum price fixed by a license for energy supplied to a distributing licensee shall not apply to any partial supply given under sub-clause (2).

(4) Every distributing licensee, who is supplied with energy by a bulk licensee and intends to discontinue to receive such supply, shall give not less than twelve months' notice in writing of such intention to the bulk-licensee:

Provided that, where the distributing-licensee has entered into a written agreement with the bulk-licensee to receive and pay for a supply of energy for a certain period, such notice shall be given so as not to expire before the end of that period.

thereafter the licensee shall not, except with the consent of the consumer, charge him by another method.

11. Save as provided by clause 9, sub-clause (3), the prices charged by the licensee for energy supplied by him shall not exceed the maxima fixed by his license, or, in the case of a method of charge approved by the Provincial Government, such maxima as the Provincial Government shall fix on approving the method:

Provided that, if at any time after the expiration of seven years from the commencement of the license, the Provincial Government considers ³[* * *] that the maxima so fixed or approved as aforesaid should be altered, it ⁴[shall refer the matter to an advisory Board and, if the Board recommends any alteration, may make an order in accordance with such recommendation], which shall have effect from such date as may be mentioned therein.

Provided, also, that where an order in pursuance of the foregoing proviso has been made, no further order altering the maxima fixed thereby shall be made until the expiration of another period of five years.

12. The price to be charged by the licensee and to be paid to him for energy supplied for the public lamps and the mode in which those charges are to be ascertained, shall be settled by agreement between the licensee and the Provincial Government or the local authority, as the case may be, and, where any difference or dispute arises, the matter shall be determined by arbitration.

Testing and Inspection.

13. The licensee shall establish at his own cost and keep in proper condition such number of testing stations, situated at such places within reasonable distance from any distributing main, as the Provincial Government may direct for the purpose of testing the pressure or periodicity of the supply of energy in the distributing main, and shall supply and keep in proper condition thereat, and on all premises from which he supplies energy, such instruments for testing as an Electric Inspector may approve, and shall supply energy to each testing station for the purpose of testing.

14. The licensee shall afford all facilities for inspection and testing of his works and for the reading, testing and inspection of his instruments, and may, on each occasion of the testing of his works or the reading, testing or inspection of any instruments, be represented by an agent, who may be present, but shall not interfere with the reading, testing or inspection.

such case, or in any other case where a person apparently a vagrant comes before him, make a summary inquiry into the circumstances and character of the apparent vagrant; and if he is satisfied that such person is a vagrant, he shall record in his office a declaration to that effect.

If he is further of opinion that the vagrant is not likely to obtain employment at once, or if he has reason to believe that a declaration of vagrancy has on any former occasion been recorded in respect of such vagrant, he shall require the vagrant to go to a Government workhouse, and shall draw up an order to that effect.

The vagrant shall then be placed in charge of the police for the purpose of being forwarded to the workhouse, and the said order shall be a sufficient authority to the police for retaining him in their charge while he is on his way to the workhouse, and to the Governor of the workhouse for receiving and detaining such vagrant.

6. Where the officer making the inquiry mentioned in section 5 is of opinion that the vagrant is likely to obtain employment in any place subject to the Provincial Government, or¹ (when the vagrant is¹ [in any Indian State] in any place subject to any adjacent Provincial Government), such officer may in his discretion forward the vagrant to such place in charge of the police, and draw up an order to that effect.

7. Upon his arrival at the place of employment, the vagrant shall be taken before the nearest Magistrate of Police² or³ [Magistrate of the first class] to whom the order for transmission shall be delivered.

Such officer shall thereupon to the best of his ability, assist the vagrant in seeking employment, and may in the meantime, if he think fit, keep the vagrant in the charge of the police.

Should the vagrant fail to obtain suitable employment within a reasonable time not exceeding fifteen days from such arrival, such officer shall forward him to a Government workhouse in the manner provided by section 5.

8. Every person while in charge of the police, whether before enquiry as to his vagrancy, or while he is on his way, under section 5, to the workhouse, or under section 6, to a place of employment, shall be entitled to an allowance for his subsistence at the rate of eight annas per diem.

The Magistrate of Police² or³ [Magistrate of the first class] before whom any vagrant is taken under section 7, may, if he think fit, order the vagrant to receive a similar allowance while he is seeking employment.

Definitions.

4. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) “explosive”²

(a) means gunpowder, nitro-glycerine, dynamite, gun-cotton, blasting powders, fulminate of mercury or of other metals, coloured fires and every other substance, whether similar to those above-mentioned or not, used or manufactured with a view to produce a practical effect by explosion, or a pyrotechnic effect; and

(b) includes fog-signals, fireworks, fuses, rockets, percussion-caps, detonators, cartridges, ammunition of all descriptions, and every adaptation or preparation of an explosive as above defined;

(2) “manufacture” includes the process of dividing into its component parts, or otherwise breaking up or unmaking, any explosive or making fit for use any damaged explosive, and the process of remarking, altering or repairing any explosive;

(3) “vessel” includes every ship, boat and other vessel used in navigation, whether propelled by oars or otherwise;

(4) “carriage” includes any carriage, wagon, cart, truck, vehicle or other means of conveying goods, or passengers by land, in whatever manner the same may be propelled;

(5) “master” includes every person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being command or charge of a vessel: provided that, in reference to any boat belonging to a ship, “master” shall mean the master of the ship;

(6) “import” means to bring into British India by sea or land.

SEC. 4.—Under Rule 3 issued under the Act “toy fire-works” include clove crackers or lavangi crackers which are therefore exempted from R. 35 requiring licence. 18 Cr.L.J. 139; 37 I.C. 491; 18 Bom.L.R. 556. Rule 35 is not applicable to toy fire-works. 1930 M.W.N. 1261. Under the amendment to R. 3 and 10 under the Explosives Act even “throw downs” and Chinese crackers are “explosive”, 136 I.C. 781 (1)=33 Cr.L.J. 364=1934 Mad. 320; 1930 Mad. 768; 53 All. 226. Quære, whether a licence for the sale of patakhas is required under the Explosives Act, 53 All. 226=32 Cr.L.J. 564=1930 A.L.J. 1467=1931 All. 17. See also 1930 M.W.N. 1261; 1930 Mad. 768. “Explosive” as defined by sec. 4 of the Explosives Act is wide enough to include electric sparklets, and possession of the same without licence is an offence under R. 35 of the Act. 189 I.C. 779=1939 M.W.N. 1250=A.I.E. 1940 Mad. 284. The terms of sec. 4, cls. (1) and (2) are wide enough to include crackers but it is open to the accused, to show (the onus of proving which lies on him) that the fire-works in his possession are within the description of toy fire-works which are excluded from the operation of the Act by Rules 3 of the rules framed under the Act. 8 L.W. 626=20 Cr.L.J. 108; 25 M.L.T. 175; 48 I.C. 988; 1919 M.W.N. 351. Where a licence permitted possession of a limited quantity at a specified period of time, the general permission to import a larger quantity during a longer period must be read subject to the quantity in actual possession being reduced below the maximum for which possession is so permitted by the said licence and possession of more than the quantity covered by the former licence is an offence. (Ibid.) The whole scheme of the rules framed under the Act is to require a separate licence for possession at any one time and place of explosives in addition to a licence to import during a particular period. (Ibid.).

POSSESSION OF TOY FIRE-WORKS—OFFENCE IF CONSTITUTED—PROSECUTION FOR OFFENCE UNDER RULES—ONUS OF PROOF.—Held, that the Rules under the Explosives Act do not apply to the manufacture, possession, etc., of toy fire-works, and that no offence was committed by reason of such acts. The burden of proving that certain articles were explosives is clearly on the prosecution and the mere fact that the accused took possession of and signed for a consignment which was described as fire-works does not amount to an admission by him that they were explosives such as are within the purview of the rules. 31 Cr.L.J. 851=1930 M.W.N. 73=1930 M. 678. But see also 1932 M. 320=136 I.C. 781.

5. (1) The Central Government may for any part of British India¹ [* *] make rules² consistent with this Act to regulate or prohibit, except under and in accordance with the conditions of a license granted as provided by those rules, the manufacture, possession, use, sale, transport and importation of explosives, or any specified class of explosives.

(2) Rules under this section may provide for all or any of the following, among other matters, that is to say:—

- (a) the authority by which licenses may be granted;
- (b) the fees to be charged for licenses, and the other sums (if any) to be paid for expenses by applicants for licenses;
- (c) the manner in which applications for licenses must be made, and the matters to be specified in such applications;
- (d) the form in which, and the conditions on and subject to which, licenses must be granted;
- (e) the period for which licenses are to remain in force; and
- (f) the exemption absolutely or subject to conditions of any explosives from the operation of the rules.

(3) [Rules made under this section may] impose penalties on all persons manufacturing, possessing, using, selling, transporting or importing explosives in breach of the rules, or otherwise contravening the rules:

Provided that the maximum penalty which may be imposed by any such rules shall not exceed—

- (a) in the case of a person so importing or manufacturing an explosive, a fine which may extend to three thousand rupees;
- (b) in the case of a person so possessing, using or transporting an explosive, a fine which may extend to one thousand rupees;

SEC. 5: LICENCE FOR MANUFACTURE OF EXPLOSIVES.—A licensee for the manufacture of explosives is not at liberty to associate other persons with himself in the manufacture and sale of explosives without such other persons being approved of by the authorities and being provided with licences. 1 Weir 750.

RULES FRAMED UNDER THE SECTIONS—POSSESSION OF EXPLOSIVES.—Accused's house was searched for opium and in it were found three cartridges of blasting powder and three detonators. He was convicted under sec. 5 of the rules for the manufacture, possession and sale of explosives in Burma, for possessing an explosive without a licence. Held, that licences under these rules are not required for the possession of explosives of this nature in moderate quantities. The rules are not applicable to the case. But cartridges and detonators are 'ammunition' as defined in sec. 4, Arms Act and the accused might properly have been convicted under sec. 19 (f) of that Act. U. B. R. (1897—1901) Vol. I, 193. The accused held a licence under the Indian Explosives Act to manufacture gun-powder. One of the conditions of the licence was that the explosive shall be manufactured in a tent or lightly constructed building exclusively appropriated for the purpose and separated from any dwelling-house. The accused constructed a building outside the village, which complied with this condition, and employed a woman who used to work exclusively in this building. One day the woman with her assistant went with ingredients for manufacturing gun-powder to the house of the accused in the village, and performed part of the process of manufacture there with pestles having iron rings without the knowledge of their master and while he was engaged elsewhere. During the process of manufacture there was explosion and the woman was killed and her assistant was injured. Held, (per Fawcett and Crump, JJ.), contra, Shah, J., that the act of the woman, though unauthorised, was one within the scope of her employment and the accused her master, would be liable for her wrongful act. 51 B. 352=29 Bom.L.R. 153=1927 B. 209. (d) in any other case, two hundred rupees.

Power for Central Government to prohibit the manufacture, possession or importation of specially dangerous explosives.

6. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the rules under the last foregoing section, the Central Government may, from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(a) prohibit, either absolutely or subject to conditions, the manufacture, possession or importation of any explosive which is of so dangerous a character that, in the opinion of the Central Government, it is expedient for the public safety to issue the notification; ¹[*]

(2) The officers of sea customs at every port shall have the same power in respect of any explosive with regard to the importation of which a notification has been issued under this section and the vessel containing the explosive as they have for the time being in respect of any article the importation of which is prohibited or regulated by the law relating to sea customs² and the vessel containing the same; and the enactments for the time being in force relating to sea customs or any such article or vessel shall apply accordingly.

(3) Any person manufacturing, possessing or importing an explosive in contravention of a notification issued under this section shall be punished with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees, and, in the case of importation by water, the owner and master of the vessel in which the explosive is imported shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, each be punished with fine which may extend to three thousand rupees.

Power to make rules conferring powers of inspection, search, seizure, detention and removal.

7. (1) The Central Government, ³[* *] may make rules consistent with this Act authorizing any officer, either by name or in virtue, of his office—

(a) to enter, inspect and examine any place, carriage or vessel in which an explosive is being manufactured, possessed, used, sold, transported or imported under a license granted under this Act, or in which he has reason to believe that an explosive has been or is being manufactured, possessed, used, sold, transported or imported in contravention of this Act or of the rules made under this Act;

(b) to search for explosives therein;

(c) to take samples of any explosive found therein on payment of the value thereof; and

(d) to seize, detain, remove and, if necessary, destroy any explosive found therein.

(2) The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure⁴ relating to searches under that Code shall, so far as the same are applicable, apply to searches by officers authorized by rules under this section.

THE EXPLOSIVE SUBSTANCES ACT (VI OF 1908).

[See also Act XXXV of 1939.]

[8th June, 1908.]

An Act further to amend the law relating to explosive substances.

WHEREAS it is necessary further to amend the law relating to explosive substances; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and application. 1. (1) This Act may be called THE EXPLOSIVE SUBSTANCES ACT, 1908.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India and applies also to—

(a) all native Indian subjects of His Majesty in any place without and beyond British India;

(b) all other British subjects within the territories of any native prince or chief in India.

2. In this Act the expression “explosive substance” shall be deemed to include any materials for making any explosive substance; also any apparatus, machine, implement or material used, or intended to be used, or adapted for causing, or aiding in causing, any explosion in or with any explosive substance; also any part of any such apparatus, machine or implement.

3. Any person who unlawfully and maliciously causes by any explosive substance an explosion of a nature likely to endanger life or to cause serious injury to property shall, whether any injury to person or property has been actually caused or not, be punished with transportation for life or any shorter term, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to ten years, to which fine may be added.

Punishment for causing explosion likely to endanger life or property. 4. Any person who unlawfully and maliciously—
Punishment for attempt to cause explosion, or for making or keeping explosive with intent to endanger life or property.

(a) does any act with intent to cause by an explosive substance or conspires to cause by an explosive substance, an explosion in British India of a nature likely to endanger life or to cause serious injury to property; or

(b) makes or has in his possession or under his control any explosive

SEC. 2.—A gramophone needle can scarcely be regarded as a lethal weapon, 36 Cr.L.J. 1037=156 I.C. 972.

SEC. 3.—What constitutes offence under the section, see 11 Cr.L.J. 222=6 I.C. 51=20 M.L.J. 657. “Malice” in the legal acceptance of the word is not confined to personal spite against individuals but consists in a conscious violation of the law to the prejudice of another. In its legal sense it means a wrongful act done intentionally without just cause or excuse. It is in the legal sense that the word “maliciously” is used in sec. 3. 121 I.C. 726=31 Cr.L.J. 290=1930 Lah. 266. See also 1928 Lah. 272.

SEC. 4, CL. (b).—Where in pursuance of a scheme to use bombs against the police the accused was shown to have made a bomb apparently to use it for a test or experiment, held, that the accused was guilty under sec. 4 (b). 34 Cr.L.J. 1222=57 C.L.J. 213=1933 Cal. 747 (S.B.). Where the portion of a house in which an article is found is not in the exclusive possession of any one member of the joint family, but is used by, or accessible to, all the members of the family there is no presumption that the article is in the possession or control of any person other than the house master or the head of the family. But it is open to the prosecution to prove that the possession was with some other member of the family and that member would then be liable to account for it. 9 Lah. 531=29 Cr.L.J. 481=1928 Lah. 272. Not only does the term “possession” imply knowledge, but the expression “maliciously” as used in sec. 4, connotes intention. But neither knowledge, nor intention as, to the use to be made of an object, can be imputed to a person who is not conscious of its existence. 9 Lah. 531=29 Cr.L.J. 481=A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 272. It cannot be said from the presence of mansal stains on a man’s wearing apparel that he either made or had in his possession or under his control an explosive substance with intent by means thereof to endanger life or cause serious injury to property in British India and conviction under sec. 4 (b) is not under those circumstances sustainable. 132 I.C. 185=32 Cr.L.J. 818=A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 408. Possession must be conscious and intelligent possession and not merely the physical presence of the accused in proximity or even in close proximity of the offending object. These are the important elements which go to substance with intent by means thereof to endanger life, or cause serious injury to property in British India, or to enable any other person by means thereof to endanger life or cause serious injury to property in British India; shall whether any explosion does or does not take place and whether any injury to person or property has been actually caused or not, be punished with transportation for a term which may extend to twenty years, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years to which fine may be added.

5. Any person who makes or knowingly has in his possession or under his control any explosive substance, under such circumstances as to give rise to a reasonable suspicion that he is not making it or does not have it in his possession or under his control for a lawful object, shall, unless he can show that he made it or had it in his possession or under his control for a lawful object, be punishable with transportation for a term which may extend to fourteen years, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to five years, to which fine may be added.

LEG. REF.

AMENDMENT IN BENGAL: INSERTION OF NEW SECTION 5-A IN ACT VI OF 1908.—After sec. 5 of the Explosive Substances Act, 1908, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

“5-A. Notwithstanding anything contained in sec. 3, sec. 4 or sec. 5 if an offence under any of these sections is tried by Commissioners appointed under the Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1925, or by a special Magistrate under the Bengal Suppression of Terrorist Outrages Act, 1932, any person found guilty of such offence shall be punished with transportation for life or any shorter term, to which fine may be added, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to 14 years, to which fine may be added.” (Bengal Act XXI of 1932, Sec. 5).

make up an offence under sec. 4 (b) (A.I.R. 1928 Lah. 272, Rel.) A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 718.

SECS. 4 (b) AND 5: SANCTION UNDER SEC. 4 (b)—CHARGE AND CONVICTION UNDER SEC. 5—LEGALITY.—The fact that sanction of the Local Government is obtained only for a prosecution under sec. 4 (b) does not make an alternative charge under sec. 5 and conviction thereon illegal. It is competent to the Sessions Judge under sec. 236, Cr. P. Code, to frame a charge under sec. 5 as well. Even if no charge has been framed under sec. 5, the accused can well be convicted under sec. 5, by reason of the provisions of sec. 237, Cr. P. Code. 1934 A.L.J. 1088=1934 All. 982. In a charge under sec. 4 (b) possession of explosive to be punishable must also be possession with knowledge and assent. Any part of any apparatus, machine etc., used or adapted for causing any explosive substance is included in the term ‘explosive substance’ as used in sec. 4 (b). 42 C. 957; 19 C.W.N. 676; 16 Cr.L.J. 497;

SECS. 4 AND 5.—A, who was a clerk in an Ordinance Depot, was charged with committing dacoity with other accused persons. There was little reason to doubt that a hand grenade which was found in a bag at the place where dacoity was committed was stolen and came into the possession of the dacoits through A, held, that the mere finding of the hand grenade in a bag at the scene of offence would not justify a finding that A was the possessor of it on the night when the dacoity was committed or a conviction of A and the other accused for the substantive offences under secs. 4 and 5. A. I.R. 1944 Sind 83 (F.B.)=45 Cr.L.J. 598.

SECS. 5 AND 6.—It is immaterial under what section of the Act an arrest is made, if in fact the arrest is justifiable, and the officer making the arrest can call to his aid any statute which justifies his action, irrespective of whether or not it was present to his mind when he made the arrest. 40 C. 898=23 I.C. 25=18 C.W.N. 185. (On appeal from 13 Cr.L.J. 65=13 I.C. 721=16 C.W.N. 145). Where explosive articles are found in a house in such a place or places as several persons living in the house may have access, the presumption is that the manager of the family has the control or possession of them. Even that is only a presumption easily rebutted. 40 C. 898. See also 1944 Lah. 339. Temporary residence in a house containing explosive articles, even with the knowledge of their existence there, is not possession within the meaning of sec. 5. Conspiracy to possess connotes some act of possession or attempted possession. 106 I. C. 545=29 Cr.L.J. 49=A.I.R. 1928 Cal. 27. The accused person had pointed out and was a mere tool for disclosing the existence of some explosives from places of which he had no exclusive possession. SEC. 6: OFFENCE UNDER—INGREDIENTS.—Under sec. 6, the intention to procure, counsel, aid, abet or to be accessory to the commission of an offence is a necessary ingredient. Ordinarily, it is the primary intention of the accused that must be taken into consideration in determining his guilt. 35 Cr.L.J. 752=148 I.C. 745=A.I.R. 1934 Lah. 583.

SEC. 7.—An order of consent to a prosecution under the Explosive Substances Act which purports to be made by His Excellency the Governor is an order of the Local Government for purposes of sec. 6 and is a valid order of consent. The executive authority in the Province is vested in the Governor, and the question whether he has consulted the ministers or not in the matter is not a question that can be canvassed in Courts of law. 1938 M.W.N. 1171. The consent under sec. 7 should state briefly the facts which constitutes the offences and authorise the trial of the accused person upon the facts as constituting, in the opinion of the consenting authority, an offence under one or the other sections of the Act. 21 Cr.L.J. 230=55 I.C. 102=31 P.R. (Cr.) 1919. The Court has to decide finally whether upon the facts stated in the order of consent a particular offence has been committed and the mere fact that the consent for prosecution of an offence under one section of the Act is given, is in itself no bar to conviction of the accused person upon the same facts of another offence under another section 21 Cr.L.J. 230=55 I.C. 102=31 P.R. (Cr.) 1919. Under sec. 7, it is not necessary that the sanction of the Government for a prosecution under the Act should be obtained before taking cognisance of the case or enquired into by the committing magistrates. Sanction obtained when the case proceeds to trial in the Sessions Court is sufficient; 1934 A.L.J. 1088=1934 All. 982. First complaint withdrawn for want of sanction—Fresh complaint after sanction good. 39 C. 119. The failure to obtain necessary consent of Government as required by sec. 7 does not invalidate the commitment proceedings conducted by a Magistrate for an offence under sec. 4 and exclusively triable by the Sessions Court as the commitment proceedings are only an "inquiry" as defined in Cl. (k) of sec. 4 of the Cr. P. Code. 50 Bom. 695=28 Bom.L.R. 1290=1927 Bom. 21.

THE INDIAN EXTRADITION ACT (XV OF 1903)¹

[4th November, 1903.

An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Extradition and Rendition of Criminals.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the more convenient administration in British India of the Extradition Acts, 1870,² and 1873² and of the Fugitive Offenders Act, 1881²;

And whereas it is also expedient to amend the law relating to the extradition of criminals in cases to which the Extradition Acts, 1870 and 1873, do not apply;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

(3) It shall come into force on such day as the Central Government by notification in the Official Gazette, may direct.²

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) “European British subject” means a European British subject as defined by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force;

(b) “extradition offence” means any such offence as is described in the first schedule;

(c) “Foreign State” means a State to which, for the time being, the Extradition Acts, 1870,³ and 1873,³ apply;

(d) “High Court” means the High Court as defined by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force;

(e) “Offence” includes any act wheresoever committed which would, if committed in British India, constitute an offence; and

(f) “rules” include prescribed forms.

LEG. REF.

¹ This Act has been declared to be in force in the Khondmals District by the Khondmals Laws Regulation, 1936 (IV of 1936) and in the Angul District under sec. 3 and Sch. of the Angul Laws Regulation, 1936 (V of 1936).

² The Act has been brought into force from the 1st June, 1904, see Gazette of India, 1904, Pt. I, p. 364.

tions of the Act dealing with that procedure must be construed strictly in favour of the subject. 62 C. 399=39 C.W.N. 285=1935 Cal. 122.

APPLICABILITY OF THE ACT.—The Act has no application to a case where British Indian subjects resident within the original jurisdiction of the High Court commit offences outside British India. 35 C.W.N. 1082. The Act does not apply to a case of extradition from Berar to the Hyderabad State, which is governed solely by the treaty between the State and the Government of India. 77 I.C. 234=25 Cr.L.J. 346=1924 Nag. 313. As to the applicability of the Act to the East Indian possessions of France, see the cases cited on the point under sec. 2, infra.

EXTRADITION—WHEN ALLOWED—OFFENCES FOR WHICH IT CAN BE DEMANDED.—The policy of extradition law is to secure offenders guilty of only grave crimes and not purely local crimes or slight offences. The act complained of must be a “crime” according to the criminal law of both countries; and no person should be extradited whose deed is not a crime according to the criminal law of the State which is asked to extradite as well as of the State which demands extradition. The word “crime” denotes something more than a mere breach of a legal rule. 12 Mys. L.J. 328=39 Mys.H.C.R. 485 (F.B.).

HYDERABAD AND BERAR—SURRENDER OF ACCUSED IS TO BE MADE ON REQUISITION BEING SENT THROUGH COMMISSIONER OF BERAR.

When an accused person is arrested in Berar by or at the instance of Nizam's Police he is kept by the Berar Police till a requisition is received by the District Magistrate for his surrender. This requisition is sent by the Nizam's authority, the Talukdar, to the District Magistrate through the Commissioner of Berar, together with the evidence of criminality. The District Magistrate on receiving the requisition from the Commissioner surrenders the accused persons. On no account may he comply with a requisition made direct to him by the Nizam's authorities. No time limit is laid down and there is no necessity of a warrant from the Political Agent. 77 I.C. 234=25 Cr.L.J. 346=1924 Nag. 313.

SEC. 2: The East Indian possessions of France are not a “Foreign State” and Chap. II of this Act does not apply to those possessions. Extradition in such cases is governed by the Treaty of 1815 between Great Britain and France. Article (ix) of the Treaty of 1815 remains unaffected by Art. (xvi) of the Treaty of 1876 and a British Indian subject may on requisition by the Governor of Pondicherry for instance be surrendered for the offence of theft committed therein without any preliminary procedure being adopted. The Treaty of 1815 having provided that the surrender should be on demand, a more elaborate procedure cannot be superimposed by the unilateral act of one of the high contracting parties. Nor is it open to a Municipal Court to say that the accused should be surrendered with a certain amount of procedure. 53 M. 1023=59 M.L.J. 278=1930 M. 981=1930 M.W.N. 381; (47 C. 37, Foll. See also 48 C. 328).

SURRENDER OF FUGITIVE CRIMINALS IN CASE OF FOREIGN STATES.

3. (1) Where a requisition is made to the Central Government ²[* ] by the Government of any Foreign State for the surrender of a fugitive criminal of that State, who is in or who is suspected of being in British India, the Central Government ²[ *] may, if it thinks fit, issue an order to any Magistrate who would have had jurisdiction to inquire into the crime if it had been an offence committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction, directing him to inquire into the case.

(2) The Magistrate so directed shall issue a summons or warrant for the arrest of the fugitive criminal according as the case appears to be one in which a summons or warrant would ordinarily issue.

(3) When such criminal appears or is brought before the Magistrate, the Magistrate shall inquire into the case in the same manner and have the same jurisdiction and powers, as nearly as may be, as if the case were one triable by the Court of Session or High Court, and shall take such evidence as may be produced in support of the requisition and on behalf of the fugitive criminal, including any evidence to show that the crime of which such criminal is accused or alleged to have been convicted is an offence of a political character or is not an extradition crime.

(4) If the Magistrate is of opinion that a prima facie case is made out in support of the requisition, he may commit the fugitive criminal to prison to await the orders of the Central Government ²[* *].

(5) If the Magistrate is of opinion that a prima facie case is not made out in support of the requisition, or if the case is one which is bailable under the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force, the Magistrate may release the fugitive criminal on bail.

(6) The Magistrate shall report the result of his inquiry to the Central Government ²[* *] and shall forward, together with such report, any written statement which the fugitive criminal may desire to submit for the consideration of the Government.

CL. (3).—A Magistrate acting under the Extradition Act is not subject to any appellate or revisional jurisdiction. He makes an inquiry and reports the results to Government. 38 C. 547=15 C.W.N. 737=12 Cr.L. J. 323=10 I.C. 618.

CL. (5).—The Act provides for bail to be furnished by persons accused of certain crimes, and the matter is one which is governed by the Procedure in the Cr. P. Code. The High Court has the fullest discretion in the matter. 15 C.W.N. 736=12 Cr.L.J. 358=10 I.C. 958.

(7) If the Central Government ¹[* *] is of opinion that such report or written statement raises an important question of law, it may make an order referring such question of law to such High Court as may be named in the order, and the fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered until such question has been decided.

(8) If, upon receipt of such report and statement or upon the decision of any such question, the Central Government ¹[* *] is of opinion that the fugitive criminal ought to be surrendered, it may issue a warrant for the custody and removal of such criminal and for his delivery at a place and to a person to be named in the warrant.

(9) It shall be lawful for any person to whom a warrant is directed in pursuance of sub-section (8), to receive, hold in custody and convey the person mentioned in the warrant to the place named in the warrant, and, if such person escapes out of any custody to which he may be delivered in pursuance of such warrant, he may be re-taken as a person accused of an offence against the law of British India may be re-taken upon an escape.

(10) If such a warrant as is prescribed by sub-section (8) is not issued and executed in the case of any fugitive criminal, who has been committed to prison under sub-section (4), within two months after such committal, the High Court may, upon application made to it on behalf of such fugitive criminal and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to the Central Government ¹[* *] order such criminal to be discharged, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary.

4. (1) Where it appears to any Magistrate of the first class or any Magistrate specially empowered by the ²[Central Government] in this behalf that a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction is a fugitive criminal of a Foreign State, he may, if he thinks fit, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, on such information or complaint and on such evidence as would, in his opinion, justify the issue of a warrant if the crime of which he is accused or has been convicted had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

(2) The Magistrate shall forthwith report the issue of a warrant under this section to the ²[Central Government].

(3) A person arrested on a warrant issued under this section shall not be detained more than two months unless within that period the Magistrate receives an order made with reference to such person under section 3, sub-section (1).

SEC. 6.—See 26 M. 607=1 Weir 13; 1 Weir 757=20 Cr.L.J. 241=46 C. 31=49 I.C. 913. The procedure before the Political Agent in cases falling under Ch. III of the Extradition Act takes the place of the preliminary inquiry and other proceedings provided in Ch. II of that Act in the case of criminals whose extradition to foreign state is required. In the case of a warrant issued by the Political Agent, it is only right to presume that the Political Agent has complied with the rules—the rules having the force of law—before issuing the warrants. The fact that the warrant does not state or show on the face of it that the rules framed for the procedure have been obeyed or that the warrant merely states that so and so stands charged with offences, is no ground for presuming that the rules have not been duly complied with or that no enquiry as prescribed by the rules has been made. A person arrested and detained under such a warrant cannot be said to be illegally or improperly detained within the meaning of sec. 491, Cr. P. Code, so as to entitle him to be set at liberty. 1938 M.W.N. 1304.

SEC. 7.—See 5 M. 23=1 Weir 1. Art. V of the Treaty of the East India Company with Nepal does not exclude the operation of sec. 7 of the Act. The article does not take away the discretion of the respective Governments in respect of surrender of subjects. 12 Pat. 347=145 I.C. 274=34 Cr. L.J. 932=1933 Pat. 295. A warrant of extradition signed by an officer who has not been empowered to do so is unlawful. 25 Cr. L.J. 687=81 I.C. 175=1923 P. 112. A warrant of extradition signed by the Assistant British Envoy of Nepal Court is not valid where the officer is not empowered as a Political Agent within sec. 7. 81 I.C. 175=25 Cr.L.J. 687=1925 Pat. 112. A person who has committed an extradition offence in a state cannot be arrested in British India without a warrant from the Political Agent for such State. If he is so arrested, his detention would be illegal, and the Court can set him at liberty under sec. 491 (1) (b) Cr. P. Code. 41 P.L.R. 339.

CONTENTS OF WARRANT.—No form of warrant is prescribed by the Extradition Act or the rules. It is enough if the extradition warrant clearly describes the offences with which the accused person is charged, and it is not necessary that it should state, when they were committed. If a warrant directs the delivery of the accused person to a front-trate of any district in which such person is believed to be, ¹[or if such person is believed to be in any Presidency-town to the Chief Presidency Magistrate of such town], for his arrest and delivery at a place and to a person or authority indicated in the warrant, such Magistrate shall act in pursuance of such warrant and may give directions accordingly.

(2) A warrant issued as mentioned in sub-section (1) shall be executed in the manner provided by the law for the time being in force with reference to the execution of warrants, and the accused person, when arrested, shall ²[be produced before the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate, as the case may be, who shall record any statement made by him; such accused person shall then], unless released in accordance with the provisions of this Act, be forwarded to the place and delivered to the person or authority indicated in the warrant.

WARRANT — LEGALITY — CONDITIONS. — Under sec. 7 there are three conditions precedent for the issue of a legal warrant: (1) the offence must be an extradition offence, that is, one of those given in Sch. 1, Extradition Act; (2) the accused must not be a European British subject; and (3) the offence must have been committed or must be supposed to have been committed by the accused in the territories of the State. Without all these three conditions being fulfilled the Political Agent would have no authority to issue a warrant for the arrest of any person who has either escaped into or is in British India, and the arrest of such a person in pursuance of such a warrant would be equally illegal. 56 All. 409 = 1934 A.L.J. 556 = 35 Cr.L.J. 1296 = 1934 All. 148; 29 S. (Ibid.) Where a warrant issued under sec. 7 of the Act directed that a certain person in British India should be arrested and delivered to the frontier police station of a native state for production before a certain District Magistrate of that State, and a High Court in British India ordered stay of execution of the warrant and issued a writ of habeas corpus on an application made on behalf of the arrested person. Held, that the District Magistrate mentioned in the warrant had locus standi to file an application for the quashing of the order of the High Court, although he was not a party to the application for the issue of the writ of habeas corpus. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 744 = 66 I.A. 222 = 50 L.W. 48. See also A.L.R. 1939 P.C. 213 = (1939) 2 M.L.J. 406 (P.C.). If it is proved that a prisoner arrested in British India under a warrant issued by the Political Agent in a Native State under sec. 7 of the Extradition Act, in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by him in that State, was in British India at the time at which the offence with which he is charged is said to have been committed that would be a good defence to the charge. It is not, however, relevant to the question whether the custody in which he is detained is legal or illegal. The arrested person cannot on that ground claim to be set at liberty as being illegally or improperly detained. 1938 M.W.N. 1304. When a warrant issued by the Political Agent under sec. 7 of the Extradition Act is sent to the Chief Presidency Magistrate of a Presidency Town, the Chief Presidency Magistrate has no option in the matter but to execute the warrant. He is obliged to order the arrest of the person for whom the warrant was issued and his custody of such person is perfectly legal and proper. The fact that there are defects in the warrant, namely, that it is not dated that the direction in it is to surrender the prisoner to the Frontier Police Station in the Native State without definitely naming a specific place, or that it does indicate the officer to whom the prisoner is to be handed over, is not a matter of any importance such as to render the warrant or the arrest and detention thereunder illegal or improper, though they might be points upon which the Magistrate might make a reference and report to the Government under sec. 8-A of the Extradition Act 1938 M.W.N. 1304. The Extradition Act does not authorise the District Magistrate himself to inquire into the legality, much less the propriety, of the warrant and then to refuse to execute it on the ground that in his opinion the warrant had been wrongly issued. The endorsement of the District Magistrate on the extradition warrant forwarding it to the Superintendent of Police or the arrest made under the directions of the Superintendent of police would therefore not be any proceeding of an inferior criminal Court

The law relating to offences and to criminal procedure in force in British India has been declared to apply to all subjects of His Majesty for the purposes of any power or jurisdiction exercised under the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, see Gazette of India, 1904 Pt. I, p. 365. Sec. 8 of the Act of 1879 extends to European British subjects in States in India in alliance with His Majesty the law relating to offences and the criminal procedure for the time being in force in British India. This section, as distinguished from sec. 4, is an enactment and not a declaration. It is an entirely independent provision and ought not to be read so as to restrict the powers of the Governor-General which are declared by sec. 4 and which may be delegated to his officers under sec. 6. It is by virtue of sec. 8 that an European British subject can be tried in Mysore for an offence against the I. P. Code. The law which is extended to European British subjects in Mysore by virtue of sec. 8 is not so extended to the exclusion of all other law. 26 M. 607=1 Weir 13; 1 Weir 757. Sec. 8 of Act XXI of 1879 extends, to all British subjects Native or European, in Native States, the law relating to offences and criminal procedure for the time being in force in British India. The High Court of Bombay has the power, in the case of a European British subject, of transferring a case from the Cantonment Magistrate acting either as justice of the Peace and as a first class Magistrate, or as a District Magistrate, with the increased powers given to him by Act I of 1884, to itself or to any Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction. 9 B. 333. [R., 14 B. 160; 2 B. 480.]

The Civil and Sessions Judge, as well as the District Magistrate, of the Civil and Military Station, Bangalore, though they are appointed Justices of the Peace in the State of Mysore, are by virtue of their office justices of the peace in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, by virtue of Act XXI of 1879; they are also Magistrates of the first class, and both their Courts are subordinate to the High Court under the same enactment. The Civil and Military Station of Bangalore is not British territory, but a foreign territory belonging to Mysore. The Code of Criminal Procedure is in force there in common with other Acts by virtue of declarations made by the Governor-General in Council in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by Act XXI of 1879. 12 M. 39=1 Weir 10. Excepting in the case of a European British subject, the Political Agent for the Bhopal State may, at the request of the State, issue a warrant for the arrest of any person who has committed, or is supposed to have committed in the Bhopal State an offence under sec. 409, Penal Code (which is one of the offences mentioned in the schedule), and, on such person being forwarded it will be the duty of the political Agent to decide whether the accused shall be tried by him or be made over to the State Court for trial. It matters not whether a complaint against the accused has been made in the Political Agent's Court or not and the Magistrate to whom the warrant is directed is bound, under the provisions of sec. 12 of the Act to execute it and has no authority to question the authority or discretion of the Political Agent to issue it; a Deputy Commissioner, therefore, was held to have acted legally in ordering a warrant for the arrest of a Native Indian subject of His Majesty, issued by the Political Agent for the Bhopal State, to be executed. 5 O.C. 55. Sec. 7 lays down that the Magistrate to whom the warrant is addressed shall act in pursuance thereof and does not require him to take evidence; hence it is no part of his duty to ascertain whether the warrant issued under sec. 7 was a legal warrant. [3 P.R. (Or.) 1909, Rel. on.] 7 Lah. 159=27 Cr. L.J. 755=1926 Lah. 411. Amenability of Native Indian subject to British Courts for offences committed beyond India. See 39 P. R. 1878 (Or.). A Justice of the Peace, appointed under sec. 6 of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, has power to try an European British subject for an offence against the provisions of the Mysore Mines Regulations, the offence being solely against the law of Mysore, but not coming within any of the provisions of the Penal Code. 26 M. 607=1 Weir 13; 1 Weir 757. All British subjects, European and Native, in British India, may be dealt with in respect of offence committed in any Native State as if such offences had been committed in any place within British India in which such subject "may be or may be found." In re-enacting the provision in sec. 9 of Act XXI of 1879, the Legislature omitted the words "may be" and retained only the words "may be found". Held, that looking to the purposes of these Acts and to the fact that the words "may be" "may be found", really mean one and the same thing, the alteration in the recent Act was merely to avoid redundancy and the expression "found" used in it must be taken to mean, not where a person is discovered but where he is actually present. Where a person charged with the offence of theft in a dwelling-house in Rajputana, being found in Sindh territory, as other Native State, was brought from that place to Ahmedabad, and was charged before the Courts there, held, that those Courts had jurisdiction to try him. Where it was proved that a place in British territory was the home of the accused's parents, and that he himself was born and educated there, and that he only went 1½ years previously to a Native State for purposes of trade, living, during that time, sometimes in British territory and sometimes in the Native State, held, that there was a legal presumption in favour of the accused being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, and therefore, amenable to the jurisdiction of the British Courts. 6 B. 622. (F. 13 B. 147.) Act XXI of 1879 admits of proceedings being taken in British India, regarding offences committed in Foreign States only on condition that the person charged is a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and that the Political Agent of the Foreign State has given his sanction to proceedings being taken in British territory. 5 M. 23=1 Weir 1; [R. 13 M. 423; 24 B. 287; 1 B. L.R. 678; 2 Weir 148.] The Political Agent has no power to cancel the certificate already granted and the subsequent order for the trial of the accused in the Native State must be set aside. R. 3 of the Rules under the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902 and under sec. 23 of the Extradition Act, do not control sec. 188, Cr. P. Code. The rule contains a reminder to Political Agents of their duty to consider the advisability of issuing certificate prior to issuing any warrant. A certificate under sec. 188, Cr. P. Code, can be issued even after a warrant has already gone out. 14 Bom.L.R. 377=13 Cr.L.J. 537=15 I.C. 809. Sec. 7 applies only to extradition offences and an extradition offence is any offence described in the first Schedule of the Act. Absconding from Jail is not one of the offences mentioned in that schedule. Therefore sec. 7 has no application and warrant issued to the District Magistrate of the place where the absconder is living to arrest him is illegal and the arrest also is illegal. 1 Pat. 57=3 Pat.L.T. 786=66 I.C. 517=23 Cr.L.J. 293. The procedure for requisition- ing the surrender of any person accused of having committed any offence, not necessarily an extradition crime, is laid down in sec. 9 of the Act; but the requisition in such a case has to be made to the Government of India or to any local Government. No such requisition having been made in the present case the warrant and arrest were both held to be illegal. 1 Pat. 57=3 Pat.L.T. 786=66 I.C. 517=23 Cr.L.J. 293. A fugitive criminal arrested under sec. 7 of the Act can invoke the action of Government under sec. 15 of the Act. 42 Cal. 793=19 C.W.N. 221=16 Cr.L.J. 31=26 I.C. 335.

REVISION.—Where the Magistrate directed the surrender of the accused on a procedure unknown to Extradition Act, the order is open to revision by the High Court. 41 Cal. 400=14 Cr.L.J. 673=18 C.W.N. 869=21 I. C. 993. See also 53 Bom. 149=1929 Bom. 81. The Chief Court has no power to interfere in respect of a warrant issued by a political Agent of a Native State under sec. 7 of Act XV of 1903, on the grounds either (1) that there is no prima facie case against the petitioner or (2) that the circumstances, under which that officer was originally moved, do not justify him to exercise his power under the said section. 9 Cr. L.J. 3=3 P. R. 1909. See also 56 A. 409=1934 A.L.J. 556=1934 A. 148.

BAIL.—Neither the Code of Criminal Procedure nor any provision in the Extradition Act authorizes a Magistrate to hold a person to bail to appear before a tribunal in a state to which the Act applies. The Magistrate could bind over the prisoner to appear before himself, and then, when the prisoner had surrendered to his bail, after receiving the warrant from the Political Agent for the State, could proceed to execute it under sec. 7, cl. (2), or, if the warrant have been duly endorsed by the political agent under sec. 80 (1) could bind the prisoner over to appear at the time and place indicated in the warrant. In this case, the warrant had not been so endorsed by the Political Agent. 33 C. 1032=4 Cr.L.J. 366.

PRACTICE AS TO REVISION BY HIGH COURT.—In all cases where enquiries are held by Magistrates with a view of extraditing accused persons, it would be desirable that the accused should, if possible, be present thereat. Sec. 15 of Act XV of 1903 ousts the jurisdiction of the High Court to enquire into the propriety of a warrant, but leaves open the question of the High Court's power to interfere with a Magistrate's action, if it was proved that such action was consequent upon a warrant issued by a Political Agent which was plainly illegal. Per Aston, J.—There is no provision in Act XV of 1903, or in the Code of Criminal Procedure or in any other law, making an enquiry by a competent British Court in British India into the truth of the accusation, whether, in the presence of the accused or otherwise, a condition precedent to the issue and execution of the warrant of a Political Agent under sec. 7 of Act XV of 1903. 7 Bom.L.R. 463

8. (1) Where a Political Agent has directed by endorsement on any such warrant that the person for whose arrest it is issued may be released on executing a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before a person or authority indicated in this behalf in the warrant at a specified time and place, the Magistrate to whom the warrant is addressed shall on such security being given release such person from custody.

(2) When security is taken under this section, the Magistrate shall certify the fact to the Political Agent who issued the warrant, and shall retain the bond.

(3) If the person bound by any such bond does not appear at the time and place specified, the Magistrate may, on being satisfied as to his default, issue a warrant directing that he be re-arrested and handed over to any person authorized by the Political Agent to take him into custody.

(4) In the case of any bond executed under this section, the Magistrate may exercise the powers conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure for the time being in force in relation to taking a deposit in lieu of the execution

=2 Cr.L.J. 439. Where a warrant is issued by a Political Agent under sec. 7 its execution by the District Magistrate in accordance with the Act is an executive act, and the High Court cannot interfere in revision with such execution. The power of the Court to interfere otherwise than by way of revision, e.g., under sec. 491, Cr. P. Code, is untouched by this decision. 42 C. 793=26 I.C. 385=19 C.W.N. 221. But see 53 B. 149 below. Execution by the District Magistrate (or the Chief Presidency Magistrate) in British India of a warrant under sec. 7 of Extradition Act is not an executive act. The Magistrate has judicially to consider the matter and decide whether the warrant can be executed according to law and the order of the Magistrate is subject to the revisional powers of the High Court. The order can also be interfered with under sec. 561-A. On proper proceedings being taken High Court can also interfere under sec. 491. 53 B. 149=31 Bom.L.R. 62=30 Cr.L.J. 772=1929 B. 81 (42 C. 793. Held, too widely stated. 7 Bom.L.R. 463; 41 C. 400 and 1922 P. 442, Rel. on.)

SECS. 7 AND 8: 'APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE—OFFENCE UNDER SEC. 395, I. P. CODE—PROCEDURE—MAGISTRATE IF BOUND TO REPORT TO LOCAL GOVERNMENT.—Sec. 7 (2) of the Extradition Act prescribes the way in which warrants in connection with an extradition offence referred to in sec. 7 (1) shall be executed. In the case of a warrant under sec. 395, I. P. Code, the offence being an extradition offence, sec. 7 (2) applies. Sec. 8 does not apply to the case, because that section does not distinctly specify that the procedure laid down therein is for an extradition offence. It only provides that in either of these cases the Magistrate, if he feels inclined to do, may report the case to the Local Government. 15 P.L.T. 493=1934 P. 553.

SECS. 7 AND 8-A: ISSUE OF WARRANT—

QUESTION IF CONDITIONS WERE COMPLIED WITH WHEN CAN BE RAISED.—Where a warrant is issued by the Agent of the Government of India under sec. 7 of the Extradition Act directing that a certain person in British India should be arrested and delivered to the Police of a Native State the question whether the conditions laid down by the Act and the rules for the issue of the warrant were complied with would not be properly the subject of inquiry by the High Court on an application under sec. 491, Cr. P. Code, but should be raised before the Magistrate in British India before whom the person arrested is produced on an application to him to report to the Local Government under sec. 8-A of the Extradition Act. SEC. 8.—Where a person was arrested upon a warrant issued by a Political Agent, under the Indian Extradition Act and was placed before a Magistrate and such Magistrate passed an order releasing him on bail and directing him to appear before the Political Agent on a certain date, although there was no endorsement on the warrant, giving the Magistrate power to pass such an order. Held, that in the absence of such an endorsement under sec. 8 of the Act, the Magistrate had no authority to pass such an order. 7 C.L.J. 171=12 C.W.N. 602=7 Cr.L.J. 198. The offence of cheating is an extradition offence so far as British India is concerned notwithstanding its omission from Art. 4 of the Treaty between the British Government and the Hyderabad State. A British Indian Magistrate to whom a warrant has been addressed under sec. 7 of the Act has no power to admit to bail a person arrested under it apart from the provisions of secs. 8 and 8-A. 43 B. 310=20 B.L.R. 1009=20 Cr.L.J. 34=48 I.C. 674. 8-A.¹ Notwithstanding anything contained in section 7, sub-section (2), Power to report case for or in section 8, when an accused person arrested in accordance with the provisions of section 7 is produced before the District Magistrate or Chief Presidency Magistrate, as the case may be, and the statement (if any) of such accused person has been recorded, such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, before proceeding further report the case to the ²[Central] Government and, pending the receipt of orders on such report, may detain such accused person in custody or release him on his executing a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance when required.

9. Where a requisition is made to the Central Government ³[* *]

Requisitions by States not by or on behalf of any State not being a Foreign State, for the surrender of any person accused of having committed an offence in the territories of such State, such requisition shall (except in so far as relates to the taking of evidence to show that the offence is of a political character or is not an extradition crime) be dealt with in accordance with the procedure prescribed by section 3 for requisitions made by the Government of any Foreign State as if it were a requisition made by any such Government under that section:

Provided that, if there is a Political Agent in or for any such State, the requisition shall be made through such Political Agent.

SEC. 8-A: SCOPE—DISCRETION UNDER—FAILURE TO REPORT—IF ILLEGAL.—It is discretionary with the Magistrate under sec. 8-A to report the matter to the Local Government. If he is inclined to hold an enquiry, he may do so and then, if he thinks fit, may report the matter to the Local Government. The failure to report does not make the procedure of the Magistrate illegal. 15 Pat.L. T. 493=1934 Pat. 553. If the person whose extradition is sought is a British subject in whose favour the discretion under the Treaty might possibly be exercised by the Local Government he should raise the point before the District Magistrate who would then refer the matter for the orders of the Local Government. 12 Pat. 347=34 Cr.L.J. 932=1933 Pat. 295. SEC. 9.—The East Indian possessions of France are not a foreign State. They are excluded from the Treaty arrangements of 1876. The provisions of Chapter II of the Extradition Act do not apply to fugitive criminals of Chandranagore. The procedure for the extradition from British India of a fugitive criminal from Chandranagore is to be summary. No preliminary inquiry is necessary before his extradition. This is in accordance with the Treaty of 1815. 47 C. 37=30 C.L.J. 24=20 Cr.L.J. 739=53 I.C. 147. See also 53 Mad. 1023=A.I.R. 1930 Mad. 981=59 M.L.J. 278. SEC. 10: APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.—A Magistrate has power to issue a warrant under sec. 10 when neither a warrant nor a requisition has been received. But an essential ingredient of that procedure is that there must be a warrant. When that procedure is not followed, and when the arrest is effected on nothing except the order of a Magistrate, such arrest is illegal. Even if the arrest were by the police on their own responsibility, the provision in sec. 23 must be followed and the detention must be made subject to the restrictions laid down by sec. 10; otherwise the arrest and detention would be illegal and the person arrested and detained must be released on an application made by him under sec. 491, Cr. P. Code. 62 C. 399=39 C.W.N. 285=A.I.R. 1935 Cal. 122=155 I.C. 537. Under sec. 10 of the Act, being the offence for which his surrender is asked, or undergoing sentence under any conviction in British India, shall not be surrendered in compliance with a warrant issued by a Political Agent under section 7 or a requisition made by or on behalf of any State not being a Foreign State under section 9, except on the condition that such person be re-surrendered to the Central Government ²[* *], on the termination of his trial for the offence for which his surrender has been asked:

SEC. 18: SCOPE OF.—There is no derogation of the rights of the parties to the treaty by allowing one Government with the consent of the other to obtain extradition of a criminal who has committed an offence not mentioned in the treaty. A Government or a State is entitled if it so wishes, to hand over persons subject to the law of another

State at the request of that State. In such a case there is no derogation to the Sovereign rights of either power. All that sec. 18 provides is that the Act shall not work against the will of either party so as unduly to impose any liability on such party. It does not prevent their co-operation in a friendly action according to the comity of nations. 20 S.L.R. 128=27 Cr.L.J. 37=A. I.R. 1926 Sind 126. Sec. 18 provides that if some special procedure has been arranged by treaty, it may be followed; but if the Government should choose to exercise the powers given by the Act no Municipal Court could interfere on the ground that the Government had undertaken to act otherwise by treaty. The words "shall not be bound" in Act. V of the Treaty between the East India Company and Nepal mean that each Govern-

(d) the offences committed in British India to which the Act applies are piracy, treason, and any offence punishable under the Indian Penal Code with rigorous imprisonment for a term of twelve months or more or with any greater punishment.

Power to make rules.

22. (1) The Central Government may make rules⁵ to carry out the purposes of this Act.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

[Preamble.]

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as THE EXTRADITION ACT, 1870.

Where arrangement for surrender of criminals made, Order in Council to apply Act.

2. Where an arrangement has been made with any foreign state with respect to the surrender to such state of any fugitive criminals. Her Majesty may by Order in Council, direct that this Act shall apply in the case of such foreign state.

LEG. REF.

¹ These figures were substituted for the figures "446" by sec. 2 and Sch. I of the Repealing and Amending Act, 1914 (X of 1914).

² These words were substituted by sec. 2 of the Indian Extradition (Amendment) Act, 1922 (XVI of 1922).

⁴ Extended by Act IX of 1895, sec. 2.

Her Majesty may, by the same or any subsequent order, limit the operation of the order and restrict the same to fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in the part of Her Majesty's dominions specified in the order, and render the operation thereof subject to such conditions, exceptions and qualifications as may be deemed expedient.

Every such order shall recite or embody the terms of the arrangement, and shall not remain in force for any longer period than the arrangement.

Every such order shall be laid before both Houses of Parliament within six weeks after it is made, or, if Parliament be not then sitting, within six weeks after the then next meeting of Parliament, and shall also be published in the London Gazette.

Restrictions on surrender of criminals.

3. The following restrictions shall be observed with respect to the surrender of fugitive criminals:

(1) A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered if the offence in respect of which his surrender is demanded is one of a political character or if he prove to the satisfaction of the police magistrate or the court before whom he is brought on habeas corpus or to the Secretary of State, that the requisition for his surrender has in fact been made with a view to try or punish him for an offence of a political character;

(2) A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered to a foreign state unless provision is made by the law of that state or by arrangement, that the fugitive criminal shall not, until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to Her Majesty's dominions, be detained or tried in that foreign state for any offence committed prior to his surrender other than the extradition crime proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded;

(3) A fugitive criminal who has been accused of some offence within English jurisdiction not being the offence for which his surrender is asked, or is undergoing sentence under any conviction in the United Kingdom, shall not be surrendered until after he has been discharged, whether by acquittal or on expiration of his sentence or otherwise;

(4) A fugitive criminal shall not be surrendered until the expiration of fifteen days from the date of his being committed to prison to await his surrender.

Provisions of arrangement for surrender.

4. An Order in Council for applying this Act in the case of any foreign state shall not be made unless the arrangement—

(1) provides for the determination of it by either party to it after the expiration of a notice not exceeding one year; and

(2) is in conformity with the provisions of this Act, and in particular with the restrictions on the surrender of fugitive criminals contained in this Act.

5. When an order applying this Act in the case of any foreign state has been published in the London Gazette, this Act, after the date specified in the order, or if no date is specified, after the date of the publication, shall, so long as the order remains in force, but subject to the limitations, restrictions, conditions, exceptions, and qualifications, if any, contained in the order, apply in the case of such foreign state. An Order in Council shall be conclusive evidence that the arrangement therein referred to complies with the requisitions of this Act and that this Act applies in the case of the foreign state mentioned in the order, and the validity of such order shall not be questioned in any legal proceedings whatever.

SEC. 3.—A subject of a state other than the state claiming surrender or the state on which the claim for surrender is made is liable to extradition. (1882) 9 Q.B.D. 93; (1882) 10 Q.B.D. 76. in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or that part which is specified in the order applying this Act, (as the case may be,) shall be liable to be apprehended and surrendered in manner provided by this Act, whether the crime in respect of which the surrender is sought was committed before or after the date of the order, and whether there, is or is not any concurrent jurisdiction in any court of Her Majesty's dominions over that crime.

7. A requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal of any foreign state, who is in or suspected of being in the United

Order of Secretary of State for issue of warrant in United Kingdom if crime is not of a political character.

Kingdom, shall be made to Secretary of State by some person recognised by the Secretary of State as a diplomatic representative of that foreign state. A Secretary of State may, by order under his hand and seal, signify to a police magistrate that such requisition has been made, and require him to issue his warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive criminal.

If the Secretary of State is of opinion that the offence is one of a political character, he may, if he thinks fit, refuse to send any such order, and may also at any time order a fugitive criminal accused or convicted of such offence to be discharged from custody.

8. A warrant for the apprehension of a fugitive criminal, whether accused or convicted of crime, who is in or suspected of being in the United Kingdom, may be issued—

Issue of warrant by police magistrate, justice, etc.

(1) by a police magistrate on the receipt of the said order of the Secretary of State, and on such evidence as would in his opinion justify the issue of the warrant if the crime had been committed or the criminal convicted in England; and

(2) by a police magistrate or any justice of the peace in any part of the United Kingdom, on such information or complaint and such evidence or after

POLITICAL OFFENCES.—As a general rule a fugitive criminal may not be surrendered if the offence for which his extradition is demanded is one of a political character. This expression (offence of a political character) is to be interpreted as meaning that fugitive criminals are not to be surrendered for extradition crimes if those crimes were incidental to or formed part of political disturbances. (1891) 1 Q.B. 149. The decision of the Magistrate upon this point is subject to review by the Court on an application for habeas corpus. (Ibid.); (1902) 71 L.J. (K. B.) 935. A bare statement by the accused that he is a political refugee, unsupported by any evidence is not sufficient to entitle the Court to order a writ of habeas corpus. (1916) 2 K.B. 742. Crimes committed by anarchists are not regarded as political offences, as, in order to constitute an offence of a political character, there must be two or more parties in the State each seeking to impose the Government of their own choice on the other, and the act done must be committed not for private or personal reasons but in pursuance of that subject. (1894) 2 Q.B. 415; Hals. Laws of England, 2nd Edn., Vol. XIV, p. 583; (note).

such proceedings as would in the opinion of the person issuing the warrant justify the issue of a warrant if the crime had been committed or the criminal convicted in that part of the United Kingdom in which he exercises jurisdiction.

Any person issuing a warrant under this section without an order from a Secretary of State, shall forthwith send a report of the fact of such issue together with the evidence and information or complaint, or certified copies thereof, to a Secretary of State, who may, if he thinks fit, order the warrant to be cancelled, and the person who has been apprehended on the warrant to be discharged.

A fugitive criminal, when apprehended on a warrant issued without the order of a Secretary of State, shall be brought before some person having power to issue a warrant under this section, who shall by warrant order him to be brought and the prisoner shall accordingly be brought before a police magistrate.

A fugitive criminal apprehended on a warrant issued without the order of a Secretary of State shall be discharged by the police magistrate, unless the police magistrate, within such reasonable time as, with reference to the circumstances of the case, he may fix receives from a Secretary of State an order signifying that a requisition has been made for the surrender of such criminal.

9. When a fugitive criminal is brought before the police magistrate, the police magistrate shall hear the case in the same manner, and have the same jurisdiction and powers, as near as may be, as if the prisoner were brought before him charged with an indictable offence committed in England.

Hearing of case and evidence of political character of crime.

mitted in England.

The police magistrate shall receive any evidence which may be tendered to show that the crime of which the prisoner is accused or alleged to have been convicted is an offence of a political character or is not an extradition crime.

10. In the case of a fugitive criminal accused of an extradition crime, if the foreign warrant authorizing the arrest of such criminal is duly authenticated, and such evidence is produced as (subject to the provisions of this Act) would, according to the law of England, justify the committal for trial of the prisoner if the crime of which he is accused had been committed in England, the police magistrate shall commit him to prison, but otherwise shall order him to be discharged.

In the case of a fugitive criminal alleged to have been convicted of an extradition crime, if such evidence is produced as (subject to the provisions of this Act) would according to the law of England, prove that the prisoner was convicted of such crime, the police magistrate shall commit him to prison, but otherwise shall order him to be discharged.

If he commits such criminal to prison, he shall commit him to the Middlesex House of Detention, or to some other prison in Middlesex, there to await the warrant of a Secretary of State for his surrender, and shall forthwith send to a Secretary of State a certificate of the committal, and such report upon the case as he may think fit.

Surrender of fugitive to foreign state by warrant of Secretary of State.

11. If the police magistrate commits a fugitive criminal to prison, he shall inform such criminal that he will not be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days, and that he has a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

Upon the expiration of the said fifteen days, or, if a writ of habeas corpus is issued, after the decision of the Court upon the return to the writ, as the case may be, or after such further period as may be allowed in either case by a Secretary of State, it shall be lawful for a Secretary of State, by warrant under his hand and seal, to order the fugitive criminal, if not delivered on the decision of the Court, to be surrendered to such person as may in his opinion be duly authorized to receive the fugitive criminal by the foreign state from which the requisition for the surrender proceeded, and such fugitive criminal shall be surrendered accordingly.

It shall be lawful for any person to whom such warrant is directed and for the person so authorized as aforesaid to receive, hold in custody, and convey within the jurisdiction of such foreign state the criminal mentioned in the warrant; and if the criminal escapes out of any custody to which he may be delivered on or in pursuance of such warrant, it shall be lawful to re-take him in the same manner as any person accused of any crime against the laws of that part of Her Majesty's dominions to which he escapes may be re-taken upon an escape.

12. If the fugitive criminal who has been committed to prison is not surrendered and conveyed out of the United Kingdom within two months after such committal, or if a writ of habeas corpus is issued, after the decision of the Court upon the return to the writ, it shall be lawful for any judge of one of Her Majesty's Superior Courts at Westminster, upon application made to him by or on behalf of the criminal, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to a Secretary of State, to order the criminal to be discharged out of custody unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary.

Discharge of persons apprehended if not conveyed out of United Kingdom within two months.

Superior Courts at Westminster, upon application made to him by or on behalf of the criminal, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to a Secretary of State, to order the criminal to be discharged out of custody unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary.

13. The warrant of the police magistrate issued in pursuance of this Act may be executed in any part of the United Kingdom in the same manner as if the same had been originally issued or subsequently indorsed by a justice of the peace having jurisdiction in the place where the same is executed.

Execution of warrant of police magistrate.

14. Depositions or statements on oath taken in a foreign state and copies of such original depositions or statements and foreign certificates of or judicial documents stating the fact of a conviction, may, if duly authenticated, be received in evidence in proceedings under this Act.

Depositions to be evidence.

SEC. 11.—A plea that the demand for surrender is not made in good faith or in the interests of justice can only be addressed to the Secretary of State and the Court will not permit arguments on that point. (3) If the fugitive criminal is apprehended on a warrant issued without the order of a Secretary of State, he shall be brought before the stipendiary magistrate, sheriff, or sheriff substitute who issued the warrant, or who has jurisdiction in the port where the vessel lies, or in the place nearest to that port.

Fugitive Criminals in British Possessions.

17. This Act, when applied by Order in Council, shall, unless it is otherwise provided by such order, extend to every British possession in the same manner as if throughout this Act the British possession were substituted for the United Kingdom or England, as the case may require, but with the following modifications, namely:

(1) The requisition for the surrender of a fugitive criminal who is in or suspected of being in British possession may be made to the Governor of that British possession by any person recognised by that governor as a consul-general, consul, or vice-consul, or (if the fugitive criminal has escaped from a colony or dependency of the foreign state on behalf of which the requisition is made) as the Governor of such colony or dependency:

(2) Nor warrant of a Secretary of State shall be required, and all powers vested in or acts authorized or required to be done under this Act by the police magistrate and the Secretary of State or either of them, in relation to the surrender of a fugitive criminal, may be done by the Governor of the British possession alone:

(3) Any prison in the British possession may be substituted for a prison in Middlesex:

(4) A judge of any court exercising in the British possession the like powers as the Court of Queen's Bench exercises in England may exercise the power of discharging a criminal when not conveyed within two months out of such British possession.

18. If by any law or ordinance, made before or after the passing of this Act by the legislature of any British possession, provision is made for carrying into effect within such possession the surrender of fugitive criminals who are in or suspected of being in such British possession, Her Majesty may, by the Order in Council applying this Act in the case of any foreign state, or by any subsequent order, either suspend the operation within any such British possession of this Act, or of any part thereof so far as it relates to such foreign state, and so long as such law or ordinance continues in force there, and no longer; or direct that such law or ordinance, or any part thereof, shall have effect in such British possession, with or without modifications and alterations, as if it were part of this Act.

General Provisions.

19. Where, in pursuance of any arrangement with a foreign state, any person accused or convicted of any crime which, if committed in England, would be one of the crimes described in the first schedule to this Act, is surrendered by that foreign state, such person shall not, until he has been restored or had an opportunity of returning to such foreign state, be triable or tried for any offence committed prior to the surrender in any part of Her Majesty's dominions other than such of the said crimes as may be proved by the facts on which the surrender is grounded.

20. The forms set forth in the second schedule to this Act, or forms as near thereto as circumstances admit, may be used in all matters to which such forms refer, and in the case of a British possession may be so used, mutatis mutandis, and when used shall be deemed to be valid and sufficient in law.

21. Her Majesty may, by Order in Council, revoke or alter, subject to the restrictions of this Act, any Order in Council made in pursuance of this Act, and all the provisions of this Act with respect to the original order shall (so far as applicable) apply, mutatis mutandis, to any such new order.

22. This Act (except so far as relates to the execution of warrants in the Channel Islands) shall extend to the Channel Islands and Isle of Man in the same manner as if they were part of the United Kingdom; and the Royal Courts of the Channel Islands are hereby respectively authorized and required to register this Act.

THE FACTORIES ACT (XXV OF 1934).

[Am. Acts XI of 1935; VIII of 1936; XVII of 1940; Madras Act VI of 1941; Acts XVI of 1941, XIV of 1944 and III of 1945; and Rep. in part by Act XX of 1937].

[20th August, 1934.

An Act to consolidate and amend the Law regulating labour in factories.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the Law regulating labour in factories; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE FACTORIES ACT, 1934.

SEC. 1: OBJECT OF THE ACT.—The object of the Act is to protect human beings from being subjected to unduly long hours of bodily strain or manual labour. It also provides that employees should work in healthy and sanitary conditions so far as the manufacturing process will allow and that precautions should be taken for their safety and for the prevention of accidents. In order to obtain the informations necessary to ensure that its objects are carried out, the Local Government are empowered to appoint inspectors, to call for returns, and to see that the prescribed registers are duly kept. This is part of the machinery which enables the authorities to maintain effective supervision, and it is undoubtedly important that there should be substantial compliance with these provisions of the Act. 38 C.W.N. 1008=152 I.C. 556=1934 C. 730 (Per McNair, J.). At the same time, it should not be forgotten that the Act is sanctioning interference with the ordinary rights of the citizen and that the inquisitorial powers which are given should be used with tact and circumspection. 38 C.W.N. 1008=152 I.C. 556=1934 C. 730 (Per MacNair, J.).

CONSTRUCTION OF THE ACT.—The provisions of the Act have to be construed in favour of the employee and strictly in favour of the employer. 152 I.C. 556=38 C.W.N. 1008=1934 C. 730. "A law which is enacted for the benefit of the employee should not be used merely for the purpose of harassing the employer. The launching of a test case in respect of an infringement of provisions which are not generally available, the meaning of which is doubtful to the authorities themselves and which the factory management honestly complied with as they understood them, asking for further enlightenment from the authorities without getting any, is to be strongly deprecated." (Ibid.) "I am fully alive to the great importance of Factory Acts being properly enforced for the protection of workmen, and I have no doubt that in India it is particularly necessary that their beneficial provisions should be carried out. On the other hand one must also bear in mind that the employers' position has to be considered too. It may be that without any negligence on their part defects will exist in their factories, but if they are to be proceeded against in a Criminal Court for alleged negligence then it would seem only fair that the matter should be clearly brought home to them. That I have no doubt is the reason why the Legislature has distinctly specified what the inspector has to do. Whether a particular accused in any case was negligent or not does not concern this question of general principle on the construction of the Act". 85 I.C. 226=26 Bom. L.R. 1245=1925 B. 143=26 Cr.L.J. 492.

CRITICISM ON THE DRAFTING OF THE ACT (XII of 1911).—"We desire to point out to the authorities concerned that it will be difficult to uphold prosecutions under many of the sections of this Act, unless they are amended, especially in cases of factories to which exemptions have been granted". (Per Mallick, J.) 35 C.W.N. 1108. "The Act is carelessly and loosely drawn. It seems to consist mainly of parts of the English Act taken from their context and patched together. It is a penal statute, and as such it is essential that its terms should be clear, definite and unambiguous. On the contrary, it is difficult—if not impossible for a lawyer still less a layman, to understand many of its provisions." (Ibid.) 35 C.W.N. 1108. "There are many provisions in the Act which are confused and ambiguous, and the rules and forms provided do not tally with the requirements of the sections. The truth seems to be that the application of the Act to special factories has never been properly thought out. Drastic redrafting and amendment of this important Act seem to be required urgently." (Ibid.) 35 C.W.N. 1108.

APPLICATION OF THE ACT TO CROWN FACTORIES.—Crown factories had from the beginning been brought under the operation of the Act, which followed in this respect the British law on the subject. This had been another subject of discussion when the Bill was introduced, and the conclusion to which the Committee had come on full consideration was, that Crown factories should be brought within the scope of the Act, but that the power to exempt them temporarily, in cases of emergency, should be reserved to the Government. It was quite necessary that such power should be reserved in order to avoid great inconvenience and mischief. It would be sufficient to instance the case of the Mint, and of the powder and gun manufacturing in time of war, to show the necessity for such a provision. (Proceedings in Council. Fort St. George Gazette, 4th May, 1881).

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

(3) It shall come into force on the 1st day of January, 1935.

Definitions.

2. [Cf. Old Act, section 2 and section 156, English Act.] In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) "adolescent" means a person who has completed his fifteenth but has not completed his seventeenth year;

(b) "adult" means a person who has completed his seventeenth year;

(c) "child" means a person who has not completed his fifteenth year;

(d) "day" means a period of twenty-four hours beginning at midnight;

(e) "week" means a period of seven days beginning at midnight on Saturday night;

(f) "power" means electrical energy, and any other form of energy which is mechanically transmitted and is not generated by human or animal agency;

(g) "manufacturing process" means any process—

(i) for making, altering, repairing, ornamenting, finishing or packing, or otherwise treating any article or substance with a view to its use, sale, transport delivery or disposal, or

(ii) for pumping oil, water or sewage, or

(iii) for generating, transforming or transmitting power;

(h) "worker" means a person employed, whether for wages or not, in any manufacturing process, or in cleaning any part of the machinery or premises used for a manufacturing process, or in any other kind of work whatsoever incidental to or connected with the manufacturing process or connected with the subject of the manufacturing process, but does not include any person solely employed in a clerical capacity in any room or place where no manufacturing process is being carried on;

(j) "factory" means any premises including the precincts thereof whereon twenty or more workers are working, or were working on any day of the

SEC. 2, CL. (a): "ADOLESCENT".—The expression used in the English Act is "young person" which expression is defined to mean a person who has ceased to be a child and is under the age of eighteen years. (English Act, sec. 156). The Indian Law fixes the age at seventeen.

SEC. 2, CL. (b): "ADULT".—Under the English Act, a person would be an adult only after completing his eighteenth year.

CL. (c): "CHILD".—ENGLISH ACT.—The expression "child" has been defined by the English Act as follows:—"The expression 'child' means a person who is under the age of fourteen years and who has not, being of the age of thirteen years obtained the certificate of proficiency or attendance at school mentioned in Part III of this (English Act) Act." (Sec. 156).

CL. (d): "DAY".—ENGLISH LAW.—Under the English Act, the expression "night" has been defined to mean the period between nine o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the succeeding morning (Sec. 156).

CL. (f): "ANY OTHER FORM OF ENERGY WHICH IS MECHANICALLY TRANSMITTED".—These words must be construed ejusdem generis with electric, steam or water power and do not include hand power. [Wilmut v. Paton, (1902) 1 K.B. 237].

CL. (g): "PROCESS".—"Process" has been defined by the English Act as including the use of any locomotive (Sec. 156).

"MANUFACTURING PROCESS".—These words merely refer to the particular business carried on and do not necessarily refer to the production of some article. So that laundries, carpet beating or bottle washing works, etc., are factories within the Act if mechanical power is used [Owner v. Cottingham Sanitary Steam Laundry Co., Ltd., (1910) 74 J.P. 219; Johnstone v. Lalonde Bros. and Parhal, (1912) 2 K.B. 218. See also Royal Masonic Institution for Boys v. Parkes, (1912) 3 K.B. 212 and Patterson v. Hunt (1909) 73 J.P. 496]. Putting ginned cotton into bales and having it pressed must be considered work connected with the manufacturing process and the men engaged in the work must be deemed to be employed in the factory. 143 I.C. 772=1933 N. 283.

CL. (h): "WORKER".—Of the definition of "Workmen" in the Indian Workmen's Compensation Act, Sec. 2, cl. (a).

CL. (j): "FACTORY".—The definition in this cl. (j) applies to the term 'factory' used in sec. 9 (3) of Cotton Ginning and Pressing Factories Act, 1925. 1937 M.W.N. 1335. See also I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 88 =1937 Nag. 311. By a factory is meant premises where anything is done towards the making or finishing of an article up to the preceding twelve months, and in any part of which a manufacturing process is being carried on with the aid of power, or is ordinarily so carried on, but does not include a mine subject to the operation of the Indian Mines Act, 1923;

(k) "machinery" includes all plant whereby power is generated, transformed, transmitted or applied;

(l) "occupier" of a factory means the person who has ultimate control over the affairs of the factory:

stage when it is ready to be sold or is in a suitable condition to be put on the market. 109 I.C. 599=8 L. 666=29 P.L.R. 234=29 Cr.L.J. 583=A.I.R. 1928 L. 78. See also 1 N.L.R. 115. A factory includes everything, machine rooms, sheds, godowns, yards. If within these premises or precincts mechanical power is used in aid of any process for altering for transport or sale of any article, then these premises or precincts are a factory. 50 M. 834=1927 M. 345=52 M.L.J. 207. The drying yard used for drying ground-nuts, where machinery for decorticating the ground-nuts was working is a part of factory, although there is no connexion with machinery or any work incidental to the manufacturing process. (Ibid.)

RAILWAY WORKSHOPS are 'factories'. 119 I.C. 722=1929 Lah. 573. A Gurhal Ghar is a 'factory', even though the engine shed is a separate building and less than twenty persons are employed therein, but over twenty persons are employed in the Gurhal Ghar inclusive of those employed on the crushers and those employed in the boiling shed, and these latter must be said to be employed both "on the premises, and within the precincts of the Gurhal Ghar." 32 Bom.L.R. 329=1930 Bom. 162=31 Cr.L.J. 1094.

TWO OR MORE BUILDINGS entirely separate from each other may in certain circumstances form part of one and the same factory. See L. C. C. and Tuffs, in re, (1903) 86 J.P. 29; Hoyle v. Gram, (1862), 12 C.B. 124.

"USE OF POWER IN PART OF BUILDING."—Every part of the premises unless specially exempted forms part of a factory, although power may only be used in one part [Taylor v. Hickes; Hardcastle v. Jones, (1862) 3 B. and S. 153; Palmer's Shipbuilding Co. v. Chaytor, (1869) 4 Q.B. 209; But see Vines v. Inglis, (1915) S.C. 18]. The definition of "factory" is intended not to cover merely individual business in any premises but is intended to denote any premises as a composite whole with a central source of power, i.e., either steam, water, or other electrical or mechanical power. 57 B. 150=35 Bom. L.R. 83=1933 Bom. 109.

"WORKPLACE" is not defined either in this Act or in the English Act, but in Bennett v. Hardinge, (1900) 2 Q.B. 397, Channel, J., said:—"I think that a workplace must be a place where some work is being perpetually or permanently done, I do not say that the mere presence of workmen in repairing a private house would make it a workplace."

N.B.—"The Act mainly deals with labour employed in what may be described as perennial factories (i.e.), excluding those which deal mainly with agricultural products in the raw state, and work for part of the year only; and all those establishments which either use no mechanical power or, using power, employ less than 20 persons. These also are excluded from the definition of "factories". See Whitley Commission Rep., p. 6.

PERSONS EMPLOYED IN THE FACTORY.—A person who works in a factory, whether for wages or not, may be deemed to be employed in that factory. Where it is shown that certain persons were engaged in the factory in one of the ways specified in sec. 2 (2) [of the old Act of 1911] it must be presumed they were 'employed' in the factory. 61 Cal. 332=35 Cr.L.J. 1401=38 C. W.N. 801=1934 Cal. 546. See sec. 2, cl. (2) of the old Act, XII of 1911. Persons employed merely for selling the manufactured articles do not come within the definition of "employed" in that factory even though they happen to occupy a room at the factory for the sake of convenience. 109 I. C. 599=8 L. 666=29 P.L.R. 234=29 Cr.L. J. 583=1928 Lah. 78. It is not correct to say that the Factories Act affects only manual labourers. 152 I.C. 566=38 C.W. N. 1008=A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 730.

POWER.—See sec. 2, cl. (j) supra.

SECS. 2 (j) AND 5.—The Notification of the Central Provinces Government No. 202-2644 VII, dated 17th January 1939, which declares that all places in Central Provinces, wherein manufacturing process is carried on with the aid of power and wherein on any one day of the twelve months preceding the date of the notification ten or more workers were employed, to be factories under the Factories Act is intra Vires of the power given to the Provincial Government by sec. 5 (1) of the Factories Act. The notification is not universal but selective and it does not render sec. (5) (j) of the Act nugatory inasmuch as the Act applies to the whole of British India while the notification applies only to Central Provinces. 1941 N.L.J. 471=I.L.R. (1942) N. 402=A.I.R. 1941 Nag. 337.

SEC. 2 (k): ENGLISH ACT.—Under the English Act the expression "machinery" includes any driving strap or band (sec. 156). The expression "mill-gearing" comprehends every shaft, whether upright, oblique or horizontal, and every wheel, drum or pulley or other appliance by which the motion of the first moving power is communicated to any machine appertaining to a manufacturing process. (Ibid.)

CL. (l): [See also Notes under sec. 70

Provided that where the affairs of a factory are entrusted to a managing agent, such agent shall be deemed to be the occupier of the factory;

(m) where work of the same kind is carried out by two or more sets of workers working during different periods of the day, each of such sets is called a "relay," and the period or periods for which it works is called a "shift"; and

(n) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Provincial Government under this Act.

References to time of day. 3. [Cf. S. 51, Old Act.] References to time of day in this Act or references—

(a) in British India, ¹[* *] to Indian Standard time, which is five and a half hours ahead of Greenwich Mean Time, and

(b) ²[* * * * *]

4. (1) For the purposes of this Act, a factory which is exclusively engaged in one or more of the following manufacturing processes, namely, cotton ginning, cotton or jute pressing, the decortication of ground-nuts, the manufacture of coffee, indigo, lac, rubber, sugar (including gur) or tea, or any manufacturing process which is incidental to or connected with any of the aforesaid processes, is a seasonal factory:

Seasonal factories. Provided that the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare any such factory in which manufacturing processes are ordinarily carried on for more than one hundred and eighty working days in the year, not to be a seasonal factory for the purposes of this Act.

infra]. "Occupier."—The word "occupier" in general means a person who occupies the factory either by himself or his agent. He may be an owner, he may be a lessee or even a mere licensee, but he must have the right to occupy the property and dictate how it is to be managed. 55 B. 366=32 Cr.L.J. 1063 (1)=33 Bom.L.R. 309=1931 B. 308. See also Rat. 902. The definition of "occupier" in the Act is not an exhaustive definition and there is nothing in it which in any way limits the normal meaning of the word "occupier" as indicating a person who is in actual possession and control of a factory. 50 B. 34=27 Bom.L.R. 1405=27 Cr.L.J. 165=1926 B. 57. The word "Munim" as commonly used does connote agency, and persons dealing with the chief authority in charge of the factory where it is situated would look upon him as the agent of the owner or occupier. If there is a special contract of service or agency between him and his master, he must prove it. 19 N.L.J. 247. The word "occupier" bears the same meaning in this Act as it bears in similar enactments in England, that is, a person who regulates a factory and controls the work that is done there. 20 I.C. 144=14 Cr.L.J. 384=15 Bom.L.R. 328. The question who is the occupier of a factory must depend among others, upon these considerations, namely:—Who alone has the right of using the factory for the purposes for which it is constructed and worked; who has the right of regulating and controlling it; whose is the predominant possession or general superintendence over it. 10 Bom.L.R. 38=7 Cr.L.J. 44. The manager of a factory who resides in a part of the premises in which the factory is, is not an occupier of the factory within the meaning of the Act. 29 B. 423=7 Bom.L.R. 454; 2 Cr.L.J. 428.

OWNER'S LIABILITY.—Even if the accused, who is the owner of a factory, shows that he knows nothing about the management of the factory and that he has left the whole conduct of its affairs to a manager appointed by him for the purpose, he is not free from the liability imposed on him by sec. 41 (a) of the Factories Act. 55 B. 366=32 Cr.L.J. 1063 (1)=33 Bom.L.R. 309=1931 B. 308. In order to fix liability on any person other than the occupier of a factory, it is incumbent upon the latter to give the strictest proof of circumstances exonerating himself, and it is plain on the face of the section that the burden of proving absence of knowledge or consent on his part lies entirely upon him. 25 C. 454.

SEC. 3.—"The general acceptance of standard time has rendered a modification of sec. 51 (1) desirable." (Statement of Objects and Reasons).

SEC. 4: THIS SECTION IS NEW.—"The Labour Commission recommended differential treatment for seasonal and non-seasonal factories in the matter of adult hours and in other respects. This clause is based on their recommendation." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

(2) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare any specified factory in which manufacturing processes are ordinarily carried on for not more than one hundred and eighty working days in the year and cannot be carried on except during particular seasons or at times dependent on the irregular action of natural forces, to be a seasonal factory for the purposes of this Act.

[5. (1) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare that all or any of the provisions of this Act applicable to factories shall apply to any place wherein a manufacturing process is being carried on or is ordinarily carried on whether with or without the use of power whenever ten or more workers are working therein or have worked therein on any one day of the twelve months immediately preceding.

(2) A notification under sub-section (1) may be made in respect of any one such place or in respect of any class of such places or generally in respect of all such places.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (j) of section 2, a place, to which all or any of the provisions of this Act applicable to factories are for the time being applicable in pursuance of a declaration under sub-section (1), shall, to the extent to which such provisions are so made applicable but not otherwise, be deemed to be a factory.] (Substituted by Act XVI of 1941).

6. [Cf. S. 53, Old Act.] The Provincial Government may, by order in writing, direct that the different departments or branches of a specified factory shall be treated as separate factories for all or any of the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 5.—See 1941 N.L.J. 471=1941 Nag. 337, cited under sec. 2 supra.

SEC. 6: EXTENT OF A FACTORY.—Subject to certain specified exceptions the area of the factory or workshop is the whole space contained within its walls. Back v. Dick, (1906) A.C. 325. "In the case of factoriesetc., the walls or fences built around the factory.....fix the boundaries and determine the area." Back v. Dick, (1906) A.C. 325, per Lord Atkinson, at p. 334.

MORE THAN ONE FACTORY IN A SINGLE BUILDING.—More than one factory or workshop may be contained in a single building or group of buildings; and different parts of the same building may constitute separate factories or workshops. (See 14 Hals. Laws of England, pp. 559-570.) "I cannot help thinking that we should be in great difficulties if we were to hold that the mere fact of one factory overlapping another caused them to be within the same curtilage." Per Kennedy, J., in Brass v. London County Council, (1924) 2 K.B. 336. In Vines v. Inglis, (1915) S.C. (J.) 18; 24 Digest 902 (b), a building consisted of a retail shop on the ground floor a millinery room in which no mechanical power was used on the next floor, and a non-textile factory for dress-making on the top floor, in which mechanical power was used, but not in respect of the millinery work. It was held that the mill-nery room was not a factory. A part of a factory may, under circumstances, be declared for the purposes of the Act to be a separate factory or workshop. [English Factories Act, 1901, sec. 149, cl. (2).] Different branches or departments of work carried on in the same factory or workshop shall, for all or any of the purposes of the Act, be treated as if they were different factories or workshops. (English Factories Act, 1901, sec. 150).

SEPARATE BUILDINGS CONSTITUTING SAME FACTORY.—Separate buildings, even though, a considerable distance apart, may, if used for one continuous manufacturing process, constitute a single factory or workshop. [English Factories Act, 1901, sec. 149, cl. (4).] The place where the product of a factory is delivered, even if directly connected with the place of production, is not necessarily a part of the factory. Spacey v. Dowlais, (1905) 2 K.B. 879 (C.A.).

ROOMS USED SOLELY FOR SLEEPING PURPOSES.—Rooms used solely for sleeping purposes and places within the precincts of a factory solely used for some purpose other than the manufacturing process are excluded from the operation of the Factories Act. [English Factories Act, 1901, sec. 149, cl. (4). Lewis v. Gilbertson, (1904) 91 L.T. 377.]

7. Where the Provincial Government is satisfied that, following upon a change of occupier of a factory or in the manufacturing processes carried on therein, the number of workers for the time being working in the factory is less than twenty and is not likely to be twenty or more on any day during the ensuing twelve months, it may, by order in writing, exempt such factory from the operation of this Act:

Power to exempt on a change in the factory. Provided that any exemption so granted shall cease to have effect on and after any day on which twenty or more workers work in the factory.

8. [Cf. Ss. 56 and 57, Old Act.] In any case of public emergency the ¹[Provincial Government] may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt any factory from any or all of the provisions of this Act for such period as he may think fit.

9. [Cf. S. 33, Old Act.] (1) Before work is begun in any factory after the commencement of this Act, or before work is begun in any seasonal factory each season, the occupier shall send to the Inspector a written notice containing—

- (a) the name of the factory and its situation,
- (b) the address to which communications relating to the factory should be sent,
- (c) the nature of the manufacturing processes to be carried on in the factory,
- (d) the nature and the amount of the power to be used, [*]²
- (e) the name of the person who shall be the manager of the factory for the purposes of this Act,
- ²[; and
- (f) such other particulars as may be prescribed for the purposes of this Act.]

(2) Whenever another person is appointed as manager, the occupier shall send to the Inspector a written notice of the change, within seven days from the date on which the new manager assumes charge.

(3) During any period for which no person has been designated as manager of a factory under this section, or during which the person designated does not manage the factory, any person found acting as manager, or, if no such person is found, the occupier himself, shall be deemed to be the manager of the factory for the purposes of this Act.

CHAPTER II.

THE INSPECTING STAFF.

10. [Cf. S. 4, Old Act.] (1) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint such persons as it thinks fit to be Inspectors for the purposes of this Act within such local limits as it may assign to them respectively.

(2) The Provincial Government may, by notification as aforesaid, appoint any person to be a Chief Inspector, who shall, in addition to the powers conferred on a Chief Inspector under this Act, exercise the powers of an Inspector throughout the province.

SEC. 7: STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—"This is a new clause designed to enable the Local Government to exempt from the Act premises which by reason of a change in their use should no longer be treated as factories."

SEC. 8: STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—Exceptional power given under this section is intended only for a serious general emergency such as might be caused by a war.

(3) No person shall be appointed to be an Inspector under sub-section (1) or a Chief Inspector, under sub-section (2) or, having been so appointed, shall continue to hold office, who is or becomes directly or indirectly interested in a factory or in any process or business carried on therein or in any patent or machinery connected therewith.

(4) Every District Magistrate shall be an Inspector for his district.

(5) The Provincial Government may also, by notification as aforesaid, appoint such public officers as it thinks fit to be additional Inspectors for all or any of the purposes of this Act, within such local limits as it may assign to them respectively.

(6) In any area where there are more Inspectors than one, the Provincial Government may, by notification as aforesaid, declare the powers which such Inspectors shall respectively exercise, and the Inspector to whom the prescribed notices are to be sent.

(7) Every Chief Inspector and Inspector shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code and shall be officially subordinate to such authority as the Provincial Government may specify in this behalf.

11. [Cf. S. 5, Old Act.] Subject to any rules made by the Provincial Government in this behalf, an Inspector may, within the local limits for which he is appointed,—

(a) enter, with such assistants (if any), being persons in the ¹[service of the Crown] or of any municipal or other public authority, as he thinks fit, any place which is, or which he has reason to believe to be, used as a factory or capable of being declared to be a factory under the provisions of section 5;

(b) make such examination of the premises and plant and of any prescribed registers, and take on the spot or otherwise such evidence of any persons as he may deem necessary for carrying out the purposes of this Act; and

(c) exercise such other powers as may be necessary for carrying out the purposes of this Act:

Provided that no one shall be required under this section to answer any question or give any evidence tending to criminate himself.

12. [Cf. Ss. 6 to 8, Old Act.] (1) The Provincial Government may appoint such registered medical practitioners as it thinks fit to be certifying surgeons for the purposes of this Act within such local limits as it may assign to them respectively.

(2) A certifying surgeon may authorise any registered medical practitioner to exercise any of his powers under this Act:

Provided that a certificate of fitness for employment granted by such authorized practitioner shall be valid for a period of three months only, unless it is confirmed by the certifying surgeon himself after examination of the person concerned.

Explanation.—In this section a “registered medical practitioner” means any person registered under the medical Act, 1858, or any subsequent enactment amending it, or under any Act of any legislature in British India providing for the maintenance of a register of medical practitioners, and includes, in any area where no such register is maintained, any person declared by the Provincial Government, by notification in the Official Gazette, to be a registered medical practitioner for the purposes of this section.

Cleanliness. factory shall be kept clean and free from effluvia arising from any drain, privy or other nuisance, and shall be cleansed at such times and by such methods as may be prescribed, and these methods may include lime-washing, or colour-washing, painting, varnishing, disinfecting and deodorising.

14. [Cf. Ss. 9 (c), 10 and 37 (2) (e), Old Act and Ss. 1, 7 and 74, English Act.] (1) Every factory shall be ventilated in accordance with such standards and by such methods as may be prescribed.

(2) Where gas, dust or other impurity is generated in the course of work, adequate measures shall be taken to prevent injury to the health of workers.

(3) If it appears to the Inspector that in any factory gas, dust or other impurity generated in the course of work is being inhaled by the workers to an injurious extent, and that such generation or inhalation could be prevented by the use of mechanical or other devices, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, directing that mechanical or other devices for preventing such generation or inhalation shall be provided before a specified date, and shall thereafter be maintained in good order and used throughout working hours.

(4) The Provincial Government may make rules for any class of factories requiring mechanical or other devices to be provided and maintained for preventing the generation or inhalation of gas, dust or other impurities, which may be injurious to workers and specifying the nature of such devices.

Artificial humidification. 15. [Cf. Ss. 9 (d), 12 and 37 (2) (g), Old Act and Ss. 90-96, English Act.] (1) The Provincial Government may make rules—

(a) prescribing standards for the cooling properties of the air in factories in which the humidity of the air is artificially increased;

(b) regulating the methods used for artificially increasing the humidity of the air; and

(c) directing prescribed tests for determining the humidity and cooling properties of the air to be carried out and recorded.

(2) In any factory in which the humidity of the air is artificially increased, the water used for the purpose shall be taken from a public supply or other source of drinking water, or shall be effectively purified before it is so used.

(3) If it appears to the Inspector that the water used in a factory for increasing humidity which is required to be effectively purified under subsection (2) is not effectively purified, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

16. [Cf. S. 6, English Act.] If it appears to the Chief Inspector or to an Inspector specially authorized in this behalf by the Provincial Government that the cooling properties of the air in any factory are at times insufficient to secure workers against injury ENGLISH LAW.—In textile factories other than cotton factories 600 cubic feet of fresh air per hour per individual are required to be supplied.—St. R. & O. Rev., 1902, Vol. IV.

REASONABLE TEMPERATURE.—This is a question of fact and may vary with the circumstances of the particular case. See Deane v. Barnes, (1901) 65 J.P. 235; Peter v. Plowden, (1903) 67 J.P. 152. In Bennet v. Hardinge, (1900) 2 Q.B. 397, Channel, J., said: “It seems to me that the phrase ‘workers in attendance’ means persons who are in fact on the premises for any substantial period, and I do not think that they are any the less in attendance on the premises because they are there as customers. It does not seem to me that the purpose or object for which they are there affects the matter one way or the other.”

to health or against serious discomfort, and that they can be to a great extent increased by measures which will not involve an amount of expense which is unreasonable in the circumstances, the Chief Inspector may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

17. [Cf. Ss. 1 and 3, English Act and Ss. 9 (b) and 37 (2) (f), Old Act.]

Overcrowding. In order that no room in a factory shall be crowded during working hours to a dangerous extent or to an extent which may be injurious to the health of the workers, the proportion which the number of cubic feet of space in a room and the number of superficial feet of its floor area bears to the number of workers working at any time therein shall not be less than such standards as may be prescribed either generally or for the particular class of work carried on in the room.

Lighting.

18. [Cf. S. 11, Old Act.] (1) A factory shall be sufficiently lighted during all working hours.

(2) If it appears to the Inspector that any factory is not sufficiently lighted, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

(3) The Provincial Government may make rules requiring that all factories of specified classes shall be lighted in accordance with prescribed standards.

(3) In every factory ¹[* * *] a sufficient supply of water suitable for washing shall be provided for the use of workers, at suitable places and with facilities for its use, according to such standards as may be prescribed.

20. [Cf. S. 9, English Act and Ss. 13 and 37 (2) (h), Old Act.] For Latrines and urinals. every factory sufficient latrines and urinals, according to the prescribed standards, shall be provided, for male workers and for female workers separately, of suitable patterns and at convenient places as prescribed, and shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition during all working hours.

21. [Cf. S. 16, English Act and S. 15, Old Act.] In every factory the Doors to open outwards. doors of each room in which more than twenty persons are employed shall, except in the case of sliding doors, be constructed so as to open outwards, or, where the door is between two rooms, in the direction of the nearest exit from the building, and no such door shall be locked or obstructed while any work is being carried on in the room.

SEC. 18: STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—Sub-cl. (1) and (2) reproduce the substance of old sec. 11. In sub-cl. (3) it is proposed to enable the Local Governments to prescribe standards of lighting by rule for particular classes of factories.

The change made by the Select Committee is designed to ensure that drinking water is supplied whether standards are prescribed or not.

Precautions against fire. 22. [Cf. Ss. 16, 17 and 37 (2), Old Act.] In every factory such precautions against fire shall be taken as may be prescribed.

Means of escape. (2) If it appears to the Inspector that any factory is not so provided, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

(3) The means of escape shall not be obstructed while any work is being carried on in the factory.

Fencing. 24. [Cf. S. 10, English Act and S. 18, old Act.] (1) In every factory the following shall be kept adequately fenced, namely:—

LEG. REF.

SECS. 22 AND 23.—The expression “precautions against fire” in sec. 22 of the Factories Act mean precautions against the occurrence or outbreak of fire and would not cover precautions against the consequences of fire. Sec. 23 deals expressly with precautions against the consequences of fire by providing means of escape. Reading the two secs. 22 and 23 together, it is clear that the intention of the legislature was that in the case of precautions against the occurrence of fire, the matter should be dealt with by rules which would govern all factories, but that in dealing with precautions against the consequences of fire, it was recognised that all factories could not be dealt with in like manner, and sec. 23 therefore contains a general provision that provision shall be made for such means of escape as can be reasonably required in the circumstances of each factory, and then leaves it to the Inspector to determine whether such precautions have been taken, and if he thinks that the necessary provisions have not been made, he is given power to serve on the manager of a factory a notice, breach of which would amount to an offence under sec. 60 (a) (iii) of the Factories Act. There is no power under sec. 22 to make general rules covering the subject of means of escape against fire which is dealt with by sec. 23; and sec. 22 is not to be enforced by means of rules. R. 37 of the rules under the Act is therefore ultra vires, as it deals with a matter which does not fall under sec. 22 or under sec. 32, which is the rule making section, but deals with a matter falling under sec. 23 which does not enable rules to be made. Breach of R. 37 is not therefore an offence for which there can be a conviction. I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 92=44 Bom.L.R. 810=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 5.

SEC. 23: ENGLISH LAW—FIRE.—Factories and workshops are to be furnished with a certificate that they are provided with such means of escape in case of fire as can reasonably be required. It is the duty of the district council to ascertain whether factories and workshops are provided with such means of escape from fire and where necessary to require its provision. The County Court has jurisdiction, on application, to apportion the cost of complying with the requirement between the owner and the occupier of the factory or workshop in a just and equitable manner (sec. 14). See Monk v. Arnold, (1902) 1 K.B. 761; Horne v. Franklin, (1904) 2 K.B. 877; (1905) 1 K.B. 479 [Sec. 14, English Factory and Workshop Act (1901)].

SEC. 24: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—Sub-cl. (3) has been expanded so as to apply to any fencing which may be required in pursuance of an order under sec. 26 (1) and to make it clear that fencing may be removed for necessary attention to machinery.

SAFETY PROVISIONS IN ENGLISH LAW.—The Act contains many most valuable provisions for securing the safety of the persons employed and also of the public. Thus, it is provided that in every factory every hoist or tangle and every fly-wheel directly connected with the steam, or water, or other mechanical power, whether in the engine house or not, and every part of any water-wheel or engine worked by such power, must be securely fenced. Every wheel-race not otherwise secured must be securely fenced close to the edge. All dangerous parts of the machinery must either be securely fenced or be in such position or of such construction as to be equally safe to every person as they would be if securely fenced. The fencing is to be maintained in an efficient state. [As to the extent of obligation to fence, see Redgrave v. Lloyd, (1895) 1 Q.B. 876 and Hindle v. Britwistle, (1897) 1 Q.B. 192. See also sec. 10, English Factory and Workshop Act (1901) and Rules.]

The fact that the machinery is so situated that there is little or no danger of accidents happening is no justification for not carrying out the requirements of a statute as to fencing [see Doel v. Shepherd, (1856) 25 L. J. Q.B. 124]; but it is only necessary to keep up the fence when the parts required to be fenced are in motion for some manufacturing process. [Coe v. Platt, (1851) 6 Ex. 252]; but the obligation to fence

- (a) every exposed moving part of a prime mover and every flywheel directly connected to a prime mover;
 (b) every hoist or lift, hoist-well, or lift-well, and every trap-door or similar opening near which any person may have to work or pass; and
 (c) every part of the machinery which the Provincial Government may prescribe.

(2) If it appears to the Inspector that any other part of the machinery in a factory is dangerous if not adequately fenced, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

(3) All fencing required by or under this section or under sub-section (1) of section 26 shall be maintained in an efficient state at all times when the workers have access to the parts required to be fenced except where they are under repair or are under examination in connexion with repair or are necessarily exposed for the purpose of cleaning or lubricating or altering the gearing or arrangements of the machinery.

(4) Such further provisions as may be prescribed shall be made for the protection from danger of persons employed in attending to the machinery in a factory.

25. [Cf. Ss. 17-19, English Act.] If it appears to the Inspector that any building or part of a building, or any part of the ways, machinery or plant in a factory is in such a condition that it may be dangerous to human life or safety, he may serve on the manager of the factory, an order in writing requiring him before a specified date—

(a) to furnish such drawings, specifications and other particulars as may be necessary to determine whether such building, ways, machinery or plant can be used with safety, or

(b) to carry out such tests as may be necessary to determine the strength or quality of any specified parts and to inform the Inspector of the results thereof.

26. [Cf. Ss. 17 to 19, English Act and 18-A, Old Act.] (1) If it appears to the Inspector that any building or part of a building or any part of the ways, machinery or plant in a factory is in such a condition that it is dangerous to machinery is absolute [Watkins v. Naval Colliery Co., (1921) A.C. 693; Purcell v. Talbot (Clement), Ltd., (1914) 79 J.P. 1] and is unaffected by the fact that, with regard to some particular machine, it may be commercially impracticable or mechanically impossible to fence it securely [Davies v. Owen (Thomas) & Co., (1919) 2 K.B. 39. See also Jackson v. Milliner Motor Body & Co., (1911) 1 K.B. 546.]

Moreover, the defence of common employment is not applicable where the injury has been caused by the neglect of the employer to carry out his statutory obligations to fence his machinery [Britton v. G. W. E., 7 Ex. 130] nor where the employer has failed to maintain or repair the fencing for his machinery [Holmes v. Clarke, (1863) 31 L. J. Ex. 356; Groves v. Wimborne (Lord), (1898) 2 Q.B. 402], and in fact that the statute imposes a penalty for omission to fence does not bar an action for damages by the workman. (Ibid.) Sub-sec. (2) includes all machinery in a factory and it is for the Court to say if it is dangerous. [Redgrave v. Lloyd, (1895) 1 Q.B. 876.]

Machinery is dangerous if in the ordinary course of human affairs danger may reasonably be anticipated from the use of it without protection. [Hindle v. Birtwistle, (1897) 1 Q.B. 192.] See Encyclopaedia of the Laws of England, 2nd Ed., Title "Factories."

The numerous provisions in the Procedure Code for service of notices or orders are intended to make it certain that a particular process or an order of the Court is brought to the specific notice of the individual affected. A mere knowledge that proceedings may be instituted or something of that sort is not sufficient to take the place of the imperative directions in the Code as to service on the actual individual. The words in sec. 18 (2) "serve on the Manager an order in writing" mean that such an order as is referred to in Form O should be served definitely on the manager of the factory and that it should specify exactly what measures the manager is to take in order to remove the danger. But a mere note of a visit is not such an order as is contemplated therein. 85 I.C. 226=26 Bom. L.R. 1245=26 Cr.L.J. 482=1925 Bom. 143. human life or safety, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing specifying the measures which in his opinion should be adopted, and requiring them to be carried out before a specified date.

(2) If it appears to the Inspector that the use of any building or part of a building or of any part of the ways, machinery or plant in a factory involves imminent danger to human life or safety, he may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing prohibiting its use until it has been properly repaired or altered.

As to what is cleaning machinery, see Taylor v. Mark, (1911) 1 K.B. 145.

SEC. 28: STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—Sub-cl. (2) reproduces the substance of old sec. 19-A. In sub-cl. (1) it is proposed to give the Local Governments general powers to exclude non-working children with a view to their protection.

ENGLISH LAW.—A child is not allowed to clean, in a factory, any part of any machinery, or any place under any machinery, other than overhead mill-gearing, while it is in motion by the aid of steam, water or other mechanical power. A young person is not allowed to clean any dangerous part of machinery while it is so in motion. Neither a woman nor a young person is allowed to clean mill-gearing machinery when in motion. [Sec. 13, English Factory and Workshop Act, 1901; Pearson v. Belgian Mill Co., (1896) 1 Q.B. 244.] A young person employed in a mill oiled part of the machinery during meal times, contrary to orders and for his own amusement. The occupier of the mill was held to have committed an offence. [Prior v. Slaitheaitte Spinning Co. (1898) 1 Q.B. 881. But see Robinson v. Melville, (1890) 17 R. 62. See also Graves v. Duncan, (1899) 1 F. 72.]

SEC. 29.—The provisions of the section are not fulfilled if there is a door made in a partition between the two portions of the room and that door is shown to be open at a particular time, or even although it is shut, yet it is not locked or other effective means taken to prevent its being opened by a woman or child wishing to get into the press room or prohibited area. 94 I.C. 949=50 B. 34=27 Bom.L.R. 1405=27 Cr.L.J. 165=1926 Bom. 57.

SEC. 30: "PERSONS" INCLUDES PLURAL—SINGLE ACCIDENT—SEVERAL INJURED—FALL-

Notice of certain accidents. an accident occurs which causes death, or which causes any bodily injury whereby any person injured is prevented from resuming his work in the factory during the forty-eight hours after the accident occurred, or which is of any nature which may be prescribed in this behalf, the manager of the factory shall send notice thereof to such authorities, and in such form and within such time, as may be prescribed.

31. [Cf. S. 50, Old Act.] (1) The manager of a factory on whom an order in writing by an Inspector has been served under the provisions of this Chapter, or the occupier of the factory, may, within thirty days of the service of the order, appeal against it to the Provincial Government, or to such authority as the Provincial Government may appoint in this behalf; and the Provincial Government or appointed authority may, subject to rules made in this behalf by the Provincial Government, confirm, modify or reverse the order.

(2) The appellate authority, may, and if so required in the petition or appeal shall, hear the appeal with the aid of assessors, one of whom shall be appointed by the appellate authority and the other by such body representing the industry concerned as the Provincial Government may prescribe in this behalf:

Provided that if no assessor is appointed by such body, or if the assessor so appointed fails to attend at the time and place fixed for hearing the appeal, the appellate authority may, unless satisfied that the failure to attend is due to sufficient cause, proceed to hear the appeal without the aid of such assessor, or, if it thinks fit, without the aid of any assessor.

(3) In the case of an appeal against an order under section 16 the appellate authority shall, and in any other case except an appeal against an order under sub-section (2) of section 26 or sub-section (2) of section 28 the appellate authority may, suspend the order appealed against pending the decision of the appeal, subject however to such conditions as to partial compliance or the adoption of temporary measures as it may choose to impose in any case.

Power of Provincial Government to make rules to supplement this Chapter. 32. The Provincial Government may make rules—

(a) providing for any matter which, according to any of the provisions of this Chapter, is or may be prescribed;

(b) requiring the managers of factories to maintain stores of first-aid appliances and provide for their proper custody;

(c) providing against danger arising from the use of mechanical transport in factories, other than railways subject to the Indian Railways Act, 1890;

(d) prescribing the manner of the service of orders under this Chapter on managers of factories;

(e) regulating the procedure to be followed in presenting and hearing appeals under section 31, and the appointment and remuneration of assessors;

USE TO NOTIFY—SINGLE OFFENCE.—The word "person" includes the plural and consequently where as a result of a single accident more persons than one are injured the accident cannot be split up into as many persons injured and the notice contemplated is single notice of the accident which the manager is required to submit to the authorities and therefore contravention of this rule is one offence which cannot in its turn be split up into as many offences as the number of casualties. 31 Cr.L.J. 869=125 I.C. 380 =1930 Lah. 658. The duty to inform the authority under the Factories Act under sec. 34 is laid on the manager. It is therefore primarily the manager who is to be supposed to have contravened this provision of the Act, but both the occupier and manager are made responsible jointly and severally for this contravention. A.I.R. 1930 Lah. 658.

MANAGER'S ABSENCE FROM DUTY NOT NOTIFIED.—LIABILITY FOR INFRINGEMENT.—Where the person, who is charged with offences under the Factories Act, was absent from his duties as manager at the time when the alleged infringements of the Act took place, he cannot be prosecuted for infringements of the Act which took place during his absence although the absence was not notified to the authorities as required by law, for which non-compliance the occupier could be held liable. 152 I.C. 506=38 C.W.N. 1008 =A.I.R. 1934 Cal. 730.

(f) regulating the exercise by Inspectors of their powers under this Chapter; and

(g) providing for any other matter which may be expedient in order to give effect to the provisions of this Chapter.

33. [Cf. Ss. 73-79, English Act.] (1) The Provincial Government may make rules requiring that in any specified factory, wherein more than one hundred and fifty workers are ordinarily employed, an adequate shelter shall be provided for the use of workers during periods of rest, and such rules may prescribe the standards of such

(2) The Provincial Government may also make rules—

(a) requiring that in any specified factory, wherein more than fifty women workers are ordinarily employed, a suitable room shall be reserved for the use of children under the age of six years belonging to such women, and

(b) prescribing the standards for such rooms and the nature of the supervision to be exercised over the children therein.

(3) The Provincial Government may also make rules, for any class of certificates of stability,— factories and for the whole or any part of the province, requiring that work on a manufacturing process carried on with the aid of power shall not be begun in any building or part of a building erected or taken into use as a factory after the commencement of this Act, until a certificate of stability in the prescribed form, signed by a person possessing the prescribed qualifications, has been sent to the Inspector.

(4) Where the ¹[Provincial Government] is satisfied that any operation in a factory exposes any persons employed upon it to a serious risk of bodily injury, poisoning or disease, he may make rules applicable to any factory or class of factories in which the operation is carried on—

(a) specifying the operation and declaring it to be hazardous,

(b) prohibiting or restricting the employment of women, adolescents or children upon the operation,

(c) providing for the medical examination of persons employed or seeking to be employed upon the operation and prohibiting the employment of persons not certified as fit for such employment, and

(d) providing for the protection of all persons employed upon the operation or in the vicinity of the places where it is carried on.

of the ways enumerated in sec. 2 must be presumed to be employed in the factory. 61 C. 332=35 Cr.L.J. 1401=38 C.W.N. 801=1934 C. 546.

35. [Cf. Old section 22.] (1) No adult worker shall be allowed to work in a factory on a Sunday unless—

(a) he has had or will have a holiday for a whole day on one of the three days immediately before or after that Sunday, and

(b) the manager of the factory has, before that Sunday or the substituted day, whichever is earlier,—

(i) delivered a notice to the office of the Inspector of his intention to require the worker to work on the Sunday and of the day which is to be substituted, and

(ii) displayed a notice to that effect in the factory:

Provided that no substitution shall be made which will result in any worker working for more than ten days consecutively without a holiday for a whole day.

(2) Notices given under sub-section (1) may be cancelled by a notice delivered to the office of the Inspector and a notice displayed in the factory not later than the day before the Sunday or the holiday to be cancelled, whichever is earlier.

(3) where, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1), any worker works on a Sunday and has had a holiday on one of the three days immediately before it, that Sunday shall, for the purpose of calculating his weekly hours of work, be included in the preceding week.

[35-A. (1) Where, as a result of the passing of an order or the making of a rule under the provisions of this Act exempting a factory or the workers therein from the provisions of section 35, a worker is deprived of any of the weekly holidays for which provision is made by sub-section (1) of that section, he shall be allowed, as soon as circumstances permit, compensatory holidays of equal number to the holidays so lost.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing the manner in which the holidays, for which provision is made in sub-section (1), shall be allowed.]¹

36. [Cf. Old section 28.] No adult worker shall be allowed to work in a factory for more than ten hours in any day:

Provided that a male adult worker in a seasonal factory may work for eleven hours in any day.

37. [Cf. Old Act, section 21.] The periods of work of adult workers in a factory during each day shall be fixed either—

(a) so that no period shall exceed six hours, and so that no worker shall work for more than six hours before he has had an interval for rest of at least one hour;

or

(b) so that no period shall exceed five hours and so that no worker shall work for more than five hours before he has had an interval for rest of at least half an hour, or for more than eight and a half hours before he has had at least two such intervals.

SECS. 36 AND 43.—Where an Inspector of Factories approves a system of working a particular factory, he has power under sec. 21 of General Clauses Act to cancel the approval. If an appeal is pending from the order of cancellation it is not desirable to institute a criminal prosecution in respect of the factory having been worked in contravention during the pendency of the appeal. 59 I.C. 857=22 Cr.L.J. 153 (Lah.).

39. [Cf. Old Act, sections 26 and 36.] (1) There shall be displayed and correctly maintained in every factory in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 76 a Notice of Periods for Work for adults and preparation thereof. Notice of Periods for Work for Adults showing clearly the periods within which adult workers may be required to work.

(2) The periods shown in the Notice required by sub-section (1) shall be fixed beforehand in accordance with the following provisions of this section and shall be such that workers working for those periods would not be working in contravention of any of the provisions of sections 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38.

(3) Where all the adult workers in a factory are required to work within the same periods, the manager of the factory shall fix those periods for such workers generally.

(4) Where all the adult workers in a factory are not required to work within the same periods, the manager of the factory shall classify them into groups according to the nature of their work.

(5) For each group which is not required to work on a system of shifts, the manager of the factory shall fix the periods within which the group may be required to work.

(6) Where any group is required to work on a system of shifts and the relays are not to be subject to predetermined periodical changes of shift, the

SEC. 39.—Sec. 39 (1) of the Act and B. 70 require that a notice of periods of work for adults in English and in the language of the majority of the workers shall be affixed at the main entrance of the factory. Displaying an incorrect notice is tantamount to not displaying notice prescribed and would be punishable as a breach of sec. 39 (1) and B. 70. 1942 N.L.J. 518=I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 38=1943 Nag. 79.

OBJECT OF THE SECTION.—The main object of the section is not to ensure that the manager and no one else should fix the hours but that the hours should be fixed and regular hours of employment are to be fixed; they are not to be subject to sudden or casual alteration at any one's discretion or caprice. 58 Bom. 137=35 Cr.L.J. 542=35 Bom.L.R. 1167=1934 Bom. 43.

SCOPE OF SECTION—CHANGING SYSTEM OF "SPECIAL HOURS"—LEGALITY.—A continuously changing system of hours "specified" is something altogether different from what is contemplated by a fixation of special hours. The former course is not permitted by the section. 134 I.C. 881=35 C.W.N. 1108=1931 C. 639.

WORK OUTSIDE FIXED HOURS.—Where men work during a time which is admittedly outside the time fixed for employment of each person employed in the factory, the owner of the factory is guilty under the section. 52 A. 444=31 Cr.L.J. 1220=1930 A.L.J. 459=1930 A. 214.

EXTRA WORK NOT DONE IN OR ABOUT FACTORY—PROHIBITION OF SECTION IF APPLIES.—Where the manager of an ice factory had fixed only 7½ hours a day for employees but it appeared that persons who had finished their work used to take ice to ships in the docks when required. Held, that the extra work was not work done in or about the factory and that it did not fall within the prohibitory provisions of the Act. 134 I.C. 881=35 C.W.N. 1108=1931 C. 639. See also I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 38=1943 Nag. 79 (Displaying incorrect notice—Breach of rules.)

SECS. 39 AND 40.—This is based on sec. 36. In order to prevent the evasion of the Act, it is proposed to provide that changes should be notified to the Inspector before they are made, and that his previous sanction should be required if a change has to be made within a week of the previous change.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—We have re-drafted and re-arranged the provisions contained in cls. 40 and 41 of the Bill (secs. 39 and 40 of this Act) as introduced with a view to expressing more clearly the intention of those clauses. The latter part of sub-cl. (4), cl. 39, formerly sub-cl. (3) of cl. 40, has been omitted as not relevant to the preparation of the notice, and as covered by the provisions of cl. (41).

SECS. 39, 42 AND 60.—Failure to comply with old sec. 36 would not in itself amount to a breach of the provisions of this section or justify the conviction under sec. 60. 58 B. 137=35 Cr.L.J. 542=35 Bom.L.R. 1167=1934 B. 43. A factory which is exempt from the provisions of sec. 37 under the rules framed under sec. 43 (2) (d) cannot be held to be exempt also from the provisions of secs. 39 and 40. Therefore where there is a breach of the provisions of sec. 42 read with sec. 39, the fact that under the rules the factory is exempt from the provisions of manager of the factory shall fix the periods within which each relay of the group may be required to work.

(7) Where any group is to work on a system of shifts and the relays are to be subject to predetermined periodical changes of shifts, the manager of the factory shall draw up a scheme of shifts whereunder the periods within which any relay of the group may be required to work and the relay which will be working at any time of the day shall be known for any day.

(8) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing forms of the Notice of Periods for Work for Adults and the manner in which it shall be maintained.

40. [Cf. Old Act, section 36.] (1) A copy of the Notice referred to in sub-section (1) of section 39 shall be sent in duplicate to the Inspector within fourteen days after the commencement of this Act, or, if the factory begins work after the commencement of this Act, before the day on which it begins work.

(2) Any proposed change in the system of work in a factory which will necessitate a change in the Notice shall be notified to the Inspector in duplicate before the change is made, and except with the previous sanction of the Inspector, no such change shall be made until one week has elapsed since the last change.

41. [Cf. Old Act, sections 35 and 37 (2).] (1) The manager of every factory shall maintain a Register of Adult Workers showing—

- (a) the name of each adult worker in the factory;
- (b) the nature of his work;
- (c) the group, if any, in which he is included;
- (d) where his group works on shifts, the relay to which he is allotted; and
- (e) such other particulars as may be prescribed:

Provided that, if the Inspector is of opinion that any muster roll or register maintained as part of the routine of a factory gives in respect of any or all of the workers in the factory the particulars required under this section he may, by order in writing, direct that such muster roll or register shall to the corresponding extent be maintained in place of and be treated as the Register of Adult Workers in that factory:

Provided further that, where the Provincial Government is satisfied that the conditions of work in any factory or class of factories are such that there is no appreciable risk of contravention of the provisions of this Chapter in the case of that factory or factories of that class, as the case may be, the Provincial Government may, by written order, exempt, on such conditions as it may impose, that factory or all factories of that class, as the case may be, from the provisions of this section.

POWER OF CHANGING WORKING HOURS CANNOT BE EXERCISED BY MANAGER AFTER MILL STARTS WORKING.—The manager and he alone can change the working hours on complying with the conditions stated in old sec. 36 (3) of the Act, but that power of change cannot be exercised by the manager after the mill starts working on the period fixed by him. Any change subsequently made therein could not be covered by the change in the standing orders as contemplated by sec. 36 (3), but would be an unauthorised departure from the fixed period on a particular day. Although the hours fixed on the night in question were 12-30 A.M., to 5-30

A.M., the mills stopped working for about 15 minutes on account of a break-down and the manager extended the closing hour to 5-45 A.M., and issued an order to that effect and informed the workmen and the Inspector of Factories of that change and its reason, held, that the accused must be convicted under old sec. 41 (now sec. 60). 58 Bom. 137=35 Cr.L.J. 542=35 Bom.L.R. 1167=1934 B. 43.

SEC. 41.—The section is mandatory, and it makes the position clear that in the absence of an order by the Inspector, one register in a prescribed form of all persons employed and of the hours and nature of their employments must be kept. It cannot be supplemented by a time-sheet. 152 I.C. 566=38 C.W.N. 1008=1934 C. 730. See also 1942 N.L.J. 518 cited under sec. 60.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing the form of the Register of Adult Workers, the manner in which it shall be maintained and the period for which it shall be preserved.

42. [Cf. section 26.] No adult worker shall be allowed to work otherwise than in accordance with the Notice of Periods for Work for Adults displayed under sub-section (1) of section 39 and the entries made beforehand against his name in the Register of Adult Workers maintained under section 41.

Hours of work to correspond with notice under Section 39 and Register under section 41.

43. [Cf. Old Act, sections 29, 30, 32 and 32-A.] (1) The Provincial Government may make rules defining persons who hold positions of supervision or management or are employed in a confidential position in a factory, and the provision of this Chapter¹ [other than the provisions of clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 45 and the provisos to that sub-section] shall not apply to any person so defined.

Power to make rules exempting from restrictions.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules for adult workers providing for the exemption, to such extent and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed in such rules,—

(a) of workers engaged on urgent repairs—from the provisions of sections, 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38;

(b) of workers engaged in work in the nature of preparatory or complementary work which must necessarily be carried on outside the limits laid down for the general working of the factory—from the provisions of sections, 34, 36, 37 and 38;

(c) of workers engaged in work which is necessarily so intermittent that the intervals during which they do not work while on duty ordinarily amount to more than the intervals for rest required under section 37—from the provisions of sections 34, 36, 37 and 38;

(d) of workers engaged in any work which for technical reasons must be carried on continuously throughout the day—from the provisions of sections 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38;

(e) of workers engaged in making or supplying articles of prime necessity which must be made or supplied every day—from the provisions of section 35;

(f) of workers engaged in a manufacturing process which cannot be carried on except during fixed seasons—from the provisions of section 35;

(g) of workers engaged in a manufacturing process which cannot be

SEC. 42: REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE.—“The prohibition contained in this clause was contained by implication in cl. 60 of the Bill as introduced. We have inserted it explicitly in this new clause, and in cl. 57, the analogous clause relating to children, with a view to the simplification of cl. 60 relating to penalties”. It is no defence to a breach of the provisions of this section, that the factory has been exempted from the provisions of sec. 37 under rules framed under sec. 43 (2) (d). I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 175=38 Cr.L.J. 304=38 Bom.L.R. 1181=A.I.R. 1937 Bom. 52. See also 1938 N.L.J. 217=1938 Nag. 406=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 257.

SEC. 43 (2) (d).—Exemption of a factory from provisions of sec. 37, under rules made under this clause, does not operate as exemption under the provisions of secs. 39 and 40 also. Where, therefore, several hands are found working at a time shown as period of rest in the notice displayed under sec. 39 (1), there is clear breach of terms of sec. 42, and an offence under sec. 60 (b) (4) is committed. Exemption from provisions of sec. 37 is no valid defence. I.L.R. 1937 Bom. 175=38 Bom.L.R. 1181=38 Cr.L.J. 304=1937 Bom. 52. The provisions of R. 112 (c) (5) (1) and R. 112 (c) (5) (4) are not alternative in the sense that if the provisions of sub-R. 5 (4) are observed it is not necessary to observe the requirements of sub-R. 5 (1) of R. 112 (c) of Bihar and Orissa Factory Rules framed under sec. 43 of the Factories Act. The word “or” occurring between one sub-clause and another in R. 112 (c) cannot be interpreted in such a way as to make the sub-rules alternative. 1938 P.W.N. 903=40 Cr.L.J. 160=A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 163.

(h) of workers engaged in engine-rooms or boiler-houses—from the provisions of section 35.

(3) Rules made under sub-section (2) providing for any exemption may also provide for any consequential exemption from the provisions of sections 39 and 40 which the Provincial Government may deem to be expedient, subject to such conditions as it may impose.

(4) In making rules under this section the Provincial Government shall prescribe the maximum limits for the weekly hours of work for all classes of workers, and any exemption given, other than an exemption under clause (a) of sub-section (2), shall be subject to such limits.

(5) Rules made under this section shall remain in force for not more than three years.

is satisfied that, owing to the nature of the work carried on or to other circumstances, it is unreasonable to require that the periods of work of any adult workers in any factory or class of factories should be fixed beforehand, it may, by written order, relax or modify the provisions of sections 39 and 40 in respect of such workers to such extent and in such manner as it may think fit, and subject to such conditions as it may deem expedient to ensure control over periods of work.

(2) The Provincial Government, or subject to the control of the Provincial Government the Chief Inspector, may, by written order, exempt, on such conditions as it or he may deem expedient, any or all of the adult workers in any factory, or group or class of factories, from any or all of the provisions of sections 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39 and 40, on the ground that the exemption is required to enable the factory or factories to deal with an exceptional press of work.

(3) Any exemption given under sub-section (2) in respect of weekly hours of work shall be subject to the maximum limits prescribed under sub-section (4) of section 43.

(4) An order under sub-section (2) shall remain in force for such period as it may specify, but in no case for more than two months from the date on which notice thereof is given to the manager of the factory.

Further restrictions on the employment of women.

(1) The provisions of this Chapter shall, in their application to women workers in factories, be supplemented by the following further restrictions, namely:—

(a) no exemption from the provisions of section 36 may be granted in respect of any women; and

(b) no women shall be allowed to work in a factory except between 6 A.M. and 7 P.M.:

Provided that the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, in respect of any class or classes of factories and for the whole year or any part of it, vary the limits laid down in clause (b) to any span of thirteen hours between 5 A.M. and 7-30 P.M.:

SECS. 45 AND 54: TEMPORARY AMENDMENT OF SECS. 45 AND 54 ACT XXV OF 1934.—Until the termination of the hostilities in being at the commencement of this Act the first proviso to sub-sec. (1) of sec. 45 and the proviso to sub-sec. (3) of sec. 54 of the said Act shall have effect as if for the figures and letters "7-30 P.M." the figures and letters "8-30 P.M." had been substituted. (Act XIV of 1944, sec. 5.)

SEC. 45: GINNING FACTORIES.—All that the law authorises the Inspector to do in the case of a ginning factory is to express his opinion and not to issue orders. The Inspector has no right to issue a general prohibition against the employment of women at night without going into the question whether the staff is sufficient. 61 I.C. 225=19 A.L.J. 503=22 Cr.L.J. 369=1921 All. 229.

Provided further that, in respect of any seasonal factory or class of seasonal factories in a specified area, the Provincial Government may make rules imposing a further restriction by defining the period or periods of the day within which women may be allowed to work, such that the period or periods so defined shall lie within the span fixed by clause (b) or under the above proviso and shall not be less than ten hours in the aggregate.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules providing for the exemption from the above restrictions, to such extent and subject to such conditions as it may prescribe, of women working in fish-curing or fish-canning factories where the employment of women beyond the said hours is necessary to prevent damage to or deterioration in any raw material.

Provided that the Provincial Government may, by order in writing, direct that in the case of any specified factory or any specified class of workers therein the ensuing day shall be deemed to be the period of twenty-four hours beginning when such shift begins and that the hours worked before midnight shall be counted towards the ensuing day.

47. [Cf. Old Act, section 31.] (1) Where a worker in any factory works for more than sixty hours in any week, or where a worker in a factory other than a seasonal factory works for more than ten hours in any day, he shall be entitled in respect of the overtime worked to pay at the rate of one-and-a-half times his ordinary rate of pay.

(2) Where a worker in a factory other than a seasonal factory works for more hours in any week than are permitted under section 34, he shall be entitled, in respect of the overtime worked excluding any overtime in respect of which he is entitled to extra pay under sub-section (1), to pay at the rate of one-and-a-quarter times his ordinary rate of pay.

(3) Where any workers are paid on a piece rate basis, the Provincial Government in consultation with the industry concerned may, for the purposes of this section, fix time rates as nearly as possible equivalent to the average rate of earnings of those workers, and the rates so fixed shall be deemed to be the ordinary rates of pay of those workers for the purposes of this section.

(4) The Provincial Government may prescribe the registers that shall be maintained in a factory for the purpose of securing compliance with the provisions of this section.

48. No adult worker shall be allowed to work in any factory on any day on which he has already been working in any other factory, save in such circumstances as may be prescribed.

(a) a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as a child, if he is satisfied that such person has completed his twelfth year, that he has attained the prescribed physical standards (if any), and that he is fit for such work; or

(b) a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, if he is satisfied that such person has completed his fifteenth year and is fit for a full day's work in a factory.

(3) A certifying surgeon may revoke any certificate granted under subsection (2) if, in his opinion, the holder of it is no longer fit to work in the capacity stated therein in a factory.

(4) Where a certifying surgeon or a practitioner authorized under subsection (2) of section 12 refuses to grant a certificate or a certificate of the kind requested, or revokes a certificate, he shall, if so requested by any person

SEC. 52: MADRAS AMENDMENT.—For sub-sec. (1) of sec. 52 of the Factories Act, 1934, the following sub-section shall be substituted namely:—“(1) A certifying surgeon shall on the application of any young person or his parent or guardian accompanied by a document signed by the manager of a factory that such person will be employed therein if certified to be fit for work in a factory, or on the application of the manager of the factory in which any young person wishes to work, examine such person and ascertain his fitness for work in a factory.” (Madras Act VI of 1941).

53. [Cf. Ss. 63-67, Eng. Act.] (1) An adolescent who has been granted a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 52, and who, while at work in a factory, carries a token giving reference to the certificate, shall be deemed to be an adult for all the purposes of Chapter IV.

(2) An adolescent who has not been granted a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, under sub-section (2) of section 52, shall, notwithstanding his age, be deemed to be a child for the purposes of this Act.

54. [Vide Old S. 23 (b), S. 1 (2) and S. 25 also Ss. 23-30 of the Eng. Act.] (1) No child shall be allowed to work in a factory for more than five hours in any day.

(3) No child shall be allowed to work in a factory except between 6 A.M. and 7 P.M.:

Provided that the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, in respect of any class or classes of factories and for the whole year or any part of it, vary these limits to any span of thirteen hours between 5 A.M. and 7-30 P.M.

(4) The provisions of section 35 shall apply also to child workers, but no exemption from the provisions of that section may be granted in respect of any child.

(5) No child shall be allowed to work in any factory on any day on which he has already been working in another factory.

55. [Cf. S. 32, Eng. Act.] (1) There shall be displayed and correctly maintained in every factory, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 76, a Notice of Periods for Work for Children, showing clearly the periods within which children may be required to work.

(2) The periods shown in the Notice required by sub-section (1) shall be fixed beforehand in accordance with the method laid down for adults in section 39 and shall be such that children working for those periods would not be working in contravention of section 54.

(3) The provisions of section 40 shall apply also to the Notice of Periods for Work for Children.

(4) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing forms for the Notice of Periods for Work for Children and the manner in which it shall be maintained.

56. [Cf. Ss. 39-41 supra.] (1) The manager of every factory in which children are employed shall maintain a Register of Child Workers showing—

- (a) the name of each child worker in the factory,
- (b) the nature of his work,
- (c) the group, if any, in which he is included,
- (d) where his group works on shifts, the relay to which he is allotted,
- (e) the number of his certificate of fitness granted under section 52, and
- (f) such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing the form of the Register of Child Workers, the manner in which it shall be maintained, and the period for which it shall be preserved.

showing such particulars as may be prescribed and requiring such registers to be made available for examination by Inspectors.

(3) The Central Government may give directions to a Province as to the carrying into execution of the provisions of this section.

49-G. Where the Provincial Government is satisfied that the leave rules applicable to workers in a factory provide benefits substantially similar to those for which this Chapter makes provision, it may, by written order, exempt the factory from the provisions of this Chapter.] (Chapter IV-A, sections 49-A to 49-G, inserted by Act III of 1945.)

CHAPTER V.

(2) The certifying surgeon, after examination, may grant to such person, in the prescribed form,—

(a) a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as a child, if he is satisfied that such person has completed his twelfth year, that he has attained the prescribed physical standards (if any), and that he is fit for such work; or

(b) a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, if he is satisfied that such person has completed his fifteenth year and is fit for a full day's work in a factory.

(3) A certifying surgeon may revoke any certificate granted under sub-section (2) if, in his opinion, the holder of it is no longer fit to work in the capacity stated therein in a factory.

(4) Where a certifying surgeon or a practitioner authorized under sub-section (2) of section 12 refuses to grant a certificate or a certificate of the kind requested, or revokes a certificate, he shall, if so requested by any person

SEC. 52: MADRAS AMENDMENT.—For sub-sec. (1) of sec. 52 of the Factories Act, 1934, the following sub-section shall be substituted namely:—“(1) A certifying surgeon shall on the application of any young person or his parent or guardian accompanied by a document signed by the manager of a factory that such person will be employed therein if certified to be fit for work in a factory, or on the application of the manager of the factory in which any young person wishes to work, examine such person and ascertain his fitness for work in a factory.” (Madras Act VI of 1941).

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—The changes in sub-cls. (2) and (3) are designed to make it clear that the certificates relate to factory work generally and not to work in a particular factory. Even in the case of a child of fourteen there is need for a certificate. 31 Bom.L.R. 544=30 Cr.L.J. 793=1929 Bom. 272. who could have applied for the certificate, state his reasons in writing for so doing.

53. [Cf. Ss. 63-67, Eng. Act.] (1) An adolescent who has been granted a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, under clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 52, and who, while at work in a factory, carries a token giving reference to the certificate, shall be deemed to be an adult for all the purposes of Chapter IV.

(2) An adolescent who has not been granted a certificate of fitness to work in a factory as an adult, under sub-section (2) of section 52, shall, notwithstanding his age, be deemed to be a child for the purposes of this Act.

54. [Vide Old S. 23 (b), S. 1 (2) and S. 25 also Ss. 23-30 of the Eng. Act.] (1) No child shall be allowed to work in a factory for more than five hours in any day.

(2) The hours of work of a child shall be so arranged that they shall not spread over more than seven-and-a-half hours in any day.

(3) No child shall be allowed to work in a factory except between 6 A.M. and 7 P.M.:

Provided that the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, in respect of any class or classes of factories and for the whole year or any part of it, vary these limits to any span of thirteen hours between 5 A.M. and 7-30 P.M.

(4) The provisions of section 35 shall apply also to child workers, but no exemption from the provisions of that section may be granted in respect of any child.

(5) No child shall be allowed to work in any factory on any day on which he has already been working in another factory.

55. [Cf. S. 32, Eng. Act.] (1) There shall be displayed and correctly maintained in every factory, in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 76, a Notice of Periods for Work for Children, showing clearly the periods within which children may be required to work.

(2) The periods shown in the Notice required by sub-section (1) shall be fixed beforehand in accordance with the method laid down for adults in section 39 and shall be such that children working for those periods would not be working in contravention of section 54.

(3) The provisions of section 40 shall apply also to the Notice of Periods for Work for Children.

(4) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing forms for the Notice of Periods for Work for Children and the manner in which it shall be maintained.

56. [Cf. Ss. 39-41 supra.] (1) The manager of every factory in which children are employed shall maintain a Register of Child Workers showing—

- (a) the name of each child worker in the factory,
- (b) the nature of his work,
- (c) the group, if any, in which he is included,
- (d) where his group works on shifts, the relay to which he is allotted,
- (e) the number of his certificate of fitness granted under section 52, and
- (f) such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules prescribing the form of the Register of Child Workers, the manner in which it shall be maintained, and the period for which it shall be preserved.

57. [Cf. S. 32, Eng. Act.] No child shall be allowed to work otherwise than in accordance with the notice of Periods for Work for Children displayed under sub-section (1) of section 55 and the entries made beforehand against his name in the Register of Child Workers maintained under sub-section (1) of section 56.

Hours of work to correspond with Notice and Register.

Power to require medical examination.

58. [Vide S. 8-A of the Old Act.] Where an Inspector is of opinion—

(a) that any person working in a factory without a certificate of fitness is a child or an adolescent, or

(b) that a child or adolescent working in a factory with a certificate is no longer fit to work in the capacity stated therein, he may serve on the manager of the factory a notice requiring that such person, or that such child or adolescent, as the case may be, shall be examined by a certifying surgeon or by a practitioner authorised under sub-section (2) of section 12, and such person, child or adolescent shall not, if the Inspector so directs, be allowed to work in any factory until he has been so examined and has been granted a certificate of fitness or a fresh certificate of fitness, as the case may be.

Power to make rules.

59. [Cf. S. 126, Eng. Act.] The Provincial Government may make rules—

(a) prescribing the forms of certificates of fitness to be granted under section 52, providing for the grant of duplicates in the event of loss of the original certificates, and fixing the fees which may be charged for such certificates and such duplicates;

(b) prescribing the physical standards to be attained by children and adolescents;

(c) regulating the procedure of certifying surgeons under this Chapter, and specifying other duties which they may be required to perform in connexion with the employment of children and adolescents in factories; and

(d) providing for any other matter which may be expedient in order to give effect to the provisions of this Chapter.

¹CHAPTER V-A.

SMALL FACTORIES.

59-A. (1) In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context, "small factory" means any premises including the precincts thereof whereon ten or more but less than twenty workers are working or were working on any day of the preceding six months, and in any part of which a manufacturing process is being carried on with the aid of power, or is ordinarily so carried on, but does not include a mine subject to the operation of the Indian Mines Act, 1923:

Provided that the Provincial Government may by notification in the Official Gazette, declare any premises to be a small factory, notwithstanding that less than ten workers are working thereon, if such premises would otherwise be a small factory.

(2) For the purposes of this Chapter an adolescent holding a certificate granted under this Act to work as an adult shall be deemed to be an adult.

59-B. (1) All the provisions of this Act, except clause (j) of section 2, sections 4, 5, 6 and 7, sub-sections (1) and (4) of section 14, sections 15, 21, 22 and 25, sub-sections (1), (2) and (3) of section 33 and Chapter IV shall apply to, and in relation to, all small factories wherein any worker who is not, or is not deemed to be, an adult is employed; and in the provisions hereby made so applicable every reference to a factory shall be deemed to include, so far as may be, a reference to a small factory.

(2) The aforesaid provisions shall cease to apply to a small factory on the expiry of six months from the receipt by the Inspector of a notice in writing from the occupier that he has ceased to employ therein any worker who is not, or is not deemed to be, an adult, unless any such worker is employed therein on any day of the said six months:

Provided that if any such worker is thereafter employed in the small factory, the said provisions of this Act shall again apply thereto.

Certain other provisions of law not barred.

59-C. The provisions of this Chapter shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, the provisions of the Employment of Children Act, 1938.

CHAPTER VI.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

Penalty for contraventions of Act and rules.

60. [Cf. Ss. 135-138, Eng. Act and Ss. 41 to 44-A of the old Act.] If in any factory—

- (a) there is any contravention—
 - (i) of any of the provisions of sections 13 to 29 inclusive, or
 - (ii) of any order made under any of the said sections, or
 - (iii) of any of the said sections read with rules made in pursuance thereof under clause (a) of section 32, or
 - (iv) of any rule made under any of the said sections or under clause (b), clause (c), or clause (g) of section 32 or section 33, or

SECS. 60 TO 69.—These embody with the necessary consequential additions, secs. 41 to 44-A of the Old Act. Sec. 43-A which provided for the grant of compensation to injured workers out of fines has been omitted, as adequate provision has been made by the Workmen's Compensation Act. (Objects and Reasons).

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have re-cast in a more succinct form the list of offences contained in the clause. We have also provided both here and in cl. 65 that where the manager and occupier were held jointly responsible for the breach of the law, the combined penalty shall not be in excess of the maximum penalty that might be inflicted on either of them.”

SEC. 60: CONSTRUCTION OF SECTION.—The section is a penal one, it ought to be construed strictly. The occupier and manager both or either of them can be required to pay a fine which may extend to Rs. 200 (now Rs. 500) but between the two they cannot be required to pay any sum exceeding that limit for each offence. (45 Bom. 220=1921 Bom. 322). See now the change in the present Code explained in the Report of the Select Committee. See also sec. 65 infra. Factory Acts should be properly enforced for protection of workmen, but on the other hand one must also bear in mind that the employer's position has to be considered too. It may be that without any negligence on their part defects will exist in their factories, but if they are to be proceeded against in a Criminal Court for alleged negligence, then it would seem only fair that the matter should be clearly brought home to them. 26 Bom.L.R. 1245=26 Cr.L.J. 482=1925 Bom. 143. The Act is a special Act, and the absence of definite evidence to show that a boy seven or eight years old, was employed or allowed to work in contravention of the provisions of the Act, a conviction under the Act is illegal. 49 I.C. 860=20 Cr.L.J. 236=17 A.L.J. 223.

LIABILITY OF MANAGER AND OCCUPIER JOINT AND SEVERAL.—The Act provides that both the occupier and manager shall be jointly and severally liable to fine for any of the offences committed under the Act. This joint and several fine imposed on both the occupier and manager is irrespective of the fact as to which of the two had committed the offence. The duty to inform the authority under the Act is laid on the manager. It is therefore primarily the manager who is to be supposed to have contravened his provision of the Act, but both the occupier and manager are made responsible jointly and severally for this contravention. 31 Cr. L.J. 869 (2)=125 I.C. 380 (2)=1930 Lah. 658. See also 55 Bom. 366=32 Cr.L.J. 1063=33 Bom.L.R. 309. See also Report of Select Committee. The word “occupier” denotes a person who is either a proprietor or otherwise entitled to be in possession of the factory and control its working. He may or may not actually occupy the building and even if he carries on the work through an agent he does not cease to be the occupier. He cannot therefore be any one who is a mere servant charged with specific duties either in regard to the control of the machinery, workmen or office. A mukaddam is really a foreman of the operatives and a servant of the factory. He is neither a managing agent nor a person authorised to represent the occupier. He cannot therefore be regarded as an occupier or manager. He

- (v) of any condition imposed under sub-section (3) of section 31, or
 (b) any person is allowed to work in contravention—
 (i) of any of the provisions of sections 34 to 38 inclusive, 42, 45 and 48,

or

cannot be tried jointly with the manager for an offence under sec. 41 (a) of the old Act, but can be tried under sec. 42 (1) on the complaint of the manager. 34 Cr.L.J. 831 = 29 Nag.L.R. 72 = 1932 Nag. 100. If more than one person is unlawfully employed the manager and agent are liable for as many offences as there are persons so employed. 45 Bom. 220 = 1921 Bom. 322. The owners and occupiers of a factory cannot relieve themselves of their responsibilities regarding compliance with the requirements of the Factories Act by appointing a manager; they must see that the manager carries out his duties. It is only when the manager has acted in express disobedience of their order and they have done their best to see that the provisions of the Act are complied with, that they can themselves escape liability. Sec. 60 makes it clear that both the manager and occupier are liable. A manager is not a 'managing agent' within the meaning of that expression as used in the proviso to the definition of 'occupier' and hence cannot be deemed to be the occupier of the factory. The fact that the "occupiers" were ignorant persons who trusted to the knowledge and good sense of their manager may be a ground for awarding a smaller punishment but not for acquitting them. 55 L.W. 253 = A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 347 (1) = (1942) 1 M. L.J. 104. See also 44 Bom.L.R. 810 = 1943 Bom. 5 (Beach of Rule 37—Offence.)

OMITTING TO FENCE ENGINE WITHIN PREMISES.—The manager of the concern is liable to be prosecuted for not properly fencing the engine found in the premises. 31 Cr.L.J. 1094 = 32 Bom.L.R. 329 = 1930 Bom. 163.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Where the manager is prosecuted under sec. 60 (b) (i) read with sec. 42 for allowing work to be done beyond the prescribed period, it is no defence to plead that the accused acted in good faith honestly believing in the clock in the factory to be correct and that he is protected by sec. 81. It is enough in a prosecution under the Act to prove that the accused has infringed the Act or rules under the Act and it is not necessary to show that accused intended to infringe the Act or the rules. 1938 N.L.J. 217 = A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 406. See also L.L.R. (1940) Nag. 257. It is not necessary that an order or notice from the Inspector of Factories should be issued to a person, who has not conformed to the rules made under the Act, before he can be charged for any offence under it. It is the duty of such person to obey the rules, and in case of his disobedience, he becomes liable to conviction whether there was any order or not from the Inspector, calling upon him to obey the rules. 12 Bom.L.R. 225. See also L.B.R. (1893-1900) 407. Management acting in good faith—Launching of prosecution as test case—propriety of.

Where the authorities themselves are doubtful about the applicability of certain provisions of the Act, but the management act reasonably and shows a genuine desire to meet any complaint and to rectify irregularities, and there is no absence of good faith, the launching of a test case in respect of trial and technical infringements of the provisions of the Act is uncalled for. 152 I.C. 566 = 38 C.W.N. 1008 = 1934 Cal. 730. Penalties in cases against factory owners who are exploiting labour must be deterrent, especially in view of the fact that detection is frequently avoided. 19 N.L.J. 247.

SECS. 60 (b) AND 81.—Where acting on the assurance of the authorities concerned a factory doing urgent military orders works overtime fully believing that the necessary exemption would be given, the manager and occupier of the factory cannot be convicted of an offence under sec. 60 (b) (i) of the Factories Act. The case is covered by sec. 81, as there was no deliberate breach of the rules. 1943 Oudh 308 = 1943 O.W.N. 171.

SECS. 60 (c) AND 71.—Where in a factory there was a delay of a few minutes in posting the attendance register though the occupier had appointed a well-paid and efficient manager and there was no deliberate breach of the rule it was held there could be no conviction under sec. 60 (c) and that the occupier was entitled to the benefit of sec. 71. 19 Luck. 251; 1943 Oudh 311 = 1943 O. W.N. 174.

SECS. 60 (c), 63 AND 41 AND R. 71.—There is nothing in sec. 41 (2) as to the availability of the register of adult workers for inspection. Failure to produce the register on demand would be a breach of secs. 11 and 63 but it would not be a breach of any rule made under sec. 41 (2) since the availability of the register cannot possibly be brought within the words "the manner in which it shall be maintained" occurring in sec. 41 (2). The words in R. 71 "the register shall always be kept available during working hours for immediate inspection" are thus not ultra vires of the Act but these words are ultra vires of any rule made under sec. 41. Consequently the owner and occupier of the factory who was not present himself and from whom no demand for the production of the register was made cannot be made liable under sec. 60 (c) of the Act which relates to secs. 39, 40, 41, 44 & 47 only. The breach in question is one punishable under sec. 63 of the Act which deals with wilful obstruction of an Inspector or failure to produce on demand any register in the custody of the person from whom the demand for inspection is made. The correct person to prosecute is not the owner but the person from whom the demand is made. 1942 N.L.J. 518 = 1943 Nag. 79 = I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 38.

(ii) of any rule made under any of the said sections, or under section 49, or

(iii) of any condition attached to any exemption granted under section 43 or section 44 or section 45 or to any permission granted under section 38 or section 49, or

(c) there is any contravention of any of the provisions of sections 39 to 41 inclusive or of any rule made under section 39, section 41 or section 47, or of any condition attached to any exemption granted under section 41 or to any modification or relaxation made under section 44, or

(d) any person is not paid any extra pay to which he is entitled under the provisions of section 47, or

(e) any adolescent or child is allowed to work in contravention of any of the provisions of sections 50, 51, 54, 55, 57 and 58 or

(f) there is any contravention of section 55 or section 56 or of any rules made under either of these sections, or under clause (d) of section 59, the manager and occupier of the factory shall each be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees :

Provided that if both the manager and the occupier are convicted, the aggregate of the fines inflicted in respect of the same contravention shall not exceed this amount, ¹[or

(g) there is any contravention of section 49-B, 49-C or 49-D, or of any rule made under section 49-F.]

61. [Cf. S. 45 of the old Act and S. 143, Eng. Act.] If any person who has been convicted of any offence punishable under clauses (b) to [(g)]² inclusive of section 60 is again guilty of an offence involving a contravention of the same provision, he shall be punishable on the second conviction with fine which may extend to seven hundred and fifty rupees and shall not be less than one hundred rupees, and if he is again so guilty, shall be punishable on the third or any subsequent conviction with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and shall not be less than two hundred and fifty rupees :

Provided that for the purposes of this section no cognizance shall be taken of any conviction made more than two years before the commission of the offence which is being punished.

Provided further that the Court, if it is satisfied that there are exceptional circumstances warranting such a course, may, after recording its reasons in writing, impose a smaller fine than is required by this section.

Penalty for failure to give notice of commencement of work or of change of manager.

62. An occupier of factory who fails to give any notice required by sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 9 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

SEC. 61: STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.—This follows a recommendation of the Labour Commission and is designed to secure in suitable cases adequate penalties in the case of repeated offences.

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—We have provided for a gradual increase of the penalty in the case of repeated offences, and we have limited the operation of the whole clause to offences relating to the provisions of Chapters IV and V, and it is only in respect of such offences that the need of such a provision has been felt.

63. [Cf. S. 43, Old Act.] Whoever wilfully obstructs an Inspector in the exercise of any power under section 11, or fails to produce on demand by an Inspector any registers or other documents in his custody kept in pursuance of this Act or of any of the rules made thereunder, or conceals or prevents any worker in a factory from appearing before or being examined by an Inspector, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

64. [Cf. S. 41 (j), Old Act.] A manager of a factory who fails to give notice of an accident as required under section 30 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

65. [Cf. S. 41, Old Act.] If in respect of any factory any return is not furnished as required under section 77, the manager and the occupier of the factory shall each be liable to fine which may extend to five hundred rupees:

Provided that if both the manager and the occupier are convicted, the aggregate of the fines inflicted shall not exceed this amount.

66. [S. 43, Old Act.] Whoever smokes, or uses a naked light or causes or permits any such light to be used in the vicinity of any inflammable material in a factory shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Exception.—This provision does not extend to the use, in accordance with such precautions as may be prescribed, of a naked light in the course of a manufacturing process.

67. [Cf. S. 139, Eng. Act and S. 44, Old Act.] Whoever knowingly uses or attempts to use, as a certificate granted to himself under section 52, a certificate granted to another person under that section, or who, having procured such a certificate, knowingly allows it to be used, or an attempt to use it to be made by another person, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees.

SEC. 63.—No sort of vicarious responsibility is recognized by this Act in respect of offences referred to in this section. Where the Assistant Manager failed to produce register on demand by the Inspector, alleging that the same was with the Manager who had left the office, the Manager cannot be convicted under this section even if he was really hiding himself in the factory in order to avoid meeting the Inspector. 41 C.W.N. 740.

SEC. 64.—See 1930 L. 658; L.B.R. (1893-1900) 407 cited under sec. 70 infra.

SEC. 65: LIABILITY OF OCCUPIER AND MANAGER.—Liability of the occupier and manager of a factory to be sentenced for an offence under sec. 41 is joint and several. Where, therefore, both are tried jointly for an offence under the section they cannot each be sentenced to the maximum penalty provided by the section but their joint liability to pay fine should not exceed the maximum. 21 Cr.L.J. 728=59 I.C. 152=45 B. 220=22 Bom.L.R. 904. See also 10 Bom.L.R. 38=7

Cr.L.J. 44. See also notes under sec. 60 supra.

CASE-LAW UNDER THE OLD ACT.—Separate sentences of fine on the occupier and manager in one trial under sec. 41 of the Act are illegal. An occupier is the controller for the time being of factory and may be either an owner of a lessee or a mortgagee with possession. The manager merely carries out the occupier's orders to work the factory. If there is no manager, the occupier himself is deemed to be the manager (Le Rossignol, J.). 13 P.R. (Cr.) 1918=45 I.C. 159=19 Cr.L.J. 495. The manager of a mill who employs a number of workmen to work in his mill after 7 p.m., is liable to be convicted and sentenced separately in respect of each such workman under the provisions of sec. 41 (a) read with sec. 29 (i) of the Factories Act (Shah and Hayward, J.J.). 53 I.C. 935=20 Cr.L.J. 837=21 Bom.L.R. 1059. See also 44 B. 88. On this section see also 45 B. 220=1921 B. 322 cited under sec. 60 supra.

which he has already been working in another factory, the parent or guardian of the child or the person having custody of or control over him, or obtaining any direct benefit from his wages, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees, unless it appears to the Court that the child so worked without the consent, connivance or wilful default of such parent, guardian or person.

the notice required under sub-section (1) of section 76 or by any rule made under this Act, or to display or maintain any such notice as required by sub-section (2) of that section, shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

70. [Vide Ss. 140 and 141, Eng. Act.] (1) Where the occupier of a factory is a firm or other association of individuals, any one of the individual partners or members thereof may be prosecuted and punished under this Chapter for any offence for which the occupier of the factory is punishable:

Provided that the firm or association may give notice to the Inspector that it has nominated one of its number who is resident in British India to be the occupier of the factory for the purposes of this Chapter, and such individual shall so long as he is so resident be deemed to be the occupier for the purposes of this Chapter until further notice cancelling his nomination is received by the Inspector or until he ceases to be a partner or member of the firm or association.

(2) Where the occupier of a factory is a company, any one of the directors thereof, or, in the case of a private company, any one of the shareholders thereof, may be prosecuted and punished under this Chapter for any offence for which the occupier of the factory is punishable:

SEC. 70: WHO IS OCCUPIER—LIABILITY OF OCCUPIER—OLD CASES.—The term "occupier" generally means a person who controls the factory or workshop and the work that is done there, and includes the owner of the factory. 15 Bom.L.R. 328=20 I.C. 144=14 Cr.L.J. 384. The word 'occupier' denotes a person who is either a proprietor or otherwise entitled to be in possession of the factory and control its working. He may or may not actually occupy the building and even if he carries on the work through an agent he does not cease to be the occupier. He cannot therefore be any one who is a mere servant charged with specific duties either in regard to the control of the machinery, workmen, or office. A mukaddam is really a foreman of the operatives and a servant of the factory. He is neither a managing agent nor a person authorised to represent the occupier. He cannot therefore be regarded as an occupier or manager. He cannot be tried jointly with the manager for an offence under sec. 41 (a) of the Old Act but cannot be tried under sec. 42 (i) on the complaint of the manager. 144 I.C. 693=34 Cr.L.J. 821=1933 N. 100. The word "occupier" in general means a person who occupies the factory either by himself or his agent. He may be an owner, he may be a lessee or even a mere licensee but he must have the right to occupy the property and dictate how it is to be managed. 55 Bom. 366=32 Cr.L.J. 1063 (i)=33 Bom.L.R. 309=1931 B. 308. Even if the accused, who is the owner of a factory shows that he knows nothing about the management of the factory and that he has left the whole conduct of its affairs to a manager appointed by him for the purpose, he is not free from the liability imposed on him by sec. 41 (a) of the Old Act. (Ibid.) Several persons may at the same time be occupiers of premises within the meaning of the Act for different purposes. Wearings v. Kirk, (1904) 1 K.B. 213 (O.A.). Per Mathew, L.J., at p. 217. The proprietor of a factory who lives for the greater part of the year in a house on the factory premises is an occupier for the purposes of the Act. Rat. 901. But see 29 B. 423; 7 Bom.L.R. 454 (contra). The provisions of Factories Act throw upon the occupier the responsibility of keeping the register. The responsibility is personal; and he cannot get rid of it by saying that he had delegated the duty to another person. 11 Bom.L.R. 12=9 Cr.L.J. 160=1 I.C. 102. The mere fact that a Municipality and the Factory were jointly responsible to keep a factory in a cleanly state will not discharge the occupier from his liability under Factories Act. The provision of Old sec. 17 is of a highly penal character and must be construed strictly in favour of the accused; 25

(a) that the occupier or manager of the factory has used all due diligence to enforce the execution of this Act, and

(b) by what person the offence has been committed, and

(c) that it has been committed without the knowledge, consent or connivance of the occupier or manager, and in contravention of his orders, the Inspector shall proceed against the person whom he believes to be the actual offender without first proceeding against the occupier or manager of the factory, and such person shall be liable to the like fine as if he were the occupier or manager.

72. [Cf. S. 46, Old Act.] If a child over the age of six years is found inside any part of a factory in which children are working, he shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to be working in the factory.

Presumption as to employment.

73. [Cf. S. 147, Eng. Act and S. 47, Old Act.] (1) When an act or omission would, if a person were under or over a certain age, be an offence punishable under this Act, and such person is in the opinion of the Court apparently under or over such age, the burden shall be on the accused to prove that such person is not under or over such age.

Evidence as to age.

(2) A declaration in writing by a certifying surgeon relating to a worker that he has personally examined him and believes him to be under or over the age set forth in such declaration shall, for the purposes of this Act, be admissible as evidence of the age of that worker.

74. [Cf. S. 48, Old Act.] (1) No prosecution under this Act, except a prosecution under section 66, shall be instituted except by or with the previous sanction of the Inspector.

Cognizance of offences.

(2) No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or of a Magistrate of the first class shall try any offence against this Act or any rule or order made thereunder other than an offence under section 66 or section 67.

75. [Cf. S. 146, Eng. Act and section 49, Old Act.] No Court shall take cognizance of any offence under this Act or any rule or order thereunder, other than an offence under section 62 or section 64, unless, complaint thereof is made within six months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed:

Limitation of prosecutions.

Provided that when the offence consists of disobeying a written order made by an Inspector, complaint thereof may be made within twelve months of the date on which the offence is alleged to have been committed.

CHAPTER VII.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

76. [Cf. S. 128, Eng. Act and section 36, cl. (1), Old Act.] (1) In addition to the notices required to be displayed in any factory by this Act or the rules made thereunder, there shall be displayed in every factory a notice containing such abstracts of this Act and of the rules made thereunder in English and in the vernacular of the majority of the workers, as the Provincial Government may prescribe.

SEC. 2: EFFECT OF TRANSFER OF TERRITORY—CESSION OF TERRITORY BY BRITAIN TO ANOTHER STATE—BRITISH SUBJECT CEASES

TO BE SUCH ON CESSION.—A relinquishment by the Government of a territory is not only a relinquishment of the right to soil or territory, but also of the rights over the inhabitants of the country. The distinction between a right of election of which sovereign he will become the subject and the method by which a man can leave a newly ceded territory and remain within the allegiance of his former sovereign, seems somewhat fine: but the distinction is one between a mere assertion of elected allegiance and actual conduct clearly showing such an election. It is not enough for an inhabitant to assert, when the question arises, that he has elected to remain within the allegiance of his former sovereign; there must be conduct on his part, such as leaving the ceded territory and going to reside permanently in his former sovereign's dominions to indicate his previous election. Any inhabitant of the ceded or separated territory has not the right to remain an inhabitant of it, and at the same time to retain the allegiance and nationality of the State which ceded or permitted the separation. The common law of England embodying the above rules is the law for the time being in force in British India within the meaning of the proviso to sec. 1. 90 I.C. 310=1925 B. 489. [18 Cal. 620 (P.C.) and 42 Mad. 589 (P.C.), Foll.]. The applicant was born in Ramdupati which was in British territory. In that village he had some lands and owned a house in which his family resided permanently. He, however, came to Bombay for purposes of trade. The applicant continued to live in Bombay for trade before as well as after the cession. Held, that the applicant was a "foreigner" by virtue of the proviso to sec. 2 of Act III of 1915, amending the Foreigners Act, 1864. 90 I.C. 310=49 B. 801=27 Bom.L.R. 1043=26 Cr.L.J. 1526=1925 B. 489.

SECS. 3 AND 4.—Act III of 1864 is not ultra vires of the Governor-General of India in Council. 18 B. 636. Per Bayley, J. The Act applies to all foreigners, although their residence in Bombay may not be likely to affect or endanger the peace and security of British India. (Ibid.) Per Stirling, J.—The Government would be the sole Judges of what was necessary for the peace and security of British India, and if they acted in accordance with the letter of the Act, the High Court could not enquire into the sufficiency or otherwise of their reasons for so acting. (Ibid.) A warrant issued under secs. 3 and 4 of Act III of 1864 should not comprise two distinct orders, one to the foreigner to remove himself from British India, the other to arrest him in case it is not duly obeyed. There should be a separate order directing him to remove himself from British India which should be duly served upon him. Then, in case of his refusal or neglect to comply with its terms, there should be a further order by the Government authorizing his arrest and detention in jail. The persons named in the warrant should be described with sufficient certainty and particularity. The particular route to be specified in the order referred to in sec. 3 of Act III of 1864 is intended to be a route in British India and not a route beyond the High Seas. In the absence of statutory provision, the absence of a seal will render a warrant void. (Ibid.) See also 18 C.W.N. 705=15 Cr.L.J. 328=23 I.C. 678=1 L.W. 989 (P.C.).

The Forest Settlement-officer shall take down in writing all statements made under section 6, and shall at some convenient place inquire into all claims duly preferred under that section, and the existence of any rights mentioned in section 4 or section 5 and not claimed under section 6 so far as the same may be ascertainable from the records of Government and the evidence of any persons likely to be acquainted with the same.

8. For the purpose of such inquiry, the Forest Settlement-officer may exercise the following powers, that is to say:—

(a) power to enter, by himself or any officer authorised by him for the purpose upon any land, and to survey, demarcate and make a map of the same; and

(b) the powers of a Civil Court in the trial of suits.

9. Rights in respect of which no claim has been preferred under section 6, and of the existence of which no knowledge has been acquired by inquiry under section 7, shall be extinguished, unless before the notification under section 20 is published, the person claiming them satisfies the Forest Settlement-officer that he had sufficient cause for not preferring such claim within the period fixed under section 6.

10. (1) In the case of a claim relating to the practice of shifting cultivation, the Forest Settlement-officer shall record a statement setting forth the particulars of the claim and of any local rule or order under which the practice is allowed or regulated, and submit the statement to the Provincial Government, together with his opinion as to whether the practice should be permitted or prohibited wholly or in part.

(2) On receipt of the statement and opinion, the Provincial Government may make an order permitting or prohibiting the practice wholly or in part.

(3) If such practice is permitted wholly or in part, the Forest Settlement-officer may arrange for its exercise—

(a) by altering the limits of the land under settlement so as to exclude land of sufficient extent, of a suitable kind, and in a locality reasonably convenient for the purposes of the claimants, or

(b) by causing certain portions of the land under settlement to be separately demarcated, and giving permission to the claimants to practice shifting cultivation therein under such conditions as he may prescribe.

(4) All arrangements made under sub-section (3) shall be subject to the previous sanction of the Provincial Government.

(5) The practice of shifting cultivation shall in all cases be deemed a privilege subject to control, restriction and abolition by the Provincial Government.

11. (1) In the case of a claim to right in or over any land, other than a right-of-way or right-of-pasture, or a right to forest-produce or a water-course, the Forest Settlement-officer shall pass an order admitting or rejecting the same in whole or in part.

(ii) come to an agreement with the owner thereof for the surrender of his rights; or

(iii) proceed to acquire such land in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

(3) For the purpose of so acquiring such land—

(a) the Forest Settlement-officer shall be deemed to be a Collector proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894;

(b) the claimant shall be deemed to be a person interested and appearing before him in pursuance of notice given under section 9 of that Act;

(b) the designation, position and area of all fields or groups of fields (if any) and the designation and position of all buildings (if any) in respect of which the exercise of such rights is claimed.

He shall also record whether the timber or other forest-produce obtained by the exercise of the rights claimed may be sold or bartered.

(a) set out some other forest-tract of sufficient extent, and in a locality reasonably convenient, for the purposes of such claimants, and record an order conferring upon them a right of pasture or to forest-produce (as the case may be) to the extent so admitted; or

(b) so alter the limits of the proposed forest as to exclude forest land of sufficient extent, and in a locality reasonably convenient, for the purposes of the claimants; or

(c) record an order, continuing to such claimants, a right of pasture or to forest-produce, as the case may be, to the extent so admitted, at such seasons, within such portions of the proposed forest, and under such rules, as may be made in this behalf by the Provincial Government.

Provided that the Provincial Government may establish a Court (hereinafter called the Forest Court) composed of three persons to be appointed by the Provincial Government, and when the Forest Court has been so established, all such appeals shall be presented to it.

(b) if any such claims have been made, the period limited by section 17 for appealing from the orders passed on such claims has elapsed, and all appeals (if any) presented within such period have been disposed of by the appellate officer or Court; and

(c) all lands (if any) to be included in the proposed forest, which the Forest Settlement-officer has, under section 11, elected to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, have become vested in the Government under section 16 of that Act, the Provincial Government shall publish a notification in the Official Gazette, specifying definitely, according to boundary marks erected or otherwise, the limits of the forest which is to be reserved, and declaring the same to be reserved from a date fixed by the notification.

SEC. 26, CL. (b): PUNJAB GOVERNMENT NOTIFICATIONS—"SETS FIRE TO"—MEANING OF.—A person sets fire to a thing if he puts a match to it or sets it on fire directly, and not if it catches fire as an indirect consequence of his act. The accused kindled a fire in his master's garden which spread to an unclassified forest, and then to a reserved forest. The accused should not be said to have set fire to either of the forests within the meaning of sec. 25 (b). 30 P.R. (Cr.) 1916=17 Cr.L.J. 458=36 I.C. 138.

CL. (c): POSSESSION OF FLINT OR STEEL.—The mere possession of a flint or steel within forest limits does not constitute an offence under sec. 25 (c). 4 Bom.L.R. 935.

CL. (d).—The trespass of a human being in a reserved forest is punishable under sec. 25 (d). Rat. 602. See also 87 I.C. 918=26 Cr.L.J. 1030. The words of sec. 25 (d) clearly apply only to the person who does any of the acts mentioned therein. 16 Cr. L.J. 485=29 I.C. 325=11 N.L.R. 76. A person's cattle were found grazing in the Government forest in charge of a boy. Where the person had not authorized either directly or indirectly the boy to graze the cattle in the forest, he could not be convicted. (11 N.L.R. 76; Ref.) 120 I.C. 414 (1)=1930 N. 64. The question whether the owner of cattle, whose animals trespass in a reserved forest, is criminally liable for committing an offence under sec. 25, depends upon the whole circumstances of each case. 16 P.R. 1909 (Cr.). In a great many cases the question will resolve itself into, "did he or did he not take proper precautions to prevent such trespass," and it does not depend upon the presence of the owner at the moment. 16 P.R. 1909 (Cr.). The levy of pound fines under Act I of 1871, sec. 12, in respect of an offence of allowing cattle to trespass in a reserved forest is not a punishment, and does not, therefore, bar a prosecution, under sec. 25 of the Forest Act, 19 P.R. 1885 (Cr.).

Barar grazing Rules do not enforce a liability on a master for the acts of his servan's. 87 I.C. 918=26 Cr.L.J. 1030. See also A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 365=39 Cr.L.J. 700; 1926 N. 73. Cattle are instrumental in the theft of grass which they eat and in the damage to grass and young trees which they cause in grazing and such cattle used in committing an offence under sec. 26 (d) of the Forest Act are as much liable to confiscation as cattle drawing a cart containing illicitly felled timber. 39 Cr.L.J. 700=175 I.C. 795=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 365.

SEC. 26, CL. (f).—A person felling a number of trees in a forest is guilty of as many offences under sec. 25 (f) as the number of the trees felled by him. 19 Cr.L.J. 161=43 I.C. 577 (A). There is no provision, either in the Act or the rules framed thereunder, to award compensation for damages in respect of the protected forest. 8 Bom. L.R. 987=5 Cr.L.J. 9. In the absence of anything in a Special Act (like the Forest Act) to exclude the operation to the general criminal law, an intention on the part of the legislature to exclude it should not be inferred. Further sec. 66 negatives any such intention. Theft of wood from a Government forest to which the Forest Act had not been applied, is punishable under the Penal Code. 10 P.R. 1885 (Cr.) [22 P.R. 1876 (Cr.). Disapproved.]

CL. (h).—Where it is clear from evidence that the accused has been cultivating land alleged to be part of a Government forest for at least seven years and the probabilities are that his father had done the same before him he cannot be held to have cleared or broken up the land for cultivation or any other purpose and his conviction under sec. 26 (h) cannot be sustained. 1929 N. 190. Where the charge against the accused is that he has made an encroachment on Government forest land, the onus is on the prosecution to establish that the land forms part of the Government forest, 1929 N. 190.

CL. (i).—The word 'hunt' implies motion, a chase and a pursuit. Hence any person who is one of the party beating up game in a reserved forest in this fashion is a

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prohibit—

(a) any act done by permission in writing of the forest-officer, or under any rule made by the Provincial Government; or

(b) the exercise of any right continued under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 15, or created by grant or contract in writing made by or on behalf of [the Crown] under section 23.

(3) Whenever fire is caused wilfully or by gross negligence in a reserved forest the Provincial Government may (notwithstanding that any penalty has been inflicted under this section) direct that in such forest or any portion thereof the exercise of all rights of pasture or to forest-produce shall be suspended for such period as it thinks fit.

A conviction recorded under sec. 25 (4), for shooting in a reserved forest in contravention of any rules which the Local Government from time to time prescribes, is illegal where no such rules have been passed by the Government. Rat. 684 = Cr. Rg. 50 of 1893. Accused who had license for a gun was going along the District Board road running through a reserved forest with the gun loaded. On this he was convicted under sec. 26 (1) (4). Held, that from the mere fact that accused was carrying a loaded gun it did not follow that he was going with intention of shooting. Held, further, that what is made penal is not the intention to shoot but actual shooting itself and that unless accused was alleged to have been found shooting or hunting in the forest he could not be convicted. 145 I. MISCELLANEOUS CASES UNDER THE OLD ACT—CONVICTION UNDER THE ACT—ORDER FOR CONFISCATION.—An order for confiscation cannot be regarded as an order incidental to a conviction under the Act. The confiscation is by the terms of sec. 54 declared to be a punishment, for it is in addition to any other punishment prescribed for the offence, the order for confiscation should be passed simultaneously with the punishment for the offence. 24 C. 450 (4 A. 417, B.). It is illegal to impose a fine where the Forest Act provides the penalty of confiscation. Col. Dig. Cr. 69 of 1877. Payment of rewards out of fines and confiscations is not a part of the sentence, but is a matter for the Executive Government to deal with in the exercise of the power vested in them by the rules framed under the Act. Rat. 950. These rules give the Government the power to pay one half of the proceeds of fines and confiscations by way of reward without any order of the convicting Court, but more than one half cannot, however, be paid unless the Magistrate so directs. SUMMONS CASE—ACQUITTAL—FURTHER ENQUIRY—REVISION.—A case under sec. 25 is a "Summons case" and the Tahsildar, if he did not find the accused guilty, was bound to acquit him, and no order under sec. 437, Cr. CHAPTER III.

OF VILLAGE FORESTS.

28. (1) The Provincial Government may assign to any village-community the rights of Government to or over any land which has been constituted a reserved forest, and may cancel such assignment. All forests so assigned shall be called village forests.

(2) The Provincial Government may make rules for regulating the management of village forests, prescribing the conditions under which the community to which any such assignment is made may be provided with timber or other forest-produce or pasture, and their duties for the protection and improvement of such forest.

(3) All the provisions of this Act relating to reserved forest shall (so far as they are not inconsistent with the rules so made) apply to village forests.

CHAPTER IV.

OF PROTECTED FORESTS.

29. (1) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare the provisions of this Chapter applicable to any forest-land or waste-land which is not included in a reserved forest, but which is the property of Government, or over which the Government has proprietary rights or to the whole or any part of the forest-produce of which the Government is entitled.

(2) The forest-land and waste-land comprised in any such notification shall be called a "protected forest."

(3) No such notification shall be made, unless the nature and extent of the rights of Government and of private persons in or over the forest-land or waste-land comprised therein have been inquired into and recorded at a survey or settlement, or in such other manner as the Provincial Government thinks sufficient. Every such record shall be presumed to be correct until the contrary is proved:

Provided that, if, in the case of any forest-land or waste-land, the Provincial Government thinks that such inquiry and record are necessary, but that they will occupy such length of time as in the meantime to endanger the rights of Government, the Provincial Government may, pending such inquiry and record, declare such land to be a protected forest, but so as not to abridge or affect any existing rights of individuals or communities.

Power to issue notification reserving trees, etc.
(Old Act, S. 29.)

30. The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(a) declare any trees or class of trees in a protected forest to be reserved from a date fixed by the notification;

(b) declare that any portion of such forest specified in the notification shall be closed for such term, not exceeding thirty years, as the Provincial Government thinks fit, and that the rights of private persons, if any, over such portion shall be suspended during such term, provided that the remainder of such forest be sufficient, and in a locality reasonably convenient, for the due exercise of the rights suspended in the portion so closed; or

Power to make rules for protected forests. (Old Act, S. 31.)

32. The Provincial Government may make rules to regulate the following matters, namely:—

(a) the cutting, sawing, conversion and removal of trees and timber, and the collection, manufacture and removal of forest-produce, from protected forests;

(b) the granting of licences to the inhabitants of towns and villages in the vicinity of protected forests to take trees, timber or other forest-produce for their own use, and the production and return of such licences by such persons;

(c) the granting of licences to persons felling or removing trees or timber or other forest-produce from such forests for the purposes of trade, and the production and return of such licences by such persons;

(d) the payments, if any, to be made by the persons mentioned in clauses (b) and (c) for permission to cut such trees, or to collect and remove such timber or other forest-produce;

(e) the other payments, if any, to be made by them in respect of such trees, timber and produce, and the places where such payment shall be made;

(f) the examination of forest-produce passing out of such forest;

(Cf. Act V of 1901, S. 2.)

34. Nothing in this Chapter shall be deemed to prohibit any act done with the permission in writing of the Forest-officer, or in accordance with rules made under section 32, or, except as regards any portion of a forest closed under section 30, or as regards any rights the exercise of which has been suspended under section 33, in the exercise of any right recorded under section 29.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE CONTROL OVER FORESTS AND LANDS NOT BEING THE PROPERTY OF GOVERNMENT.

Protection of forest for special purposes. (Old Act, S. 35.)

35. (1) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, regulate or prohibit in any forest or waste-land—

(a) the breaking up or clearing of land for cultivation;

(b) the pasturing of cattle; or

(c) the firing or clearing of the vegetation;

when such regulation or prohibition appears necessary for any of the following purposes:—

(i) for protection against storms, winds, rolling stones, floods and avalanches;

(ii) for the preservation of the soil on the ridges and slopes and in the valleys of hilly tracts, the prevention of land slips or of the formation of ravines and torrents, or the protection of land against erosion, or the deposit thereon of sand, stones or gravel;

(iii) for the maintenance of a water-supply in springs, rivers and tanks;

(iv) for the protection of roads, bridges, railways and other lines of communication;

(v) for the preservation of the public health.

SEC. 33. CL. (c).—Where breaking of ground only is forbidden by notification under the Forest Act, no offence is committed when there has been only 'clearing'. 102 I.C. 559=28 Cr.L.J. 591; 49 A. 291=99 I.C. 497=1927 A. 121.

(2) The Provincial Government may, for any such purpose, construct at its own expense, in or upon any forest or waste-land, such work as it thinks fit.

(3) No notification shall be made under sub-section (1) nor shall any work be begun under sub-section (2), until after the issue of a notice to the owner of such forest or land calling on him to show cause, within a reasonable period to be specified in such notice, why such notification should not be made or work constructed, as the case may be, and until his objections if any, and any evidence he may produce in support of the same, have been heard by an officer duly appointed in that behalf and have been considered by the Provincial Government.

36. (1) In case of neglect of, or wilful disobedience to, any regulation or prohibition under section 35, or if the purposes of any work to be constructed under that section so require, the Provincial Government may, after notice in writing to the owner of such forest or land and after considering his objections, if any, place the same under the control of a Forest-officer, and may declare that all or any of the provisions of this Act relating to reserved forests shall apply to such forest or land.

(2) The net profits, if any, arising from the management of such forest or land shall be paid to the said owner.

37. (1) In any case under this Chapter in which the Provincial Government considers that in lieu of placing the forest or land under the control of a Forest-officer, the same should be acquired for public purposes, the Provincial Government may proceed to acquire it in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

(2) The owner of any forest or land comprised in any notification under section 35 may, at any time not less than three or more than twelve years from the date thereof, require that such forest or land shall be acquired for public purposes, and the Provincial Government shall acquire such forest or land accordingly.

38. (1) The owner of any land or, if there be more than one owner thereof, the owners of shares therein amounting in the aggregate to at least two-thirds thereof may, with a view to the formation or conservation of forests thereon, represent in writing to the Collector their desire—

(a) that such land be managed on their behalf by the Forest-officer as a reserved or a protected forest on such terms as may be mutually agreed upon; or

(b) that all or any of the provisions of this Act be applied to such land.

(2) In either case, the Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, apply to such land such provisions of this Act as it thinks suitable to the circumstances thereof and as may be desired by the applicants.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE DUTY ON TIMBER AND OTHER FOREST-PRODUCE.

39. (1) The ¹[Central Government] may levy a duty in such manner, at such places and at such rates as it may declare by notification in the Official Gazette on all timber or other forest-produce—

(a) which is produced in British India, and in respect of which the ²[Crown] has any right;

(b) which is brought from any place outside British India:

(2) In every case in which such duty is directed to be levied ad valorem the ²[Central Government] may fix by like notification the value on which such duty shall be assessed.

(3) All duties on timber or other forest-produce which, at the time when this Act comes into force in any territory, are levied therein under the authority of the Provincial Government, shall be deemed to be and to have been duly levied under the provisions of this Act.

³[(4) Until provision to the contrary is made by the Central Legislature any Provincial Government which was, immediately before the commencement of Part III of the Government of India Act, 1935, levying a duty on any timber or other forest-produce produced in that Province may continue to levy that duty on such timber or forest-produce:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section authorizes the levy of any duty which as between timber or other forest-produce of the Province and similar produce of the locality outside the Province, discriminates in favour of the former, or which, in the case of timber or other forest-produce of localities outside the Province, discriminates between timber or other forest-produce of one locality and similar timber or other forest-produce of another locality.]

40. Nothing in this Chapter shall be deemed to limit the amount, if any chargeable as purchase-money or royalty on any timber or other forest-produce, although the same is levied on such timber or produce while in transit, in the same manner as duty is levied.

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE CONTROL OF TIMBER AND OTHER FOREST-PRODUCE IN TRANSIT.

Power to make rules to regulate transit of forest-produce. (Old Act, S. 41; see also Act V of 1890, S. 8. Cls. 3 and 4).

41. (1) The control of all rivers and their banks as regards the floating of timber, as well as the control of all timber and other forest-produce in transit by land or water, is vested in the Provincial Government, and it may make rules to regulate the transit of all timber and other forest-produce.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power such rules may—

(a) prescribe the routes by which alone timber or other forest-produce may be imported, exported or moved into, from or within ⁴[the Province];

(b) prohibit the import or export or moving of such timber or other produce without a pass from an officer duly authorised to issue the same, or otherwise than in accordance with the conditions of such pass;

(c) provide for the issue, production and return of such passes and for the payment of fees therefor;

(d) provide for the stoppage, reporting, examination and marking of timber or other forest-produce in transit, in respect of which there is reason to believe that any money is payable to ⁵[the Crown] on account of the price thereof, or on account of any duty, fee, royalty or charge due thereon, or to which it is desirable for the purposes of this Act to affix a mark;

(e) provide for the establishment and regulation of depots to which such timber or other produce shall be taken by those in charge of it for exami-

(g) provide for the prevention of removal of any obstruction of the channel or banks of any such river, and for recovering the cost of such prevention or removal from the person whose acts or negligence necessitated the same;

43. The ¹[Crown] shall not be responsible for any loss or damage which

44. In case of any accident or emergency involving danger to any property at any such depot, every person employed at such depot whether by the ¹[Crown] or by any private person, shall render assistance to any Forest-officer or Police-officer demanding his aid in averting such danger or securing such property from damage or loss.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF THE COLLECTION OF DRIFT AND STRANDED TIMBER.

Certain kinds of timber to be deemed property of Government until title thereto proved, and may be collected accordingly, (Old Act, S. 45.)

45. (1) All timber found adrift, beached, stranded or sunk;

all wood or timber bearing marks which have not been registered in accordance with the rules made under section 41, or on which the marks have been obliterated, altered or defaced by fire or otherwise; and in such areas as the Provincial Government directs, all unmarked wood and timber;

shall be deemed to be the property of Government; unless and until any person establishes his right and title thereto, as provided in this Chapter.

(2) Such timber may be collected by any Forest-officer or other person entitled to collect the same by virtue of any rule made under section 51, and may be brought to any depot which the Forest-officer may notify as a depot for the reception of drift timber.

(3) The Provincial Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, exempt any class of timber from the provisions of this section.

46. Public notice shall from time to time be given by the Forest-Officer of timber collected under section 45. Such notice shall contain a description of the timber, and shall require any person claiming the same to present to such officer, within a period not less than two months from the date of such notice, a written statement of such claim.

Procedure on claim preferred to such timber (Old Act, S. 47.)

47. (1) When any such statement is presented as aforesaid, the Forest-officer may, after making such inquiry as he thinks fit, either reject the claim after recording his reasons for so doing, or deliver the timber to the claimant.

(2) If such timber is claimed by more than one person, the Forest-officer may either deliver the same to any of such persons whom he deems entitled thereto, or may refer the claimants to the Civil Courts, and retain the timber pending the receipt of an order from any such Court for its disposal.

(3) Any person whose claim has been rejected under this section may, within three months from the date of such rejection, institute a suit to recover possession of the timber claimed by him: but no person shall recover any compensation or costs against the ¹[Crown], or against any Forest-officer, on account of such rejection, or the detention or removal of any timber, or the delivery thereof to any other person under this section.

(4) No such timber shall be subject to process of any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court until it has been delivered, or a suit has been brought, as provided in this section.

48. If no such statement is presented as aforesaid, or if the claimant

49. The ¹[Crown] shall not be responsible for any loss or damage which may occur in respect of any timber collected under section 45, and no Forest-officer shall be responsible for any such loss or damage, unless he causes such loss or damage negligently, maliciously or fraudulently.

Crown and its officers not liable for damage to such timber. (Old Act, S. 49.)

50. No person shall be entitled to recover possession of any timber collected or delivered as aforesaid until he has paid to the Forest-officer or other person entitled to receive it such sum on account thereof as may be due under any rule made under section 51.

Power to make rules and prescribe penalties. (Old Act, S. 51.)

51. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules to regulate the following matters, namely:—

(a) the salving, collection and disposal of all timber mentioned in section 45;

(b) the use and registration of boats used in salving and collecting timber;

(c) the amounts to be paid for salving, collecting, moving, storing or disposing of such timber; and

(d) the use and registration of hammers and other instruments to be used for marking such timber.

CHAPTER IX.

PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

52. (1) When there is reason to believe that a forest-offence has been committed in respect of any forest-produce, such produce, together with all tools, boats, carts or cattle used in committing any such offence, may be seized by any Forest-officer or Police-officer.

Seizure of property liable to confiscation. (Old Act, S. 52.)

In the absence of any of these conditions, no Police-officer or Forest-officer could lawfully arrest a person without a warrant. 1928 M.W.N. 310.

SEC. 52: SUB-ASSISTANT CONSERVATOR OF

CR. C. M. J.—83

FOREST—SEIZURE AND DETENTION OF TIMBER

—WANT OF VALID PASS.—Where a Sub-Assistant Conservator of Forest seized timber under the suspicion that it was property stolen from the Government forests, held, that he could justify the seizure on the ground of the commission of a forest offence arising from the want of a valid pass. 15 B. 229. According to sec. 52, a Forest-officer cannot justify the detention of goods on the ground of an offence against the Forest laws, where he had not taken the course which that section prescribes of taking the matter before a Magistrate. 15 B. 229. Under sec. 52 the forest produce alone can be seized in relation to which a forest offence is believed to have been committed, and no forest offence can be said to have been committed in relation to any forest

(2) Every officer seizing any property under this section shall place on such property a mark indicating that the same has been so seized, and shall, as soon as may be, make a report of such seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction to try the offence on account of which the seizure has been made:

Provided that, when the forest-produce with respect to which such offence is believed to have been committed is the property of Government, and the offender is unknown, it shall be sufficient if the officer makes, as soon as may be, a report of the circumstances to his official superior.

53. Any Forest-officer of a rank not inferior to that of a Ranger, who, or whose subordinate, has seized any tools, boats, carts or cattle under section 52, may release the same on the execution by the owner thereof of a bond for the production of the property so released, if and when so required, before the Magistrate having jurisdiction to try the offence on account of which the seizure has been made.

Power to release property seized under S. 52.
(Act I of 1918, S. 3.)

54. Upon the receipt of any such report, the Magistrate shall, with all convenient despatch, take such measures as may be necessary for the arrest and trial of the offender and the disposal of the property according to law.

55. (1) All timber or forest-produce which is not the property of Government and in respect of which a forest-offence has been committed, and all tools, boats, carts and cattle used in committing any forest-offence, shall be liable to confiscation.

(2) Such confiscation may be in addition to any other punishment prescribed for such offence.

56. When the trial of any forest-offence is concluded, any forest-produce in respect of which such offence has been committed shall, if it is the property of Government or has been confiscated, be taken charge of by a Forest-officer, and, in any other case, may be disposed of in such manner as the Court may direct.

SEC. 55.—N.B. See also notes under sec. 26 and sec. 33.

SCOPE AND OBJECT.—The object of the legislature in enacting sec. 55 is to make the owner liable to a certain extent for the acts of his servant, civilly, not criminally. In the case of cattle trespassing in Government forest unless duly licensed, the master cannot be criminally liable for the acts of his grazier in taking his cattle into such forest, unless he permits the cattle so to graze by some overt acts or by some negligent omission. Where a large herd of cattle is entrusted to a youth and two children, in the vicinity of a closed forest, it might be held to amount to such negligence as to suggest connivance at a breach of the law. 175 I.C. 795=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 365.

CONFISCATION OF FOREST-PRODUCE, ETC., THE PROPERTY OF GOVERNMENT.—No confiscation order is necessary or can be made, in respect of forest-produce, which is the property of Government, and regarding which a forest-offence has been committed. All that need be done is, to direct that it should be taken by some Forest-officer. 4 A. 417; Rat. 361. Cattle are instrumental in the theft of grass which they eat and in the damage to grass and young trees which they cause in grazing and such cattle used in committing an offence under sec. 26 (d) of the Act are as much liable to confiscation as cattle drawing a cart containing illicitly felled timber. 175 I.C. 795=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 365.

POWER TO CONFISCATE.—It is only in respect of forest-produce with regard to which an offence has been committed, that power to direct confiscation is given by law. Such an order, regarding forest-produce not belonging to Government, can only be made at the time when the offender is convicted. 4 A. 417 followed in 27 C. 450.

REWARD—FOREST-PRODUCE.—Since there can be no legal confiscation of Government property, a reward cannot be paid out of such property. Rat. 620.

SEC. 56.—See also notes under sec. 33. DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.—Under sec. 55 the property, regarding which an offence is committed, should be awarded to Government. 5 Bom.L.R. 124.

GOVERNMENT FOREST-PRODUCE, OFFENCE RELATING TO—PROPER ORDER.—When the forest-produce, in respect of which an offence is committed, is found to be the property of Government the only order which the Magistrate can legally make regarding it, under sec. 56 is that it should be taken charge of by a Forest-officer. An order for

57. When the offender is not known or cannot be found, the Magistrate may, if he finds that an offence has been committed, order the property in respect of which the offence has been committed to be confiscated and taken charge of by the Forest-officer, or to be made over to the person whom the Magistrate deems to be entitled to the same:

Provided that no such order shall be made until the expiration of one month from the date of seizing such property, or without hearing the person, if any, claiming any right thereto, and the evidence, if any, which he may produce in support of his claim.

58. The Magistrate may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, direct the sale of any property seized under section 52 and subject to speedy and natural decay, and may deal with the proceeds as he would have dealt with such property if it had not been sold.

59. The officer who made the seizure under section 52, or any of his official superiors, or any person claiming to be interested in the property so seized may, within one month from the date of any order passed under section 55, section 56 or section 57, appeal therefrom to the Court to which orders made by such Magistrate are ordinarily appealable, and the order passed on such appeal shall be final.

60. When an order for the confiscation of any property has been passed under section 55 or section 57, as the case may be and the period limited by section 59 for an appeal from such order has elapsed, and no such appeal has been preferred, or when, on such an appeal being preferred, the Appellate Court confirms such order in respect of the whole or a portion of such property, such property or such portion thereof, as the case may be, shall vest in the Government free from all incumbrances.

61. Nothing hereinbefore contained shall be deemed to prevent any officer empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government from directing at any time the immediate release of any property seized under section 52.

62. Any forest-officer or Police-officer who vexatiously and unnecessarily

SEC. 57: FORFEITURE FOR FOREST-OFFENCE WHEN A GOOD TITLE HAS VESTED IN A THIRD PERSON.—Under the orders issued by the Collector of Kandesha, certain Bhils entered the forest, brought from it teak logs under the customary passes, and sold them in open market to applicants who purchased in good faith. The Government sought to forfeit them on the ground that a forest-offence had been committed in respect of them, inasmuch as the permission under which the Bhils acted, only allowed them to cut dead-wood and the logs did not fall under the description. Held, ordering the logs to be restored to the custody of purchasers, that it was clear from the terms of sec. 57 that a forfeiture was not a consequence of a forest-offence under the conditions stated in that section, where a good title has vested in a third person. 2 Bom.L.R. 675.

SEC. 59: REVISION BY HIGH COURT OF AN ORDER OF A SUBORDINATE TRIBUNAL.—The terms of sec. 59 do not exclude the ordinary revisional powers of the High Court over a subordinate tribunal in the exercise of its criminal jurisdiction, where there had been judicial proceeding. 4 A. 417. Under sec. 59 even a third person who was not a party to the proceedings in the original Court and whose claim for relief from confiscation was not adjudicated upon is entitled to prefer an appeal. The phrase "any person claiming to be interested in the property so seized" in sec. 59 cannot be construed as limited to the case contemplated by sec. 57. And, the words "so seized" refer to the seizure under sec. 52. 34 C.W.N. 956=1930 C. 577.

Punishment for wrongful seizure. (Old Act, S. 61.) seizes any property on pretence of seizing property liable to confiscation under this Act shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Penalty for counterfeiting or defacing marks on trees and timber and for altering boundary marks. (Old Act, S. 62.)

63. Whoever, with intent to cause damage or injury to the public or to any person, or to cause wrongful gain as defined in the Indian Penal Code—

(a) knowingly counterfeits upon any timber or standing tree a mark used by Forest-officers to indicate that such timber or tree is the property of the Government or of some person, or that it may lawfully be cut or removed by some person; or

(b) alters, defaces or obliterates any such mark placed on a tree or on timber by or under the authority of a Forest-officer; or

(2) On the issue of a notification under sub-section (1), the District Forest Officer shall publish in the official gazette of the district concerned and in such other manner as may be prescribed by rules made in that behalf a notice—

(3) After the expiry of the period referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (2) and after considering the objections, if any, received by him, the District Forest Officer shall submit to the Local Government the record of the proceedings held by him together with a report thereon.

(4) The Local Government may, after considering the report of the District Forest Officer, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette re-define the limits of the reserved forest, as proposed by the notification under sub-section (1), with such modifications as they think fit or without any modifications.

THE FORFEITURE ACT (IX OF 1859).

[Rep. in Part by Acts VIII of 1868 and XII of 1891.]

[30th April, 1859.]

An Act to provide for the adjudication of claims to property seized as forfeited.

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove doubts concerning the powers of officers or other persons to whom commissions may have been issued for the trial of heinous offences in certain districts, and concerning the validity of convictions and adjudications of forfeiture made by such officers or other persons; It is enacted as follows:

1 to 15. [Constitution, procedure, etc., of Special Commission Courts.] Rep. by the Repealing Act, 1868 (VIII of 1868).

Convictions involving forfeiture not questionable in suits relating to forfeited property.

16. Whenever any person shall have been convicted of an offence for which his property was forfeited to Government, no Court has power in any suit or proceeding relating to such property to question the validity of the conviction.

17. Whenever any person shall have been convicted as above by an officer having power to try and convict, the validity of any such conviction shall not be questioned upon the ground that the record of the conviction does not show in what capacity such officer acted, or that it represents him to have acted in a different capacity from that in which he had power to convict.

Conviction not questionable because capacity of convicting officer not shown.

18. Whenever any property shall have been attached or seized without either conviction or an adjudication of forfeiture by any officer of Government as property forfeited or liable to be forfeited to Government for an offence for which, upon conviction, the property of the offender would be forfeited, the validity of such attachment or seizure shall not be called in question by any Court or other authority in any suit or proceeding, unless the offender or alleged offender shall, within one year after the seizure of his property have surrendered himself for trial, and upon trial before a competent Court shall have been or shall be acquitted of the offence, and shall prove to the satisfaction of the Court that he did not escape or keep out of the way for the purpose of evading justice.

Attachment without adjudication of forfeiture not questionable unless offender be acquitted within one year, etc.

Nothing in this section shall extend to persons entitled to pardon upon Exemption of pardoned persons.

His Majesty's proclamation published in the Calcutta Gazette Extraordinary, dated the 1st of November, 1858, or to any person who, having surrendered himself within the period of one year after the seizure of his property shall be ¹[duly discharged] without a prosecution.

19. [Release of property attached as forfeited.] Rep. by the Repealing Act, 1868 (VIII of 1868).

20. Nothing in this Act shall be held to affect the rights of parties not charged with any offence for which upon conviction the property of the offender is forfeited in respect of any property attached or seized as forfeited or liable to be forfeited to Government: Provided that no suit brought by any party in respect of such property shall be entertained unless it be instituted within the period of one year from the date of the attachment or seizure of the property to which the suit relates.

Rights of parties not charged with offence involving forfeiture.

Proviso.

Sec. 20 of the Act to provide for the adjudication of claims to property: seized as forfeited, requires, that persons who have any claim that they are the owners of property which has been confiscated as the property of another, should bring such a claim within one year from the attachment or seizure of the property which they claim. Though Act VIII of 1868 has repealed various sections of the Act of 1859. Sec. 20 of the latter Act is not affected by Act VIII of 1868, and the application of sec. 20 is permanent, because it was intended to be a permanent bar against subsequent suits in Civil Courts, and hence has remained in force up to the present day. Limitation for the purposes of the section begins to run from the date of attachment which in those days took the form of a parwana being issued to the Sub-Inspector of Police for the attachment of the property. 1939 A.L.J. 1079=A.I.R. 1940 All. 121.

CASES UNDER THE OLD FORFEITURE ACT, XXV OF 1857.—A judgment-creditor, who has bona fide attached property, at the time when the property of the debtor become forfeited to Government under the above Act, is entitled in priority to Government. Marsh. 259=2 Hay 117. On this Act see also 17 W.R. 80=8 B.L.R. 83. The plaintiff joined with the rebels and took a leading part with them. A reward was set upon him as a rebel leader and, after a time, he was captured; no formal proceedings were taken, under secs. 2 and 7 of the Act XXV of 1857 for adjudicating his property (which consisted of little more than annuity) to be forfeited. The property charged with the annuity was in the hands of the Collector as the Manager under the Court of Ward, the annuity was withheld and was no longer regarded as a charge on the estate but was treated as merged. Held, that the mere withdrawal of the payment of annuity by those who had the management of the estate which was charged with the payment would be an illegal act in no way affecting the plaintiff's right, but, as the withholding of the payment was under the authority and direction of the official who was authorized to make the attachment of the rebel's property, it was with reference to the nature of the property equivalent to an attachment or seizure and could not be questioned except under the provisions of sec. 18 of Act IX of 1859, notwithstanding there had been no adjudication of forfeiture. 3 Agra 281. A person who was in possession of an estate was found to be guilty of rebellion. All his property was forfeited to the Government, and he was subsequently sentenced to death and executed. A suit was eventually instituted on behalf of his infant son for the restoration of the land and the house which had been confiscated. The case made had two aspects:—One, that the estate, which had been granted towards maintaining the title and dignity of the Thakur was inalienable; the other, that it was subject to the Mitakshara Law, modified by the family-custom of primogeniture, and that the plaintiff became, on his birth, a co-sharer with his father: Held that the grant being for maintenance, and the descent being to the heirs male, did not make the estate inalienable. So long as there was an heir male, the grantor or his heirs could not resume such an estate; but a particular law or custom is necessary to convert an estate, which is conditional upon there being an heir male, into an estate which cannot be alienated: Held, that the Mitakshara, by which each son has by birth a property in the ancestral estate, is inconsistent with the custom that the estate is impartible, and descends to the eldest son, and was not applicable to this estate. Held that the suit was also barred under sec. 9, Act XXV of 1857, 22 W.R. 17=13 B.L.R. 445.

[27th August, 1881.]

An Act to amend the Law with respect to Fugitive Offenders in Her Majesty's Dominions, and for other purposes connected with the trial of offenders.

Be it enacted by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lord Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows (that is to say):—

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as THE FUGITIVE OFFENDERS ACT, 1881.

RETURN OF FUGITIVE.

2. Where a person accused of having committed an offence (to which this Liability of fugitive to be part of this Act applies) in one part of Her Majesty's apprehended and returned. dominions has left that part, such person (in this Act referred to as a fugitive from that part) if found in another part of Her Majesty's dominions, shall be liable to be apprehended and return in manner provided by the Act to the part from which he is a fugitive. A fugitive may be so apprehended under an endorsed warrant or a provisional warrant.

3. Where a warrant has been issued in one part of Her Majesty's dominions for the apprehension of a fugitive from that part, any of the following authorities in another part of Her Majesty's dominions in or on the way to which the fugitive is or is suspected to be (that is to say):—

- (1) A judge of a superior Court in such part; and
- (2) In the United Kingdom a Secretary of State and one of the magistrates of the metropolitan police court in Bow Street; and
- (3) In a British possession the Governor of that possession, if satisfied that the warrant was issued by some person having lawful authority to issue the same, may endorse such warrant in manner provided by this Act, and the warrant so endorsed shall be a sufficient authority to apprehend the fugitive in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which it is endorsed, and bring him before a Magistrate.

4. A magistrate of any part of Her Majesty's dominions may issue a Provisional warrant for apprehension of fugitive. provisional warrant for apprehension of a fugitive who is or is suspected of being in or on his way to that part on such information, and under such circumstances, as would in his opinion justify the issue of a warrant if the offence of which the fugitive is accused had been committed within his jurisdiction, and such warrant may be backed and executed accordingly.

A magistrate issuing a provisional warrant shall forthwith send a report of the issue, together with the information or a certified copy thereof, if he is in the United Kingdom, to a Secretary of State, and if he is in a British possession, to the Governor of that possession, and the Secretary of State or Governor may, if he thinks fit, discharge the person apprehended under such warrant.

5. A fugitive when apprehended shall be brought before a magistrate, who Dealing with fugitive. (subject to the provisions of this Act) shall hear the when apprehended. case in the same manner and have the same jurisdiction and powers, as near as may be (including the

If the endorsed warrant for the apprehension of the fugitive is duly authenticated, and such evidence is produced as (subject to the provisions of this Act) according to the law ordinarily administered by the magistrate raises a strong or probable presumption that the fugitive committed the offence mentioned in the warrant, and that the offence is one to which this part of this Act applies, the magistrate shall commit the fugitive to prison to await his return, and shall forthwith send a certificate of the committal and such report of the case as he may think fit, if in the United Kingdom to a Secretary of State, and if in a British possession to the Governor of that possession.

Where the magistrate commits the fugitive to prison he shall inform the fugitive that he will not be surrendered until after the expiration of fifteen days, and that he has a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, or other like process.

A fugitive apprehended on a provisional warrant may be from time to time remanded for such reasonable time not exceeding seven days at any one time as under the circumstances seems requisite for the production of an endorsed warrant.

6. Upon the expiration of fifteen days after a fugitive has been committed to prison to await his certain return, or if a writ of

(2) if the fugitive is so committed in a British possession, the Governor of that possession, may, if he thinks it just, by warrant under his hand order that fugitive to be returned to the part of Her Majesty's dominions from which he is a fugitive, and for that purpose to be delivered into the custody of the person to whom the warrant is addressed, or some one or more of them and to be held in custody, and conveyed by sea or otherwise to the said part of Her Majesty's dominions, to be dealt with there in due course of law as if he had been there apprehended, and such warrant shall be forthwith executed according to the tenor thereof.

The governor or other chief officer of any prison, on request of any person having the custody of a fugitive under any such warrant, and on payment or tender of a reasonable amount for expenses, shall receive such fugitive and detain him for such reasonable time as may be requested by the said person for the purpose of the proper execution of the warrant.

dominions to await his return, is not conveyed out of that part within one month after such committal, a superior court, upon application by or on behalf of the fugitive, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given, if the said part is the United Kingdom to a Secretary of State, and if the said part is a British possession to the Governor of the possession, may, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, order the fugitive to be discharged out of custody.

treason and piracy, and to every offence, whether called felony, misdemeanor, crime, or by any other name, which is for the time being punishable in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which it was committed, either on indictment or information, by imprisonment with hard labour for a term of twelve months or more, or by any greater punishment; and for the purposes of this section, rigorous imprisonment, and any confinement in a prison combined with labour by whatever name it is called, shall be deemed to be imprisonment with hard labour.

This part of this Act shall apply to an offence notwithstanding that by the law of the part of Her Majesty's dominions in or on his way to which the fugitive is or is suspected of being it is not an offence or not an offence to which this part of this Act applies; and all the provisions of this part of this Act, including those relating to a provisional warrant and to a committal to prison, shall be construed as if the offence were in such last mentioned part of Her Majesty's dominions an offence to which this part of this Act applies.

Application of part of Act.

Application of part of Act to group of British possession.

12. This part of this Act shall apply only to those groups of British possessions to which, by reason of their contiguity or otherwise, it may seem expedient to Her Majesty to apply the same.

It shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time by order in Council to direct that this part of this Act shall apply to the group of British possessions mentioned in the order, and by the same or any subsequent order to except applies, a warrant has been issued for the apprehension of a person accused of an offence punishable by law in that possession, and such person is or is suspected of being in or on the way to another British possession of the same group, a magistrate in the last mentioned possession, if satisfied that the warrant was issued by a person having lawful authority to issue the same, may endorse such warrant in manner provided by this Act, and the warrant so endorsed shall be a sufficient authority to apprehend, within the jurisdiction of the endorsing magistrate, the person named in the warrant, and bring him before the endorsing magistrate or some other magistrate in the same British possession.

14. The magistrate before whom a person so apprehended is brought, if he is satisfied that the warrant is duly authenticated as directed by this Act and was issued by a person having lawful authority to issue that same, and is satisfied on oath that the prisoner is the person named or otherwise described in the warrant, may order such prisoner to be returned to the British possession in which the warrant was issued, and for the purpose to be delivered into the custody of the persons to whom the warrant is addressed, or any one or more of them, and to be held in custody and conveyed by sea or otherwise into the British possession in which the warrant was issued, there to be dealt with according to law as if he had been there apprehended. Such order for return may be made by warrant under the hand of the magistrate making it, and may be executed according to the tenor thereof.

A Magistrate shall, so far as is requisite for the exercise of the powers of this section, have the same power, including the power to remand and admit to bail a prisoner, as he has in the case of a person apprehended under a warrant issued by him.

SECS. 14 AND 19. POWERS OF COURT.—SCOPE OF.—Magistrates to whom prisoners are brought under sec. 14 are not entitled to decide whether the issue of the warrant for the apprehension of the prisoner was or was not justifiable on the evidence. They can only act under sec. 19 if the case appears to be trivial or if the Magistrate considers the application not made bona fide, not made in the interests of public justice or for some other reason of that kind. 144 I.C. 896=34 Cr.L.J. 883=1933 M.W.N. 324. Every order under sec. 14 relating to a prisoner whose return is sought is merely an order under sec. 19 and an appeal lies to the High Court. 57 Mad. 259=1934 Mad. 55=96 M.L.J. 883.

the punishment imposed by the law of the possession in which he is tried for the failure of a witness to obey such a summons. The expression "summons" in this section includes any sub-poena or other process for requiring the attendance of a witness.

16. A magistrate in a British possession of a group to which this part of this Act applies, before the endorsement in pursuance of this part of this Act of a warrant for the apprehension of any person, may issue a provisional warrant for the apprehension of that person, on such information and under such circumstances as would in his opinion justify the issue of a warrant if the offence of which such person is accused were an offence punishable by the law of the said possession, and had been committed within his jurisdiction, and such warrant may be backed and executed accordingly: provided that a person arrested under such provisional warrant shall be discharged unless the original warrant is produced and endorsed within such reasonable time as may, under the circumstances seem requisite.

17. If a prisoner in a British possession whose return is authorised in pursuance of this part of this Act is not conveyed out of that possession within one month after the date of the warrant ordering his return, a magistrate or a superior court, upon application by or on behalf of the prisoner, and upon proof that reasonable notice of the intention to make such application has been given to the person holding the warrant and to the chief officer of the police of such possession or of the province or town where the prisoner is in custody, may, unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, order such prisoner to be discharged out of custody.

Any order or refusal to make an order of discharge by a magistrate under this section shall be subject to appeal to a superior Court.

18. Where a prisoner accused of an offence is returned in pursuance of this part of this Act to a British possession, and either is not prosecuted for the said offence within six months after his arrival in that possession or is acquitted of the said offence, the governor of that possession, if he thinks fit, may, on the requisition of such person, cause him to be sent back, free of cost, and with as little delay as possible, to the British possession in or on his way to which he was apprehended.

19. Where the return of a prisoner is sought or ordered under this part of this Act, and it is made to appear to a magistrate or to the superior court that by reason of the trivial nature of the case, or by reason of the application for the return of such prisoner not being made in good faith in the interests of justice or otherwise, it would, having regard to the distance, to the facilities of communication, and to all the circumstances of the case, be unjust or oppressive or too severe a punishment, to return the prisoner either at all or until the expiration of a certain period, the court or magistrate may discharge the prisoner either absolutely or on bail, or order that he shall not be returned until after the expiration of the period named in the order, or may make such other order in the premises as to the magistrate or court seems just.

Any order or refusal to make an order of discharge by a magistrate under this section shall be subject to an appeal to a superior court.

SEC. 19: APPEAL UNDER—POWERS OF APPELLATE COURT.—In an appeal under sec. 19 of the Act, the appellate Court has the power to direct the taking of additional evidence. The Act does not define the powers which an appellate Court may exercise in this behalf and so it may be inferred that it may act in accordance with the normal procedure by which it is governed in the exercise of its appellate criminal jurisdiction. 57 Mad. 259=1934 Mad. 55=66 M.L.J. 383.

PART III.

TRIAL, ETC., OF OFFENCES.

20. Where two British possessions adjoin, a person accused of an offence committed on or within the distance of five hundred yards from the common boundary of such possessions may be apprehended, tried, and punished in either of such possessions.

Offences committed on boundary of two adjoining British possessions.

21. Where an offence is committed on any person or in respect of any property in or upon any carriage, cart, or vehicle whatsoever employed in a journey, or on board any vessel whatsoever employed in a navigable river, lake, canal, or inland navigation, the person accused of such offence may be tried in any British possession through a part of which such carriage, cart, vehicle or vessel passed in the course of the journey or voyage during which the offence was committed; and where the side, bank, centre, or other part of the road, river, lake, canal, or inland navigation along which the carriage, cart, vehicle, or vessel passed in the course of such journey or voyage is the boundary of any British possession, a person may be tried for such offence in any British possession of which it is the boundary:

Offences committed on journey between two British possessions.

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the trial for such offence of a person who is not a British subject where it is not shown that the offence was committed in a British possession.

22. A person accused of the offence (under whatever name it is known) of swearing or making any false deposition, or of giving or fabricating any false evidence, for the purposes of this Act, may be tried either in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which such deposition or evidence is used, or in the part in which the same was sworn, made, given, or fabricated, as the justice of the case may require.

Trial of offence of false swearing or giving false evidence.

23. Where any part of this Act provides for the place of trial of a person accused of an offence, that offence shall, for all purposes of and incidental to the apprehension, trial and punishment of such person, and of and incidental to any proceedings and matters preliminary, incidental to or consequential thereon, and of and incidental to the jurisdiction of any court, constable, or officer with reference to such offence, and to any person accused of such offence, be deemed to have been committed in any place in which the person accused of the offence can be tried for it; and such person may be punished in accordance with the Courts (Colonial) Jurisdiction Act, 1874.

Supplemental provision as to trial of person in any place.

24. Where a warrant for the apprehension of a person accused of an offence has been endorsed in pursuance of any part of this Act in any part of Her Majesty's dominions, or where any part of the Act provides for the place of trial of a person accused of an offence, every court and magistrate of the part in which the warrant is endorsed or the person accused of the offence can be tried shall have the same power of issuing a warrant to search for any property alleged to be stolen or to be otherwise unlawfully taken or obtained by such person, or otherwise to be the subject of such offence, as that court or magistrate would have if the property had been stolen or otherwise unlawfully taken or obtained, or the offence have been committed wholly within the jurisdiction of such court or magistrate.

pursuance of this Act or otherwise, and such person is required to be removed in custody to another place in or belonging to the same British possession, such person, if removed by sea in a vessel belonging to Her Majesty or any of Her Majesty's subjects, shall be deemed to continue in legal custody until he reaches the place to which he is required to be removed; and the provisions of this Act with respect to the retaking of a prisoner who has escaped, and with respect to the trial and punishment of a person guilty of the offence of escaping or attempting to escape, or aiding or attempting to aid a prisoner to escape, shall apply to the case of a prisoner escaping while being lawfully removed as aforesaid, in like manner as if he were being removed in pursuance of a warrant endorsed in pursuance of this Act.

PART IV.

SUPPLEMENTAL.

Warrants and Escape.

26. An endorsement of a warrant in pursuance of this Act shall be signed by the authority endorsing the same, and shall authorise all or any of the persons named in the endorsement; and of the persons to whom the warrant was originally directed, and also every constable, to execute the warrant within the part of Her Majesty's dominions or place within which such endorsement is by this Act made a sufficient authority, by apprehending the person named in it, and bringing him before some magistrate in the said part or place, whether the magistrate named in the endorsement or some other.

For the purposes of this Act every warrant, summons, sub-poena and process, and every endorsement made in pursuance of this Act thereon, shall remain in force, notwithstanding that the person signing the warrant or such endorsement dies or ceases to hold office.

27. Where a fugitive or prisoner is authorised to be returned to any part of Her Majesty's dominions in pursuance of Part one or Part II of this Act, such fugitive or prisoner may be sent thither in any ship belonging to Her Majesty or to any of her subjects. For the purpose aforesaid, the authority signing the warrant for the return may order the master of any ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty, bound to the said part of Her Majesty's dominions to receive and afford a passage and subsistence during the voyage to such fugitive or prisoner, and to the person having him in custody, and to the witnesses, so that such master be not required to receive more than one fugitive or prisoner for every hundred tons of his ship's registered tonnage, or more than one witness for every fifty tons of such tonnage.

The said authority shall endorse or cause to be endorsed upon the agreement of the ship such particulars with respect to any fugitive prisoner or witness sent in her as the Board of Trade from time to time require. Every such master shall, on his ship's arrival in the said part of Her Majesty's dominions, cause such fugitive or prisoner if he is not in the custody of any person, to be given into the custody of some constable, there to be dealt with according to law.

Every master who fails on payment or tender of a reasonable amount for expenses to comply with an order made in pursuance of this section, or to cause a fugitive or prisoner committed to his charge to be given into custody as required by this section, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, which may be recovered in any part of Her Majesty's dominions in like manner as a penalty of the same amount under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same.

28. If a prisoner escape, by breach of prison, or otherwise, out of the custody of a person acting under a warrant issued or endorsed in pursuance of this Act, he may be retaken in the same manner as a person accused of a crime against the law of that part of Her Majesty's dominions to which he escapes may be retaken upon an escape.

A person guilty of the offence of escaping or of attempting to escape, or of aiding or attempting to aid a prisoner to escape, by breach of prison or otherwise, from custody under any warrant issued or endorsed in pursuance of this Act, may be tried in any of the following parts of Her Majesty's dominions, namely, the part to which and the part from which the prisoner is being removed and the part in which the prisoner escapes and the part in which the offender is found.

EVIDENCE.

29. A magistrate may take depositions for the purposes of this Act in the absence of a person accused of an offence in like manner as he might take the same if such person were present and accused of the offence before him.

Depositions (whether taken in the absence of the fugitive or otherwise) and copies thereof, and official certificates of or judicial documents stating facts, may, if duly authenticated, be received in evidence in proceedings under this Act:

Provided that nothing in this Act shall authorise the reception of any such depositions, copies, certificates, or documents in evidence against a person upon his trial for an offence.

Warrants and depositions, and copies thereof, and official certificates of or judicial documents stating facts, shall be deemed duly authenticated for the purposes of this Act if they are authenticated in manner provided for the time being by law, or if they purport to be signed by or authenticated by the signature of a judge, magistrate, or officer of the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which the same are issued, taken, or made, and are authenticated either by the oath of some witness, or by being sealed with the official seal of a Secretary of State, or with the public seal of a British possession, or with the official seal of a governor of a British possession, or of a colonial secretary, or of some secretary or minister administering a department of the Government of a British possession.

And all courts and magistrates shall take judicial notice of every such seal as is in this section mentioned, and shall admit in evidence without further proof the documents authenticated by it.

MISCELLANEOUS.

30. The jurisdiction under Part I of this Act to hear a case and commit a fugitive to prison to await his return shall be exercised,—

(1) In England, by a chief magistrate of the metropolitan police courts or one of the other magistrates of the metropolitan police court at Bow Street; and

(2) In Scotland, by the sheriff or sheriff substitute of the county of Edinburgh; and

(3) In Ireland, by one of the police magistrates of the Dublin metropolitan police district; and

If a fugitive is apprehended and brought before a magistrate who has no power to exercise the jurisdiction under this Act in respect of that fugitive, that magistrate shall order the fugitive to be brought before some magistrate having that jurisdiction, and such order shall be obeyed.

31. It shall be lawful for Her Majesty in Council from time to time to make orders for the purposes of this Act, and to revoke and vary any order so made, and every order so made shall, while it is in force, have the same effect as if it were enacted in this Act.

Power as to making and revocation of Orders in Council.

An order in Council made for the purposes of this Act shall be laid before Parliament as soon as may be after it is made if Parliament is then in session, or if not, as soon as may be after the commencement of the then next session of Parliament.

(2) For determining the court, judge, magistrate, officer or person by whom and the manner in which any jurisdiction or power under this Act is to be exercised; or

(3) For payment of the costs incurred in returning a fugitive or a prisoner or in sending him back, if not prosecuted or is acquitted, or otherwise in the execution of this Act; or

(4) In any manner for the carrying of this Act or any part thereof into effect in that possession, it shall be lawful for Her Majesty by Order in Council to direct, if it seems to Her Majesty in Council necessary or proper for carrying into effect the objects of this Act, that such Act or Ordinance, or any part thereof, shall with or without modification or alteration be recognised and given effect to throughout Her Majesty's dominions and on the high seas as if it were part of this Act.

APPLICATION OF ACT.

33. Where a person accused of an offence can, by reason of the nature of the offence, or of the place in which it was committed, or otherwise, be, under this Act or otherwise, tried for or in respect of the offence in more than one part of Her Majesty's dominions, a warrant for the apprehension of such person may be issued in any part of Her Majesty's dominions in which he can, if he happens to be there, be tried; and each part of this Act shall apply as if the offence had been committed in the part of Her Majesty's dominions where such warrant is issued, and such person may be apprehended and returned in pursuance of this Act, notwithstanding that in the place in which he is apprehended a Court has jurisdiction to try him:

Application of Act to offences at sea or triable in several parts of Her Majesty's dominions.

Provided that if such person is apprehended in the United Kingdom a Secretary of State, and if he is apprehended in a British possession the Governor of such possession, may, if satisfied that, having regard to the place where the witnesses for the prosecution and for the defence are to be found, and to all the circumstances of the case, it would be conducive to the interests of justice so to do, order such person to be tried in that part of Her Majesty's dominions in which he is apprehended, and in such case any warrant previously issued for his return shall not be executed.

SEC. 33: INTERPRETATION.—The word "return" in sec. 33 is not to be read as implying that the offender is a fugitive from the country to which he is being sent for trial. (103 Law Times 473, Rel. on.) 112 L.C. 673=39 Cr.L.J. 1089=1928 Sind 161.

34. Where a person convicted by a Court in any part of Her Majesty's dominions of an offence committed either in Her Majesty's dominions or elsewhere, is unlawfully at large before the expiration of his sentence, each part of this Act shall apply to such person, so far as is inconsistent with the tenor thereof, in like manner as it applies to a person accused of the like offence committed in the part of Her Majesty's dominions in which such person was convicted.

35. Where a person accused of an offence is in custody in some part of Her Majesty's dominions, and the offence is one for or in respect of which, by reason of the nature thereof or of the place in which it was committed or otherwise, a person may under this Act or otherwise be tried in some other part of Her Majesty's dominions, in such case a superior court, and also if such person is in the United Kingdom a Secretary of State, and if he is in a British possession the Governor of that possession, if satisfied, that having regard to the place where the witnesses for the prosecution and for the defence are to be found, and to all the circumstances of the case, it would be conducive to the interests of justice so to do, may by warrant direct the removal of such offender to some other part of Her Majesty's dominions in which he can be tried, and the offender may be returned, and, if not prosecuted or acquitted, sent back free of cost in like manner as if he were a fugitive returned in pursuance of Part One of this Act, and the warrant were a warrant for the return of such fugitive, and the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

36. It shall be lawful for Her Majesty from time to time by order in Council to direct that this Act shall apply as if, subject to the conditions, exceptions, and qualifications (if any) contained in the order, any place out of Her Majesty's dominions in which Her Majesty has jurisdiction, and which is named in the Order, were a British possession, and to provide for carrying into effect such application.

37. This Act shall extend to the Channel Islands and Isle of Man as if they were part of England and of the United Kingdom, and the United Kingdom and those islands shall be deemed for the purpose of this Act to be one part of Her Majesty's dominions; and a warrant endorsed in pursuance of Part One of this Act may be executed in every place in the United Kingdom and the said islands accordingly.

38. This Act shall apply where an offence is committed before the commencement of this Act, or, in the case of Part Two of this Act, before the application of that part to a British possession or to the offence, in like manner as if such offence had been committed after such commencement or application.

CLS. (21) AND (40).—"THE GOVERN-MENT"—WHETHER INCLUDES BRITISH GOVERNMENT—"SHALL INCLUDE"—MEANING.—The expression, "includes" or "shall include" is used in interpretation clauses in two senses. The ordinary and general sense in which it is used is to enlarge the meaning of the words or phrases occurring in the body of the statute; and when it is so used, these words or phrases must be construed as comprehending not only such things as they signify according to their natural import, but also those things which the interpretation clause declares that they shall include. This expression is also susceptible of another construction which may become imperative, if the context of the Act is sufficient to show that it was not merely employed for the purpose of adding to the natural significance of the words or expression defined. It may be equivalent to "mean and include" and in that case it may afford an exhaustive explanation of the meaning which for the purposes of the Act must invariably be attached to those words or expression. The expression in sec. 3, Cls. 21 and 40, is used in the restricted sense as equivalents to mean and include. 28 S.L.R. 27=1934 Sind 96.

MORTGAGE OF FRUIT-BEARING TREES.—Whether or not a mortgage of fruit-bearing trees is a mortgage of immovable property is a question dependent in each case upon the intention of the contracting parties and cannot be settled by an inflexible rule. Where there is a mortgage with possession of fruit-bearing trees with the intention that the mortgagee is to remain in possession during the years of the mortgage and enjoy the fruits and should not cut down the trees so as to convert them to either timber or firewood, it must be held that the trees so mortgaged were either immovable property or at least an interest in immovable property and should be effected with the formalities prescribed by sec. 59, T. P. Act. 54 All. 437=140 I.C. 491. Though trees are immovable property, there is no presumption that whenever the word "land" is used in an enactment, the trees standing thereon are included. 29 N.L.R. 1=1933 N. 53. The expression "benefits to arise out of land" in the Act was never intended to cover such a matter as the security held by a mortgagee under a simple mortgage bond, by such 'benefits' as the right to a ferry. L. R. 5 All. 674. A mortgage is not "a benefit to arise out of land" within the meaning of sec. 3, Cl. (25). 57 Cal. 328=34 C.W.N. 605. See also 58 Cal. 136=1931 Cal. 223. Per Lord Atkin.—"Debts may be secured whether on immovable property or on merchandise; they may be wholly secured or partly secured; the security may have been given when the debt was created or later, but in any case the debts exist as movable property and do not, if secured, become identified with the security or transformed into land in the one case or merchandise in the other. The separation between debts and security is well established." 34 C.W. N. 1034=1931 P.C. 245=61 M.L.J. 589 (P. C.). As to mortgagee's interest, see 51 All. 494. A Kolhu (i.e., an iron sugarcane press) fastened to the ground is immovable property. 23 I.C. 250. The term "immovable property" in the General Clauses Act may include a right of way, but is not always necessarily included. It is not excluded by T. P. Act, sec. 3. 34 I.C. 450=20 C.W.N. 1158. The interest of the mortgagee in the mortgaged property is manifestly a "benefit to arise out of land" and is therefore itself immovable property. 12 B. 370=1934 Rang. 253 (F.B.). SECS. 6 AND 30: APPLICABILITY TO TEMPORARY ORDINANCES.—No doubt the General Clauses Act would certainly be applicable to the two Ordinances 2 and 10 of 1932 but sec. 6 is applicable to a case where a previous Ordinance has been "repealed" by a subsequent Ordinance or by a subsequent Act and would not necessarily apply to a case where a temporary Ordinance automatically expires after the period, during which it is in operation, is over. Hence although sec. 30 makes the Act applicable to the Ordinances, sec. 6 has no application to such temporary Ordinances. (1933 Cal. 280, Dist.) 1933 A.L.J. 875=1933 All. 669 (F.B.).

SEC. 6-A.—Effect of the section on sec. 7 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act. See (1938) 2 M.L.J. 863.

SEC. 7.—Cf. sec. 11 of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (52 and 53, Vic., c. 63).

REPEAL OF A REPEALING ENACTMENT, EF-

FFECT OF.—The mere repeal of a Repealing Act or the repealing portion of a Repealing Act does not, by itself, revive the original Act or the repealed portion thereof. 1 Weir 781=7 M.H.C.B. App. 8. See also 6 M. 336; 25 C. 333. The repeal of a statute repealing a certain enactment does not revive the repealed enactment. The law on this point as embodied in sec. 7 of Act X of 1897 is the same as in England. 25 C. 333=2 C.W.N. 11 (12 M. 94; 14 B. 381, Ref. and Appr.).

SEC. 8.—Cf. sec. 38 (1) of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (52 and 53 Vic., c. 63). See a similar provision in sec. 3 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (V of 1898). An amending section cannot be said to take retrospective effect so as to validate a pending action which would otherwise be barred under the old section. 35 C.W.N. 1147. An order of Government delegating its powers under a rule of the Defence of India Act to District Magistrates is not an "instrument" or an enactment within the meaning of sec. 8 (1) of this Act. A delegation cannot therefore be deemed to cover the delegation of such powers as might thereafter be brought into existence for the first time by re-enactment of the rules. 46 Bom.L.R. 495=A.I.R. 1944 Bom. 259.

SEC. 9.—This section would not apply in terms to a decree or order of Court, but it is desirable that for the sake of uniformity the same interpretation should be given to an expression occurring in a judicial order as would be given to it in a statute.

(2) This section applies also to all ¹[Central Acts] made after the third day of January, 1868, and to all Regulations made on or after the fourteenth day of January, 1887.

10. (1) Where, by any ¹[Central Act] or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, any act or proceeding is

WHEREAS India was a signatory to the International Convention for the Amelioration of the Conditions of the Wounded and Sick in Armies in the Field, drawn up in Geneva and dated the 27th day of July, 1929;

SECS. 30 AND 6: APPLICABILITY.—TEMPORARY ORDINANCES.—No doubt the General Clauses Act would certainly be applicable to the two Ordinances 2 and 10 of 1932, but sec. 6 is applicable to case where a previous Ordinance has been "repealed" by a subsequent Ordinance or by a subsequent Act and would not necessarily apply to a case where a temporary Ordinance automatically expired after the period, during which it is in operation is over. Hence although sec. 30 makes the Act applicable to the Ordinances, sec. 6 has no application to such temporary Ordinances. 4. Any person contravening the provisions of S. 2 or S. 3 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and when such contravention is committed by a company, association or body of individuals, then, without prejudice to the liability of such company, association or body, every member thereof who is knowingly a party to the contravention shall be liable to the like penalty.

5. No Criminal Court shall take cognizance of any offence punishable Previous sanction for under this Act except with the previous sanction of the [Central Government] ¹[* *].

6. Nothing in the foregoing sections shall affect the right of any person, to continue to use for a period of two years from the commencement of this Act any sign or emblem which it was not unlawful for him to use at the commencement of this Act.

CHAPTER IV.

[N.B.—See also 3 and 4, Geo. VI, Ch. 5, sec. 4.]

LEGISLATIVE POWERS OF GOVERNOR.

88. (1) If at any time when the Legislature of a Province is not in session the Governor is satisfied that circumstances exist which render it necessary for him to take immediate action, he may promulgate such ordinances as the circumstances appear to him to require:

Power of Governor to promulgate ordinances during recess of Legislature.

SEC. 88: ORDINANCES DURING RECESS.—Dealing with the Ordinances under this section it was said: "We are dealing with ordinances made upon the advice of Ministers. They are ordinances made in the field of special responsibility by the Governor, which are the kind of Ordinances that would be made here by the Government in a time of emergency as to which the Government of the day has to obtain parliamentary approval within a given time. I think the real check is the check of ministerial responsibility to the Provincial Council. These ordinances are made upon the advice of Ministers who are themselves responsible to the Provincial Council." (Par Deb. Vol. 299, Col. 1532.)

SECS. 88, 89: GOVERNOR'S ORDINANCE.—The Governor-General is the sole judge as regards the exercise of his powers and he is not bound to give any reasons for promulgating an ordinance such as the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1935, which when once promulgated becomes a lawful Act. 48 L.W. 813=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 863. See also 1943 Pat. 24 (F.B.)=22 Pat. 160; 1943 Bom. 169=45 Bom.L.R. 323=I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 331. 1943 Cal. 285=44 Cr.L.J. 673. See also notes under sec. 240.

CASES UNDER GOVT. OF BURMA ACT.—The

Court will not inquire whether circumstances in fact existed which rendered immediate action necessary before the promulgation of an ordinance. That is for the Governor to decide. The Court should not assume the burden of deciding for what purpose the action was necessary. Where in an ordinance the purpose is expressed to be that of enabling the Governor satisfactorily to discharge certain functions the Governor is the only judge of that. 1941 Rang.L.R. 101=193 I.C. 114=1941 Rang. 49. An ordinance duly promulgated has the same force and effect as an Act of the Legislature. 1941 Rang.L.R. 101=1941 Rang. 49.

ORDINANCE — PROMULGATION — DATE.—Promulgation of an ordinance without doubt connotes the fact of making the public aware of the existence of the new law. Promulgation of a new law takes place through the medium of the Official Gazette. It is wrong for the notifications which appear in the Gazette when an ordinance is first published therein to say, as they do: "The Governor has promulgated the following ordinance"; they should say "The Governor hereby promulgates the following ordinance." An ordinance therefore is promulgated on the date on which it is published in

Provided that the Governor—

(a) shall exercise his individual judgment as respects the promulgation of any ordinance under this section, if a Bill containing the same provisions would under this Act have required his or the Governor-General's previous sanction to the introduction thereof into the Legislature; and

(b) shall not without instructions from the Governor-General, acting in his discretion, promulgate any such ordinance, if a Bill containing the same provisions would under this Act have required the Governor-General's previous sanction for the introduction thereof into the Legislature, or if he would have deemed it necessary to reserve a Bill containing the same provisions for the consideration of the Governor-General.

(2) An ordinance promulgated under this section shall have the same force and effect as an Act of the Provincial Legislature assented to by the Governor, but every such ordinance—

(a) shall be laid before the Provincial Legislature and shall cease to operate at the expiration of six weeks from the reassembly of the Legislature or, if a resolution disapproving it is passed by the Legislative Assembly and agreed to by the Legislative Council, if any, upon the passing of the resolution or, as the case may be, on the resolution being agreed to by the Council:

the Gazette. 193 I.C. 91=1941 Rang. 5.

ORDINANCES — PROMULGATION — PUBLICATION — RELATION BETWEEN.—Promulgation and publication in the Official Gazette are not synonymous. There is a distinction between the two. Publication in the Official Gazette is not sine qua non of promulgation though it is a record that promulgation has taken place and a means of announcing the fact to the widest possible circle of individuals. Reading of an ordinance by the speaker to the House of Representatives is sufficient promulgation. 1941 Rang.L.R. 101=193 I.C. 114=1941 Rang. 49.

ORDINANCES — PREAMBLE—DESIRABILITY.—It is not legally necessary that an ordinance should have a Preamble setting out that the Governor is satisfied as required by the terms of the section and also the purpose for which the ordinance is promulgated. Legally all that is necessary is that the Governor should declare that he promulgates the ordinance; but the adoption of this suggestion might make for the better understanding by the public of the reason and necessity for the issue of an ordinance. 1941 Rang.L.R. 101=193 I.C. 114=1941 Rang. 49.

GOVERNOR'S POWERS—SCOPE OF—ORDINANCES—IMPLICATION UNDERLYING.—The Governor's functions are capable of being exercised in any of three different ways. Some are exercisable in his discretion which means that he need not ask for the aid or advice of his Ministers at all; a second group is exercisable, notwithstanding the advice of Ministers, in the exercise of his individual judgment; and a third group is exercisable under the guidance of his Ministers. Matters which are said to fall within the individual judgment of the Governor may fall within the second and third group according to the opinion formed by the Governor as to the course which he should take. Where therefore an ordinance issued is expressed it is implied that an opinion has been formed by the Governor and an individual judgment has been exercised by him. 1941 Rang. L.R. 101=193 I.C. 114=1941 Rang. 49. Whether ordinance has retrospective operations, see 1941 Rang.L.R. 321=1931 Rang. 151.

HIGH COURT, IF CAN GO INTO QUESTION AS TO AN ORDINANCE BEING WITHIN OR OUTSIDE THE POWERS OF THE GOVERNOR.—High Court is not precluded from enquiring whether an ordinance promulgated by the Governor is or is not within his powers. The Court can go into the question whether any provision or an ordinance promulgated is or is not void, on the ground that such provision, if it had been enacted in an Act of the Legislature would not have been valid. 193 I.C. 91=1941 Rang. 5. Ordinance—Duration—Computation of time. See 1941 Rang. 49=1941 Rang.L.R. 101.

The rationale and necessity for the power conferred by this section was thus explained on behalf of the Government to the committee of the House of Commons.

"This Bill sets up substantially Provincial autonomy, and the administration is carried on by Ministers. The Committee has already passed a clause which places on the Governor certain special responsibilities. Obviously, you cannot place special responsibilities on a man unless you give him the means of fulfilling those responsibilities. So far as executive action is concerned, and any executive action taken is in his name, he can, of course, act in his individual judgment or discretion if the Bill empowers him to do so, but, obviously also, if you look at the special responsibilities placed upon him, occasions may arise where, in order to fulfil those responsibilities, it is necessary for him to proceed by ordinance. Therefore, everyone on the Committee, wherever he sits, and whatever his general views about democracy, must agree that, granted that these special

(b) shall be subject to the provisions of this Act relating to the power of His Majesty to disallow Acts as if it were an Act of the Provincial Legislature assented to by the Governor; and

(c) may be withdrawn at any time by the Governor.

(3) If and so far as an ordinance under this section makes any provision which would not be valid if enacted in an Act of the Provincial Legislature assented to by the Governor, it shall be void.

89. (1) If at any time the Governor of a Province is satisfied that circumstances exist which render it necessary for him to take immediate action for the purpose of enabling him satisfactorily to discharge his functions in so far as he is by or under this Act required in the exercise thereof to act in his discretion, or to exercise his individual judgment, he may promulgate such ordinances as in his opinion the circumstances of the case require.

(2) An ordinance promulgated under this section shall continue in operation for such period not exceeding six months as may be specified therein, but may by a subsequent ordinance be extended for a further period not exceeding six months.

(3) An ordinance promulgated under this section shall have the same force and effect as an Act of the Provincial Legislature assented to by the Governor, but every such ordinance—

(a) shall be subject to the provisions of this Act relating to the power of His Majesty to disallow Acts as if it were an Act of the Provincial Legislature;

(b) may be withdrawn at any time by the Governor; and

(c) if it is an ordinance extending a previous ordinance for a further period, shall be communicated forthwith through the Governor-General to the Secretary of State and shall be laid by him before each House of Parliament.

(4) If and so far as an ordinance under this section makes any provision which would not be valid if enacted in an Act of the Provincial Legislature, it shall be void.

Provided that for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the effect of an Act of a Provincial Legislature which is repugnant to an Act of vornor, it is quite clear that, in order to fulfil them, it may be necessary for him to proceed by Ordinance. Therefore, it would be quite wrong to put the responsibility upon him and not to confer the Ordinance-making power. The Committee having passed Clause 52 and the other Clauses giving the Governor special responsibilities, that must be unanswerable." (Par. Deb. Vol. 299, Col. 1542.)

Under the Government of India Act, 1919, sec. 72 the power of promulgating Ordinances was vested only in Governor-General and Provincial Governors had no such power. If any such ordinance was needed for any particular Province, it had to be passed by the Governor-General. Where a detainee's application for habeas corpus is dismissed, but subsequently he is released by the Government on their own initiative in spite of the dismissal of the habeas corpus application it must be held that there is no longer any pending matter in which leave can be granted to appeal to His Majesty in Council. I.L.R. (1944) Kar. (F.C.) 1=(1944) F. L.J. 11=57 L.W. 212 (1)=A.I.R. 1944 F. C. 22=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 155 (F.C.). Act does not empower the High Court to interfere with a conviction and sentence passed in a criminal trial, apart from the appellate or revisional powers which it possesses under the Cr. P. Code. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 728=1944 F.L.J. 190=1944 N.L.J. 280=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 286.

SEC. 89: "ASSUME TO HIMSELF ALL OR ANY OF THE POWERS."—"In the event of a breakdown of the constitutional machinery, the Governor is not bound to take over the whole Government of the Province and administer it himself on his own undivided responsibility. The intention is to provide also for the possibility of a partial breakdown and to enable the Governor to take over part only of the machinery of Government, leaving the remainder to function according to the ordinary law. Thus the Governor might, if the breakdown were in the legislative machinery of the Province alone, still carry on the Government with the aid of his Ministers, if they were willing to support him; we are speaking of course of such a case as the refusal of the Legislature to function at all, and not merely of lesser conflicts or disputes between it and the Governor." (J.P.C. Report para. 109).

the Federal Legislature, an ordinance promulgated under this section shall be deemed to be an Act of the Provincial Legislature which has been reserved for the consideration of the Governor-General and assented to by him.

(5) The functions of the Governor under this section shall be exercised by him in his discretion but he shall not exercise any of his powers thereunder except with the concurrence of the Governor-General in his discretion:

Provided that, if it appears to the Governor that it is impracticable to obtain in time the concurrence of the Governor-General, he may promulgate an ordinance without the concurrence of the Governor-General, but in that case the Governor-General in his discretion may direct the Governor to withdraw the ordinance and the ordinance shall be withdrawn accordingly.

90. (1) If at any time it appears to the Governor that, for the purpose of enabling him satisfactorily to discharge his functions in so far as he is by or under this Act required in the exercise thereof to act in his discretion or to exercise his individual judgment, it is essential that provision should be made by legislation, he may by message to the Chamber or Chambers of the Legislature explain the circumstances which in his opinion render legislation essential and either—

(a) enact forthwith as a Governor's Act a Bill containing such provisions as he considers necessary; or

(b) attach to his message a draft of the Bill which he considers necessary.

(2) Where the Governor takes such action as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of the preceding sub-section, he may, at any time after the expiration of one month, enact, as a Governor's Act, the Bill proposed by him to the Chamber or Chambers either in the form of the draft communicated to them, or with such amendments as he deems necessary, but before so doing he shall consider any address which may have been presented to him within the said period by the Chamber or either of the Chambers with reference to the Bill or to amendments suggested to be made therein.

(3) A Governor's Act shall have the same force and effect, and shall be subject to disallowance in the same manner, as an Act of the Provincial Legislature assented to by the Governor and, if and so far as it makes any provision which would not be valid if enacted in an Act of that Legislature, shall be void:

Provided that, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act relating to the effect of an Act of a Provincial Legislature which is repugnant to an Act of the Federal Legislature, a Governor's Act shall be deemed to be an Act reserved for the consideration of the Governor-General and assented to by him.

(4) Every Governor's Act shall be communicated forthwith through the Governor-General to the Secretary of State and shall be laid by him before each House of Parliament.

(5) The functions of the Governor under this section shall be exercised by him in his discretion, but he shall not exercise any of his powers thereunder except with the concurrence of the Governor-General in his discretion.

CHAPTER VI.

PROVISIONS IN CASE OF FAILURE OF CONSTITUTIONAL MACHINERY.

93. (1) If at any time the Governor of a Province is satisfied that a situation has arisen in which the government of the Province cannot be carried on in accordance with the provisions of this Act, he may by Proclamation—

(a) declare that his functions shall, to such extent as may be specified in the Proclamation, be exercised by him in his discretion;

(b) assume to himself all or any of the powers vested in or exercisable by any Provincial body or authority;

and any such Proclamation may contain such incidental and consequential provisions as may appear him to be necessary or desirable for giving effect to the objects of the Proclamation, including provisions for suspending in whole or in part the operation of any provisions of this Act relating to any Provincial body or authority:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall authorize the Governor to assume to himself any of the powers vested in or exercisable by a High Court, or to suspend, either in whole or in part, the operation of any provision of this Act relating to High Courts.

(2) Any such Proclamation may be revoked or varied by a subsequent Proclamation.

(3) A Proclamation under this section—

(a) shall be communicated forthwith to the Secretary of State and shall be laid by him before each House of Parliament;

(b) unless it is a Proclamation revoking a previous Proclamation, shall cease to operate at the expiration of six months:

Provided that, if and so often as a resolution approving the continuance in force of such a Proclamation is passed by both Houses of Parliament, the Proclamation shall, unless revoked, continue in force for a further period of twelve months from the date on which under this sub-section it would otherwise have ceased to operate, but no such Proclamation shall in any case remain in force for more than three years.

(4) If the Governor, by a Proclamation under this section, assumes to himself any power of the Provincial Legislature to make laws, any law made by him in the exercise of that power shall, subject to the terms thereof, continue to have effect until two years have elapsed from the date on which the Proclamation ceases to have effect, unless sooner repealed or re-enacted by Act of the appropriate Legislature, and any reference in this Act to Provincial Acts, Provincial laws, or Acts or laws of a Provincial Legislature shall be construed as including a reference to such a law.

(5) The functions of the Governor under this section shall be exercised by him in his discretion and no Proclamation shall be made by a Governor under this section without the concurrence of the Governor-General in his discretion.

102. (1) Notwithstanding anything in the preceding sections of this chapter, Federal Legislature shall, if the Governor-

Power of Federal Legislature to legislate if an emergency is proclaimed.

General has in his discretion declared by Proclamation (in this Act referred to as a "Proclamation of Emergency") that a grave emergency exists whereby the security of India is threatened, whether by war or internal disturbance, have power to make laws for a Province or any part thereof with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the Provincial Legislative List:

SEC. 102.—"Emergency" means something in existence which calls for immediate action. 44 Cr.L.J. 673=1943 Cal. 285.

The official report of the Proceedings of the House of Lords can be accepted as proof that the proclamation of emergency made by the Governor-General under sec. 102 has been approved by the House. 75 C.L.J. 90=(1942) F.L.J. (H.C.) 180=1942 Cal. 464.

STATE OF EMERGENCY—GOVERNOR-GENERAL—SOLE JUDGE: Per Niyogi, J.—The Governor-General is the sole judge of whether a state of emergency exists and therefore it must be assumed that there was an emergency when he declared that there was. The Governor-General is not bound to give any reason for promulgating an Ordinance. It is sufficient for him to declare that an emergency has arisen to enable him to issue Ordinance. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 73=6 F.L.J. (H.C.) 53=1943 N.L.J. 16=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 36; 22 Pat. 555=1943 Pat. 348=24 Pat.L.T. 302.

WHEN COMES INTO OPERATION: Per Niyogi, J.—Sec. 102 comes into play when the security of India is threatened. There may be war or internal disorders but the existence of either factor is neutral unless either one or the other becomes a menace to the security of India and gives rise to a grave emergency. As sec. 102 contemplates a threat to the security arising Provided that no Bill or amendment for the purposes aforesaid shall be introduced or moved without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in his discretion, and the Governor-General shall not give his sanction unless it appears to him that the provision proposed to be made is a proper provision in view of the nature of the emergency.

(2) Nothing in this section shall restrict the power of a Provincial Legislature to make any law which under this Act it has power to make, but if any provision of a Provincial law is repugnant to any provision of a Federal law which the Federal Legislature has under this section power to make, the Federal law, whether passed before or after the Provincial law, shall prevail, and the Provincial law shall to the extent of the repugnancy, but so long as the Federal law continues to have effect, be void.

(3) A Proclamation of Emergency—

(a) may be revoked by a subsequent Proclamation;

(b) shall be communicated forthwith to the Secretary of State and shall be laid by him before each House of Parliament; and

(c) shall cease to operate at the expiration of six months, unless before the expiration of that period it has been approved by Resolutions of both Houses of Parliament.

(4) A law made by the Federal Legislature which that Legislature would not but for the issue of a Proclamation of Emergency have been competent to make shall cease to have effect on the expiration of a period of six months after the Proclamation has ceased to operate, except as respects things done or omitted to be done before the expiration of the said period.

CIVIL SERVICES.

General Provisions.

240. (1) Except as expressly provided by this Act, every person who is a member of a civil service of the Crown in India, or holds any civil post under the Crown in India, holds office during His Majesty's pleasure.

from either of the two factors in the absence of the other, the word "or" occurring between "war" and "internal disturbances" in sec. 102 cannot be read as "and" although it is conceivable that both factors may come into operation at one and the same time. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 73=1943 N.L.J. 16=A.I.R. 1943 Nag. 36.

Niyogi and Digby, JJ.—The Civil Courts in India have inherent jurisdiction to enquire into the validity of any laws passed by the Indian Legislature or by the Provincial Legislature. The Legislatures in India are constituted under the Government of India Act, 1935, and their powers are circumscribed by the limits imposed by that Act. Their laws are therefore subject to scrutiny by the High Courts in a manner in which the laws passed by the British Parliament are not. The Governor-General has been invested with powers in certain specified circumstances to enact laws or to make and promulgate ordinances subject to certain conditions; but his legislative power is no greater than that of the Indian Legislature. The High Court therefore has authority to enquire into the validity of the Special Criminal Courts Ordinance. I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 73=1943 N.L.

SEC. 240: TENURE OF OFFICE OF CIVIL SERVANTS.—This section reproduces in substance the provisions of sec. 96-B of the Government of India Act, 1919. The slight variations in the language of the opening words of this section compared with the old section serve to emphasise that the tenure of all civil services is at pleasure, if ever it was open to doubt. The use of the words "subject to the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder" before specifying the tenure gave rise to the argument in Venkata Rao v. Secretary of State, (1937) 1 M.L.J. 529=64 I.A. 55, that the Statute gave servants of the Crown a right enforceable by action to hold office in accordance with the rules and that they could only be dismissed as provided by the rules and in accordance with the procedure prescribed thereby. Their Lordships of the Judicial Committee negatived this contention observing: "Sec. 96-B in express terms states that office is held at pleasure. There is therefore no need for the implication of this term and no room for its exclusion. The argument for a limited and special kind of employment during pleasure but with an added contractual term that the rules are to be observed is at once too artificial and too far-reaching to commend itself for acceptance". (See Venkata Rao v. Secretary of State, (1937) 1 M.L.J. 529 (535)=64 I.A. 55). The omission of those words from the section makes it clear that the tenure is an unqualified one at pleasure. The exceptions provided for in the opening words relate to the office of Judges of the High Courts and the Federal Court, and of the Auditor-General of India and the Auditor-General of Home Accounts whose tenure of office is during good behaviour and who are removable only on the ground of misbehaviour or infirmity of mind or body if the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council on reference being made to them by His Majesty report that the official ought in any such ground to be removed. It is a fundamental principle, based on public policy, that the Crown should have the unfettered discretion to remove a public servant at pleasure, and even a contract to engage him for a fixed term, if there be no statute law authorising it, would not be available to him, such a contract being void as against public policy. This power to dismiss at will can only be controlled by a statute but cannot be abridged or controlled by rules or regulations of service, even if those rules or regulations are framed under powers given by a statute. Consequently, the dismissal or discharge of a civil servant in violation of the Fundamental Rules would not entitle him to an appeal to the Civil Court but would leave him to appeal only to the administrative authorities. 43 C.W.N. 1186=68 C.L.J. 320=1938 Cal. 759. See also 46 L.W. 242=1937 Mad. 777. A servant of the Crown in India holds his appointment at the pleasure of the Crown and is liable to dismissal at the will and pleasure of the Crown, notwithstanding a contract to the contrary, unless the Crown has deprived itself of its prerogative in some way expressly recognised by law, nor can an action for wrongful dismissal be entertained even though a special contract be proved. A refusal to employ a person to whom employment has been offered does not stand on a different footing, because the power to dismiss an employee at pleasure involves the power to refuse to employ a person accepting an offer of employment. 39 Bom. L. R. 807=1937 Bom. 449. The words 'subject to the rules' appearing in sec. 96-B, of Government of India Act, are not superfluous and ineffective. The section contains a statutory and solemn assurance that the tenure of office held by servants of the Crown though at pleasure, will not be subject to capricious or arbitrary action but will be regulated by rule. The provisions for appeal in the rules are made pursuant to the principle so laid down. Redress therefore in such cases is not obtainable from the Courts by action. It is so even where there has been serious and complete failure to adhere to important and fundamental rules, as for instance in the case of a person who has been dismissed from service without any investigation into the charge. The remedy of the person aggrieved does not lie by a suit in Court but by way of appeal of official kind. 64 I.A. 55=I. L. R. (1937) Mad. 532=1937 P. C. 31=(1937) 1 M. L. J. 529 (P. C.). See also 1937 Rang. L. R. 35=1937 Rang. 89 (S. B.); 165 I. C. 834=1936 O.W.N. 1140=1937 Oudh 209. Although by virtue of sec. 96-B, a statutory right is created between the Crown and the servant, it is not to be implied that any provisions in Statute 23 of 1871, repugnant to the terms of the Statute creating such right are repealed or rendered inapplicable to such a case. Statute of 1919 does not confer right of action to enforce the rules made thereunder. I.L.R. (1937) Mad. 517=64 I.A. 40=41 C.W.N. 545=1937 P.C. 27=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 515 (P.C.). In a case in which after Government officials, duly competent and duly authorised in that behalf, have arrived honestly at one decision, their successors in office after the decision has been acted upon and is in effective operation, cannot purport to enter upon a reconsideration of the matter and to arrive at another and totally different decision. Where a Sub-Inspector of Police was granted an invalid pension by a competent authority and thus duly ceased to be in service, and the officer succeeding the authority, which had granted the pension, reconsidered the matter and ordered his removal from the service. Held, that the servant had suffered a wrong and therefore had every right to complain of the stoppage of pension as a breach of rules relating to pensions. 64 I.A. 40=I.L. R. (1937) Mad. 517=1937 P.C. 27=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 515 (P.C.). R. 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) Rules, which provides for the case of a departmental inquiry into charges against a Government servant who is subject to the rule, contains a safeguard to the effect that none of the graver penalties—dismissal, removal or reduction—which the authority competent under the rule to depute some posed upon the person charged unless he has been given an adequate opportunity of defending himself. But the rule does not state that the authority concerned shall itself hold the inquiry. The authority is competent under the rule to depute some subordinate officer to hold the inquiry. The purpose of the rule is to enable a Government servant to defend himself when his conduct is the subject of a charge which is to be departmentally investigated. And so long as the conditions of the rule are followed, there is nothing prejudicial to the Government servant in the circumstance that the inquiry is held not by the authority itself which imposes the punishment but by some subordinate officer deputed by that authority for the purpose. 1937 M.W.N. 821=46 L.W. 531=1937 Mad. 735=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 189. AUTHORITY OF SECRETARY OF STATE TO REMOVE PERSON FROM I.C.S.—Sec. 240 contains provisions for the benefit of the members of a public service. The intention of Parliament is to protect the members of those services against arbitrary action by Government swayed by political majorities or even political bias. These provisions are a limitation on the power of the Crown to dismiss at pleasure and sub-sec. (4) deliberately curtails the common law right of the Crown. The Secretary of State has therefore no authority to remove a person from the I.C.S., if the enquiries are illegal or ultra vires. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 240.

The Secretary of State as the appointing authority has authority to remove a person from the Indian Civil Service. The power to dismiss is not restricted to His Majesty under the Royal Sign Manual. But it is incumbent on the Secretary of State for India to hold an inquiry before removing the person from service. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 240.

DEFECTS IN PROCEDURE—“CUMULATIVE EFFECT HAMPERING OF DEFENCE.—A defect in procedure will not help the servant even if the enquiry be not in strict conformity with the Civil Service Rules. If however the cumulative effect of the various defects is the hampering the defence the enquiry would be bad. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 240.

FURTHER ENQUIRY—LEGALITY.—As a matter of law, a further enquiry in continuation of a prior enquiry can be ordered. A.I.R. 1944 Lah. 240.

L, who was a member of the Indian Civil Service was informed that the Punjab Government had decided to hold a departmental enquiry under Rule 55 of the Civil Services (Classification, Control and Appeal) rules into his conduct, and the copies of the charges framed against him were also enclosed. He was asked to furnish a written statement of his defence, which he did. An officer, S, was appointed to hold the departmental enquiry who after making an enquiry submitted his report to the Government. This report was not disclosed to L in spite of his repeated requests for a copy of it. The Government informed L that S who had held the preliminary enquiry was unable to complete it and that its completion had been entrusted to another officer, B. B informed L of this and asked the latter to arrange to meet him on a later date when all the available materials would be gone into. L took up the position that the enquiry against him was over and that if it was said to be incomplete, he might be given a copy of the report of S and the order of the Government thereon. The Government refused to give either and persisted in that attitude to the very end. Then L met B and after protesting that he was not being given adequate opportunity of defending himself as provided by Rule 55 of the Civil Service Regulations, stated what he had to say in his defence. B made his report which was sent on to the Federal Public Service Commission together with some findings and recommendations of the Punjab Government thereon for their consideration. The Punjab Government was later informed that the commission concurred in the views of that Government that L was unfit to be retained in the I.C.S. and that he be removed from service. L's removal from the I.C.S. was notified in the Gazette and he was informed of his removal and given a copy of the letter from the Federal Public Service Commission. After carrying on some correspondence with the Government in seeking to get redress, L finally filed a suit for a declaration that the order of his removal from the I.C.S. was not passed in due course of law and was wrongful, illegal and ultra vires of the Government. Held (Varadachariar, J. dissenting), that L was wrongfully dismissed from the Indian Civil Service. 49 C.W.N. Per Spens, C.J. (Zafulla Khan J., concurring)—The power of the Secretary of State to dismiss, after the coming into operation of the Constitution Act of 1935, members of the Indian Civil Service, who were appointed by the Secretary of State in Council prior to the commencement of Part III of the Act, is implied in the Constitution Act itself. Even otherwise an exercise of the power of dismissal from one of His Majesty's services by the principal Secretary of State concerned is the proper constitutional manner in which the power of the crown should be exercised. The general rule of law is that except as otherwise provided by statute, servants of the crown hold their appointments at the pleasure of the crown. Where in the case of any particular servants of the crown, statutory limitations or qualifications on the right of dismissal are found in statutes in which the general rule is not expressly enacted but left to have operation, if at all, only by implication, it is possible for Courts to hold that those limitations and qualifications are mandatory and effective and breach of them gives rise to a cause of action. On the other hand, where such limitations and qualifications are found only in rules made under a statute, which whilst expressly enacting that servants of the crown hold office during His Majesty's pleasure also provides that such tenure is subject to the provisions of the rules made thereunder, none the less, breach of the provisions of such rule may afford no cause of action at all. Again it may also well be that any limitation or qualification on the power of the crown to dismiss its servants at will attempted to be imposed by contract or agreement between some authority purporting to contract on behalf of the Crown and that servant is not legally enforceable and will give to the servant no cause of action if in fact he be dismissed in breach of any such agreement. There is no reason to confine the construction of the opening words of sec. 240 of the Constitution Act "Except as expressly provided by done in the execution of his duty as a servant of the Crown in India or Burma before the relevant date, except with the consent, in the case of a person who was employed in connection with the affairs of the Government of India or the affairs of Burma, of the Governor-General in his discretion, and in the case of a person employed in connection with the affairs of a Province, of the Governor of that Province in his discretion.

this Act" to provisions of the Act outside sec. 240 itself. The words are apt enough to include a limitation or qualification on what follows in sub-sec. (1) by provisions found. 49 C.W.N. (F.R.) 63=A.I.R. 1945 F. C. 47=(1945) F.L.J. 129 (case law discussed).

SEC. 256: PROPER AUTHORITY DIRECTED TO BE CONSULTED UNDER—NON-COMPLIANCE WITH DIRECTION—APPOINTMENT, IF RENDERED INEFFECTIVE.—When it is proposed to grant magisterial powers or enhanced magisterial powers to a person, the proper authority to be consulted in pursuance of the direction contained in sec. 256 of the Constitution Act is the District Magistrate of the District, in which the person concerned is working at the time when the recommendation is made, or the Chief Presidency Magistrate if the person concerned is at the time working under him. The services of a Magistrate were borrowed from another province, and on these being placed at the disposal of the Bengal Government, he was appointed Additional Presidency Magistrate at Calcutta. On a contention that his appointment was made without consulting the Chief Presidency Magistrate Calcutta, and was therefore ineffective and inoperative. Held, that in the circumstances the consultation should have been made with the District Magistrate of the District in which the Magistrate concerned was working in his own province when the question of his appointment came under consideration. Held, further, that the direction laid down in sec. 256 was directory and not mandatory, and non-compliance with it would not render an appointment otherwise regularly and validly made ineffective or inoperative. (1945) F. L.J. 103.

SEC. 270: INDEMNITY FOR THE PAST.—This section carries out the recommendations of the Joint Parliamentary Committee in Para. 283 of their Report. They stated: "The White Paper proposes that there shall be a full indemnity against civil and criminal proceedings in respect of all acts before the commencement of the Constitution Act done in good faith and done or purported to be done in the execution of duty. In view of threats which have been made in certain quarters, especially against the Police, we think that it is justifiable to give this measure of protection to men who have done no more than their duty in every difficult and trying circumstances." Explaining the section, it was stated in Parliament: "The section deals with past acts. It does not take the exact form of an indemnity, but it is an indemnity of a kind. As far as the future is concerned, obviously it would not be right to give what would appear to be in any sense an indemnity in advance. There are no doubt special circumstances which make it desirable to have something in the nature of an indemnity. In regard to the future, as I have indicated, obviously it would be very undesirable, and indeed wrong, to appear to be casting a cloak in advance irrespective of the type of charge that might be made." (Par. Deb. Vol., Col. 877.) In regard to the future the protection is afforded by the next section, sec. 271.

SECS. 270 AND 271: PROTECTION AFFORDED TO PUBLIC SERVANT—NATURE AND EXTENT OF.—Sec. 270 (1) applies not only to criminal proceedings, but also to the institution of civil proceedings. In the institution of criminal proceedings, the protection of public interests is the main concern, and it may well be left to the Local Government to determine the question of the expediency of a prosecution from that point of view. But when a citizen seeks a civil remedy against a public servant, the Legislature must be presumed to have been very cautious in depriving the aggrieved citizens of redress in a Court of law, and any restrictions on such a remedy imposed in the interest of the public servant should not be lightly extended so as to unduly restrict the remedy of the citizen. 50 L.W. 95=43 C.W.N. (F.C.R.) 50=2 Fed.L.J. 153=1939 F.C. 43=(1939) 2 M.L.J. (Supp.) 23.

Sec. 270 is very wide in its terms and prohibits the initiation of proceedings in respect of the acts described therein against all servants of the Crown, employed in connection with the affairs of the Province, whether they are "Gazetted Officers" or not. 184 I.O. 680=1939 Lah. 479.

Per Niyogi and Sen, JJ.—If, a Crown servant acts in his official capacity under the orders of his superior officer honestly thinking that it is his duty to obey him, he will be purporting to act in the execution of his duty even if his act is not justified or authorised by law, and he will be protected by sec. 270 (1) of the Act. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 650=1944 F.L.J. 250=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 337.

Per Niyogi and Digby, JJ.—Sec. 270 (1) accords protection to servants of the Crown employed in connection with the affairs of the Government of India against proceedings instituted after that section came into force on the 1st April, 1937, in respect of acts done or purported to be done in execution of duty before the relevant date, although the relevant date has not been fixed by His Majesty under sec. 320 (1) of the Act. I.L.R. 1944 Nag. 650=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 337. The State could not be held liable for the improper conduct of public servants unless of the Government or had been subsequently adopted and ratified by it. (1944) 1 M.L.J. 399=48 C.W.N. (F.R.) 85=57 L.W. 410. It is quite obvious from a perusal of the various sections of Part X of the Government of India Act that crown services include the subordinate as well as the superior civil services and there is no warrant for holding that the chapter in general and sec. 270 in particular apply only to the case of the superior civil services. A member of the Bombay Subordinate Medical Service is a servant of the crown and doing duty as such within the meaning of sec. 270, and therefore the consent of the Governor is necessary for his prosecution in respect of an act done by him in the execution of his duty as a servant of the crown. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 770=40 Bom.L.R. 825=1938 Bom. 419. The word "duty" in sec. 270 is not necessarily confined to a legal duty. Civil servants who are Medical Officers are obviously bound to obey the rule in the Medical Code, made for the guidance of such officers and it is their duty to obey them. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 770=40 Bom.L.R. 825=1938 Bom. 419. When the acts of the official trustee complained of are done during the course of administration of the trust as an ordinary trustee under sec. 7 (1) (a) of the Official Trustees Act, his acts cannot be said to be done 'in the execution of his duty as a servant of the Crown' and hence the consent of the Governor is not necessary in respect of a suit against such a trustee for breaches in respect of a private trust. 1940 Rang.L.R. 273=1940 Rang. 207. See also 49 C.W.N. (F.R.) 55=(1945) F.L.J. 44.

A plea of want of the requisite consent under sec. 270, is unsustainable in the case of a trial under the Criminal Law (Amendment) Ordinance, 1943, since the Governor-General has himself made and promulgated the Ordinance, for the express purpose of setting up tribunals for the trial of persons mentioned in the 1st Schedule thereto. 23 Pat. 457=1944 Pat. 378.

"PURPORTING TO BE DONE"—MEANING OF —TEST TO FIND OUT.—The words "purporting to be done" in sec. 270 (1), must be given their full meaning. Clearly, used in their context, they mean something more than "done". There must be something in the nature of the act complained of that attaches it to the official capacity of the person doing it. I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 328=4 F.L.J. (H.C.) 383=1941 Sind 204. Per Bowland, J. (Obiter).—If an act done by public officer is apparently an official act, its character as such will not be changed by allegations that it was done in bad faith or that it had not that character which it purports to have. The applicability of the statute [sec. 270 (1)] depends on what the act purports to be and is not affected by any allegations that the apparent state of things is not the real one. The allegation that an official act was maliciously and corruptly done will not derogate from its official character if it had that character, and what applies to the attribution of malice or corrupt motive in the mind of a single officer applies no less where the same malice is attributed to him jointly with others. The taking of cognizance of an offence on complaint, by a sub-divisional officer, whether done in good or bad faith, is clearly an official act of that officer, purporting to be done in the execution of his duty as a Magistrate. It is an act which he cannot do in any other capacity and one without which there can be no institution of a criminal proceeding and it can form no foundation for a suit against him. 20 Pat. 417=(1941) P.W.N. 225=1941 Pat. 385.

CHARGE UNDER SECS. 409 AND 477-A, I. P. CODE, AGAINST PUBLIC SERVANT—CONSENT OF GOVERNOR.—The consent of the Governor would be prima facie necessary in respect of the latter charge. The question whether or not the particular act complained of is one "purporting to be done in execution of his duty" as a public servant is substantially one of fact, to be determined with reference to the act complained of and to the attendant circumstances. 1939 P.W.N. 429=50 L.W. 95=43 C.W.N. (F.C.R.) 50=I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 400=(1939) 2 M.L.J. (Supp.) 23. See also 1941 Sind 204. The offence under sec. 408 or sec. 409, I. P. C., is not one in respect of which the protection of sec. 270 of the Government of India Act can be claimed. 49 C.W.N. (F.R.) 55=(1945) F.L.J. 44 (F.C.). See also 1942 A.M.L.J. 73. (Theft of Government property). To attract the provision of sec. 270 (1) it was not sufficient merely to establish that the person proceeded against was a public servant and that while acting as a public ser-

(2) Any civil or criminal proceedings instituted, whether before or after the coming into operation of this Part of this Act, against any person in respect of any act done or purporting to be done in the execution of his duty as a servant of the Crown in India or Burma before the relevant date shall be dismissed unless the Court is satisfied that the acts complained of were not done in good faith, and, where any such proceedings are dismissed, the costs incurred by the defendant shall, in so far as they are not recoverable from the persons instituting the proceedings, be charged, in the case of persons employed in connection with the functions of the Governor-General in Council or the affairs of Burma, on the revenues of the Federation, and in the case of persons employed in connection with the affairs of a Province, on the revenues of that Province.

(3) For the purposes of this section—

the expression “the relevant date” means, in relation to acts done by persons employed about the affairs of a Province or about the affairs of Burma, the commencement of Part III of this Act and, in relation to acts done by persons employed about the affairs of the Federation, the date of the establishment of the Federation;

references to persons employed in connection with the functions of the Governor-General in Council include references to persons employed in connection with the affairs of any Chief Commissioner’s Province;

a person shall be deemed to have been employed about the affairs of a Province if he was employed about the affairs of the Province as constituted at the date when the act complained of occurred or is alleged to have occurred.

vant, or taking advantage of his position as a public servant, he did certain acts; it must be established that the act complained of was an official act. The act of receiving illegal gratification could not be an act done or purporting to be done in the execution of duty, and the conviction of a station master by a special tribunal of an offence under sec. 161, I. P. C. is not bad for want of consent of the Governor General under sec. 270 (f). 23 Pat. 517=48 C.W.N. (F.R.) 109=1944 A.L.J. 258=(1944) F.L.J. 167=A.I.R. 1944 F.C. 66=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 503 (F.C.). Sec. 270 (1) applies to prosecutions of officers of the central services instituted during the transitional period under the Defence of India Rules, R. 81. (1944) F.L.J. 44=46 P.L.R. 130=1944 Lah. 51 (F.B.). S. 270 of the Government of India Act is intended to protect public servants for acts committed before the relevant date in respect of which proceedings may be started against them. The motive with which the acts are done is immaterial. What has to be looked at is that the offence must be in respect of an act done or purporting to be done in execution of a duty, i.e., in the discharge of an official duty. Plaintiff brought a suit claiming damages against two defendants who were Income-tax Officers, the 1st defendant being the superior officer of the 2nd defendant, alleging that the 2nd defendant purporting to act under the orders of the 1st defendant trespassed into the plaintiff's premises and took away all the plaintiff's account books wrongfully against his will and consent. The defendants raised a preliminary point that the suit was not maintainable without the consent of the Governor-General under sec. 270 of the Government of India Act. Held, that the acts alleged against the defendants were so closely connected with their position as Income-tax Officers as to make it impossible to say that they were not the kind of acts which are contemplated under the section, and sec. 270 of the Government of India Act operated as a bar to suit in the absence of the consent of the Governor-General. 1942 I.T.R. 413=55 L.W. 687=1942 F.L.J. (H.C.) 151=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 523=1943 Mad. 167.

A suit for damages for wrongful arrest alleged to have been made by police officers (servants of the Crown) falls within the ambit of sec. 270 (2) of the Act, and the onus of proving want of bona fides in making the arrest would lie on the plaintiff and it is not for the defendants to prove bona fides. 55 L.W. 611 (1)=1942 F.L.J. Where the charges against certain servants of the Crown not only stated that the alleged criminal acts were done by them while they were engaged in the execution of their duties as such servants but they also showed that their official capacity was involved in the acts complained of as amounting to a crime. Held, that the consent prescribed in sec. 270 was required for initiating proceedings against them. 184 I.C. 680=1939 Lah. 479. Under the rules framed by the Governor of the Punjab it is not necessary

Under sec. 270, the consent of a Governor is a condition precedent to the institution of the proceedings, and the necessity for such consent cannot be made to depend upon the case which the accused or the defendant may put forward after the proceedings have been instituted, but must be determined with reference to the nature of the allegations made against the public servant in the suit or criminal proceeding. 43 C.W.N. In cases to which sec. 270 of the Constitution Act applies, the words of the section require that if proceedings be instituted before sanction under the section is obtained, such proceedings are wholly void and new proceedings must be instituted after the sanction is obtained. 49 C.W.N. (F.R.) 55=(1945) F.L.J. 44 (F.C.). The provisions of sub-sec. (1), sec. 270 are mandatory, and admit of no reservation or exception. They contain a positive prohibition against the institution of civil and criminal proceedings against the persons described in the section in respect of the acts mentioned, without such consent. In other words, the Government's consent is an essential pre-requisite to the competency of the Court to entertain the proceedings. It is the very foundation of the Court's jurisdiction, and its absence renders the entire proceedings void ab initio. Such an illegality cannot be cured under sec. 537, Cr. P. Code, even when no prejudice has been shown to have been caused. Where therefore the initiation of proceedings is illegal for want of consent, but those proceedings are transferred to another Court which begins with the case afresh, subsequent production of consent even though it is before the commencement of the trial de novo, cannot validate what was invalid at

Per Sen, J.—If an objection is raised at an early stage before any evidence is led that the prosecution against a Crown servant is not maintainable for want of requisite consent under sec. 270 (1) of the Government of India Act, it has to be decided on the allegations in the charge sheet. But where the objection is taken in appeal after the trial has been concluded and judgment has been delivered by the trial Court, it is open to the appellate Court to decide the question on the findings arrived at by the trial Court. J.L.R. (1944) Nag. 650.

ACTS OF A PUBLIC SERVANT DONE AFTER APRIL, 1937.—As part III of the Government of India Act came into force only in April, 1937, the act referred to in sec. 270 (1) of the Government of India Act, is an act done prior to April, 1937. Hence sec. 270 (1) can have no application to the acts of a public servant after April, 1937. 1940 O.W.N. 494=1940 Oudh 382=15 Luck. 740. [See also Notes under sec. 271, infra.]

(b) in the case of a person employed in connection with the affairs of a Province, by the Governor of that Province exercising his individual judgment:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed as restricting the power of the Federal or a Provincial Legislature to amend the said section by a Bill or amendment introduced or moved with such previous sanction as is mentioned in sub-section (1) of this section.

(3) Where a civil suit is instituted against a public officer, within the meaning of that expression as used in the Indian Code of Civil Procedure, in respect of any act purporting to be done by him in his official capacity, the whole or any part of the costs incurred by him and of any damages or costs ordered to be paid by him shall, if the Governor-General exercising his individual judgment so directs in the case of a person employed in connection with the affairs of the Federation, or if the Governor exercising his individual judgment so directs in the case of a person employed in connection with the affairs of a Province, be defrayed out of and charged on the revenues of the Federation or of the Province, as the case may be.

"relevant date"—no proceedings had been started in Court against the official. The consent of the Governor or the Governor-General as the case may be 'acting in his discretion' is constituted a condition precedent to the institution of the proceedings.

SUB-SEC. (2).—This deals with cases which had been already instituted and are pending in Court on the "relevant date". The Court is directed to dismiss the proceedings unless it is satisfied that the acts complained of were not done in good faith. The Joint Parliamentary Committee recommended that the certificate by the Governor or Governor-General as the case may be that the act was done in good faith, should be conclusive and binding on the Court; this has not been accepted and the matter has been left to the Courts to decide.

SEC. 271: PROTECTION OF PUBLIC SERVANTS.—Speaking on this section the Solicitor-General said:—"In order to re-assure these officials, Indians just as much as British, who are anxious that there shall be no doubt that there is proper protection against vexatious and unjustifiable criminal proceedings, we propose to give the Governor or the Governor-General the last word. But it is most undesirable and entirely against the best interests of the services of India, or officials in any country where British ideas prevail, that you should give, or tend to give, the impression that they are hedged off and free to do as they like, and that no one can get at them. On the other hand, it is equally necessary, particularly in a country like India, that where there is a danger of their being harassed by vexatious or maliciously-motivated proceedings, they should be given fair and proper protection. After all, it not only causes mental anxiety, and so on, to a Magistrate; but is bad for the administration of law and justice if a Magistrate, because some person thinks he has a grievance, should be put into the dock and have to justify his action. "At present there is nothing to prevent a person issuing a writ, or whatever may be the proper technical term in India, against an official for damages for some civil wrong which he alleges has been committed. I do not think it would be right as a permanent part of the Constitution, as it were, to impose a barrier, even though it be a discretionary barrier, between a member of the public and the official whom he is saying has invaded his private rights. After all, civil actions would extend to such cases as motor accidents; and they would extend no doubt to unjustified assaults. I suppose it might be possible to conceive a libel in which words might have been written or uttered in the course of carrying out official duties." "It is a great principle, and we do not wish to invade it, that if an ordinary member of the public has a wrong committed against him, be it by an official or a non-official person, he has the right to issue his writ and claim his redress in the Courts. We think it would be undesirable to put up, or even to attempt to put up, as a permanent part of this Constitution, a barrier in cases where officials are concerned. But it seems to us that what really affects an official who has a civil claim made against him is the question of costs and the question of any damages that he may have to pay." (Par. Deb., Vol. 300, Cols. 879 et seq.)

PROTECTION OF CROWN SERVANTS.—Sec. 124 of the Government of Burma Act purports to be a general indemnity to all servants of the Crown for acts committed in the execution of their duty as such before the commencement of the Act. The protection given by this section is in addition to the existing protection given by sec. 197 of the Cr. P. Code. 1938 Rang.L.R. 116=1938 Rang. 189. There is nothing in the Government of India Act of 1935, which imposes a legal obligation upon the Governor of a Province to consult his minister before sanctioning under sec. 196, Cr. P. Code, a prose-

(1) Where any person has been sentenced to death in a Province, the Governor-General in his discretion shall have all such powers of suspension, remission or commutation of sentence as were vested in the Governor-General in Council immediately before the commencement of Part III of this Act, but save as aforesaid no authority in India outside a Province shall have any power to suspend, remit or commute the sentence of any person convicted in the Province:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section affects any power of any officer of His Majesty's forces to suspend, remit or commute a sentence passed by a Court martial.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall derogate from the right of His Majesty, or of the Governor-General, if any such right is delegated to him by His Majesty, to grant pardons, reprieves, respites or remissions of punishment.

306. (1) No proceedings whatsoever shall lie in, and no process whatsoever shall issue from, any Court in India against the Governor-General, against the Governor of a Province, or against the Secretary of State, whether in a personal capacity or otherwise, and, except with the sanction of His Majesty in Council, no proceedings whatsoever shall lie in any Court in India against any person who has been the Governor-General, the Governor of a Province, or the Secretary of State in respect of anything done or omitted to be done by any of them during his term of office in performance or purported performance of the duties thereof:

Protection of Governor-General, Governor or Secretary of State.

cution for an offence under sec. 124-A, I. P. Code. There is no provision in the Act, which requires the Governor to consult his Ministers before performing executive acts. The instrument of instructions implies that he should consult his ministers, but he is not legally required to do so. In the case of a sanction for prosecution under sec. 196, Cr. P. Code, the Governor is certainly not required to exercise his individual judgment; but that does not mean that in exercising his individual judgment he is acting unlawfully and that his action can be called in question in a Court of law. 48 L.W. 170=1938 Mad. 758=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 416. If any question arises whether any matter (a) is a matter as respects which the Governor is by or under the Act required to act in his discretion or to exercise his individual judgment, or (b) is not a matter as respects which the Governor is by or under the Act required to act in his discretion or to exercise his individual judgment then the decision of the Governor in his discretion is final. 193 I.C. 91=1941 Rang. 5.

SEC. 295: POWER OF PARDON.—This section deals in general with the power of pardon. Under sec. 401, Criminal Procedure Code, the authorities heretofore vested with such powers were the Local Governments and the Governor-General in Council and they had concurrent powers in all cases. Besides this statutory power, sec. 401 saved the right of His Majesty to exercise the prerogative of pardon and to delegate that power to the Governor-General in Council. It was thought to be inconsistent with Provincial autonomy to vest a power in the Federal executive at the centre to interfere with convictions of Courts over whom the control, vested in the Provincial Government and Legislature, was complete. An exception has, however, been made in the case of sentences of death, and the Governor-General in his discretion has been authorised to exercise the powers formerly vested in the Governor-General in Council under sec. 401 in respect of such sentences. Subject to this exception, the powers of the Governor-General in Council under sec. 401 are taken away.

SEC. 306.—This is an enlargement of the protection formerly afforded to the Governor and Governor-General by sec. 110 of the Government of India Act, 1919. They were under that Act not subject to the Original Jurisdiction of the High Court in respect of acts ordered or done in their public capacity; they were however liable to the High Courts original criminal jurisdiction for treason or felony. They were subject to Courts in the mofussil. The present section is all comprehensive and protects the Governor-General, the Governor and the Secretary of State from all "process" whatsoever—including even a summons to appear as witness. It extends to all Courts in India—Civil and Criminal and applies not merely to their public acts but even to acts in a private capacity; e.g., even a suit for recovery of a debt will not lie. Cf. Hill v. Briggs, (1841) 3 Moo. P. C. 465, where a suit was held to lie for a debt against the Colonial Governor of Trinidad. There is however power reserved to His Majesty in Council to relax the provisions of this section and permit proceedings to be taken. The liability of these officials to be proceeded against in England, for their personal acts, so far these proceedings could be Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as restricting the right of any person to bring against the Federation, a Province, or the Secretary of State such proceedings as are mentioned in Chapter III of Part VII of this Act.

(2) The provisions of the preceding sub-section shall apply in relation to His Majesty's Representative for the exercise of the functions of the Crown in its relations with Indian States as they apply in relation to the Governor-General.

[5th September, 1879.

An Act for the regulation and control of Hackney-carriages in certain Municipalities and Cantonments.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the regulation and control of hackney-carriages in certain municipalities and cantonments; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called THE HACKNEY-CARRIAGE ACT, 1879:

Nothing herein contained shall affect any power conferred by any law relating to municipalities, or any rule made in exercise of any such power.

initiated in the English Courts is not affected. Moreover, though Chapter XI of the Government of India Act is repealed, these officials could be punished for criminal action in India, by the Court of King's Bench under the Governor's Act, 1699 as amended by later Acts. The exemption from jurisdiction formerly afforded by sec. 110 extended to Executive Councillors and ministers—but the protection in their case has not been re-enacted by this Act. It was on the ground of this personal exemption that it was held that no certiorari could be brought against the Act of the Ministry. (Venkataram v. Secretary of State for India, 53 Mad. 979=60 M.L.J. 25). The English common law rule that the King can do no wrong and cannot be sued but the King's officers and servants are amenable to the jurisdiction of the King's Court, is now firmly established in India. The Governor-General and Governors have been, in the eye of the law, placed in the position of the King but the Government servants have no immunity. Therefore, the fact that direct proceedings cannot be taken against either the Governor-General or a Governor of a province for setting aside any illegal order made by either of them is no longer any ground for extending any protection to the servants of the Crown acting under such order or for refusing any relief to the subject aggrieved by the execution of such order. 48 C.W.N. 766. A suit filed against the Governor of a province instead of against the province as required by sec. 79, C. P. Code, is hit by sec. 306 of the Government of India Act. That being so, the Court cannot entertain any application in such a suit. The facts that the Governor appeared in the suit, resisted the interlocutory application and also made a substantive application for stay of the suit, do not estop the defendant from relying on sec. 306. Even if the notification in such circumstances remained a lawful notification, the Court would still be in a position to take effective action. The provisions of sec. 306, read with sec. 109 of the Government of India Act, 1935, do not make the notification under the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act an act of the Governor which cannot be challenged in Courts. Where on the facts it is found that the Board's action in notifying a temple was arbitrary and an abuse of its powers, the order of the Committee of the Board and that of the full Board on appeal under sec. 65-A of the Madras Hindu Religious En-

THE IDENTIFICATION OF PRISONERS ACT (XXXIII OF 1920).

1920	XXXIII	The Identification of Prisoners Act, 1920.	Am. (in Bombay), Bom. Act II of 1922.

An Act to authorise the taking of measurements and photographs of convicts and others.

WHEREAS it is expedient to authorise the taking of measurements and photographs of convicts and others; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called THE IDENTIFICATION OF PRISONERS ACT, 1920; and

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan, the Sonthal Parganas and the Districts of Angal.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) “measurement” includes finger impressions and foot-print impressions.

(b) “police officer” means an officer in charge of a police station, a police officer making an investigation under Chapter XIV of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, or any other police officer not below the rank of Sub-Inspector; and

(c) “prescribed” means prescribed by rules made under this Act.

Taking of measurements etc., of convicted person.

SEC. 2, (b).—The definition would include an Excise Officer who in the conduct of an investigation of an offence exercises the power conferred by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1934 Cal. 580; 63 Cal. 780=40 C.W.N. 415=A.I.R. 1936 Cal. 65.

the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall, if so required, allow his measurements and photograph to be taken by a police officer in the prescribed manner.

4. Any person who has been arrested in connexion with an offence punishable with rigorous imprisonment for a term of one year or upwards shall, if so required by a police officer, allow his measurements to be taken in the prescribed manner.

Taking of measurements, etc. of non-convicted persons.

5. If a magistrate is satisfied that, for the purposes of any investigation or proceeding under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, it is expedient to direct any person to allow his measurements or photograph to be taken, he may make an order to that effect, and in that case the person to whom the order relates shall be produced or shall attend at the time and place specified in the order and shall allow his measurements or photograph to be taken, as the case may be, by a police officer:

Power of Magistrate to order a person to be measured

Provided that no order shall be made directing any person to be photographed except by a Magistrate of the first class.

Provided, further, that no order shall be made under this section unless the person has at some time been arrested in connection with such investigation or proceeding.

Destruction of photographs and records of measurements, etc., on acquittal.

8. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Act.

Power to make rules.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such rules may provide for—

(e) the dress to be worn by a person when being photographed under section 3; and

(f) the preservation, safe custody, destruction and disposal of records of measurements and photographs.

9. No suit or other proceeding shall lie against any person for anything

SEC. 5.—Where an order by a Magistrate under sec. 5 clearly states that the Magistrate is satisfied that for the investigation of the case the photographs and the measurements of the accused are necessary, the

THE IMMIGRATION INTO INDIA ACT (III OF 1924).

1st March, 1924.

An Act to regulate the entry into and residence in British India of persons domiciled in other British Possessions.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for regulating the entry into and residence in British India of persons domiciled in the British Possessions on a basis of reciprocity; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, commencement and extent. 1. (1) This Act may be called THE IMMIGRATION INTO INDIA ACT, 1924.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may notify in the Official Gazette.

(3) It shall extend to the whole of British India including British Baluchistan.

Definitions.

2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

3. Rules as regards entry, into and residence in British India.

(b) to furnish a certificate required by sub-section (9) of section 18 or by section 20 to be furnished;

SECS. 51 AND 52: OFFENCES UNDER BOTH SECTIONS ARE DIFFERENT.—An offence under S. 52 is of a nature different from an offence under S. 51 and therefore an accused cannot be convicted of offence under S. 51 without calling upon him to meet that charge on his being found not guilty of offence under S. 52. 146 I.C. 848=1933 N. 358. Where there is a question of sanction and the sanctioning authority has sanctioned the prosecution under one section only, and the accused has been found not guilty of that offence, he cannot be found guilty of the other offence. 146 I.C. 848=1933 N. 358.

SECS. 51 TO 53.—No one can be prosecuted under the Act except at instance of the Collector under S. 36. 23 I.C. 504=15 Cr.L.J. 296=12 A.L.J. 258. The Collector and not the District Magistrate can direct proceedings to be taken for an offence under the Income-tax Act. 38 I.C. 993=18 Cr.L.J. 433=15 A.L.J. 163. Where a person was charged with making false statements in his petition of objection for the assessment of income-tax and the petition was not signed or verified and the order to prosecute him did not disclose what particular statement was false and fell within S. 193, Penal Code, held, that the conviction was bad. 38 I.C. 993=15 A.L.J. 163. A conviction could not be maintained if there is no formal service of notice as required by the Act the letter having been sent by ordinary post unregistered. 17 A.L.J. 146=49 I.C. 781. The prosecution of an assessee for failure to produce his account books in obedience to a notice is not barred by reason of a prior order for penal assessment against him. 43 M. 498=38 M.L.J. 333. The only ground on which the Collector can direct a penal assessment is that the assessee has made a false return. The Collector cannot do so on ground of non-production of account books by the assessee. 43 M. 498.

SEC. 52.—An offence under S. 52 is committed on the day a return made under S. 22, is verified by a party. 1929 Cr. C. 647=1929 A. 919. The essence of offence under S. 52, and Penal Code, S. 177, lies in the verification of an untrue statement, and provided the statement was deliberately false or not believed to be true, subsequent rectification cannot make it any the less an offence, though it may be considered as an extenuating circumstance in awarding sentence. 1929 Cr. C. 647=1929 A. 919. There is nothing in the Income-tax Act which suggests that it is essential that the act of sending an income-tax return under S. 22 should be done only by an assessee. It can be done equally by an agent or other person in charge of the assessee's business. The word "person" in S. 52 and in S. 22 (2) includes a person duly authorised. An agent who sends a false statement is therefore liable to be prosecuted under S. 52. 54 L.W. 291=1941 Mad. 941=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 475. Where the assessee submits a return, but ostensibly and openly that return is not a complete one but is stated to be incomplete, there is no verification of the return as would make the return a valid one or constitute commission of an offence under S. 52. (1929 A. 919, Dist.) 146 I.C. 848=1933 N. 358. S. 52 is without

53. (1) A person shall not be proceeded against for an offence under section 51. or section 52 except at the instance of the ¹[Inspecting Assistant Commissioner].

²[(2) The Inspecting Assistant Commissioner may either before or after the institution of proceedings compound any such offence.]

54. (1) All particulars contained in any statement made, return furnished or accounts or documents produced under the provisions of this Act, or in any evidence given, or affidavit by a public servant. or deposition made, in the course of any proceedings under this Act other than proceedings under this Chapter, or in any record of any assessment proceeding, or any proceeding relating to the recovery of a demand, prepared for the purposes of this Act, shall be treated as confidential, and notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, no Court shall, save as provided in this Act, be entitled to require any public servant to produce before it any such return, accounts, documents or record or any part of any such record, or to give evidence before it in respect thereof.

(2) If a public servant discloses any particulars contained in any such statement, return, accounts, documents, evidence, affidavit, deposition or record, he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months, and shall also be liable to fine.

prejudice to the provision in S. 476, Cr. P. Code. An Income-tax Officer, being a Revenue Court, can act under S. 476, Cr. P. Code, and make a complaint of an offence committed before him. If an assessee produces and relies on false account books to show that his return of income is true while in fact it is false, he uses or attempts to use as genuine evidence which he knows to be false or fabricated, and can be convicted under Ss. 193 and 196, I. P. Code. 20 N.L.J. 214. S. 52 deals only with a false statement in the verification clause and does not cover the case of a false statement in the return of income to which the verification clause is attached. The proceedings before the Income-tax Officer cannot be said to start until there is some inquiry into the income of the assessee, and a statement made in the return of income-tax is not evidence given in a proceeding before the Income-tax Officer. S. 52 provides for the punishment of such an offence under S. 177, I.P. Code; it cannot become punishable under S. 193, I.P. Code, as well. 20 N.L.J. 214. Complaint for offence under—Income-tax Officer not recording finding that further enquiry was expedient—Right of appeal not affected—Proceeding, if initiated. 8 R. 25.

Sec. 54.—The wording of S. 54 (1) is perfectly clear. It is emphatic in its language and mandatory in its provisions. Though, as a matter of practice, the Income-tax authorities may allow a partner to inspect the books of his firm which have been deposited with him that is in no way any departure or exception to the provisions of

S. 54. No person, even if he is a partner in the firm whose books are in the possession of the Income-tax Officer is entitled to production or even to an examination as of right of the books, which that officer has, when the same has been produced before him in the course of proceedings under the Income-tax Act. If an application is taken out in a suit in Court by a partner of the firm to call upon the Income-tax Officer to produce the book, the Income-tax Officer is entitled to refuse to produce it. 1941 I.T.R. 693. S. 54 only lays a prohibition on the Court; it does not confer any exemption on the Income-tax Officer who is subject to every process of the Court. 1939 I.T.R. 331=1939 Mad. 546= (1939) 1 M.L.J. 791. S. 54 does not merely exclude evidence with regard to contents of any documents which may be produced before the income-tax authorities for purpose of assessment, but it forbids any evidence with regard to such documents. It is wide enough to exclude evidence to the effect that account-books have been produced before the Income-tax Officer. 1935 L. 272. See also 1944 All. 114 (Assessee himself can disclose contents of documents referred to in the section.) The intention of S. 54 is to encourage assessee to make a full and true disclosure of all relevant facts within his knowledge knowing that any statement made by him will not subsequently be used against him. It is certainly open to an assessee to object to answering interrogatories on statements made by him in such proceedings on the ground that they are privileged. 151 I.C. 104=1934 N. 181. S. 54 does not in so many words say that the public officer is prohibited from producing any such document as is specified, but as the production is made punishable as an offence, there is an implied prohibition against its production by a public servant. There is nothing in S. 54 to justify the extreme view that all the documents referred to in that section are made inadmissible in evidence. The section provides, first of all, that the documents specified shall be treated as confidential, and, secondly that no Court shall require a public servant to produce them. The Legislature only meant that they are to be treated as confidential by the income-tax authorities and not that the documents are confidential in whosoever's hands they may be. The main operative part of the section is that the Court cannot require any public servant to produce these documents. There is no justification for extending the operation of the words beyond their natural and proper meaning. If a document can be given in evidence, without requiring a public servant to produce it, there is nothing in the section to preclude that from being done. There is nothing to prevent a police officer from producing a document lawfully seized from the income-tax authorities which those authorities themselves would not be able to produce. 44 Bom.L.R. 618=1942 I.T.R. 429=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 289. See also 1942 Mad. 276=(1942) 1 M.L.J. 36. The object of S. 54 clearly is to make the income-tax returns and statements confidential as between the assessee and the income-tax department, and against the whole world, except for certain limited purposes provided by the section itself. A Court cannot, on the application of a defendant, order the plaintiff to obtain certified copies of his returns and statements of his agent made before the Income-tax Officer, as that would clearly be an evasion of the prohibition contained in the section. Such copies are inadmissible in evidence unless the plaintiff desires their retention. 1938 Rang.L.R. 243=1938 Rang. 276. See also I.L.R. (1943) Bom. 152=45 Bom.L.R. 31=1943

(2) When an order under sub-section (1) has been made, and for so long as it remains in force, any assembly of five or more persons held in contravention of the order shall be an unlawful assembly within the meaning of section 141 of the Indian Penal Code, and the provisions of Chapter VIII of the Indian Penal Code and of Chapter IX of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, shall apply accordingly.

An Act to prevent the dissemination by means of books, newspapers and others documents of matter calculated to bring into hatred or contempt, or to excite disaffection against, Princes or Chiefs of States in India or the Governments or Administrations established in such States.

WHEREAS it is expedient to prevent the dissemination by means of books, newspapers and other documents of matter, calculated to bring into hatred or contempt, or to excite disaffection against, Princes or Chiefs of States in India or the Governments or Administrations established in such States; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and extent. 1. (1) This Act may be called THE INDIAN STATES (PROTECTION AGAINST DISAFFECTION) ACT, 1922.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, including British Baluchistan and the Sonthal Parganas.

Definition. 2. In this Act, unless there is anything repugnant in the subject or context,—

(a) “book” and “newspaper” have the meanings respectively assigned to them by the Press and Registration of Books Act, 1867;

(b) “disaffection” includes disloyalty and all feelings of enmity; and
(c) “document” includes any painting, drawing, photograph, or other visible representation.

3. (1) Whoever edits, prints or publishes, or if the author of, any book, newspaper or other document which brings or is intended to bring into hatred or contempt, or excites, or is intended to excite disaffection towards, any Prince or Chief of a State in India or the Government or Administration established in any such State, shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to five years, or with fine, or with both.

(2) No person shall be deemed to commit an offence under this section

SEC. 3: SCOPE AND EFFECT OF SECTION.—Under this section, the imputation contained in any publication is itself not punishable but the words expressly mentioned there, viz., editing, printing or publishing or being the author of any document so edited, etc. It is these alone in respect of which punishment may be inflicted jointly or severally. 37 Cr.L.J. 474 (2)=161 I.C. 635=A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 55. Inspector-General of Police, Bhopal, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council lodged a complaint in the Court of a Magistrate having two jurisdictions, that of a Headquarters Magistrate and that of a Magistrate exercising jurisdiction over railway lands in Bhopal State. The complaint was against the editor, printer and publisher of an Urdu Weekly “Riyasat” for publishing an article tending to excite disaffection towards the Chief of Bhopal State or his government or administration in Bhopal. The Magistrate was subordinate to different High Courts in two different jurisdictions. The complainant applied for amplification of his complaint by the inclusion of Itarsi as one of the places of publication of the above offending article. The Magistrate passed the following order: “The result of this petition for amplification will be that the case will henceforward cease to be a railway case for State administered areas if it was one and be transferred to my ordinary file of criminal cases of this Court. This be done.” After this order the accused objected that the Magistrate had no jurisdiction to hear the case as he had transferred a case from a Court subordinate to one High Court to another Court subordinate to the other High Court, which the Governor-General in Council could alone do by a notification in the Gazette of India. Held, that the trying Magistrate in his capacity as the Railway Magistrate for Bhopal was incompetent to deal with the complaint of an offence committed at Itarsi but in his capacity as Headquarters Magistrate was competent to do so. Held, further, that as the original papers filed by the complainant contained material clearly amounting to an allegation of publication at Itarsi, the Railway Magistrate for Bhopal was no longer bound to dismiss the complaint in its entirety; he was entitled to return the complaint for presentation to the Court that could try the offence committed at Itarsi and this was in effect what he did. A.I.R. 1930 Nag. 291.

RIGHT OF PERSON CHARGED UNDER—PLEA IN MITIGATION OF PENALTY.—Where a person is charged under sec. 3 of the Act, he has a right to plead extenuating circumstances such as a worthy motive in mitigation of the in respect of any book, newspaper or other document which, without exciting or being intended to excite hatred, contempt or disaffection, contains comments expressing disapprobation of the measures of any such Prince, Chief, Government or Administration as aforesaid with a view to obtain their alteration by lawful means, or disapprobation of the administrative or other action of any such Prince, Chief, Government or Administration.

4. The provisions of sections 99-A to 99-G of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, and of sections 27-B to 27-D of the Indian Post Office Act, 1898, shall apply in the case of any book, newspaper or other document containing matter in respect of which any person is punishable under section 3 in like manner as they apply in the case of a book, newspaper or document containing seditious matter within the meaning of those sections.

5. No Court inferior to that of a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class shall proceed to the trial of any offence under section 3, and no Court shall proceed to the trial of any such offence except on complaint made, by, or under authority from, the ¹[Provincial Govern-

OFFENCE OF PUBLICATION—PLACE OF TRIAL.—The word 'publishing' must be construed in a strict and narrow sense of the initial publication at the place declared by the printer and publisher. It does not include circulation. 37 Cr.L.J. 474 (2)=161 I.C. 635=A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 55. The offence under this section is committed only at the declared place of publication and not at any other place where the newspaper is circulated. The offence is, therefore, triable only at that place. (Ibid.)

SECS. 3 AND 5: TRIAL IN RESPECT OF THREE DISTINCT OFFENCES—SANCTION IN RESPECT OF ONE ONLY—LEGALITY.—Where a person is tried in respect of three distinct offences of his being editor, the printer, and the author of the offending article and the sanction is in respect of one offence, the trial is illegal for want of sanction and the whole proceedings are vitiated. 155 I.C. 450=1935 Cr.C. 418=1935 Nag. 90.

SECS. 5: SANCTION IN RESPECT OF PARTICULAR OFFENCE—IF COVERS OTHER OFFENCES.—Where a sanction authorises the complainant to make complaint of an offence under sec. 3 of the Act and very clearly restricts the prosecution to one of four offences under the section specifically, there is no room for the contention that the prosecution was sanctioned in regard to all. 155 I.C. 450=1935 Cr.C. 418=1935 Nag. 90.

103. (1) Any insurer or any person acting on behalf of an insurer, who ²[carries on] any class of insurance business in contravention of any of the provisions of section 3, ³[* ] section 7, ⁴[ *] or section 98, or does any one or more of the acts constituting the business of insurance ⁵[in relation to any insurance business ⁶(carried on) in contravention of any of the said sections]] shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two thousand rupees.

(2) Any person knowingly taking out a policy of insurance with any insurer or person guilty of an offence under sub-section (1) shall be punishable with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees:

Provided that nothing in ⁷[sub-section (1) or sub-section (2)] shall apply to the business of re-insurance between the head office of an insurer in British India and the head office of an insurer not having an office in British India:

—GOVERNMENT OF INDIA ACT, Ss. 49 (2), 100 AND 124 (2).—Merely because an offence was created by an enactment of the Central Legislature, operating in the exclusive legislative sphere of the Central Legislature, it did not follow that the provincial authorities responsible for enforcing criminal law were incompetent to prosecute or initiate prosecutions for such offences. There could be nothing ultra vires in a Provincial Government taking steps to secure the enforcement of the law in respect of offences created by the Insurance Act or in the Advocate-General of the Province being specified in the Act as the person to control the initiation of proceedings under the Act. See also 1943 O.W.N. 339=1944 Oudh 147. (Sanction is not rendered invalid because the offences are not mentioned therein). S. 107 of the Insurance Act requires the sanction of the Advocate-General before a private prosecution could be started against an insurer or any director, manager or other officer of an insurer for any offence under the Act. The section is not confined to a prosecution under S. 41 (2) of the Act. The words "who is liable under sub-S. (2) of S. 41" in the section qualify the words "any person", otherwise, the words "no proceedings under this Act" would have no real meaning. I.L.R. (1940) 1 Cal. 575=44 C.W.N. 454=1940 Cal. 232.

SEC. 107—SANCTION BY ADVOCATE-GENERAL—PRE-REQUISITES—FORM AND CONTENTS.—Before sanction is given by the Advocate-General under S. 107 of the Government of India Act, he must have proposals before him for the initiation by some person of particular proceedings of a defined nature under the Act against one or more of specified persons and he must sanction the initiation of those proceedings by that person. If proceedings are initiated by some one other than the person to whom the sanction has been given, or if proceedings substantially different from those sanctioned are in fact initiated the provisions of the section are not complied with and there will be no jurisdiction for a Court to entertain the proceedings.

It cannot be held that the section requires any particular form of sanction or even that it should be always in writing. What is necessary is that if challenged by a defendant or accused person, the plaintiff or the prosecutor should be able to establish to the satisfaction of the Court that the requisites of the sanction have been complied with in respect of the sanction on which he relies, so that the Court can be satisfied that it has jurisdiction to entertain the particular proceedings before it. 48 C.W.N. THE JUDICIAL OFFICERS PROTECTION ACT (XVIII OF 1850).

An Act for the protection of Judicial Officers.²

Preamble.

For the greater protection of Magistrates and others acting judicially; It is enacted as follows:—

1. No Judge, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Collector or other person acting judicially shall be liable to be sued in any Non-liability to suit of officers acting judicially, for official acts done in good faith, and of officers executing warrants and orders.

Civil Court for any act done or ordered to be done by him in the discharge of his judicial duty, whether or not within the limits of his jurisdiction: Provided that he at the time, in good faith, believed himself to have jurisdiction to do or order the act complained of;

and no officer of any Court or other person, bound to execute the lawful warrants or orders of any such Judge, Magistrate, Justice of the Peace, Collector or other person acting judicially shall be liable to be sued in any Civil Court, for the execution of any warrant or order, which he would be bound to execute, if within the jurisdiction of the person issuing the same.

² SHORT TITLE, "The Judicial Officers Protection Act, 1850". See the Indian Short Titles Act (XIV of 1897).

SEC. 1: SCOPE OF ACT.—The Act does not probably contemplate the protection of a Judge from a suit for damages for breach of contract, but the language of the Act is sufficiently wide to grant protection even against a suit of that nature. 131 I.C. 675=1931 A.L.J. 41=1931 All. 189 (F.B.). The Act has no bearing whatsoever on the case of a contract into which a Judge may enter according to the general law of the land. Enforceability of security bond executed in the name of the judge considered. 1931 Oudh 99. If the act complained of against a judicial officer is in its nature judicial, and within his jurisdiction, he is not liable to be sued, even though the act was done maliciously. If, on the other hand, he acts without jurisdiction, his liability would depend, not on whether the act was malicious and without reasonable and probable cause, but on whether it was within the protection of the Act. (12 All. 115, Ref.) 1933 All. 749.

Where, after becoming functus officio a Judicial Officer adds a false statement to his order which is designed to help one of the parties, it will be a sufficient answer to a contention based upon the Judicial Officers Protection Act, S. 1 to say that it is impossible to believe that the defendant thought that he had jurisdiction to do the act complained of. 1942 A.L.W. 63. As to procedure for instituting criminal prosecution against judges and public servants, see Act V of 1898, Sec. 197. By Sec. 1 of the Act, a judicial officer is protected if he made the order in the discharge of his judicial duties whether or not within the limits of his jurisdiction, provided that he at the time, in good faith, believed himself to have jurisdiction to pass the order. 'Jurisdiction' in the section is to be taken in the sense of authority or power to act in the matter and not in the sense of authority or power to act in a particular manner. Any person executing such an order within the 'jurisdiction' of a judicial officer is equally protected. An order of a Magistrate for the search of a shop and seizure of certain tins of oil, therein, though not in the prescribed form, and the carrying out of such an order by a police officer were held to be alike protected, even though the prosecution with reference to which the order was made, ultimately failed. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 581=42 C.W.N. 50=A.I.R.

1938 Cal. 177. The term "jurisdiction" means authority or power to act in a matter, and not authority or power to do an act in a particular manner. In the matter of warrants, the protection afforded by the section is not against suit for executing lawful warrants or orders, but against suits for executing warrants or orders, not lawful, provided that such warrants or orders have been issued by a judicial officer in a matter within his jurisdiction, and not merely in a matter in which such judicial officer has authority or power to issue the particular warrant. The term "jurisdiction" should not be construed as meaning authority or power to issue the warrant in a particular matter and in the particular manner in which it is issued. 12 A. 115. Act protects a judicial officer from suits not only for acts done or ordered to be done by him in the discharge of judicial duties not only within the limits of his jurisdiction but also without the limits of his jurisdiction, provided that he, at the time of doing the act or ordering it to be done, believed himself, in good faith, to have jurisdiction to do or order the act complained of. 9 C.W.N. 591=1 C.L.J. 278; 1933 All. 749; 42 C.W.N. 50. The protection afforded to judicial officers rests on public policy. And though thereby a malicious Judge or Magistrate may be given a protection designed not for him, but for the public interest, it does not follow that he can exercise his malice with impunity. His conduct can be investigated elsewhere and due punishment awarded. 7 Bom.L.R. 951. See also 30 Bom. 241. Where the Judge acting in his judicial capacity takes in good faith all the proceedings which the law permits him to take, he is protected. See 9 I.C. 535 (All.); 45 Bom. 1089=62 I.C. 93=23 Bom.L.R. 447. Extent of protection to judicial officers is the same as in English law. 2 M.I.A. 293. Municipal councillor acting as Magistrate under Bengal Act III of 1864 is judicial officer. 13 W.R. 340. When a Magistrate directs a general search of house in view of an enquiry under the Cr. P. Code in discharge of his judicial functions he may well appeal for protection under this Act. 39 Cal. 953=39 I.A. 163=23 M.L.J. 32 (P.C.); overruling 36 C. 433=9 C.L.J. 298=13 C.W.N. 458. Plaintiffs sued a Magistrate on the allegation that the latter took him into custody and brought a false charge against him. The trial Court dismissed suit as barred by this Act. Held, that the allegation in the plaint disclosed a cause of action to which the Act did not apply. The defence under the Act is as much a defence on the merits as any other defence such as limitation, etc., and the Judge must before dismissing the suit take such evidence in a case as is necessary to bring the case within the Act. 39 A. 516=39 I.C. 553=15 A.L.J. 541.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where a Magistrate acts without jurisdiction in the bona fide belief that he has jurisdiction, he is protected by the Act, and no suit will lie. 10 M.L.J. 232. See also 12 A. 115. Act does not protect a Magistrate who has not acted with due care and attention. The mere absence of mala fides is no defence. A Magistrate cannot be said to have "in good faith" believed himself to have jurisdiction to do or order the act complained of, unless he, in arriving at that belief, acted reasonably, circumspectly and carefully. 13 W.R. 13; 16 W.R. 63. See also 3 B.H.C.R. (A.C.J.) 36. Suit for damages against Magistrate for false imprisonment. Magistrate had not acted in good faith believing himself to have jurisdiction, but carelessly, precipitately and without caution. This Act did not protect him from liability. 3 B.H.C.R. Where in connection with an application for transfer of a case pending before a Union Bench, a Magistrate calls for a report from the President of the Union Bench the report made by the President in accordance with the Magistrate's directions is made in due discharge of duty. The President is consequently entitled to protection under the Act. The fact that allegations which ought not to be made are inserted in it does not take away the protection. 40 C.W.N. 500. Negligent and wrongful payment of money by a Judge—Cause of action not disclosed. A Judge knowingly pronouncing illegal orders is responsible to the State only, and cannot be sued so long as he keeps within his jurisdiction, though he may, in certain cases and by a particular procedure, be held criminally responsible. A contrary system would produce great inconvenience by allowing "every losing party of whom there must be one in every suit, to bring an action against the Judge, and the Judge in his turn, if unsuccessful, suing the other Judge who had pronounced against him." L.B.R. (1872-1892) 83. The Act is for the protection of judicial officers, acting judicially, and officers acting under their orders, and never for the protection of the Police or a Magistrate in the exercise of police duties. 9 C. 341=9 I.A. 152 (P.C.). There is no law which authorises the Police or a Magistrate in the exercise of Police duties or an officer in command of a cantonment, in consequence of a bona fide belief that a person is dangerous by reason of actual lunacy to put him into confinement, in order that he may be visited and examined

PERSONS EXERCISING JUDICIAL FUNCTIONS MUST BE IN AN ENTIRELY IMPARTIAL POSITION.—They ought not to have any interest, pecuniary or otherwise, in the subject-matter of the litigation, and they must not be in such a position, that any bias in favour of one side or the other can be imputed to him. Actual bias need not be proved, if the relationship is such that bias may seem likely. It is impossible to say that a debtor is not, from the nature of the case, subject to bias in favour of a creditor who can call in his money. It is not enough for the Court to say it is satisfied that in a particular case no bias existed or was shown. It is necessary that the position be such that the general public may feel confident that justice has been done by an impartial tribunal, and it is of the highest importance that this principle should not be encroached upon. The Assistant Taxing Master of the High Court taxed three bills of costs of the respondent bank against the applicant. At the time he was a debtor of the respondent bank, but he did not disclose the fact at the time. Held, that the officer was not competent to entertain the taxation and the taxation was therefore bad ab initio. 177 I.C. 934=40 Bom. 5. (1) Every person desiring to pass any goods, whether dutiable goods or not, by land out of or into any foreign territory, shall apply in writing, in such form⁵ as the Chief Customs authority may by notification in the Official Gazette prescribe, for a permit for the passage thereof, to the Land Customs Officer in charge of land customs station established in a land customs area adjoining the foreign frontier across which the goods are to pass.

SEC. 7: CARRYING NON-DUTIABLE GOODS WITHOUT PERMIT—ENQUIRY INTO OFFENCE.—Where a person carries non-dutiable goods from foreign territory to British territory

(a) in any case in which the permit referred to in section 5 is required, passes or attempts to pass any goods by land out of or into any foreign territory through any land customs stations without such permit, or

(b) conveys or attempts to convey to or from any foreign territory or to or from any land customs station any goods by a route other than the route, if any, prescribed for such passage under this Act, or

(c) aids in so passing or conveying any goods, or, knowing that any goods have been so passed or conveyed, keeps or conceals such goods or permits or procures them to be kept or concealed, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding, where the goods are not dutiable, fifty or, where the goods or any of them are dutiable, one thousand rupees, and any dutiable goods in respect of which the offence has been committed shall be liable to confiscation.

¹[(2) Where any dutiable goods, or any goods in respect of which a notification under section 19 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, prohibiting the bringing or taking by land of such goods into British India or any specified part thereof, has been issued, are passed by land out of any foreign territory and the Land Customs Officer is of opinion that an offence under sub-section (1) has been committed in respect of such goods and that the penalty provided in that sub-section is inadequate, he may make a complaint to a magistrate having jurisdiction.

(3) Such magistrate shall thereupon inquire into and try the charge brought against the accused person and, upon conviction, may sentence him to imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to six months, or to fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or to both, and may confiscate the goods in respect of which the offence has been committed.]

8. No goods other than personal baggage or goods belonging to ²[the Crown] or mails shall be delivered or passed at any land customs station, except with the special permission of the Land Customs Officer in charge thereof,— without a permit, the offence if any, would be one to be dealt with only by the Land Customs Officer himself under sec. 7 and would not constitute an offence for which a complaint could be made to a Magistrate. A.I.R. 1933 M. 888=65 M.L.J. 837.

SEC. 7 (1) (c): ONUS.—For a conviction under sec. 7 (1) (c), the onus is on the prosecution to prove that the goods were taken by land from foreign territory to British territory at a time when such goods are dutiable. 1933 M. 888=65 M. L. J. 837. When a person is charged for an offence under sec. 7 (1) (c) of the Land Customs Act the onus is on the prosecution to show that dutiable goods had been taken by land from a foreign territory. Where the case for the prosecution was that the accused had previously purchased certain bars of silver in Karaikal, had arranged to bring them to a place in British India and was caught in the process of removing them from that place to another place in British India. It was held (1) that the accused was not liable to be convicted in the absence of proof that the goods had been passed by land from the French territory into British India, (2) that in the case of non-dutiable goods, for which the accused had no permit, the offence could be dealt with only by the land Customs Officer under sec. 7 and would not constitute an offence for which a complaint could be made to a Magistrate. Where the confession of the accused is the only evidence against him, it must be taken as a whole and nothing can be read into it which is not contained there. 65 M.L.J. 837.

SEC. 7 (2).—Where two persons were charged and convicted by a sub-Magistrate for offences under secs. 7 (1) (a) and (c) respectively of the Land Customs Act because certain goods were smuggled into British India from the adjoining French territory by them, but the Sub-divisional Magistrate on appeal though confirmed the findings of fact held that the complaint filed by the Sub-Inspector of Land Customs was not competent in order to adjudicate upon the value of the goods exceeding Rs. 50. Held, that by the Government Notification under sec. 3 (1) the Sub-Inspector under sec. 7 (2) was a Land Customs Officer and hence competent to make the complaint to Magistrate. Therefore the convictions and sentences were right. (1938) 1 M.L.J. 815=47 L.W. 576=A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 712.

(a) on any public holiday within the meaning of section 25 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, or on any day on which the passage and delivery of goods at such land customs station has been prohibited by the Chief Customs authority by notification, in the Official Gazette, or

(b) on any day except between such hours as the Chief Customs authority may, by a like notification, appoint.

9. (1) The provisions of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, which are specified in the Schedule, together with all notifications, orders, rules or forms issued, made or prescribed thereunder shall, so far as they are applicable, apply for the purpose of the levy of duties of land customs under this Act, in like manner as they apply for the purpose of the levy of duties of customs on goods imported or exported by sea.

(2) For the purpose of such application the said provisions, notifications, orders, rules and forms may be construed with such alterations as may be necessary or proper to adopt them for the said purpose, but not so as otherwise to affect the substance thereof, and in particular—

(a) references to bills of entry and to shipping bills shall be deemed to be references, respectively, to applications for permits to import and applications for permits to export such as are referred to in section 5,

(b) references to a Chief Customs Officer shall be deemed to be references to a Collector of Land Customs,

(c) references to a Customs Collector shall be deemed to be references to a Land Customs Officer for the time being in charge of a Land Customs station or duly authorised to perform all, or any special duties of an officer so in charge,

(d) references to a custom-house shall be deemed to be references to a land customs station,

(e) references to a customs-port shall be deemed to be references to a land customs area,

(f) references to a foreign port shall be deemed to be references to foreign territory,

(g) references to goods brought by sea to, and to goods shipped or brought for shipment at, a customs port shall be deemed to be references respectively to goods brought across a foreign frontier into a land customs area and to goods brought to a land customs station for export.

(h) references to Officers of Customs shall be deemed to be references to Collectors of Land Customs or Land Customs Officers appointed under this Act,—

(i) references to persons on board of any vessel or boat in any port or to persons landing shall be deemed to be references to persons who have entered a land customs area from foreign territory, and

(j) references to "this Act" shall be deemed to be references to the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as applied for the purposes of this Act, or to this Act, as the case may require.

SECS. 3 AND 4: UNREPORTED DECISION OF DIVISION BENCH BINDING ON SINGLE JUDGE.—All that the Law Reports Act does is to ensure that Judges who have no access to the decisions themselves shall be provided with accurate copies of them. If an officially certified copy of a judgment of the High Court were to be produced in a lower Court the lower Court would be bound to treat it in the same way as it would an officially reported judgment. A lower Court is bound by an unpublished ruling of its own High Court but not by an obiter dicta. Hence a single Judge of the High Court is bound by the decision of the Division Bench, even though the decision is not reported. [7th January, 1846.]

An Act for amending the Law regarding appointment and remuneration of Pleaders in the Courts of the East India Company.

1, 2 & 3. [Repeal of enactments.] Rep. by the Repealing Act, 1874 (VI of 1874).

LEG. REF.

¹Short Title "The Legal Practitioners Act, 1846", see the Indian Short Titles Act, 1897 (XIV of 1897), General Acts, Vol. IV. This Act has been declared, by the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874 (XV of 1874), S. 4, to be in force in the Madras and Bombay Presidencies, except as regards the Scheduled Districts. It has been declared, by notification under S. 3 (a) of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (XIV of 1874), to be in force in the Scheduled Districts of Sind. See Gazette of India, 1880, Pt. I, p. 672. It has been declared under S. 3 (b) of the same Act that Act I of 1846 is not in force in the Scheduled Districts of Ganjam and Vizagapatam, see Fort St. George Gazette, 1898, Pt. I, p. 667 and Gazette of India, 1898, Pt. I, p. 872. It is repealed in places to which the Pleaders, Mukhtars and Revenue Agents Act, 1865 (XX of 1865) is extended by S. 3 of that Act, and in places to which the Legal Practitioners' Act, 1879 (XVIII of 1879), applies by the Legal Practitioners' Act, 1884 (IX of 1884), S. 9. It has been repealed, in so far as it applies to Burma, by the Burma Laws Act, 1898 (XIII of 1898), S. 18 (1) and Sch. B, Bur. Code.

which is cited at the bar. 1930 M.W.N. 955=1931 Mad. 71=130 I.C. 190. The Act has no application to a decision of the Privy Council; and Courts are at liberty to refer to unauthorized reports of the Privy Council and if the report is correct, they are bound to follow it. 48 Mad. 846=1926 Mad. 20=49 M.L.J. 498. A decision published only in a private publication is not absolutely binding. 4 Rang. 146=27 Cr. L.J. 1396=1926 Rang. 164 (F.B.). A view expressed in a judgment reported in an unofficial report is entitled to respect; and any examination of it ought to start with the assumption that it is correct. It need not be followed blindly, like one that is officially published. See 8 N.L.J. 153=1925 Nag. 414. Where the facts of the case are not stated in the report of an official publication, the report would be useless and misleading. See 27 I.A. 110=27 Cal. 951 at p. 965=4 C.W.N. 631.

It has been repealed, so far as it applies to Burma, by S. 18 (1) of the Burma Laws Act, 1898 (XIII of 1898), Bur. Code, Vol. I.

SEC. 10.—A pleader who presses a Court to put a question which the Court considers improper, and insists on a note being made of his request, is not liable to fine under Act I of 1846. No opinion was offered on the point whether such conduct on the part of a pleader amounted to an offence under S. 228 of the Penal Code. Where the pleader under the above circumstances was fined for an offence under S. 228 without being called on to make a statement in his defence, held, that the procedure was irregular and that though there was no appeal from the order, the High Court could in revision interfere with the order on account of such irregularity. 7 B. 3. Central Provinces and Assam, and to empower¹ each of the Local Governments of the rest of British India to extend to the territories administered by it such portions of this Act as such Government may think fit; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title, commencement.

1. This Act may be called THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT, 1879, and shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

LEG. REF.

which was separated in 1894. The whole Act, except S. 36 as substituted by S. 4 of Act XI of 1896, is repealed in the North-Western Frontier Province by the N.-W. F. Province Law and Justice Regulation, 1901 (Reg. VII of 1901), S. 5, Sch. III, P. and N. W. Code.

¹ Under this power the Act has been extended, subject to certain omissions, and so far only as it relates to judicial Courts, Civil and Criminal to the Madras Presidency, except the Scheduled Districts, from 1st April, 1882, see Fort St. George Gazette, 1881, Pt. I, pp. 491 and 707. Ss. 3 and 4 of the Act have been extended to the Regulation Districts of the Bombay Presidency, see Bombay Government Gazette, 1885, Pt. I, p. 290. Sections [except clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) and (f) thereof] 34, 36 and 40 have been extended to the whole of the Bombay Presidency, except the Province of Sind (Bombay Gazette, 1904, Pt. I, p. 1635) and to the Province of Sind (Ibid., 1905, Pt. I, p. 634).

Ch. I, S. 40, Sch. II, and so much of Chs. III, V, VI and VII as relates to pleaders, have been extended to Coorg, see Mysore Gazette, 1879, Pt. I, p. 355; see also Notification No. 44, dated 11th November, 1891, Coorg District Gazette, see 1899, Pt. I, p. 122, extending Ss. 3, 13 and 36 as amended by Act XI of 1896 so far as they relate to pleaders. S. 3 and Chs. II, III, V to VIII, and the second schedule were extended to Lower Burma, with effect from 16th April, 1900, see Burma Gazette, 1900, Pt. I, p. 320, Bur.R.M. Burma Gazette 1908, Pt. I, p. 18 (extending S. 20). Ss. 4 and 41 were extended to Ajmer-Merwara by the Chief Commissioner's Notification No. 28 C.C., dated 21st April, 1927. See Gazette of India, 1927, Pt. II-A, p. 214.

SEC. 1: CONSTRUCTION OF ACT AND SCOPE.—(Per Full Bench).—The Act does not merely consolidate pre-existing law but also amends it, which implies both addition to and derogation from the pre-existing law. It is a complete Code in itself as regards the subject it deals with. 1930 A.L.J. 402 = 1930 All. 225 (F.B.). (Per Full Bench): Inherent powers of the Supreme Court of Calcutta were not conferred on the Allahabad High Court by the Indian High Courts Act of 1861 and no power to exercise inherent disciplinary jurisdiction over legal practitioners independently of the Legal Practitioners Act and the Indian Bar Councils Act now exists in the Allahabad High Court in respect of their professional or other misconduct. 1930 A.L.J. 402 = 1930 All. 225 (F.B.). No minor can appoint an attorney and if he does, the attorney has no valid appointment under which he can act. 1934 A.L.J. 387 = 35 Cr. L. J. 1053 = 1934 All. 589.

JURISDICTION OF HIGH COURT TO REINSTATE DEBARRED PLEADER.—CONSIDERATIONS.—The High Court has jurisdiction, in the exercise of its general power of superintendence over pleaders, to reinstate on the Roll and to re-admit a pleader who had been struck off the Roll for professional misconduct. I.L.R. (1937) Bom. 99 = 38 Bom. L.R. 1161 = 1937 Bom. 48. As to the considerations to be had by the High Court in cases of reinstatement after disbarment, see I.L.R. (1937) B. 99; 1939 Rang. 78; I.L.R. (1937) All. 411 = 1936 A.L.J. 1396 = 1937 All. 50 (F.B.); 14 Rang. 390 = 1936 Rang. 368 (S.B.); I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 99 = 38 Bom.L.R. 1161; 1939 Rang. 142 = 1939 Rang. L.R. 213 (S.B.); 45 M. L. J. 639; I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 81; I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 84; 1940 Rang. 32; (1939) 2 M.L.J. 630 (F.B.).

DUTIES OF LEGAL PRACTITIONERS.—When a solicitor takes up a case and undertakes to conduct it he is bound, whether his client is rich or poor, to proceed with due diligence, and honestly to prosecute or defend the claim, even if he is not put in funds: for it is open when he takes up the case to assure himself whether his client is a person of substance, or if necessary to insist on a sufficient advance at the outset to cover all probable costs. 34 Bom.L.R. 703 = 138 I. C. 257 = 1932 Bom. 363. It is an unwritten rule of the bar that where two counsels have been briefed in a case appearing on the daily board, one or other counsel must return his briefs in good time if there is a chance of neither being able to attend when the case is called on. 34 Bom.L.R. 1425 = 1932 Bom. 634. A resolution by the Bar Association that no member thereof should appear for the prosecution in any criminal case against any other member is a flagrant and unwarranted interference with the rights of legal practitioners, contrary to the best traditions of the Bar and to all accepted notions of forensic propriety. 36 C.W.N. 294 = 1932 Cal. 370. It is incumbent on counsel to prepare cases before coming to Court. The time of the Court should not be taken by search for relevant passages during trial in

This section and section 2 extend to the whole of British India.

The rest of this Act extends, in the first instance, only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces and Assam. But any other Provincial Government may from time to time, by notification in the Official Gazette, extend all or any of the provisions of the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Court; client should also supply counsel with the necessary copies and records. 1939 A. L.J. 118.

DUTY OF LEGAL PRACTITIONERS—CLIENTS WITH CONFLICTING INTEREST.—There is no such thing as a general agency between pleader and client. The contract of agency becomes complete when the Vakalat is executed and ends with the termination of the suit. 50 M. 249=1927 Mad. 157=51 M. L.J. 804. See also 12 Mys.L.J. 222=39 Mys.H.C.R. 203. A pleader employed by a party to a proceeding before a Court is bound faithfully and exclusively to serve that party throughout the whole proceeding. The pleader in the mofussil is not merely an Advocate. He is the confidential legal adviser of his client and does for him those things which in the Presidency towns are often done by solicitors. A pleader must not accept a vakalatnama when he knows that he cannot act for his client throughout the proceedings. 14 Bom.L.R. 700=16 I. C. 788=36 Bom. 606. See 1939 Rang. L. R. 514=1939 Rang. 183 (S.B.).

AUTHORITY TO COMPROMISE.—An advocate has no authority to compromise the suit without a power of attorney from his client. 8 R. 290=127 I.C. 604=1930 R. 313. A vakalatnama which empowers a pleader to file a compromise cannot be held to empower him to enter into a compromise and sign it for the party. 125 I.C. 171=1930 O. 112. But see 58 M.L.J. 551 (P.C.). Although vakalat gives power to pleader to compromise still if the compromise is purported to be entered into not on the basis of such power, the compromise would not be binding on the client. 161 I.C. 919=1936 Cal. 68. The power to compromise a suit is inherent in the position of an advocate. The implied authority can however be countermanded by the express directions of the client. Where a legal practitioner was engaged by a pardanashin lady in an application for the appointment of receiver but it appeared that the client had in fact conferred a general authority on the counsel and was also aware of the negotiations leading to the compromise, held, that the advocate could compromise the suit by virtue of his implied authority and that the compromise was binding on the client. 57 I.A. 133=57 C. 1311=58 M.L.J. 551 (P.C.); 17 Lah. 456=1936 Lah. 199. But see 29 S. L.R. 437=163 I.C. 240=1936 Sind 59; I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 433=1939 Lah. 439 (Counsel should personally satisfy himself by reference to the lady herself whether she is agreeable to the compromise or confession of judgment).

ADMISSIONS BY LEGAL PRACTITIONERS.—Admission of counsel on a point of law is not binding on his client. 1933 C. 513=144 I.C. 701; 144 I.C. 610; 1935 L. 71; 12 Mys.L.J. 190=39 Mys.H.C.R. 156. Any admission or concession on the part of a pleader on a pure question of law will not estop the party from questioning it in appeal or revision. 35 L.W. 393=1932 M. 409. See also 11 Mys.L.J. 71. An admission by counsel of a point of law, cannot be binding upon a Court and a Court need not consider itself precluded from deciding the rights of the parties on a true view of the law. 187 I.C. 770=1940 P.C. 90 (P.C.). See also 1938 L. 368. An admission by a counsel on a mixed question of fact and law is not final and binding on the client and the question can be re-opened on appeal when there is no question of springing a surprise on the other party. 137 I.C. 349=1932 O. 172; 151 I.C. 376=36 Bom.L.R. 334=1934 B. 156. An admission by counsel, even if it is one purely of fact, does not bind the client, if it is made under a misapprehension. 38 Bom.L.R. 1058. See also 22 Pat. 220. Although an admission by an Advocate on a point of law is not binding upon a party, if on the basis of such an admission a decree has been passed, the decree is binding upon the party unless it is set aside under the procedure prescribed by law. 181 I.C. 721=20 P.L.T. 685=1939 Pat. 580.

COUNSEL'S POWER TO MAKE ADMISSION IN OR REFER TO ARBITRATION OR COMPROMISE SUITS.—A counsel's powers to make admissions in or refer to arbitration or compromise suits in which he is instructed are as follows: (1) A counsel has authority to make admissions in Court on behalf of his client on matter of fact relevant to the issues in the case in which he is engaged. Admissions on questions of law would not bind the client. (2) A counsel has authority to confess judgment, withdraw or compromise, or refer to arbitration the suit in which he is instructed if his doing so is for his client's advantage or benefit even though he has no express authority from his client. (3) A counsel cannot without express authority agree to compromise or refer to arbitration matters unconnected with the subject-matter of the suit in which he is instructed. (4) Where in the course of a suit a counsel makes an admission as to a collateral matter, or gives up a doubtful claim which is not a subject-matter of the suit, there is a presumption that the counsel acts under instructions if the admission or the giving up of the doubtful claim is for the benefit of the client. (5) It is a question of fact in each case whether the counsel acts under instructions when he compromises or refers to arbitration matters not involved in the suit and the Court on a consideration of the probabilities and the circumstances of the case can find that the counsel acted on instructions even though there is no direct evidence on the point. (6) A counsel has no power to make an admission in, or compromise or refer to arbitration, a suit if he is instructed not to do so, without express authority from his client. 1935 A.L.J. 953 =1935 All. 626. See also 58 B. 447=1934 B. 101; I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 467; 1940 A.L.J. 18; 185 I.C. 669; 40 P.L.R. 664=1938 Lah. 766; 1941 A.M.L.J. 80; 1942 O.W.N. 685=1942 O.A. 543; 1943 Oudh 128; I.L.R. (1943) Kar. 438=1944 Sind 51; 213 I.C. 364. Where the power-of-attorney expressly confers the authority to settle the suit by a compromise it is not necessary for an advocate to consult his client before entering into the compromise if he acts in good faith. 15 L. 626=151 I.C. 786 (2) =1934 L. 393. Counsel in India have the same implied authority to compromise an action as have counsel in the English Courts. But if such authority is invoked to support an agreement of compromise the circumstances must be carefully examined. In the first instance the authority is an actual authority implied from the employment as counsel. It may however be withdrawn or limited by the client; in such a case the actual authority is destroyed or restricted; and the other party if in ignorance of the limitation, could only rely upon ostensible authority. But if in fact counsel has had his authority withdrawn or restricted, the Courts will not feel bound to enforce a compromise made by him contrary to the restriction, even though the lack of actual authority is not known to the other party. 62 I.A. 196=14 P. 545=1935 P.C. 119. See also 1943 M.W.N. 544=1943 Mad. 672=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 168. The authority of a pleader who is authorised by his vakalatnama to compromise the suit in which he is engaged by a party does not extend to matters which are not the subject-matter of the suit. Where the pleader enters into a compromise which involves the sale of his client's property which is not in suit at all, the Court should not pass a decree in terms of the compromise unless the client himself is a party to it. 45 Bom. L.R. 1045=1944 Bom. 46. In an action by transferee challenging a mortgage as collusive, a compromise to the effect that mortgagee should buy out the plaintiff for agreed price, cannot be entered into by counsel as it is a matter collateral to the suit. 62 I.A. 196=1938 P.C. 119. Where a vakalatnama gives power to a vakil, to enter into a compromise, a compromise entered into by him is binding on his client especially when the compromise is eminently fair and reasonable one. 1933 A. 955. Where a vakalatnama given by a party to his pleader merely authorises the latter to sign a compromise petition and does not give any specific authority to the pleader to negotiate with the other party and settle the terms of the compromise any compromise entered into by the pleader without the consent of his client, which results in a decree, must be held to be unauthorized. 41 Bom.L.R. 994=1939 Bom. 490. Where the vakalatnama which was executed by a client contained among other things the following clause "avasyamand (if necessary or expedient) you are to compromise the suit or raise contest." Held, that to decide whether it was necessary or expedient to compromise the suit, was within the discretion of the pleader, and not the Court, and that a compromise entered into by him was binding on his client. 146 I.C. 219=38 L.W. 341=1933 M. 734.

AGREEMENT TO ABIDE BY OATH—OFFER OF SPECIAL OATH TO OTHER SIDE—CLIENT—IF BOUND.—A pleader who holds a vakalatnama which distinctly authorizes him to file a petition of compromise with or without the signature of his client, to withdraw the suit by putting in petition without the party's signature, and to take whatever steps the pleader considers necessary in the suit has clearly authority to agree to the case being decided on the oath taken by the other side in a special manner. It is not open to the party to plead that he is not bound by the act of his pleader, because he has not himself signed the oath of agreement or to say that the pleader had no authority. 182 I.C. 791=20 P.L.T. 131=1939 Pat. 222. Pleaders should be careful not to make any offer on behalf of their clients to be bound by any special oath except in the presence of the party or on express written authority to that effect. 172 I.C. 421=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 310=1938 Nag. 64.

ABANDONMENT OF PLEA.—Counsel for the defendant definitely gave up the plea regarding limitation after the evidence of all the issues had been taken, the question was held to be one of law, that the party was not bound by the statement of his counsel and that as the opposite party was not prejudiced, the plea can be taken in appeal by the party. 1933 L. 404. See also 147 I.C. 95=1934 P. 25 [Abandonment of claim for damages. See also 25 M. 367 (P.C.)]. If counsel deliberately abandons questions which are mixed questions of law, custom and facts, it is not open to the litigant to go behind the admission and re-agitate the same points in the Court of second appeal. 13 L. 185=1932 L. 343. See also 1935 L. 71=16 L. 328. Where in the trial Court an issue is not pressed by the counsel and subsequent to that there is an authoritative decision on the point, the party is not bound by the admission of his counsel in the trial Court and can raise the point in appeal. 1940 O.W.N. 1249. As to power to compromise or withdraw plea in income-tax proceedings, see 1940 I.T.R. 482.

AUTHORITY TO ACT—APPEARANCE WITHOUT VAKALATNAMA—PROCEDURE.—When an accused is represented by a pleader without vakalatnama in an appeal, the proper course is to adjourn the hearing of the appeal until it is produced and thus afford the accused an opportunity of being represented by a pleader. 56 I.C. 61=21 Cr.L.J. 413. A mukhtar though appearing in trial Court cannot file an appeal unless his power of attorney authorises him to do so. Mere general words in power are not sufficient (132 I.C. 895, Dist.) 1933 L. 504. As to Advocate accepting vakalat and failing to appear at the hearing, see 1939 M.L.R. 16 (C.). It is ordinarily the duty of an advocate to be present, or to make suitable arrangements for the conduct of the case, and the Courts are not to be inconvenienced by the postponement of cases until the proper advocate is available. 1939 Rang. 1=1939 Rang.L.R. 514=182 I.C. 77.

AUTHORITY—CONSTRUCTION—GENERAL POWERS FOLLOWED BY SPECIFIC INSTANCES OF SPECIAL AUTHORITY.—Per F.B. (Mukerji, J., dissenting.)—In the case of an appointment of a vakil by vakalatnama to conduct a case, it is prima facie implied that he has full power to conduct the case in the way he considers best and therefore such a document should be construed liberally. If the vakalatnama confers very wide powers in very general terms on the vakil, and authorizes him to conduct the case and to take other proceedings and expressly states that whatever is done by the vakil should be accepted by the litigant and then it goes on to specify certain particularly important powers like those of appointing arbitrators and compromising disputes, etc., unless there is a special clause excluding his authority to act in a particular way in the course of the suit, such an authority should be implied. The mere fact that certain important powers are emphasised in particular does not in any way derogate from the general authority conferred upon him. It follows, therefore, that when general authority to conduct a case is conferred upon a vakil and it is followed by special powers to compromise a case and to refer the dispute to arbitration, the power to abide by the oath of a witness whether under the Oaths Act or by way of an agreement or compromise is necessarily implied. 146 I.C. 84=1933 A.L.J. 1127=1933 A. 861 (F.B.).

AUTHORITY—PRESUMPTION OF—ISSUE OF NOTICE.—When a member of the Bar writes a letter purporting to be instructed by a client, there is a presumption, until the contrary is proved, that the letter is written under instructions. 144 I.C. 996=1933 R. 147.

ACTS REQUIRED FOR PROPER CONDUCT OF TRIAL—IMPLIED AUTHORITY OF PLEADER.—A counsel appearing in the case from the very nature of his duties and for the purposes of a proper conduct of the case must be deemed to have implied authority to admit or deny a document, to press or withdraw an issue in the case, to examine a witness or call no witness and do such other acts which are required for the proper management and conduct of the trial. 14 Luck. 723=1939 Oudh 257.

STATUS OF BARRISTER PRACTISING AS AN ADVOCATE IN INDIA.—The right of a Barrister-at-Law to appear in the High Court or in the Courts subordinate to it arises from his enrolment as an Advocate and not otherwise. The peculiar position of a Barrister-at-Law in England disappears here on his enrolment as an Advocate; his rights, duties and disabilities are the same as those of any other non-Barrister Advocate. He can see the client, settle his fees, and act for him, with or without the intervention of a solicitor. A Barrister practising as an Advocate in the High Court can accordingly sue his client for recovery of fees due. (25 A. 509, overruled.) 55 All. 570=1933 A. L.J. 451=1933 A. 417 (F.B.). See also I.L.R. (1943) Lah 721=44 Cr.L.J. 181. (Status of pleader in Court). I.L.R. (1943) Lah. 721=44 Cr.L.J. 181. (Rules of conduct of Bench and the Bar.)

ADVOCATES AND PLEADERS—NO DISTINCTION.—Though the methods of appointments of advocates and higher or lower grade pleaders are different and the discipline by which they are controlled arises from different sources, their duties as representing their clients are similar and the principles applying in one class of legal advisers ought to be applied in the case of another. 1939 Rang.L.R. 514=1939 Rang. 183 (S.B.).

ADVOCATE AND COURT.—It is difficult to lay down any hard and fast rule as to what expressions a lawyer can use with impunity while addressing the Court and what should ordinarily be tolerated by it. Hyper-sensitiveness on the one side or rudeness on the other must be avoided at all costs. An over-subservient Bar would be one of the greatest misfortunes that could happen to the administration of justice. At the same time, a lawyer is under obligation to do nothing that shall detract from the dignity of the Court, of which he is himself a sworn officer and assistant. He should at all times pay deferential respect to the judge, and scrupulously observe the decorum of the Court room. 44 P.L.R. 511=A.I.R. 1943 Lah. 14.

ETIQUETTE—MEMBER OF CO-OPERATIVE SOCIETY—APPEARANCE FOR SOCIETY.—Merely because a legal practitioner is a member of a Co-operative Society he is not prevented by any rule of professional etiquette from accepting instructions from the Society of which he is a member. There can be no impropriety in his doing so provided that his engagement is not directly due to his being a member. But it is improper for a legal practitioner who is Director to appear for remuneration for the Society in its legal business. 56 M. 970=1933 M. 682=65 M. L.J. 367.

DUTIES AND OBLIGATION ON DRAFTING PLEADINGS—GRAVE AND SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS.

—Per Thom, J.—No counsel is entitled to frame a serious charge against a party to a litigation unless he is in possession of admissible and relevant evidence upon which, if accepted, counsel could reasonably ask the Court to hold the allegations true. It may well be that the evidence in support of the allegations is untrue and it is certainly not the duty of a counsel in the ordinary course to test the truth of the witnesses whom he intends to put into the witness box but at the conclusion of the evidence which he has led he should be in a position to submit as a reasonable proposition to the Court that the evidence which he has led if accepted establishes the allegations for which he had made himself responsible. If he is not in possession of such evidence to support them he is not entitled to make grave and serious allegations. 1935 All. 425 (F. B.). Per Iqbal Ahmad, J.—It is in the interest of administration of justice that too rigid a test of the conduct of an advocate in the matter of drafting pleadings should not be emphasized and that the test should be such as not to deter a counsel from fearlessly placing before the Court such allegations as their clients instruct them to make, so long as those allegations do not appear manifestly reckless and unfounded. It is no doubt the duty of counsel to use their own judgment, experience and discretion and not to make irrelevant or unduly insulting allegation in the pleadings, but it is equally their duty to embody the case of their clients in the pleadings fearlessly, provided the instructions received from the clients justify the case in the pleadings. While on the one hand a counsel is expected to be careful and not reckless in drafting the pleadings, he cannot, on the other hand assume the role of a Judge and refuse to embody allegations that his clients instruct him to make unless and until he has examined the evidence on the subject. A counsel is in one sense the mouthpiece of his client, but he does not guarantee or pledge himself for his client's veracity. Per Allsop, J.—On the one hand counsel must look to the interests of his client and not be deterred by fear or favour from making any allegations which in these interests it is necessary for him to make. On the other hand, he cannot take shelter behind his client and claim to be an entirely irresponsible instrument in his client's hands. There remains in him a duty and an obligation to his fellow citizens and he is certainly not entitled to make scandalous and serious allegations against those fellow citizens unless he has some basis upon which the allegations can be grounded. 155 I.C. 1043=1935 A. 425 (F.B.).

PRIVATE PLEADER.—A District Magistrate has no authority to direct other subordinate Magistrates to exercise their judicial discretion of allowing a person to practise as a private pleader in their Courts. Any person aggrieved by the refusal of any Magistrate to allow him to appear as a private pleader in any particular case should move the High Court in revision. 16 L. W. 879=1923 M. 183.

Authority to counsel "to act and appear for the party in the trial Court or any other Court" includes authority to present an appeal. 33 P.L.R. 34. A mukhtar though appearing in trial Court cannot file an appeal unless his power-of-attorney authorises him to do so. Mere general words in power are not sufficient. (132 I.C. 895, Dist.) 1933 L. 504.

COSTS—LIABILITY OF LEGAL PRACTITIONER FOR — CIRCUMSTANCES JUSTIFYING ORDER AGAINST PLEADER.—There is no justification for the assumption that S. 35, C. P. Code, is not intended to cover any case where the act of a legal practitioner comes within the term 'misconduct' within the meaning of the Legal Practitioners and the Bar Councils Acts. A pleader may therefore be liable for costs of the proceedings taken by him in cases where the costs occasioned to his client are the direct result of the initiation and prosecution of the proceedings by him. Where an application for review purports to be made by a pleader personally on his own behalf and not on behalf of his client the minor or his guardian, on grounds wholly untenable, there is no justification for his action and he can be asked to pay the costs personally. 1942 Oudh 279=1942 O.W.N. 68.

AUTHORITY TO APPEAR.—Counsel who has not filed any vakalat from his client has no authority to appear for him. 12 Mys.L.J. 383.

APPEARANCE OF COUNSEL AGAINST INTEREST OF HIS CLIENT.—IF PERMISSIBLE.—A counsel should not be allowed to appear against the interests of a person who has briefed him at one or other stage of the case. It is absolutely necessary for taking opinion that the party should lay all his cards before the counsel concerned, and it is only after he has thoroughly gone into the facts of the case that a lawyer can be in a position to advise his client. In the circumstances it would be unfair to allow the counsel to appear against the same person later on, and an assurance on the part of that individual would also be of no avail in the matter. 1935 Pesh. 65 (1). It is undesirable for a member of the Bar to plead in a case concerning which he has a personal interest. 39 C.W.N. 274.

TRANSFER OF BRIEF.—PLEADERS APPEARING FOR ANOTHER.—As to duty of pleader to be in attendance at time of hearing of case, see 1940 Rang. 162 (F.B.). Where a pleader appears for another who is unable at the moment to attend Court, he ought to let the Court know that he is so appearing. 33 I.C. 831=20 C.W.N. 283. As to failure of pleader to make careful arrangements for conduct of case, see 183 I.C. 580=1939 Rang. 262. A question relating to the rival claims of different sections of the legal practitioners of the High Court cannot be settled by a single Judge or a Division Bench of the Court. 25 C. L. J. 401=41 I.C. 313=21 C. W. N. 654. Proceedings under the Act are quasi criminal, and are barred by acquittal in previous criminal proceedings. 88 I.C. 279=26 Cr. L. J. 1111=1925 R. 110.

ACCEPTING BRIEF FOR OPPOSITE PARTY AGAINST PREVIOUS CLIENT.—DUTIES.—See 38 M. 650; 8 R. 446; 9 Mys. L. J. 166.

APPEARANCE.—POWER OF COURT TO RESTRAIN.—PLEADER LIKELY TO BE WITNESS IN CASE.—DUTIES OF PLEADER.—That a Judge or Magistrate has authority to restrain a pleader from appearing for either party in a case, when it would be manifestly improper for the pleader to do so, cannot be gainsaid but a very strong case must be made out before an order restraining a pleader from acting in a particular case is passed. The mere fact that the defence asserts that the pleader for the prosecution will be required as a witness for the defence, and that the Magistrate himself thinks that he will be a material witness for the defence, are not sufficient grounds for restraining the pleader from appearing in the case for the prosecution. A pleader who is conducting a case is nevertheless a competent witness therein and there is no harm in his giving evidence in a case in which he is appearing. But it is desirable that a pleader should not appear in a case if he knows or has reason to believe that he will be an important witness in the case. If he accepts the brief not knowing or having reason to believe that he will be such a witness but discovers subsequently that he is a witness on a material question of fact, he should retire from the case. 1939 Rang. L. R. 224=1939 Rang. 342. Accused has a right to choose any advocate he wants. Prosecution cannot fetter that choice by summoning the advocate as a witness. On the other hand the Court is bound to see that the administration of justice is not in any way embarrassed. If an advocate is called as a witness by the other side, it can safely be left to the good sense of the advocate to determine whether he can continue to appear as an advocate, or whether by doing so he will embarrass the Court or the client. If a Court comes to the conclusion that a trial will be embarrassed by the appearance of an advocate who has been called as a witness by the other side, and if, notwithstanding the Court's expression of its opinion, the advocate refuses to withdraw, in such a case the Court has inherent jurisdiction to require the advocate to withdraw. But the prosecution or the party calling the opposite party's advocate as a witness must in such a case establish to the satisfaction of the Court that the trial will be materially embarrassed if the advocate continues to appear as advocate for his client. 41 Bom. L. R. 282=1939 Bom. 150. See also 48 L. W. 276=(1938) 2 M. L. J. 446.

FEES.—When an Advocate enters into a contract with his client, it is appropriate that in order to avoid any future misunderstanding as to the amount of the fees to be charged for various works, there should be a clear written contract between the parties and the amount charged should be clearly mentioned and agreed to by the client. 1936 A. L. J. 300=1936 All. 359 (F. B.). See also I. L. R. (1944) 1 Cal. 445=1944 Cal. 189 (Solicitor's lien for costs cannot prevail over monies in his hands ear-marked for a specific purpose). Before relationship of advocate and client arises by concluding a contract of service, it is open both to the client and the advocate to bargain for services in such methods as may seem proper. But after the relationship arises, the advocate should not use his privileged and responsible position to obtain anything more than a fair and just remuneration. 1937 Rang. 299. In India as at English Common Law, a solicitor has a particular lien which does not depend on actual possession of the property, as distinguished from possessory lien. This lien is not liable to be defeated on the ground that the assignee of a decree or the attaching creditor of the solicitor's client had no express notice of the lien. The fact of there being a fund in Court amounts to notice of the existence of a solicitor's lien. (51 B. 855, Foll.) 60 M. L. J. 133=1931 M. 183. See also 1940 Cal. 179=I. L. R. (1939) 1 Cal. 212=43 C. W. N. 290. (This lien is not defeated by the insolvency of the party). The lien of an attorney or solicitor is really an equity claimed on his behalf and is subject to all the equities between the attorney's client and any other party or parties interested in the property over which the lien is claimed. An attorney has no higher rights than his client. A plaintiff's right to set-off costs payable to him by the defendant against the sum found due from him to the defendant on the taking of accounts in the same suit is not affected by the defendant's solicitor's lien. The Courts in India have complete discretion to allow a set-off, whether in the same action or in different actions, and it extends to the setting off of costs against costs and also in a proper case to the setting off of debt or damages against costs and vice versa. The discretion has to be exercised judicially, having regard to the facts and circumstances of each case. The circumstances considered by the Court are matters relating to the attorney whose lien is sought to be affected irrespective of his client because as between the parties themselves there can hardly be a ground for resisting a set-off. After a set-off has already been allowed an attorney's lien is not protected. 41 Bom. L. R. 1091=I. L. R. (1940) Bom. 692=1939 Bom. 518. Costs are in theory such indemnity for the actual expenses of litigation as the Court allows. They are an indemnity to the party in whose favour they are allowed and not to the attorney engaged by that party. An attorney's lien for costs is not a charge. But the Court assists the attorney either by making a charging order as under the English practice or by making a payment order, the course generally adopted in India. In a case where the judgment-debtor under a decree in favour of the attorney's client is unquestionably liable to pay, the Court will, without much difficulty, make an order for direct payment to the attorney of his wages by the judgment-debtor, if it is satisfied that the attorney has taken reasonable, though not exhaustive, steps to recover his wages from his client. Where the judgment-debtor has a right of set-off as, for example, when he holds a cross-decree, the attorney cannot intercept the right to set-off between the parties unless there is a fraudulent intention on their part to deprive him of his costs. 48 C.W.N. 727. Where a solicitor is engaged by the next friend of a minor plaintiff, the client is the next friend and not it is to the next friend, and not to the minor, that the solicitor looks for his costs. Though the solicitor has a lien enforceable against the next friend, the lien does not exist against the minor. Where, therefore, there is a change of next friend and a new next friend comes in, the solicitor engaged by the former next friend is bound to hand over to the new next friend the papers and documents, etc., though he may not have received his costs of the suit from the old next friend. He cannot withhold the documents, etc., from the new next friend by pleading his lien. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 749=40 Bom.L.R. 694=1938 Bom. 418. See also 1942 O.W.N. 68. General and special lien distinguished, see 34 Bom.L.R. 703. The solicitor's lien never precludes a fair and honest arrangement between the parties unless the solicitor is in a position to prove that there was a fraudulent intention on the part of the plaintiff and defendant to cheat him of the costs payable to him by the party. 34 Bom.L.R. 721. Nature of an advocate's lien, see 55 M. 455=62 M.L.J. 185. The question whether an attorney's lien should or should not be allowed to intercept a set-off between the parties to the suit is in India a matter of discretion. The lien has no overriding priority. 34 Bom.L.R. 1429=1932 B. 619. The sum deposited by a party under O. 45, R. 7, C.P. Code, to be available for the payment of the costs of the respondents in case their Lordships of the Privy Council ordered such costs to be paid is not the subject-matter of dispute or the part of the action and therefore after the appeal is allowed a lien cannot be claimed on that amount by a legal practitioner appearing for the appellant before the High Court. Quære.—Whether an Advocate is entitled to claim the same lien which an ordinary Solicitor would be entitled to in any land. 1932 A. L.J. 764=1933 A. 3. Pleader's fees are to be allowed to a party on the basis of what is actually paid, or what might reasonably have been paid, whichever is less. 1928 N. 289=111 I.C. 843. A pleader including in his fee certificate the fee promised but not actually paid to him, under a misapprehension of law and not dishonestly cannot be said to be guilty of misconduct. 58 A. 307=38 Bom.L.R. 731=40 C.W.N. 933=1936 P.C. 176=71 M.L.J. 631 (P.C.). There may be cases in which the fee due to a vakil may be adjusted otherwise than by actual payment of money. Such an adjustment, however, should be something more than a mere agreement to pay. When a promissory note, especially, a negotiable instrument, is given, it may be equivalent to payment. A certificate may not be dishonest even if no fee was received and it may be too strong an expression to describe such a certificate as a false certificate. It is doubtful if Note (ii) to R. 30 of the Legal Practitioners' Rules is strictly correct. 30 L.W. 977=57 M.L.J. 780. Fees of junior counsel.—Two-thirds scale adopted for taxation purposes. See 58 C. 505=1931 C. 523. According to the rules, only such sum can be taxed as legal practitioner's fee as has been actually paid and certified by the legal practitioner to whom it has been paid. Where a receiver of an insolvent's estate who happens to be a legal practitioner conducts his own case and does not pay any fees to any legal practitioner, the Court cannot direct any legal fees to be taxed as costs. 163 I.C. 831=1936 A.L.J. 698=1936 All. 489. Where several pleaders are engaged by a party to a litigation, in the absence of any agreement as to the amount of their fees, each pleader is entitled to his fees up to the full fee assessed at the hearing. It is not the rule that all of them should divide among them a single hearing fee of the amount assessed as pleader's fee in the case. 20 Pat.L.T. 352=18 Pat. 213. Where undue influence is not apparent, and a solicitor has agreed to accept taxed costs in the event of success so as to lighten the burden on his client in the event of failure, the agreement cannot be looked upon with disfavour, and the Court will respect the terms of such an agreement of employment. Where a solicitor for a respondent to a Privy Council appeal agrees to accept a reduced fee, stipulating that in the event of the client's success in the appeal he should be paid the full taxed costs that agreement cannot be regarded as invalid or unenforceable either in practice or in law. It is competent to the solicitor to recover the amount covered by his bill of costs from the amount of security deposited by the appellant. The High Court has power to pass a summary order directing payment out of such amount to the solicitor to whom costs are due from the respondent. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 307=41 Bom.L.R. 410=1939 Bom. 250. Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— particular case, the Advocate is entitled to sue for the full fee, though owing to the collapse unexpectedly of the opposite side's case the Advocate had not to do that quantity of work originally expected of him. 1942 N.L.J. 225. Under R. 34 of the Rules relating to the Legal Practitioners' fee, the fee for practitioners appearing in execution petitions in small cause or original suits shall be one-fourth of the fee allowable on the amount or value of the relief granted by the decree as calculated under R. 31, irrespective of the number of such petitions. Where a decree grants two reliefs, viz., possession of immovable property, and costs, the fee allowable on a petition for execution of the portion relating to costs will be only one-fourth of the fee permissible on the amount awarded as costs. 57 L.W. 593=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 337. Attorney—Costs—Bill of costs—Instructions for brief—Looking up the law—Ascertainment of legislative practice in various places—Right to remuneration. See 44 Bom.L.R. 682.

SUIT FOR ACCOUNTS.—Even if there is no "general agency" between a counsel and client, nevertheless a suit for accounts can be maintained by the client against his counsel in respect of the moneys entrusted to the latter in the several suits in which he was engaged. (50 M. 249, Pol.). 140 I.C. 564=33 P.L.R. 1074=1933 L. 60.

TRANSACTIONS BETWEEN ADVOCATE AND CLIENT.—A pleader advanced moneys to his client and obtained a mortgage in favour of his son. In a suit on the mortgage it is incumbent on the plaintiff to prove utmost good faith; and all evidence regarding it should be preserved. Pleadings who deal with their clients must take care not only that the transaction is fair, but also that they are in a position to prove that it was fair. 1936 O.W.N. 1033=164 I.C. 945. Transactions of mortgage between a solicitor and client to secure the repayment of money advanced at the time are not ordinarily subjected by Courts to the same jealous scrutiny as, for instance, a gift from a client to a solicitor, or purchases or sales at under-value between a solicitor and client. If the money was sorely needed and was paid, the mortgagor had its benefit, the rate of interest was reasonable and the terms neither excessive nor onerous there is no reason why the transaction should not stand as a valid mortgage between the parties. 191 I.C. 94=52 L.W. 777=1940 P.C. 204 (P.C.). R. 13 of the rules of Court framed under the Legal Practitioners Act prohibits a practitioner from purchasing any interest in any decree either from their clients or any other person. Such a purchase, and execution of such a decree for a sum known to him to be in excess of that which was actually due, amount to a grave professional misconduct. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 399=1938 Mad. 276 (F.B.). Where the relationship between legal practitioner and his client becomes that of debtor and creditor, the pleader being allowed to retain and use the client's money as a loan, failure by the debtor to pay the money on demand does not amount to professional misconduct. Lawyers should not, except in very exceptional cases, accept loans from their clients. Where a lawyer has withdrawn money for a client and has been permitted to retain it, a document evidencing the transaction should in every case be drawn up. It is essential, in cases where the relationship of pleader and client has been changed to one of debtor and creditor, that the clearest evidence of such a change should be obtainable. But once the relationship of pleader and client is changed into one of debtor and creditor, no question of misconduct can arise, because failure by the debtor to pay the money on demand does not amount to professional misconduct. To borrow money from the client who places confidence in the pleader, when the latter is aware that it would be extremely difficult for him to repay it is most reprehensible. No lawyer should ever borrow money from a client unless he is sure that he can repay it when the client demands repayment. 18 Pat. 580=20 P.L.T. 607=1939 Pat. 343 (S.B.). An attorney of a trustee cannot apply for payment of his costs out of the trust estate unless he gets an order against the trustee under Ch. XXXVIII, R. 48. He must also show that the estate is indebted to the trustee for the amount claimed by him. Matters of this description cannot be investigated in a chamber application. 49 C.W.N. 263.

OBLIGATION OF COUNSEL NOT TO MAKE STATEMENTS BASED ON SURMISES.—When counsel take on themselves the responsibility of making statements of fact to the Court, the Court is entitled to assume that those statements are true in every particular, so that it may implicitly rely upon them. This is a rule which admits of no qualification and it is an honourable obligation of the Bar and of great value in the administration of justice. It is therefore improper on the part of Counsel to make statements of fact before the Court which are based on mere surmises or guesses. I. L.R. (1940) Kar. (F.C.) 52=(1940) 1 M.L.J. (Supp.) 28.

SEC. 3: LEGAL PRACTITIONER.—The right of a Barrister-at-Law to appear in the High Court or in the Courts subordinate to it arises from his enrolment as an Advocate and not otherwise. The peculiar position of a Barrister-at-Law in England disappears here on his enrolment as an Advocate; his rights, duties and disabilities are the same as those of any other non-Barrister Advocate. He can see the client, settle his fees, and act for him, with or without the intervention of a solicitor. A Barrister practising as an Advocate in the High Court can accordingly sue his client for recovery of fees due. (25 A. 509, overruled.) 55 A. 570=1933 A. 417=1933 A.L.J. 451 (F.B.).

SOLICITOR—PERSONAL LIABILITY FOR COSTS.—Once a solicitor is on record, the opposing party is entitled to look to him, if successful for his costs, if it turned out that the so-called plaintiff is a non-existent person. (Case-law discussed.) 145 I.C. 641=1933 B. 317=35 Bom.L.R. 554.

CARE IN CHOOSING CLERKS—CHECK ON THEM.—There is a duty cast upon members of a monopolist profession, like the legal profession, to exercise care and due diligence in the persons whom they employ, and if they choose to employ a person known by them to be irresponsible without taking adequate steps to keep a close personal check upon his actions, then they are themselves at fault and will become liable to be called to account. 1938 Nag. 370.

TOUT.—To declare a person a tout it must be proved that he gets the employment in any legal business from any practitioner for moving for such practitioner. Merely looking after people's cases and writing petitions does not make a person a tout. 62 I. C. 829=22 Cr.L.J. 589. A person to be a tout must have been paid or proposed to be paid for bringing a client. 6 P. 567=102 I. C. 340=1927 P. 282. See also 28 I.C. 918. A munsif may refuse to recognize a person as pleader's clerk, if he be not a bona fide clerk. 10 C.W.N. 49. If the enquiry is entrusted to a Subordinate Court it is the Subordinate Court which must be satisfied that the person proved to be a tout. Where the Joint Magistrate held on enquiry that the person was not a tout but the District Magistrate without further enquiry and without notice to the party declared him a tout, held, that the order was illegal. 1930 A.L.J. 961=1930 A. 641. It is a reasonable and legitimate inference of fact that if a man attends Court every day, works after the cases of clients, even pays to pleaders and realizes costs and engages pleaders and also realizes their fees, he is not rendering gratuitous service such as a casual friend or acquaintance may do. 56 C. 800=115 I.C. 602 (2)=1929 C. 196.

ATTORNEY—CHANGE BY 'LITIGANT—RIGHT OF ATTORNEY IN RESPECT OF COSTS.—A litigant has the right to employ any attorney he likes and to change him for another attorney in the course of the same proceeding if he so wishes, provided that he does not thereby cause delay or injustice to any other party or inconvenience to the Court. If he has not paid costs to the attorney whom he wishes to discharge that would affect his right to obtain papers and documents on which the attorney might claim a lien for his unpaid costs. But it is not open to an attorney to say that his client shall continue to employ him in the suit or proceeding until all the costs due to him are paid. 35 Bom.L.R. 298=1933 B. 182. It is clear that, in the absence of misconduct on the part of the advocate on record, the client is not entitled to the sanction of the Court for a change of the advocate, without making a satisfactory arrangement to pay the advocate who has had charge of the case till then. If the client proposes to abandon him when the case is ready for hearing and to engage another advocate, it is only proper that the advocate on record should be paid his full fee before the change of vakalat is sanctioned. 58 L.W. 34=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 56. No order for change of attorney should be made unless provision is made for payment of costs to the attorney subject of course to this that no such provision will be made where the attorney has by his own conduct or misconduct discharged himself. 60 C. 1273=37 C.W.N. 998.

ATTORNEY—LIEN—KINDS OF—PASSIVE OR RETAINING LIEN—NATURE OF.—The rights of an attorney in India are the same as the rights of a solicitor in England, except in so far as the latter have been diminished or increased by statute. A solicitor in England is entitled to three kinds of lien to protect his right to recover his costs from his client, namely: (i) a passive or retaining lien; (ii) a common law lien on property recovered or preserved by his efforts; (iii) a statutory lien enforceable by a charging order. Indian statutory law contains no provision for the last mentioned lien but the other two kinds of lien are available in India. The lien on property recovered or preserved by the efforts of the solicitor is a particular lien and not a general lien and it is not available for the general balance of account between the attorney and his client but extends only to the costs of recovering or preserving the property in suit. The passive or retaining lien is not affected or curtailed by S. 171 of the Contract Act. This lien enures in favour of the solicitor in respect of all deeds, papers or other personal chattels which come into his possession in the course of his professional employment. This is a general lien but with reference to moneys recovered by the solicitor for his client, he has no such general lien. Whether he obtains possession of the money which is the fruit of his exertions or whether it is still in deposit in Court, in either case, his lien or right to be paid out of those funds is confined to the costs incurred in respect of those funds, subject only to this, that he has the ordinary rights of set off which one creditor has against another. 60 C. 1442=149 I.C. 331=1934 C. 341.

SECS. 3 AND 4.—Where the fee payable is not settled with the client under S. 3, then under S. 4 the pleader is entitled only to such fee as would come to on computation, in accordance with the law for the time being in force in regard to the computation, of the costs to be awarded to a party in respect of the fee of his legal practitioner. 1931 P. 137=9 P. 865.

OF PLEADERS AND MUKHTARS.

Power to make rules as to qualifications, etc., of pleaders and mukhtars.

6. The High Court may, from time to time make rules¹ consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely) :—

(a) the qualifications, admission and certificates of proper persons to be pleaders of the subordinate Courts, and of the revenue-offices situate within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter ²[in respect of which the Indian Bar Councils Act, 1926, is not in force] of such Court;

(c) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and

(d) suspension and dismissal of such pleaders and mukhtars.

Practitioners Act as amended by S. 19 of the Bar Councils Act. Therefore an advocate of the Bombay High Court enrolled as such by that Court who is not ordinarily practising in that Court or in any Court subordinate thereto is entitled to practise in the Subordinate Court of the Province of Madras. 58 L.W. 52=(1945) 1 M.L.J. 106 (F.B.).

Sec. 5.—An attorney acting for a firm and having the power to conduct a suit has no power to refer a matter to arbitration unless he is authorised specifically for that purpose. 36 C.W.N. 8=1932 C. 343. The retainer of an attorney ordinarily comes to an end when the suit is ended. After the suit is over the attorneys are ipso facto discharged so far as the suit is concerned and would need fresh authority from their clients to act for them in execution proceedings. 138 I.C. 320=34 Bom.L.R. 615=1932 B. 337. If a suit has been compromised by the guardian ad litem improperly without the leave of the Court, that may be a ground for appropriate proceedings by the minor on attaining majority or by another guardian during minority. But the attorneys who received their instructions from the guardian cannot go behind them and continue to represent the minor. 34 Bom. L. R. 614=138 I.C. 312=1932 B. 401 (1). Per C. C. Ghose, J.—Where an attorney has employed a counsel under the authority given to him by the party in the retainer filed in the Court he is bound to pay the fees paid to the counsel on taxation. It is only when the client has instructed the attorney not to brief a particular counsel that the client would be under no obligation to pay fees paid to that particular counsel. 52 C. L.J. 197=1930 C. 651 (F. B.). See also I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 422=1939 Sind 125 (right to sue for fees). As to taxation of costs, see also 1932 A.L.J. 272. As to practice regarding change of attorney, see 1932 B. 363=34 Bom.L.R. 703; 35 Bom.L.R. 298=1933 B. 182. It is the duty of a solicitor entrusted with the moneys of his client for investment, before investing the amount upon the mortgage of a farm, to have a proper valuation made. If he chooses to rely mainly on his own general knowledge of farms in his vicinity, he does so at his own risk and if his judgment is shown to have been at fault he is liable for the loss traceable to his breach of duty to his client. 1932 P.C. 194=137 I.C. 531 (P.C.). Mere presence in Court of the client, when he does not make his presence known to the Counsel, does not affect the ostensible authority of the Counsel, who can compromise the suit without consulting his client. 59 C. 31=35 C.W.N. 674=1932 C. 231.

All such rules shall be published in the Official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law: provided that, in the case of rules made by a High Court not established by Royal Charter, such rules have been previously approved by the Provincial Government.

7. On the admission, under section 6, of any person as a pleader or mukhtar, the High Court shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as the Court, from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in the Courts and, in the case of a pleader, also the revenue-offices specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall, subject to any rules consistent with this Act which may, from time to time, be made by the High Court in this behalf, be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal the certificate then in possession of such pleader or mukhtar shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Judge or officer, and shall continue in force up to the end of the current year.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court:

¹[Provided that, on the admission as a pleader of any person who has been previously entered as a Vakil or attorney on the roll of a High Court established by Royal Charter, the High Court may, in its discretion, issue to such person a certificate authorizing him to practise permanently in the Courts, and in the officers specified therein, and a certificate so issued shall not require to be renewed under this section.]

8. Every pleader holding a certificate issued under section 7 may apply to be enrolled in any Court or revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court by which he has been admitted; and, subject to such rules² consistent with this Act as the High Court or the Chief Controlling Revenue authority may, from time to time, make in this behalf, the presiding Judge or officer shall enrol him accordingly, and thereupon he may appear, plead and act in such Court or office and in any Court or revenue-office subordinate thereto.

9. Every mukhtar holding a certificate issued under section 7 may apply to be enrolled in any Civil or Criminal Court mentioned therein and situate within the same limits; and, subject to such rules as the High Court may from time to time make in this behalf, the presiding Judge shall enrol him accordingly; and thereupon he may practise as a mukhtar in any such Civil Court and any Court subordinate thereto, and may (subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure)³ appear, plead and act in any such Criminal Court and any Court subordinate thereto.

10. Except as provided by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force, no person shall practise as a pleader or mukhtar in any Court not established by Royal Charter unless he holds a certificate issued under section 7 and has been enrolled in such Court or in some Court to which it is subordinate:

Provided that persons who have been admitted as Revenue-agents before the first day of January, 1880, and hold certificates, as such, under this Act in the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, may be enrolled in manner provided by section 9 in any Munsif's Court in the said territories, and on being so enrolled may appear, plead and act in such Court in suits under Bengal Act VIII of 1869¹ (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants and agents.

11. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure² the High Court may, from time to time, make rules declaring what shall be deemed to be the functions, powers and duties of mukhtars practising in the subordinate Courts, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, in such Court.

12. The High Court may suspend or dismiss any pleader or mukhtar holding a certificate issued under section 7 who is convicted of any criminal offence implying a defect of character which unfits him to be a pleader or a mukhtar, as the case may be.

SEC. 12: SCOPE OF SECTION.—The High Court has jurisdiction under this section to take action against a pleader who has been convicted of a criminal offence, though the offence was not one committed in his professional capacity. 59 M. 732=1936 Mad. 318=70 M.L.J. 498 (F.B.). The use of word "may" in S. 12 after the words "the High Court" shows that the discretion of the High Court in each particular case is absolute. 33 C.W.N. 829=1929 C. 771. It is not sufficient for the applicability of the section that the pleader has been convicted of a criminal offence. Though the Court cannot in the exercise of its disciplinary jurisdiction question the propriety of the conviction, it has yet to inquire into the nature of the crime in order to decide whether the offence was such as to imply defect of character rendering him unfit to continue in the profession. 12 Pat. L. T. 773=1931 P. 369 (F.B.). See also 1938 Rang. 394; 1938 Rang. 125. Where a legal practitioner has been convicted of a criminal offence and his case is sent to the Bar Council for enquiry to determine if any disciplinary action was called for, the Bar Council should merely record the conviction and should call on the legal practitioner to show cause why action should not be taken against him. It is not open to it to justify the action of the legal practitioner. 1938 Rang. 394. A legal practitioner was convicted of criminal breach of trust and abetment thereof, in respect of certain monies of a client. It was found that he was to a certain extent the victim of his senior. He paid the amount of defalcation after his conviction. High Court in consideration of the fact that he was victim of circumstances and had expressed his repentance and assured to lead honourable life, suspended the practitioner for one year. 33 C.W.N. 829=1929 C. 771. S. 12 has no application unless the conviction alone shows the convict to be unfit to be a pleader. 27 N.L.R. 29=1931 N. 33 (S.B.). The words "criminal offence" used in S. 12 mean an offence punishable under Penal Code as well as any act or omission made punishable by any law for the time being in force which is indictable and punishable criminally by Courts of justice. 12 Pat.L.T. 773=1931 P. 369 (F.B.) S. 12 contains no implication that disciplinary action against a pleader convicted of an offence cannot be based on his conduct when such conduct includes the commission of any offence for which he has been punished. Disciplinary action is not taken by way of punishment, but on consideration whether the person formerly admitted to practice is a proper person to continue to practise or not. No one can be admitted to practice until he makes a solemn declaration, and the inference is that one who has contravened this declaration and is likely to do so in future is not such a person. The fact that the motive of the pleader in taking part in a Civil Disobedience movement was to draw attention to the dissatisfaction with the forest policy of Government is no justification nor is the fact he was only a participant and not a leader in the movement material in considering the necessity for disciplinary action. 27 N.L.R. 29=1931 N. 33 (S.B.). Conviction of pleader under Defence of India Rules for uttering anti-war slogans is not ground for disciplinary action. 46 C.W.N. 405=75 C.L.J. 428. In order to see when disciplinary action under S. 12 should be taken against a pleader who has been convicted under R. 38 read with R. 34 (6) (e) of the Defence of India Rules, 1939, the Court must not merely accept the fact that he has been convicted but must consider the material upon which he has been convicted. Where the speech for which he has been convicted incites others to break the law which it is the duty of the Courts to administer, and to do acts tending to subvert order, the Court is entitled to take disciplinary action against him. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 736=44 P.L.R. 471=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 85 (F.B.). A pleader who was 60 years old and who had been of unblemished character was convicted under S. 409, I.P. Code for embezzlement of client's money. Held, that the pleader was liable to be removed from the rolls notwithstanding his age and previous good character. 1938 Rang. 288. See also (1939) 2 M.L.J. 632; 176 I.C. 752. But see 165 I.C. 601=1936 Lah. 717. A pleader is not entitled to go behind the conviction in order to show that his conviction was not justified either in law or on facts and that he committed no offence. 27 N.L.R. 29=1931 Nag. 33 (S.B.). Conviction of legal practitioner is sufficient without any further enquiry to justify the High Court in taking proceedings under S. 12. It is not permissible to go behind the conviction and the pleader cannot be allowed to have indirect appeals, against the judgment of conviction. 1929 C. 771; 59 M. 732=1936 M. 318=70 M.L.J. 498 (F.B.). Though it is not incompetent for the High Court to deal under Art. 8, Letters Patent, with charges of a criminal nature against a practitioner unless and until these have been investigated by a Criminal Court, it is eminently fitting that in such cases the criminal prosecution should precede any disciplinary decision. 58 I.A. 152=53 A. 183=61 M.L.J. 130 (P.C.). The charges of professional misconduct must be clearly proved and should not be inferred from mere ground of suspicion however reasonable or from what may be a mere error of judgment or indiscretion. 1939 R.D. 641 (2)=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 5 (1). Where the allegations against a legal practitioner amount to a criminal charge, the proper procedure is to prosecute him criminally in the first instance before bringing proceedings under the Legal Practitioners Act. Otherwise he is likely to be prejudiced inasmuch as these are summary proceedings in the nature of a summons trial. 178 I.C. 456=I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 138=1938 Cal. 783. See also 54 M. 857=61 M.L.J. 148 (F.B.).

CONVICTION OF PLEADER—CONVICTION BY A FOREIGN COURT.—The conviction of a legal practitioner for perjury is good ground for striking off his name from the roll of practitioners. Where the conviction is by a foreign Court, but the law is the same as in India and there has been a fair trial, the same principles will apply. An order of disbarment is not conclusive for all time; if circumstances change and the Court is convinced that the delinquent has been brought to a higher sense of honour and duty, the order can be cancelled. Disbarment of a member of the English Bar by the Benchers of his in does not ipso facto lead to his being struck off the rolls of an Indian High Court. The matter would have to be decided under the discretion given by the Letters Patent. 45 M.L.J. 639=46 M. 903=1924 M. 265 (F.B.). Legal practitioners are officers of the Court and it is their clear duty to respect law themselves and to get it respected by others. If a legal practitioner disobeys an order promulgated by a public servant lawfully empowered to promulgate such order, his action amounts to defiance of law, and he is, therefore, liable to be dealt with under the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court. 42 P.L.R. (J. and K.) 77.

NO DISTINCTION ON PRINCIPLE CAN BE MADE BETWEEN POLITICAL OFFENCES AND OTHER KINDS OF LAW-BREAKING.—Pleader convicted of waging war against the King under S. 121. I.P. Code, has defect of character which unfits him to continue in practice. 59 M. 732=1936 M. 318=70 M.L.J. 498 (F.B.). Where a pleader wilfully breaks the law upon one or two isolated occasions it may not be necessary for the Court to take any action under S. 12 of the Legal Practitioners Act. Where, on the other hand, it is shown that the pleader has wilfully and habitually broken the law, then the Court may quite reasonably come to the conclusion that his acts imply such a defect of character as to render him unfit for practice as a pleader and in such a case the Court may dismiss him from practice. Where the acts of the pleader fall midway between the two extremes, then the Court may take a more lenient view and may think it sufficient to warn the pleader by inflicting upon him a period of suspension or otherwise, that if he persists in breaking or defying the law, such conduct will inevitably lead the Court to the conclusion that he is totally unfit to practise in the Courts which have been established to enforce the law. 38 C.W.N. 276. A pleader was prosecuted three times and convicted twice for semi-political offences. Held, that the case fell within the mediate position and warning with suspension was sufficient. 35 Cr.L.J. 592=148 I. C. 57=1934 C. 242 (2). An order binding over a pleader under S. 118, Cr. P. Code, may not be a conviction for an offence. But a pleader who is convicted under S. 17 (2) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act is guilty of nothing short of an open and defiant violation of law. Seeing that it is the duty of the members of the legal profession to assist the Courts to maintain and enforce obedience to law, such conduct in a pleader is such a defect of character as would unfit him to be a pleader, and make him liable to action under S. 12 of the Act. 152 I.C. 943=1934 C. 808. Where a pleader was convicted under the Defence of India Rules for uttering a slogan to the effect that none should assist the British Government in their war efforts as it was the duty of everybody to resist all wars by non-violence. Held, that in the circumstances of the case the exercise of disciplinary jurisdiction under S. 12 was not called for. 46 C.W.N. 405. In order to see whether disciplinary action under S. 12 of the Legal Practitioners Act should be taken against a pleader who has been convicted under R. 38 read with R. 34 (6) (e) of the Defence of India Rules, 1939, the Court must not merely accept the fact that he has been convicted but must consider the material upon which he has been convicted. Where the speech for which he has been convicted incites others to break the law which it is the duty of the Courts to administer, and to do acts tending to subvert order, the Court is entitled to take disciplinary action against him. The mere fact of conviction of any criminal offence implying moral turpitude can be a sufficient basis in law for an order of suspension or dismissal of a pleader or mukhtar only but not of a vakil whose cases of misconduct are not provided for by the Legal Practitioners Act, but by paragraph 8 of Letters Patent. 8 O.W.N. 267=1931 O. 161 (F.B.).

CONVICTION FOR CONDUCTING LOTTERY.—A pleader of good character and about thirty years of age, who was permitted to engage in business barked upon a scheme which the Courts decided was nothing less than a lottery and the pleader was convicted for taking part in the lottery. SECS. 12 TO 14: DISCIPLINARY JURISDICTION—HIGH COURT'S DISCRETION—IF CAN BE FETTERED BY LOCAL GOVERNMENT.—The Local Government have no locus standi in any way to fetter the discretion of the High Court to take or not take any action under Cl. 8, Letters Patent, or under the Legal Practitioners Act against any legal practitioner; the matter is one which is entirely within the discretion of the High Court. As the Local Government is not competent to claim that action should be taken against any particular legal practitioner, it has also no right or power either to abandon any proceedings or to condone the conduct of the legal practitioner so far as it comes within the purview of the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court so as to bind it in any way. 15 L. 354=1934 L. 251 (S.B.).

DISCIPLINARY ACTION BY HIGH COURT—CONSIDERATIONS.—The point to be considered in all cases of disciplinary action against a member of the Bar is whether his conduct involves unfitness on his part for the exercise of his profession. Moral turpitude which would entitle the Court to take action must be such as is connected with the pleader's profession or consist of any attack upon the system of which the Court forms part or embarrasses in any way the administration of justice by the Courts. A speech of a vakil alleged to injure the feelings of an important sect of the Mohamadans does not fall in any of these categories and is, therefore, not one which would induce the High Court of Jammu and Kashmir to take any action against him. The State imposes suitable penalties for the infringement of its loss and provides proper sanctions for the enforcement of such penalties and there is no reason why the disciplinary jurisdiction vested in the High Court should be employed merely in aid of the Criminal Law. 37 P.L.R.J. & K. 16.

PROFESSIONAL MISCONDUCT.—Per Krishnan,

J. The Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, deals with the Pleader only in his professional capacity and not in his private capacity though misconduct other than professional may fall under cl. (f). 38 M.L.J. 230=55 I.C. 198 (F.B.). Under S. 13 the impropriety must be such as would render the continuance of the pleader in practice undesirable or unfit him for being a member of the profession. 38 M.L.J. 230. See also 88 I.C. 279=26 Cr.L.J. 1111—1935 Rang. 110. Failure to make proper arrangements for conduct of case in his absence though it should not be encouraged by Courts is not misconduct deserving punishment under this section. 1939 Rang. 262. Finding of criminal Court that pleader is not guilty should be accepted in proceedings under Legal Practitioners Act. Mere negligence does not amount to misconduct. 57 L.W. 567=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 317.

MISCONDUCT—TEST—RULES FOR GUIDANCE.—The principles to be applied in considering whether certain conduct amounts to misconduct or not are as follows: (1) that the mere holding of certain views and expression of such views in language however emphatic or strong is no ground for taking disciplinary action against a legal practitioner; (2) that mere conviction for an offence is not sufficient but the Court must look into the nature of the act on which the conviction is based to decide whether the legal practitioner is an unfit person to remain in the profession; (3) that a legal practitioner is a part of the machinery provided for the maintenance of order and the enforcement of the law of the land; it is therefore inconsistent with his duties as legal practitioner to incite others either to boycott the Courts or to break the law which it is the duty of the Courts to administer; those who live by the law cannot preach the breaking of the law; (4) that organized breach of the peace, incitement to acts tending to subvert order is a reasonable cause to suspend or remove a legal practitioner; and (5) that acts involving moral turpitude or which imply general infamy make a legal practitioner unfit to remain on the rolls of the Court. 15 Lah. 354=1934 Lah. 251 (S.B.). A legal practitioner is not merely a lawyer but also a moral agent. As such he is a Judge of right and wrong, and an advocate of what is right. Search for truth is to be his ideal. The practice of law is a personal right or privilege limited to selected persons of good character. It is a franchise which may be revoked for misconduct, the test being whether the misconduct is such as shown him to be unfit or unsafe to discharge the duties of his office, or unworthy of confidence, no legal practitioner can disclaim responsibility for his acts. Just as he is entitled to enjoy the privileges of his profes-

(a) who takes instructions in any case except from the party on whose behalf he is retained, or some person who is the recognised agent of such party within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, or some servant, relative or friend authorised by the party to give such instructions, or sion, he has also peculiar obligations and responsibilities attached. 12 Mys. L. J. 292=39 Mys. H. C. R. 380. In an enquiry into charges of professional misconduct, it is the duty of the legal practitioner concerned to be absolutely candid with the Court. He may unwisely maintain a stolid silence and take up the position that the case against him must be completely proved. In such case he runs a grave risk. On the other hand, if he elects to state his defence, it ought not to be a perversion of truth. 12 Mys. L. J. 222=39 Mys. H. C. R. 203. Misconduct is not necessarily the same thing as conduct involving moral turpitude. 15 Lah. 354=1934 Lah. 251 (S. B.). The motive of the informer in starting disciplinary action against an advocate is immaterial. 15 Lah. 354 (S. B.).

(b) who is guilty of fraudulent or grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty, or

SEC. 13 (a): ACCEPTING VAKALATNAMAS.—Duty of a pleader. 33 I.C. 831=20 C.W. N. 283. Advocate accepting vakalats for withdrawal of money or for any such serious responsibility should satisfy themselves as to the bona fides of the person who offers it; and this is necessary even if there be no apparent circumstances to justify any suspicion. 16 Pat. 488=17 Pat. L.T. 407=1937 Pat. 433 (S. B.); 16 Pat. 123=17 Pat. L.T. 948=1937 Pat. 137 (S. B.). If a pleader acts bona fide in accepting Vakalatnama but makes a serious mistake, there is no need for the Court to take up the matter again after a long time has elapsed. The rules should be strictly observed by pleaders in accepting Vakalatnama. 65 I. C. 417=1922 Cal. 178. See also 19 Cr. L. J. 227=43 I.C. 819 (C.). Where an advocate appeared in certain criminal proceedings without filing a vakalatnama, though required by the rules of the Court, held, though the rules requiring the filing of a vakalatnama or mukhtarnama in criminal proceedings is an arbitrary rule having no moral sanction behind it, it is a rule which an officer of the Court must comply with but a disobedience of that rule did not amount to professional misconduct in the particular case. 12 Pat. 843=14 Pat. L.T. 709=1933 Pat. 571 (S. B.). See also 13 Mys. L.J. 34; 12 Mys. L. J. 383. RECEIVING INSTRUCTIONS DIRECTLY FROM CLIENTS OR THEIR DULY AUTHORIZED AGENTS.—Gross negligence tantamount to misconduct is attributable to a mukhtar who receives and acts on a mukhtarnama from an unauthorized person without proper inquiry. 37 I.C. 492=2 Pat. L.J. 36. See also 34

PLEADER NOT RENEWING CERTIFICATE.—It is not the law that a pleader who has not renewed his sanad for the year in which his conduct is called in question is no longer a "legal practitioner." He does come within S. 13 and can be struck off the rolls for misconduct under S. 13 even if he has not renewed his certificate. 56 L.W. 401 (2)=1943 M.W.N. 516=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 616=(1943) 2 M.L.J. 126 (F.B.). PROFESSIONAL MISCONDUCT of a solicitor or pleader must be judged by the rules and standard of his profession. 115 I.C. 318=30 Cr.L.J. 445=1929 Sind 121 (F.B.). A pleader who obtains adjournment of a case on grounds which, to his knowledge, were false is guilty of improper conduct. 54 M. 520=1931 M. 422=60 M.L.J. 393 (F.B.). Taking a personal interest in the litigation (as) financing the same and bargaining for a share of the profits may amount to misconduct on the part of an advocate. 1932 L. 584. See also I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 30=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 196 (F.B.). A solicitor acting for a client in any transaction, should not have a personal interest in that transaction without making full disclosure of the nature and extent of the interest to the client. 44 L.W. 315=163 I.C. 434=1936 P.C. 224 (P.C.). Where, a solicitor occupying the position of a trustee of an estate, while entering into certain transaction relating to the estate, considers his own interests in preference to and to the detriment of the interest of the beneficiaries of the estate of which he is a trustee, his action is such as would reasonably be regarded as disgraceful and dishonourable by his professional brethren of repute and competency and he is guilty of professional misconduct. 163 I.C. 434=44 L.W. 315=1936 P.C. 224 (P.C.).

SEC. 13 (b): GROSSLY IMPROPER CONDUCT.—APPEARING ON OPPOSITE SIDES.—A professional gentleman should as far as possible stick to the side who first employed him. 28 I.C. 996=16 Cr.L.J. 420 (All.). See also 58 M.L.J. 635 (P.C.). In order to prevent a counsel appearing for the other party, he must have a definite retainer with a fee paid or he must have such confidential instructions from one of the parties as would make it improper for him to appear for the other party. 1939 R.D. 641 (2)=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 5 (1). When he has once been retained and received the confidence of a client he cannot accept a retainer from or enter the service of those whose interests are adverse to his client in same controversy. 37 C.L.J. 48=72 I.C. 22=1923 Cal. 106. A pleader who acts for both the parties in the suit at one stage or other is guilty of professional misconduct. 45 I.C. 614=3 Pat.L.J. 390. Where a pleader accepted a brief against his standing clients at a time when his exclusive retainer by that party was still running the pleader acted not only in violation of the principles which govern the conduct of a legal adviser but also of the ordinary principles of good faith as between man and man and was guilty of grossly improper conduct. 32 Bom. L. R. 556=1930 P.C. 60=58 M.L.J. 483 (P.C.). See also 1932 A.L.J. 755=140 I.C. 62=1932 All. 536. Every practitioner is bound to see before accepting a vakalatnama that he has not already been engaged on the other side. To recklessly sign a vakalatnama very nearly amounts to misconduct. 14 Cr.L.J. 44=18 I.C. 268 (A.). Legal practitioners receiving instruction from a prospective client, subsequent appearance for the opposite party, whether professional misconduct. 8 R. 446=128 I.C. 354 (2)=1930 Rang. 355. A legal practitioner had acted for the appellant in a prior suit wherein the appellant asked that an award by an arbitrator in a dispute in respect of a conveyance should be set aside. A plea was therein filed that the respondent persuaded the appellant to execute a conveyance wherein the consideration was falsely stated. The later suit related to the same conveyance and the prayer of the appellant therein was that it should be set aside on the ground of fraud and failure of consideration. Held, that though the conduct of the legal practitioner in appearing for the respondent in the latter proceeding was not dishonest, the Court could, considering the possibility of mischief to the other party, direct that he should not take any further part in the proceeding. 125 I.C. 262=8 R. 44=1930 Rang. 185. Pleader appointed on commission in the case cannot act as vakil for one of the parties. 100 I.C. 309=1927 Cal. 203. The mere fact that a lawyer is cited as a witness by the prosecution would not disqualify him from appearing as counsel for the accused in the case. No doubt it is not in accordance with professional etiquette for a lawyer who has given evidence as a witness for the prosecution to accept or to continue to hold a brief from the accused. But the mere citing of an Advocate as a witness by the Police does not operate as a disqualification. 48 L.W. 276=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 446. APPEARING FOR THE OPPOSITE PARTY WHEN NOT MISCONDUCT.—Pleader acting for one party in one proceeding. He is not debarred from appearing against that party in another proceeding unless his services were sought by the party in the latter case and refused by pleader on insufficient grounds. 1928 M. 592. It cannot be said that there is anything professionally wrong in acting for an opposite party when the proceedings are different. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 399=1938 Mad. 276. That a pleader was merely consulted by complainant at one stage, does not preclude him from appearing for the accused in proceedings regarding a totally different incident. 8 L. 671=1928 L. 65. See also 128 I.C. 354=1930 Rang. 355. In order to prevent counsel appearing for the other party, he must have a definite retainer, with a fee paid, or he must have such confidential instructions from one of the parties as would make it improper for him to appear for the other party. In the absence of either, it cannot be said to be unprofessional on the part of the counsel to appear for the other party. 11 O.W.N. 23=1934 Oudh 58 (S.B.). A Hindu pleader allowed his father to purchase the very property in respect of which he was working for his client. The transaction took place with the knowledge and consent of his client. But in spite of this knowledge the client allowed the same pleader to continue to work for him. Further, when the pleader appeared for his father against him in a case arising out of the sale transaction, he did not raise any objection against the conduct of the pleader for more than 18 months. Held, that though the pleader did not act up to the standard of propriety which was expected of a member of the legal profession, who must enjoy the complete confidence of the litigant public and the Court and though technically his appearing subsequently against him was improper, yet no disciplinary action was justified. 1938 Pat. 28=1938 P.W.N. 115=172 I.C. 849 (S. B.).

SEPARATE APPEARANCES FOR SAME PARTY IN DIFFERENT CAPACITIES.—PROPRIETY.—A solicitor appearing for a client who is interested in two different capacities can state the case of his client in respect of each capacity, but he cannot appear separately for the same person. Nor is the same party entitled to appear by separate counsel or separate solicitors in different capacities. 37 Bom.L.R. 49=1935 B. 119.

PLEADER ACTING AS ARBITRATOR.—Where a pleader who had been engaged by the plaintiff withdrew on behalf of defendant money, which he knew was payable to the plaintiff, and took a conspicuous part as arbitrator in a matter in which he was seriously and personally concerned, he was guilty of professional misconduct. 41 I.C. 328=2 P.L.J. 259. Pleader getting himself appointed arbitrator holding out promise to a party is guilty of serious misconduct. 132 I.C. 576=1936 Pesh. 113.

PLEADER BECOMING PROMOTING DIRECTOR OF COMPANY ON MONTHLY REMUNERATION.—A pleader practising in the mofussil is governed by the rules framed by the High Court under the Legal Practitioners Act and the directions given by the High Court from time to time. Where a pleader became a promoting director of a Company with a fixed monthly remuneration without the permission of the High Court, but the Company never in fact carried on business and the pleader never received any remuneration from it.

Held, that the pleader offended against rule 13 of the rules framed by the High Court under the Legal Practitioners Act and the circular order of the High Court of 1916, but the offence being of a technical nature did not call for action. An Advocate should not act as a promoter of a trading Company but he can act as the legal adviser of a Company of which he is a director subject to his remuneration being fixed before hand. 1943 M.W.N. 587=56 L. PLEADER LIKELY TO BE WITNESS IN A CASE.—As to whether such vakil can accept brief, see 8 P.L.T. 510=1927 P. 61; 117 I.C. 66; 48 L.W. 276=(1938) 2 M. L. J. 446. Though it is undesirable that a lawyer should appear in a case in which he knows or has reason to believe that he would be an important witness there is no harm in his giving evidence in a case in which he is appearing. 12 Pat. 359=1933 Pat. 306. Pleader appearing for party—Propriety of giving evidence as witness. See 44 Cr.L.J. 114=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 479 (F.B.).

PLEADER COLLECTING EVIDENCE FOR CLIENT.—A pleader helping his clients by collecting evidence for them to be used on their behalf does not exceed his duties as their counsel. 134 I.C. 515=1931 L. 246.

ABANDONMENT OF CASE.—A pleader acts improperly in abandoning his client's case while in the midst of the client's examination-in-chief. After once taking up his client's case he ought to have seen that it was terminated. 14 Cr.L.J. 379=20 I.C. 139 (C.). See also 35 C.L.J. 403=26 C. W.N. 580.

ABANDONMENT OF ISSUE.—A vakil's general power in the conduct of a suit includes the abandonment of an issue, which in his discretion he thinks it inadvisable to press. 1935 L. 71.

ACCOUNTS.—Duty of pleader of keep proper accounts. See (1943) 1 M.L.J. 487 (S. B.). There can be no professional misconduct when an advocate puts forward a bona fide claim to a lien on the papers of his client in respect of his outstanding fees. As an advocate fulfils the role of a solicitor also it may be argued that he is entitled to the advantages of a solicitor. Where the mother of a minor employs an advocate to act for her in her own suit as well as in a suit by her as next friend of her minor son, there is no obligation on the part of the advocate under R. 27, note 1, of the rules under the Legal Practitioners' Act to keep separate accounts. What the rule requires is that he should keep accounts. 56 L.W. 344=44 Cr.L.J. 735=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 493=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 437 (S.B.)=I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 71. If money is paid to an attorney by his client not on account of costs but for a special purpose, it is trust money. It is first his duty to enter the account properly in his own books, to put it into a ledger account or a proper account, and distinguish it from other moneys. If he has a general client's account in the bank, he must put it into that. If he has not, he is to open one and put it into that. He has no right to use the money. The fact that he can pay it back, or may be able to pay it back within a reasonable time, or immediately, makes no difference. I.L.R. (1943) 1 Cal. 81.

WILFUL NEGLECT TO APPEAR NOT EXCUSED BY NON-PAYMENT OF FEES.—It is not proper for Counsel either in the High Court or in the Courts below to merely state to the Court that he has no instructions. He should clearly specify what is the reason for his failing to proceed with the case. It may be that he has not received his fees; it may be that his instructions have been withdrawn or it may be some other reason. But whatever the reason is, he should clearly state it to the Court. 1936 A.L.J. 902=1936 All. 670. A pleader is guilty of misconduct if after receipt of full fees he wilfully neglects to appear and conduct a case. 37 M. 238=23 M.L.J. 447. Per Sankaran Nair, J.—In the absence of such an agreement or at least notice to the party in time, a vakil, must appear and conduct the case though the fee or a portion thereof remains unpaid. 37 M. 238=23 M.L.J. 447. See also 10 P.L.T. 723=1929 P. 337 (F.B.). When the client is, for some reason or other, putting off the settlement and payment of fee a legal practitioner would be well advised if he served a registered notice upon him in good time intimating to him that if the client did not settle and pay his fee he would repudiate all his responsibility as a pleader. 1930 L. 947. Per Curiam.—When a pleader accepts a vakalatnama in the ordinary form, he must attend Court on every occasion to protect the interest of the client concerned. Any limitations on his obligation by special agreement must be proved and the onus lies on the pleader. Non-payment is no justification for refusal to attend. 49 C. 732=26 C.W.N. 589=71 I.C. 81 (F. B.). Where a pleader signs a vakalatnama on the distinct understanding that a sum paid to him is really in the nature of a part-payment, and that the client will settle the proper fee afterwards and if the client fails to do so, it follows that mere acceptance of vakalatnama cannot cast upon the pleader the duty of defending the case. 129 I.C. 301=1930 L. 947. Taking fees as a pleader in a case where he is in fact a party is grossly improper conduct. 1925 O. 130.

FAILURE TO MAKE CAREFUL ARRANGEMENTS IN A CASE shows a laxity in conduct which deserves no encouragement. 183 I.C. 580 =1939 Rang. 262.

SUPPLEMENTAL FEES.—To agree with a client for a present over and above his fees in the case of success, is disgraceful for an advocate. The failure of a barrister in exacting money as supplemental fee does not absolve him from his original obligation to his client and the Court. 16 I.C. 780 =14 Bom.L.R. 691 (F.B.). In the absence of a special contract to the contrary the fees accepted by an Advocate must be taken to be for the whole case. A writing to evidence the terms of engagement between the advocates and the client is always desirable. 16 Cr.L.J. 707 =30 I.C. 995.

GIVING IMPROPER ADVICE TO CLIENT.—Pleader advising payment of moneys from minor's estate to the sureties as consideration, held, there was no cause for proceeding against the pleader under S. 13 (b) or (f). 38 M.L.J. 58 =54 I.C. 163. A vakil of the High Court was suspended from practice for two years by the High Court under Cl. 10 of the Letters Patent (Madras) for professional misconduct arising from the following acts he did, viz., (1) giving improper advice and getting a nominal sale for a low value; (2) pleading a false defence; (3) giving false evidence and suborning perjury. 39 I.C. 289 =40 M. 69.

PUTTING IRRELEVANT QUESTIONS IN CROSS-EXAMINATION.—Protracted examinations of witnesses with questions which are quite irrelevant to the suit, and only tend to swell the size of the record, must be deprecated. It is an abuse which enormously increases the cost of litigation without any corresponding benefit to the parties and it is clearly within the powers of the High Court to direct inquiry with a view to disciplinary action in flagrant cases which come under their notice at the hearing of appeals. 1932 A.L.J. 198 =1932 P.C. 69 =62 M.L.J. 457 (P.C.). As to defamatory suggestion against witnesses, see 29 N.L.R. 24 =1933 N. 47.

ERROR OF LAW.—Error of law is no professional misconduct. 20 C.W.N. 278 =23 C.L.J. 237 =43 C. 685.

MISAPPROPRIATION BY VAKIL of the client's money amounts to professional misconduct. 42 I.C. 135. See also 145 I.C. 278 =34 Cr.L.J. 954 =1933 L. 575 (S.B.); 15 I.C. 785 =13 Cr.L.J. 513 =5 S.L.R. 222. Thus if money is paid for payment of stamp fees it is not open to the legal practitioner to appropriate the same or any part of it towards fees due to him. 1930 M.W.N. 216. It is the duty of every advocate who receives money on behalf of his client to conduct litigation with to keep an account of how that money has been applied. 1930 M.W.N. 216. See also I.L.R. debtedness—Standard of professional conduct. 88 I.C. 360 =1925 M. 797 (F.B.). A legal practitioner received money from the Court on behalf of his client and retained it in his own hands without any authority from the client so to retain it. Subsequently he chose to treat it as loan and gave security which he felt himself at liberty to withdraw at his own will and pleasure. Held, that this was a grave offence which amounted to professional misconduct. 32 L.W. 435 =129 I.C. 233 =1930 M. 927 (F.B.). See also 1933 L. 575 =145 I.C. 278 (S.B.); 142 I.C. 593 =1933 S. 45. Where a pleader to whom money is given by his client for payment to an arbitrator appropriates that money towards his fees, his conduct is gravely improper and calls for disciplinary action. 1938 Lah. 248 =175 I.C. 29. See also I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 731 =1941 Lah. 384 (F.B.). While misappropriation by a legal practitioner of monies belonging to his client is a very grave act of professional misconduct which would not make it possible to allow him to continue practising in the profession, the Court is not precluded from re-instating the practitioner when adequate punishment has been imposed and he has shown that he has rehabilitated himself in such a manner that he is fitted to be admitted into the profession again. 1939 Mad. 906 = (1939) 2 M.L.J. 632 (F.B.). See also I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 81; I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 84.

Purchasing Property in Court Auction in execution of his client's decree is guilty of professional misconduct, equally so if he purchases the property for other persons. 13 Cr.L.J. 795 =17 I.C. 539 (A.). See also I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 399 =1938 Mad. 276 (F.B.). SECS. 13 AND 14: ADVANCING MONEY TO FINANCE LITIGATION IN WHICH HE IS ENGAGED.—A pleader in India, like an Advocate, combines the functions of the solicitor and the Barrister in England. As he fulfils both roles he is subject to the disabilities of both. It would be manifestly improper for him to advance money to a client for the purpose of a litigation in which he is engaged. The safe rule to lay down is that a pleader or an advocate should not lend money to his client at any time for the purpose of an action in which he is engaged. 1942 M.W.N. 483 =55 L.W. 481 =1942 Mad. 553 = (1942) 2 M.L.J. 196 (F.B.).

MUKHTAR STANDING BAIL FOR ACCUSED IN CRIMINAL CASE AND TAKING INDEMNITY FROM PERSON NOT ACCEPTED AS SURETY.—There is

(c) who tenders, gives or consents to the retention, out of any fee paid or payable to him for his services, of any gratification for procuring or having procured the employment in any legal business of himself or any other pleader or mukhtar, or

(d) who, directly or indirectly, procures or attempts to procure the employment of himself as such pleader or mukhtar through, or by the intervention of, any person to whom any remuneration for obtaining such employment has been given by him, or agreed or promised to be so given, or

(e) who accepts any employment in any legal business through a person who has been proclaimed as a tout under section 36, or nothing against a legal practitioner becoming a surety for an accused in a criminal case. But where a mukhtar enters into a contract of indemnity with, and receives money from, a third person, who has been rejected as a surety, becoming a surety, such an agreement constitutes public mischief, being opposed to public policy, and the mukhtar is guilty if unprofessional and highly improper conduct; and when the mukhtar further attempts to conceal the agreement from the knowledge of the Court, it has to be viewed as a serious aggravation of the original offence rendering him liable to suspension from practice. 155 I.C. 430 = 16 P.L.T. 223 = 1935 P. 195 (F.B.).

NEGLECT OF PLEADER.—Mere negligence does not found a petition for professional misconduct against a pleader. There must be moral delinquency in addition to negligence before a charge of unprofessional conduct can be brought home. Nor is there anything unprofessional in a pleader employing an unregistered clerk. The law allows a pleader to have two registered clerks, but does not insist that any clerk should be registered. (1938) 2 M.L.J. 661 = 1938 M. 965 (F.B.). Mere negligence is not sufficient in itself to found a charge of professional misconduct. Where a legal practitioner failed to certify the realisation of certain decree amounts, and it was found that it was due either to stupidity or to negligence or to both but that there was no element of moral delinquency, it was held that it did not amount to professional misconduct. I.L.R. (1940) All. 386 = 1940 A.L.J. 306 = 1940 All. 889 (F.B.). Negligent management of his office and permitting the clerks to cheat the clients and mislead them as to the progress of the case, is misconduct for which he might be suspended from practice. 35 M. 543 = 39 I.A. 191 = 23 M.L.J. 114 (P.C.). [On appeal from 22 M.L.J. 276 = 14 I.C. 965]. See also 114 I.C. 137 = 30 Cr.L.J. 256 (2); 62 C. 158 (S.B.). Counsel failing to appear in murder case but engaging another counsel on smaller fee is guilty of grave impropriety in the discharge of his duty. 108 I.C. 257 = 29 Cr.L.J. 362 = 1928 L. 448. Pleader engaged in two cases throwing away interests of unimportant client in favour of important client is guilty of professional misconduct. 10 Pat. L.T. 664 = 116 I.C. 764 = 1929 Pat. 153 (F.B.). A vakil who put before the Sessions Judge a statement which purported to be a petition from his clients and drafted on their instructions but which was in fact entirely his own invention and contained statements made recklessly without reasonable grounds is guilty of misconduct. 18 A.L.J. 419 = 56 I.C. 501 = 42 All. 450. An advocate in the exercise of his profession is bound to exercise reasonable skill and prudence but he is not expected to be infallible and unless the Court is satisfied that the act complained of was such that could not reasonably have been done by an advocate exercising reasonable skill and care, a suit for negligence is not maintainable against the advocate. 9 R. 575. A bona fide mistake on the part of the pleader may be condoned but gross negligence in his part cannot justifiably be condoned so as to extend time under S. 5 of the Limitation Act. The remedy of the client is only against the defaulting legal adviser. 1931 Rang. 80. Withdrawal of money on behalf of guardian and payment to his relation is negligence and not grossly improper conduct. 1925 Cal. 146. Where it is shown that the judgment-debtor obtained copies of documents and gave them to his pleader and the latter did not produce the same at the proper time the Court may refuse to admit the same in appeal. The remedy of the party, if any, is to file a suit for damages against the pleader. 32 P.L.R. 813. A pleader filed an application for withdrawal of money in Court deposit, and it was found that the money was already withdrawn, but the pleader had checked the account books of his client to ascertain the amount withdrawn from the Court. Held, that though the pleader should have been more careful it did not amount to misconduct or gross negligence. 1936 Cal. 658.

FAILURE TO KEEP ACCOUNTS.—Even if a legal practitioner has not much work, he is bound to keep accounts for whatever work he may have, and failure to keep accounts amounts to professional misconduct. (1940) 2 M.L.J. 1031 = 1941 Mad. 63 = I.L.R. (1941) Mad. 286 (F.B.).

SEC. 13 (f): MISCONDUCT OTHERWISE THAN PROFESSIONAL.—The phrase “for any reasonable cause” in the residuary cl. (f) of S. 13 is not to be understood in an eiusdem generis sense but it covers cases other than those of professional misconduct in the ordinary sense, but which unfits a pleader for the practice of his profession, for instance conviction for a crime involving dishonesty or moral turpitude or gross and habitual contempt of Court. 38 M.L.J. 23=11 L.W. 192=55 I.C. 198 (F.B.). See also 36 C.W.N. 294. The jurisdiction under S. 13, sub-S. (f) is not confined to acts done in a professional capacity. Taking part in an organised resistance to law and assisting a movement involving grave danger to the public peace by a pleader may not have been done in a professional capacity but they are such as to render it necessary to enquire into the expediency of allowing him to continue practice. [49 C. 845 (P.C.), Foll.] Also where a pleader holds the view that it is desirable to disobey the law he is likely to advise his clients to break the law and it is undesirable in the public interests to allow one who sets a bad example to occupy the privileged position of a pleader. 27 N.L.R. 29=1931 Nag. 33 (S.B.). See also 1931 Pat. 369 (F.B.). The mukhtar who advised his clients who had been acquitted in a criminal case to present some gratification to the Magistrate is guilty of misconduct, positively deplorable. Mukhtar suspended for one year. 13 Pat.L.T. 574=1932 Pat. 356 (S.B.). Where a pleader was convicted under Penal Code for intimidating and assaulting a woman in a most reprehensible manner, the conviction was not by itself sufficient to show defect of character which unfits him to be a pleader within the meaning of S. 12. Though the words "any other reasonable cause" in S. 13 seems to be wide enough to include the case, still the conduct was not such as to justify suspending him from practice. 1929 R. 352 (1). S. 13 (f) is not confined to the misconduct of a pleader as such but also covers his misconduct as a party to suit. 18 P.R. 1915=28 I.C. 722. Entering deliberately into a false defence, with intent to defraud others, is a ground of action under Ss. 13 and 14. 9 I.C. 362=12 Cr.L.J. 67 (C.). Pleader as suitor committing contempt of Court—Disciplinary action may be taken. 55 A. 148=1933 A.L.J. 251=1933 All. 224. But see also 1932 All. 492 (S.B.). Imputing dishonesty against officer of Court would amount to professional misconduct. 143 I.C. 359=56 C.L.J. 595=1933 Cal. 344. Also imputation of partiality and unfairness to judicial officer. 142 I.C. 828=1933 Rang. 34.

GENERAL RULE FOR ACCEPTING OR REJECTING CASES.—A lawyer must as a general rule take up a case for any member of the public if (1) a fair and proper fee is tendered to him; (2) adequate instructions are given; and (3) the case is of a class which the lawyer is accustomed to do. He can legitimately decline to take up the case, if he has an out-station engagement, or is engaged in some social function, is incapacitated by ill-health or any reason which a sensible man would recognize adequate. But to refuse to take up a case simply and solely on the ground that the advocate will not appear against a brother practitioner, or put forward untrue excuses is, in each case, professional misconduct and should be dealt with as such. 1929 All. 367. See also 27 A.L.J. 1047=117 I.C. 104; 27 A.L.J. 616=30 Cr.L.J. 522.

Filing a false suit is misconduct. A pleader can be dismissed or suspended. The words "and other reasonable cause" in S. 13, cl. (f) are not to be construed ejusdem generis with causes enumerated in Cls. (a) to (e). They include personal misconduct distinguished from professional one. 12 I.C. 838=4 Bur.L.T. 275; 39 M. 1045=32 I.C. 326.

FALSE STATEMENTS.—See 121 I.C. 297=1929 Lah. 803; (1940) 1 M.L.J. (Supp.) 28. Where a pleader retained in his service a suspected tout without dismissing him even after notice from the Bar Council and thereafter gave a false statement that he had dispensed with the services of that tout and stuck to that statement deliberately in a subsequent enquiry, he was guilty of professional misconduct under S. 13 (f). 27 I.C. 156 (F.B.). It is a very serious matter for a legal practitioner knowingly to make a false statement in a pleading drafted by him. Where a pleader appearing for a plaintiff in a suit on a promissory note of which he was an endorsee for collection, inserted a false statement in the plaint that the instrument had been indorsed to his client for good consideration, while he knew well that no such consideration had passed. Held, that the offence was of such a nature that he should be suspended from practice for three months. I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 550=A.I.R. 1944 Mad. 268=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 233 (F.B.). It is the duty of the Court not only to protect the members of the public against disreputable members of the profession but it is also its duty to protect the profession itself against the loss of reputation brought upon it by the conduct of such members. It is not part of the etiquette of the members of the profession to tell lies in Court or to give perjured evidence on behalf of their clients. Where the mukhtar informed the Court that accused could not appear in Court as he was unwell that day, whereas in fact the accused had come to Court that day and had been talking to the mukhtar, held, that the conduct of the mukhtar was highly unworthy of a member of his profession and that he should be removed from the rolls. 15 P.L.T. 63=1934 P. 142 (S.B.). See also 16 P.L.T. 231 (S.B.). Members of the legal profession are expected to maintain not only a high standard of professional morality and ethics but they are also expected as men of education and culture and as members of an honourable profession to act in an honest straightforward and upright manner. The conduct of a pleader who makes palpably false statements to wriggle out of an inconvenient situation cannot but be regarded as reprehensible and he is guilty of improper conduct involving moral turpitude. 1944 O.W.N. 122=A.I.R. 1944 Oudh 236. Duty to be scrupulously honest in giving evidence—Giving evasive and shuffling answers—Misconduct. 11 P. L. T. 665=1930 P. 493 (F.B.). A legal practitioner who makes one statement before the police in the course of an investigation of an offence and a diametrically opposite statement in the witness-box in the trial is guilty of the grossest misconduct. 121 I.C. 297=1929 L. 803 (2). An Advocate having regard to his education and training and in particular the profession in which he is engaged is expected to exercise greater degree of caution and rectitude than ordinary persons in making statements on oath in a Court of law. Where therefore an Advocate was convicted of perjury and disciplinary proceedings were started against him, the High Court marked their sense of disapprobation of the Advocate's conduct, by ordering him to be suspended from practice for six months. 8 O.W.N. 267=1931 O. 161. A pleader in defending himself against charges of professional misconduct made certain statements. He was dealt with for making them under the disciplinary jurisdiction. It was contended in his behalf that the statements made by him in defence must be regarded as having been made by an accused and were therefore protected, held, that the pleader was writing to the Court as a pleader and was responsible as such for the statements made by him. 14 Bom.L.R. 700=16 I.C. 788=36 B. 606. Where a pleader in order to recover fees due to him from his client for work done, made certain statements which, if true, would expose him to criminal prosecution. Held, that the conduct of the pleader though improper was not such as to call for action being taken under this Act. 14 I. C. 208=15 C.L.J. 224. The fact that a man is going to be injured professionally if he does not speak the truth is no valid excuse for telling a lie; but it is an attitude which is not uncommon and which is not of the most serious character. It is very different from the case of a professional man telling a lie fraudulently in the sense of wishing to assist his client, in deceiving the Court or even wishing to assist his client in a claim that he is making against another. In this case, the conduct of the pleader was disapproved but no action taken. 17 L.W. 358=73 I.C. 329=1923 M. 485. Mukhtar having no practice as such but acting as professional identifier — Unprofessional conduct—False identification—Liability to be struck off the roll. 16 Pat. 121=17 Pat.L.T. 951=1937 Pat. 138 (S.B.).

GIVING FALSE INFORMATION TO CLIENT.—A pleader who gives his client false information that a certain order has been passed by a Court when no such order has been passed at all, is guilty of "fraudulent and grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty" within the meaning of S. 13 (b) of the Act. 39 C.W.N. 283. Where a charge against a pleader is that he was engaged by a certain client to file a criminal revision petition but he did not do so, and that in reply to a post-card sent to him by the client, his clerk falsely informed him, under the pleader's instructions, that the said revision had been filed, but there is no material on record beyond the bare word of the pleader's clerk that the false information in the post-card was given under the instructions of the pleader, the pleader cannot be held guilty of improper conduct. 163 I.C. 975=1936 Lah. 1013.

TAKING SIGNATURE OF CLIENT ON BLANK SHEETS OF PAPER FOR PREPARATION OF PLAINT.—It is most objectionable for legal practitioners to take their clients' signatures on blank sheets of paper. A practitioner who permits this to be done and induces his client to sign blank sheets of paper in order that they can be used for the preparation of a plaint, which would then be regarded as having been duly signed and verified by the client, is guilty of unprofessional conduct. In order, however, to substantiate the charge of misconduct there must be evidence in support of it; suspicion is not sufficient, even if it is strong. 58 L.W. 56 (F.B.).

FALSE IDENTIFICATION.—A legal practitioner is guilty of professional misconduct if he identifies a person not known to him. 21 Cr.L.J. 635=57 I.C. 818 (F.B.). See also 1941 P.W.N. 417=22 Pat.L.T. 679=1941 Pat. 179 (S.B.). It is not enough for a legal practitioner who comes forward as an identifier to rely merely upon the fact that he has been told by his clerk that he identifies the person. That does not entitle the mukhtar to pose as an identifier. The identification must be a genuine identification. Cases of careless identification by legal practitioners must be dealt with great severity as they involve not only an offence on the part of the legal practitioner against the duties of his profession but also an offence against the state and public funds. 10 Pat. L. T. 641=1929 P. 339 (F.B.). See also 1930 P. 495 (1).

FALSE ATTESTATION.—See 13 I.C. 397=14 C.L.J. 606.

PLEADER EXPRESSING HIMSELF CARELESSLY IN DEPOSITION AS WITNESS.—Where a pleader expressed himself carelessly in his deposition before the Judge, it cannot be said that he was guilty of unprofessional conduct, though he was guilty of some degree of carelessness in expressing himself. 24 Pat. L. T. 81=1943 P.W.N. 50=1943 Pat. 62 (S. B.).

FILING FALSE FEES CERTIFICATE.—It is very serious matter for a pleader or an advocate to file a false fees certificate with regard to fees which he has not received and the Court will take strong disciplinary action in any such case coming to its notice. 1941 Mad. 905=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 663 (S.B.). See also I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 550=1944 Mad. 268=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 233.

GRANT OF CERTIFICATE UNDER R. 8 OF JUDICIAL COMMITTEE RULES ON IMPROPER GROUNDS.—A legal practitioner who grants a certificate under R. 8, Judicial Committee Rules, 1925, in connection with application by condemned prisoner for leave to appeal to the Privy Council in forma pauperis that the case is a fit one to be heard before the Privy Council without any foundation and in utter disregard of the principles governing appeals to the Privy Council in criminal matters and merely for the purpose of obtaining a temporary respite for his client is guilty of quite a serious dereliction of duty and of an abuse of the process of the Court especially when the legal practitioner was not in any way concerned with the case before he was asked to give the certificate. 213 I.C. 201=A. I.R. 1944 Lah. 159 (S.B.). The giving of certificates under R. 8, Judicial Committee Rules, 1925, by a counsel in support of petitions by condemned prisoners for special leave to appeal in forma pauperis in circumstances which do not warrant the granting of such certificates, shows an utter disregard of the solemn and serious responsibilities of counsel who is called upon to certify and the counsel so certifying is guilty of the charge of gross professional misconduct. I.L.R. 1943 Lah. 409=A.I.R. 1943 Lah. 210 (F.B.).

PERJURY.—Perjury by members of the legal profession, apart from the question that it is criminal offence, is a very serious matter from the point of view of the profession. Apart from the fact that it harms the profession, it sets a very bad example to the general public and is a great block in the administration of justice. Therefore, if and when cases of perjury by members of the legal profession are discovered the member concerned deserves the most severe punishment which the High Court can give in the exercise of its disciplinary jurisdiction on the legal profession. Where the perjury was committed by a young inexperienced pleader which showed that it was not intended to deceive the Court or to practise any fraud upon it. Held, that suspension from practice for six months was sufficient. 1935 Pat. 249=16 P.L.T. 231 (S.B.).

CRIMINAL CONVICTION (see Notes under S. 12, supra).—Where the person committing the offence does not bring the fact to the notice of the High Court at the time of his admission, as a pleader, when required to give all necessary information at the time of his enrolment, he commits another serious offence of deceiving the authorities and the High Court is entitled to take him to task for it. Persons applying for being admitted to be pleaders should fully and frankly disclose all the circumstances of their past career with the knowledge that the High Court would take into consideration every matter which ought properly to be dealt with by it. 175 I.C. 124=1938 Rang. 159. Even if a person is convicted of a criminal offence it is necessary for the Court, before taking disciplinary action, to know whether his conduct necessitates such action. Where the judgment in the criminal case does not disclose what exactly the conduct of the practitioner was, the Court may give the accused the benefit of doubt. 15 N. L. J. 90. When criminal proceedings are taken against a pleader or an advocate and finally concluded, they must be taken to have been rightly decided, and the question to be determined in a subsequent enquiry as to whether the advocate or pleader ought to have disciplinary action taken against him is whether upon a perusal of the facts and circumstances disclosed in the evidence in the criminal proceedings his offence has been one implying a defect of character which unfits him to be a pleader or advocate. Such a defect of character normally involves moral turpitude. 1938 Rang. L.R. 125 (S.B.). In a case where an advocate was convicted of the offence of defamation, the High Court, while holding that no disciplinary action was called for on their part, observed that responsible citizens, when afforded the opportunity of making charges against persons (whether known to them or not) of which they had not ascertained the truth, should be careful not to aggravate the defamatory nature of the matter by lending their support to an implied acceptance of it without careful investigation into its nature. 1938 Rang. L. R. 125 (S.B.). A person who is convicted of so serious an offence as of receiving stolen goods, even though the property may not be of very great value, is not fit to be a pleader. 175 I.C. 126=1938 Rang. 160. An offence of the character of one under S. 377, I.P. Code, committed by a pleader or advocate cannot be ordinarily condoned. Where, however, the offence was committed very early in life, it ought not to debar the person committing it, who is making an honest attempt to reform, from ever seeking respectable society or from being a member of an honourable profession. 175 I.C. 124=1938 Rang. 159. A pleader convicted of criminal breach of trust may come under this section. 1940 Rang. 242. A pleader who was suspended for six months after a conviction for breach of Salt Act did not apply for restoration of certificate but was again convicted under S. 17, Criminal Law Amendment Act. He made no appearance to notice under S. 14. Held, that his name should be removed from rolls. 140 I.C. 295 (1)=1932 Pat. 300 (S.B.).

ALTERING DOCUMENT AFTER EXECUTION.—Where with a view to avoid paying a penalty as required by the stamp law a solicitor altered a deed materially after its execution, he was struck off the rolls. 31 M. L.T. 107 (P.C.). Fabrication of documents by mukhtar. 13 Pat.L.T. 552=1932 Pat. 289 (S.B.). Altering survey number in petition is misconduct. 87 I.C. 843.

TAMPERING WITH COURT'S RECORDS.—To tamper with the Court's records is a serious matter and a pleader would be acting without due care and caution and without sense of responsibility in allowing it to be done by his clerk. 36 I.C. 874=20 C.W.N. 1069. Conduct of the pleader in tampering with Court records cannot be easily excused. Such misconduct deserves suspension from practice, though the pleader concerned happens to be young and inexperienced. 15 Pat. 652=17 Pat.L.T. 266=1936 Pat. 418 (S.B.). The removal from the Court by a mukhtar of a complaint amounts to gross misconduct. 43 I.C. 93. A pleader by virtue of his position is an officer of the Court and it is his duty to protect all minor officials of the Court from any temptation; consequently a pleader should not induce a peshkar of the Court to take a document which has been filed in the Court to the pleader's house for the inspection of his clients. 10 Pat.L.T. 715=1929 Pat. 338 (S.B.).

TAMPERING WITH EVIDENCE.—Advocates and pleaders retained in a case ought to be extremely careful in approaching and questioning persons who to their knowledge have been approached are cited with the other side for the purpose of giving evidence so as to give no room for any suspicion that they are attempting to tamper with the evidence or with the witnesses. 1929 M. W.N. 384 (F.B.). See also 46 I.C. 819; 171 I.C. 503=1937 Rang. 345. Where a pleader bribes certain witnesses who are likely to be summoned by the opposite side in connexion with an election petition, into swearing affidavit to the effect that they do not know anything about the matter and also tries, during hearing of the petition, to tamper with other witnesses by offering them bribes his conduct is such as disentitles him to remain on the roll of pleaders. 1938 Rang. 294. Visiting handwriting expert and talking about criminal case under investigation on behalf of person involved in case—Propriety—Liability to suspension. 17 Pat.L.T. 348=1936 Pat. 433 (S.B.).

RETENTION OF CLIENT'S MONEYS.—See 1933 Sind 65. See also 1933 Lah. 575; 1933 Sind 45; 39 Mys.H.C.R. 553.

BRIBERY.—The High Court dismissed a mukhtar for having received a sum of money from one of the persons against whom a case is pending for the purpose of bribing the police acting as a go-between. 39 I.C. 305=21 C.W.N. 516. For a legal practitioner to suggest that an official or any one should be bribed amounts to professional misconduct, and professional misconduct of a grave nature. The fact that bribes of this nature have been given by others is no excuse. See 47 L.W. 156=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 410 (F.B.). The fact that proceedings in respect of such offence are instituted against a pleader as the result of a grudge makes no difference to the gravity of the offence and cannot be pleaded in excuse. 1938 Mad. 264=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 410 (F.B.); 17 Pat.L.T. 263=1936 Pat. 337 (S.B.); Bribery or attempted bribery by advocate is grossest professional misconduct and an advocate found guilty of an offence like bribery or attempted bribery cannot in any circumstances suffer so slight a penalty as suspension for four years. It is an offence which can necessarily only be purged after strenuous efforts and after a long period during which he has tried his best to reinstate himself in society. No doubt the door is not inevitably and permanently shut to persons who are disbarred: they may after the lapse of a suitable period of time, provided their conduct has been uniformly satisfactory, ultimately reach reinstatement. But reinstatement is not a matter of course and it is not something which can be hoped for within a brief period of time. 1939 Rang.L.R. 213=1939 Rang. 142 (S.B.) Where a pleader bribes certain witness who are likely to be summoned by the opposite side in connexion with an election petition, into swearing affidavits to the effect that they do not know anything about the matter and also tries, during hearing of the petition, to tamper with other witnesses by offering them bribes, his conduct is such as disentitles him to remain on the roll of pleaders. 177 I.C. 731=1938 Rang. 294.

FORGERY.—If a pleader is found guilty of endeavouring to appear on behalf of a person by whom he had never been instructed and seeks to justify his conduct by the production of a forged document, it would not be a matter for suspension for a month or a year: he would be totally unfitted to exercise the responsible duties of a pleader and would have to be struck off the rolls of pleaders forthwith. 183 I.C. 756=1939 Rang. 312.

TAKING PART IN POLITICS.—The jurisdiction of the High Court to take action against legal practitioners is not confined to acts in professional capacity but may extend to other activities, e.g., organized resistance to payment of tax which entails grave danger to the public peace. 49 C. 845=49 I. A. 319=44 M.L.J. 32. As to criticism of administration, see 38 M.L.J. 230=35 I.C. 198=1920 M.W.N. 105 (F.B.). As to conviction for sedition, see 15 Lah. 354=35 Cr.L.J. 1010=1934 Lah. 251 (F.B.). See also 1943 Cal. 371; 1943 Cal. 370). It is the duty of a legal practitioner to assist the Court. If he appears in Court and makes a demonstration which has the effect of interfering with the work of the Court and the administration of justice, he does something which a member of the legal profession certainly ought not to do and is guilty of grossly improper conduct. Such conduct amounts to "reasonable cause" for which the Court has power to take action against him. 1 I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 459=56 L.W. 14=1943 Mad. 130=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 8 (S.B.). A pleader wrote to the District Magistrate enclosing a pamphlet which called upon that official to "quit India here and now." In the covering letter also the pleader requested the Magistrate "to quit India here and now." He also sent a letter to the special officer appointed to carry out the duties of a superseded District Board enclosing a copy of the pamphlet and requesting the special officer to resign his post immediately. On these the pleader was prosecuted and convicted under R. 34 (6) (c) of the Defence of India Rules (1939). The pamphlets were sent at a time when many parts of India were in a very agitated state and there was threat of an invasion of India by Japan. Held: that the pleader did something which he should not have done as a member of the legal profession and his action constituted misconduct and misconduct of such a nature that the High Court was justified in taking disciplinary action under S. 13 (f). 56 L.W. 220 = A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 475 = (1943) 1 M.L.J. 396 (S.B.).

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE.—Where certain practising barristers and pleaders joined the movement called the Satyagraha Sabha and signed a pledge whereby they undertook to refuse civilly to obey such laws as a committee to be hereafter appointed may think fit. Held, that the barristers and pleaders had, by signing the pledge, rendered themselves amenable to the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court, but that under the circumstances a warning was enough. 22 Bom.L.R. 13 = 54 I.C. 679 = 44 B. 418. See also 145 I.C. 316 (expression 'defect of character' in S. 12 includes acts other than those of moral turpitude): 1933 C. 731; 27 N.L.R. 29 = 1931 N. 33). Certain pleaders had collectively agreed upon abstention from Court to assist the boycott movement. Held, that the pleaders were guilty of unprofessional conduct within the meaning of S. 13 (b) and (f). Order for suspension for three months passed. (49 C. 732, Ref. to.) 132 I.C. 900 = 35 C.W.N. 223 = 1931 C. 706. Practising pleaders wishing to remain on the rolls must remember that those who live by the law should keep the law and not encourage others in its breach by publicly extolling and glorifying persons sentenced and by showing hearty sympathy towards seditious and disloyal movement. 1931 S. 33. A pleader who gives formal and public expression of his approval of the breach of the laws of the land is not a proper person to hold office of the pleader. 1931 S. 33 = 140 I.C. 233.

SPEECH INCITING BREAKING LAWS AND DEFYING DISPERSAL ORDERS.—The speech inciting the audience to break those laws which the All-India Congress Committee might declare should be broken and the speech in which the speaker exhorts the audience to resist orders for dispersal attract the disciplinary jurisdiction of the High Court. 15 L. 354 = 1934 L. 251 (S.B.).

TAKING PART IN UNLAWFUL ASSOCIATION.—It is not necessary for the exercise of this jurisdiction that the act of the Vakil should have subjected him to anything like general infamy or imputation of bad character. 12 Pat.L.T. 725 = 1923 P. 185.

INTIMIDATING A WITNESS.—To prevent from giving evidence is professional misconduct. 19 Cr.L.J. 803 = 46 I.C. 819 (F.B.). See also 1929 M.W.N. 384. As to display of temper by counsel, see 12 Mys. L.J. 292 = 39 Mys.H.C.R. 380.

tioner to tutor a witness inside or outside court, and when the tutoring takes place in court and in spite of warnings, the professional misconduct is all the greater. 55 L.W. 799 (1) = A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 701 = (1942) 2 M.L.J. 621 (S.B.) = I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 81.

COUNSEL ISSUING ELECTION MANIFESTO.—It is a well-recognised rule of etiquette in the legal profession that no attempt should be made to advertise oneself directly or indirectly. The issuing of circular letters or election manifestoes by a lawyer with his name, profession and address printed thereon, appearing to the members of his profession practising in the lower Court, who are of course in a position to recommend clients to counsel practising in the High Court, is obviously an indirect way of advertisement. It does not however amount to any professional misconduct, but only to a breach of a professional etiquette. 1934 A. 1067 = 153 I.C. 667 (S.B.).

ATTEMPT TO BRING INFLUENCE ON JUDGE.—A pleader attempting to bring influence on a Judge, before whom he is arguing an appeal through a relative of the Judge, is guilty of gross misconduct. His act is highly reprehensible and it is in the interest of the legal profession that serious notice should be taken of such acts and severe punishment is called for in such a case. 164 I.C. 384 = 1936 Lah. 732. Where however the pleader concerned is inexperienced, and expresses his penitence at once and makes no denial of what he had done, and the offence is not viewed by the public with that disfavour it should, he need not be censured and warned and ordered to pay the costs of the proceedings. 1936 Lah. 732.

RECKLESS ALLEGATIONS IN TRANSFER APPLICATION.—No doubt an advocate cannot pledge himself for the truth of his client's allegations, but he is an officer of the Court and as such it is his bounden duty to take some steps to verify the truth of the allegations he is instructed to make. An advocate is to assist the Court in the administration of justice and is not a mere mouthpiece of his client. If an advocate makes reckless and false allegations against a Magistrate in the application for transfer on the instructions of his client without taking any steps to verify the truth of those allegations, he is unfit to enjoy the privileges conferred upon him by law and must be visited with punishment. I.L.R. (1944) Kar. 135 = A.I.R. 1944 Sind 155.

LETTERS ADDRESSED BY PLEADER TO GOVERNOR RELATING TO ORDERS PASSED BY A DISTRICT, MUNSIFF AND MAKING FALSE ACCUSATIONS.—A first grade pleader practising at Markapur wrote a letter as "the leader of the Bar at Markapur" to the Governor of Madras in which he accused the local District Munsiff of being a sympathiser with the satyagraha movement and that on a particular day he granted an application of an advocate for adjournment of a case made on the ground that he desired to go to another town to see a friend offering satyagraha. It was found on inquiry that the statements were false and that the action of the pleader in making the communication was the result of animosity towards the District Munsiff. Held, as the letter related to orders passed by the District Munsiff and the accusations were made by the pleader as the "leader of the local Bar" it was idle for him to suggest that his misconduct should be regarded as being entirely dissociated from his status as a legal practitioner. In the circumstances, there was "reasonable cause" for taking disciplinary action against him. 55 L.W. 502=1942 Mad. 630=(1942) 2 M.L.L.J. 234 (F.B.).

CONTEMPT OF COURT BY LEGAL PRACTITIONER.—No power to punish for contempt of an inferior Court now exists independently of the I.P. Code, and the contempt of Courts' Act and no disciplinary power over legal practitioner or power to punish for contempt outside the provisions of I.P. Code is vested in the subordinate Courts. 125 I.C. 477=54 A. 619=1930 A. 225 (F.B.). A mukhtar who addressed certain letters to a magistrate in connection with a copy for which he had applied, and the contents of the letters were grossly insulting the mukhtar could be proceeded against under S. 13 (f). 52 I.C. 798=42 A. 86=17 A.L.J. 1050. See also 38 I.C. 980=44 C. 639=20 C.W.N. 1284. As to procedure in case of contempt by legal practitioner, see 27 C.W.N. 88=71 I.C. 673=1922 C. 550. A legal practitioner who writes a letter to a judicial officer abusing him in a particular manner is guilty of grossly improper conduct. 44 I. C. 123=161 P. L. R. 1917. Letter by a pleader which contains vulgar abuse of Magistrate and a demand for an apology apparently followed by the threat of further proceedings is highly improper. 25 Bom.L.R. 264=73 I.C. 353=1923 B. 234. Imputing racial antipathy to a Judge and charging him with having allowed such feelings to influence him in passing unfavourable orders. A belated apology in the High Court was held to be insufficient. 67 I.C. 504; 23 Cr. L.J. 408 (L.). A pleader addressing a letter to a Commissioner appointed to investigate a case to report in his client's favour is guilty of professional misconduct. 18 P.R. 1915=28 I.C. 722. Where a pleader addressed to the Commissioner of the District a most disrespectful letter and circulated it free among his subordinates, he was guilty of misconduct though the matter is one of a private nature between the pleader and that officer. 28 I.C. 722. See also 147 I.C. 330=35 Cr.L.J. 433=1934 A. 317; 12 Mys.L.J. 292=39 Mys. A letter published by a pleader alleging that a certain Judge is indolent and takes credit for cases not tried but compromised even if written in good faith and even if it does not constitute the offence of libel, amounts to misbehaviour. 44 I.C. 338=41

An advocate deliberately making false allegations involving imputations upon the fairness and impartiality of judicial officers in proceedings connected with an execution case to which he was himself a party cannot be punished under the disciplinary side under Bar Councils Act. 1932 A.L.J. 773=1932 A. 492 (S. B.). See also 1934 P. 598 (S.B.). Instructions from a client are no excuse whatever for a pleader exceeding his duty towards the Courts. A conditional apology is valueless. 25 Bom. L.R. 264=73 I.C. 353=1923 B. 234. See also 33 P.L.R. 785. Although it is perfectly true in one sense that a legal adviser must accept statements of fact from his client, yet in applications for transfer statements imputing prejudice or unfairness or corruption to Magistrate should not be made unless the statements of the client as tested by the adviser are found sustainable. 8 P. 575=10 Pat.L.T. 711=1929 P. 151 (F.B.). A statement made by a counsel before the Judges of a Full Bench to the effect that his instructions are that his client does not wish the matter to be argued before the Bench as constituted, amounts to a contempt of Court. 33 P. L. R. 872. As to making reckless allegations in pleadings, see 152 I. C. 313=13 P.L.T. 560 (S.B.). Pleader as suitor committing contempt of Court is liable for disciplinary action. See 55 A. 148=1933 A.L.J. 251=1933 A. 244; 1932 A. 492 (S.B.).

CONDUCT OF CASE—INTIMIDATION BY JUDGE—DUTY OF COUNSEL TO PROTEST.—It is the duty of the members of the Bar if their clients are prematurely threatened from the Bench, not to adopt an attitude which may appear pusillanimous but to protest then and there that they resent such observations, and if necessary, after consultation with their attorney instructing them to apply for a transfer of the case to the list of another Judge. 60 C.L.J. 179=39 C. TRYING TO KNOW THE EFFECT OF A JUDGMENT BEFORE ITS DELIVERY AMOUNTS TO PROFESSIONAL MISCONDUCT.—See 75 I.C. 728=5 Pat.L.T. 350=1924 Pat. 131.

ACTS NOT AMOUNTING TO MISCONDUCT.—Where a pleader allowed another person to sign in the name of his client an application filed in Court, as his client had a swollen hand and could not himself sign it, he committed a breach of his professional duty, but in the circumstances it is not necessary that the Court should take disciplinary action against him. 14 Rang. 152=1936 Rang. 177. Pleader employing unregistered clerk, against R. 978 (2) (iii) of the Calcutta High Court is not guilty of misconduct under S. 13 (f) so long as this clerk is not employed in doing the work of the registered clerk and is not allowed to have access to the Court staff. 41 C.W.N. 929=170 I.C. 251=1937 C. 408. Where a solicitor acting for a plaintiff who had been refused a warrant for the detention of the defendant by a Court started a criminal process on the same subject-matter obtained his warrant from a different Court, almost as a matter of course, his conduct does not necessarily involve any punishable contempt of the Civil Court. The law does not restrict a litigant to a single form of remedy and he may pursue all the legal remedies appropriate to his grievance. 14 Bom.L.R. 471=23 M.L.J. 194=15 I.C. 72 (P.C.). Where a solicitor substituted the name of two witnesses in a summons on the ground that the persons originally summoned were totally ignorant of the facts of the case. Held, no misconduct. 15 I. C. 72 (P.C.). Adjournment asked for in good faith to apply for transfer—Subsequent finding that sufficient grounds for transfer did not exist—Pleader responsible for the transfer application is not necessarily guilty of misconduct. 1928 A. 396 (1924 A. 253, Dist.). Where a pleader who is one of the trustees of an institution fails to give information to the police when he finds that a co-trustee of his has misappropriated the trust money but rather prefers to deal with his co-trustee mercifully and makes himself morally responsible for the defalcation and undertakes responsibility for the defalcation which had arisen, he cannot be held to be guilty of any kind of misconduct justifying disciplinary action, even though he may have been negligent in his duties as trustee. 175 I.C. 156=1938 Rang. 158.

DEMAND OF EXORBITANT FEES cannot by itself amount to professional misconduct. 58 M.L.J. 635=34 C.W.N. 534=1930 P. C. 144 (P.C.). See also 1937 Rang. 299. Where a legal practitioner deliberately ignores the language of the fee certificate prescribed by the High Courts by R. 1, Ch. 21, and adopts fee certificate form of his own which materially and substantially differs from the form prescribed by the High Court and which entirely nullifies the object of the High Court in prescribing the form of the certificate, he is guilty of serious professional misconduct. 1934 A.L.J. 333=1934 A. 109 (2) (S.B.). Where an advocate retains the judgment of the trial Court with the intention of getting himself engaged in appeal without any valid excuse for retaining the judgments, the advocate is guilty of professional misconduct. 12 P. 843=14 P.L.T. 709=1933 P. 571 (S.B.). The filing of a memorandum of appeal on the last day of limitation without sufficient Court-fee, knowing full well that it is under-stamped and hoping that the Court would be persuaded to accept the deficiency later is certainly not in consonance with the high traditions of the profession to which the advocate belongs. An advocate who is approached by a client to so file an appeal should refuse to file it unless the full amount of the Court-fee was first paid. The High Court will not tolerate practice of this nature. Per Mockett, J.—It is undesirable for practitioners to lend themselves to the practice of deliberately filing appeals under-stamped. 1938 M.W.N. 1169=48 L. W. 702 (F.B.).

PRIVILEGE—EXTENT OF.—See 35 Bom.L.R. 910=1932 B. 490; 34 Bom.L.R. 443=1932 B. 199. A civil suit for damages for a defamatory statement made on oath or otherwise by counsel, party or witness in a judicial proceeding is governed not by S. 499 of the Penal Code but by the principles of justice, equity and good conscience, which are identical with the corresponding rules of English Common Law. The protection under the law extends to all statements made by a party, pleader or witness in the suit, no matter whom it may relate to, whether it is the opposite party or his witness, so long as it is not irrelevant to the matter in hand. (40 A. 341; 48 C. 388, Ref.). 141 I.C. 362=1933 N. 47.

PLEADING PRIVILEGE FOR PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATION.—A pleader cannot be charged for misconduct for refusing to disclose to the Court a professional communication made to him by his client. 14 Cr. L. J. 438=20 I.C. 598.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—In proceedings against a legal practitioner the burden of proving the charges against the practitioner is on the complainant. The complainant's evidence in such cases needs corroboration. 54 M. 857=61 M.L.J. 148 (F.B.).

DEFIANCE TO LAWS—VAKIL TAKING LAW INTO HIS OWN HANDS.—72 I.C. 875=1923 P. 185 (F.B.). Persistence in conduct and advising non-payment of taxes or boycott of Courts and breaking law and order would justify proceedings under this section. 45 M.L.J. 684=75 I.C. 997=1924 M. 129. LAWYER BLINDLY FOLLOWING CLIENT'S INSTRUCTIONS.—When their clients ask them to write in a pleading or petition accusations of dishonesty, criminality, etc., against anybody, or instruct them to ask questions of that nature the lawyers are not to blindly follow the instructions. They must satisfy themselves that apart from the relevancy of those accusations or questions, there are materials on which those accusations can be made or questions asked, and that the accusations and suggestions are not recklessly made. If they do not do so, they are guilty of professional misconduct. 1934 P. 398 (S.B.). See also 1935 A.L.J. 29=1935 A. 117. If however the pleader acts in good faith and with due care and caution, he will be protected. See 152 I.C. 313=15 P.L.T. 160 (S.B.). The pleader was addicted to drinking. In defending an accused, he came to Court in so drunken a condition that he was unable to conduct the case on behalf of his client. On another occasion, he came to Court "hopelessly drunk" and not properly dressed and insulted the Court; again on another occasion, he assaulted the or in any revenue-office is charged in such Court or office with taking instructions except as aforesaid, or with any such misconduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the pleader or mukhtar at least fifteen days before the day so appointed.

On such day, or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive and record all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the pleader or mukhtar, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established and considers that the pleader or mukhtar should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court; and the High Court may acquit, suspend or dismiss the pleader or mukhtar.

Suspension pending investigation, ¹[any Judge of a Court of Small Causes of a presidency-town], any District Magistrate, or with his sanction any Magistrate subordinate to him, and any Revenue-authority not inferior to a Collector, or with the Collector's sanction any Revenue-Officer subordinate to him, may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend from practice any pleader or mukhtar charged before him or it under this section.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge subordinate to the District Judge, be made through such Judge;

(b) when made by a Magistrate subordinate to the Magistrate of the District,² be made through the Magistrate of the District² and the Sessions Judge;

(c) when made by the Magistrate of the District,² be made through the Sessions Judge;

(d) when made by any Revenue-Officer subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, be made through such Revenue-Authorities as the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority may, from time to time, direct.

Every such report shall be accompanied by the opinion of each Judge, Magistrate or Revenue-authority through whom or which it is made.

SEC. 14: SCOPE OF SECTION.—NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE SECTION.—The procedure under the Act is neither criminal nor civil but purely designed for the purpose of discipline. Such disciplinary proceedings

He cannot do so if the alleged misconduct has taken place before proceedings have been started in the Court. 171 I.C. 503=1937 Rang. 345.

PLEADER GUILTY OF CRIMINAL OFFENCE.—Proceedings under the Act being summary proceedings a pleader should not be proceeded thereunder for what are in reality grave criminal charges. 1 P.L.T. 571=58 I.C. 150=5 P.L.J. 601. See also 57 I.C. 931=24 C.W.N. 755; 31 C.W.N. 584=54 C. 721=1927 C. 536; 115 I.C. 318=1929 S. 121.

STANDARD OF PROOF.—The standard of proof of guilt under Legal Practitioners Act is not different from other legal proceedings and should be such as to leave no reasonable doubt in the mind of the Court that the offence has been committed. 1 P.L.T. 372=57 I.C. 460 (F.B.). See also 1939 Pat. 343 (S.B.). It is not, however necessary for the High Court to exercise its jurisdiction that any offence should have been committed, nor is it necessary that what the pleaders have done should have subjected them to anything like general infamy or imputation of character. 22 Bom. RE-INSTATEMENT.—The High Court has power to re-instate a legal practitioner who had been dismissed for misconduct of any description. Before doing so it should be clearly convicted by actual facts that the delinquent has reformed his character. 1 P. 684=71 I.C. 122; 14 C.L.J. 113=11 I.C. 997=16 C.W.N. 337; considerations justifying re-instatement of debarred pleader. Where persons are struck-off the roll, the door is not irrevocably shut behind them, but after years of industry straightforwardness of life, and conduct which shows repentance and determination to amend, they may ultimately find their way back to the honourable profession which they once disgraced. That leniency of outlook results from the consideration that it is impossible to shut out from a man of education, who has once borne a good character, the hope that he may rise again. But it does not mean that persons who have been properly removed from the rolls should come again and again with repeated applications within months, or even within a few short years, after the event. See also 1939 Rang.L.R. 213=1939 Rang. 142; 41 Cr.L.J. 272=1940 Rang. 32. Before the Court could re-admit an Advocate who has been struck off the rolls for misappropriation of monies belonging to his client, the Court must be fully satisfied that the Advocate has fully regained his character and is fitted for re-admission into the ranks of an honourable profession. The Court would require solid facts and cogent reasons. Mere opinion is not sufficient. An Advocate can only be re-admitted if he can show that he has become worthy to act as an Advocate. His re-admission does not depend on the fact that he has been suspended or struck off the rolls for several years. In deciding such matters the Court has a duty to the public, and where the Advocate has been guilty of misappropriation it must be shown that there is no likelihood of such an offence being committed again. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 81=1939 M. 906=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 632 (S.B.); I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 84=1939 Mad. 917=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 630 (F.B.). There is inherent power in the High Court to restore a pleader whose name has been struck off the rolls, although there is no express provision for a review of an order made under the Legal Practitioners' Act. 1935 All. 331 (F. B.). See also notes under S. 41, infra.

INQUIRY INTO MISCONDUCT OF PLEADER—JURISDICTION, PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Where the charge brought against a legal practitioner amounts to an allegation of the commission of a serious crime, the proper procedure to follow is to launch a prosecution for that crime, and if a conviction is obtained to institute proceedings under the Legal Practitioners Act. 1943 P.W.N. 53=44 P.L.T. 79=A.I.R. 1943 Pat. 52 (S.B.). Under S. 14 the enquiry should be conducted only by the presiding officer of the Court who tried the case in which the alleged misconduct occurred. But under S. 13 the High Court has power to transfer the enquiry to another Court. 1944 N.L.J. 244=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 273 (2). If a pleader or mukhtar practising in a Court commits an offence of professional misconduct in connection with any instructions which he has received from his client generally or in connection with any particular case, then it is within the jurisdiction of any Court before whom such pleader or mukhtar is practising, if brought to its notice that the practitioner has committed any unprofessional conduct, to take action against him, and those proceedings would be entirely within jurisdiction. The presiding officer of the Court in which the pleader or mukhtar practises has ample jurisdiction to initiate proceedings, though the particular matter in reference to which he commits the act complained of might not be before that Court. 18 Pat.L.T. 961=1938 Pat. 17=17 Pat. 96 (S.B.). Where a Subordinate Court after drawing up a charge against a pleader and holding an inquiry is of opinion that no report should be sent to the High Court and that the proceedings should be dropped, the District Judge has no jurisdiction to forward those proceedings to the High Court recommending suspension. He has no jurisdiction to forward the proceedings which were never initiated by him or to act on the evidence which was never recorded by him. A reference to the High Court by the District Judge in such a case is ultra vires. 17 Pat. 261=1938 Pat. 385 (S.B.). If the District Judge disagrees with the findings of the Subordinate Court, he is at liberty to draw up fresh proceedings and after giving notice to the pleader record himself all evidence in support of the charge or to refute the charge, and then after adjudicating thereon he can report to the High Court if in his view the conduct of the pleader deserves a punishment to be meted out by the High Court. It is also open to the High Court to draw up fresh proceedings and then to dispose of the matter after giving notice to the pleader and after hearing his defence, if any. 17 P. 261. If a Court thinks there has been any breach of professional etiquette, or any matter calling for the exercise of disciplinary powers, in the conduct of the pleader or advocate in the case it should decide on the merits of the case and reserve such question for further consideration after the disposal of the suit. 40 A. 147=44 I.C. 28=16 A.L.J. 64. If in the course of a proceeding a subordinate court has reason to think that a pleader has committed misconduct in the course of his professional duty, the presiding officer of that Court can under S. 14 institute proceedings against him and inquire into the alleged misconduct. In such a case even though no charge is made by a person concerned, the framing of the charge need not be directed by the High Court. 55 L.W. 845=A.I.R. 1942 Mad. 691=(1942)

2 M.L.J. 479 (F.B.). Inquiry should ordinarily be made by the presiding officer of the Court where the misconduct is alleged to be committed. 1928 A. 396 (S.B.). See also I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 433=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 259 (F.B.).

PROCEDURE OF S. 14 MUST BE STRICTLY FOLLOWED.—The proceedings must be separate and distinct and cannot be made part of criminal proceedings. The report of the High Court must be accompanied by the opinion of the officer making the report. 9 I.C. 247=15 C.W.N. 764. S. 14 includes a charge under Cl. (f) of S. 13 (as amended by Act XI of 1896), and Subordinate Courts have jurisdiction to take proceedings. 152 P.L.R. 1919=54 I.C. 982. See also 1939 Pat. 343=18 Pat. 580=20 Pat. L. T. 607. Where the District Judge finds that the charge of professional misconduct has not been established the case should not go to the High Court. 190 I.C. 320=1940 Rang. 190. Failure to formulate precise charges not fatal to proceedings in absence of prejudice. A charge of professional misconduct of a pleader can be enquired into only by the presiding officer of the Court in which the pleader practices. 32 M.L.J. 402=41 I.C. 305. The enquiry under S. 14 cannot be delegated to another officer. 1 Pat.L.J. 576=37 I. C. 484. Under S. 14 the proceedings could be instituted only by the Magistrate in whose Court the alleged misconduct or offence took place. 1 Pat.L.T. 379=57 I.C. 277. Inquiry by superior Court is invalid. The enquiry contemplated by S. 14 must be made by the presiding officer of the Court in which the misconduct was alleged and not by the presiding officer of a superior Court. 4 Pat. L.T. 97=71 I.C. 703. See also 32 M.L.J. 402=41 I.C. 305. The High Court, when the matter was referred to it, refused to take action upon that account. 4 Pat.L.T. 97=71 I.C. 703. An additional District Magistrate should follow the procedure laid down in S. 14 (c) with reference to a report by a District Magistrate and forward the report through the Sessions Judge. 27 C.W.N. 88=1922 C. 550. The District Magistrate acted improperly in replying upon his own recollections of facts when they differed from those of other witnesses and it was undesirable for him to sit as a Judge to determine the matters in respect of which he might have been called upon to report or examined as a witness. 1 Pat.L.T. 379=57 I.C. 277. S. 14 is material even when any pleader is acting in his professional capacity on behalf of his client in a proceeding in a Revenue Officer. If he is guilty of professional misconduct he would bring himself within the disciplinary jurisdiction. 56 C.L.J. 595=1933 C. 344.

JURISDICTION.—District Judge to institute the proceedings under S. 14. See 49 C. 850=35 C.L.J. 520=67 I.C. 985 (S.B.). The expression "such Court" in the first clause of S. 14 cannot be construed to mean the Court in which the misconduct is alleged to have been committed.

The section only means that any Court in which a pleader practises is competent to inquire into a charge of misconduct if the charge is brought in that Court. 72 I. C. 521=24 Cr.L.J. 409 (R.). Infliction of punishment on the legal practitioner is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the High Court. (15 C.W.N. 764, Dist.). 59 C. 709=36 C.W.N. 294=1932 C. 370. A District Judge, on being informed by a person, who is admittedly at enmity with a legal practitioner, that the legal practitioner is using his private motor as a public conveyance for passengers has no jurisdiction to hold any inquiry himself into the matter under S. 14 without having referred the matter previously to the High Court. The proper course is to report the matter to the High Court in order that it may take such steps as it deems fit under S. 13 or otherwise. 162 I.C. 485=1936 Rang. 189. S. 13 contemplates the High Court directing an inquiry before action is taken. Unless the tribunal is constituted, beforehand, the inquiry cannot be lawful. Approval of a tribunal ex post facto is repugnant to the spirit of the Act and the wording of S. 13. If the tribunal conducting the inquiry has not been validly constituted, acquiescence in the proceedings would not turn it into a lawful tribunal. A District Judge who is directed to hold an inquiry under S. 12 must hold it himself and has no power to delegate to an Additional District Judge without reference to the High Court and without obtaining the sanction of the High Court beforehand. Nor has the District Judge authority under S. 3-A of the Madras Civil Courts Act to transfer his duty to the Additional District Judge. I. L. R. (1940) Mad. 433=1940 Mad. 370=(1940) 1 M. L. J. 259 (F.B.).

IRREGULAR REFERENCE—EFFECT.—For a proper reference to the High Court the formalities required by S. 14 ought to be fulfilled and in the absence of those formalities being strictly complied with the reference is no valid reference. 27 A.L.J. 1042=118 I. C. 712=1929 A. 655 (F.B.). The High Court would exercise its disciplinary jurisdiction even though the reference under S. 14 with regard to alleged misconduct of a pleader is not made by the trial Court in whose Court the occurrence has taken place but by the appellate Court which has no power to refer it. It would be necessary however that the High Court should make an enquiry. What the nature of that enquiry ought to be is clearly a matter for the discretion of the Court. 1 P. 689=4 Pat. L.T. 235=71 I.C. 209. Subordinate Court can institute proceedings against a legal practitioner in respect of an act coming under Cl. (f) to S. 13. Where proceedings are commenced under Cl. (b) to S. 13, but if it is found that the act comes under Cl. (f) to S. 13, the High Court may avail itself even if the subordinate Court in such cases would have no jurisdiction to make the inquiry it did. 39 I.C. 305=21 C.W. N. 516. The fact that the pleader concerned had become a vakil of the new High Court at Lahore since the action was taken under S. 14 by a lower Court could not affect the jurisdiction of that Court. 152 P.L.R. 1919=54 I.C. 982.

POWER OF SUSPENSION.—Investigation in para. 5 of S. 14 means investigation in the High Court. It is only after a report to the High Court under para. 4 that power is given to suspend under para. 5. 13 C.L.J. 457=9 I.C. 225=15 C.W.N. 269. The District Judge cannot suspend any pleader from practice until he has recorded his finding that he ought to be suspended or dismissed. Suspension pending investigation is not proper. 1937 M.W.N. 460=1937 Mad. 672. See also 163 I.C. 586=1936 Rang. 249.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS PENDING—RENEWAL OF PLEADER'S CERTIFICATE.—Where a prosecution is ordered against a legal practitioner instead of proceeding according to S. 14, the Judge ought not to wait until the result of the criminal proceedings are known before renewing the pleader's certificate. 38 A. 182=14 A.L.J. 82=33 I.C. 632. The fact that criminal proceedings in connection with an offence under S. 193, I. P. Code, are pending against a mukhtar is not a sufficient reason within the meaning of R. 452 of the Rules of the Court of 4th April, 1898, for refusing to renew his certificate, unless the District Judge also takes action under S. 14. 1901 A.W.N. 60. See also I.L.R. (1944) Mad. 17=(1943) 2 M. L. J. 126 (Pleader not renewing certificate also. 1944 Mad. 244=(1944) 1 M.L.J. 123). A report to High Court under S. 14 recommending the dismissal of a mukhtar having no licence to practise in a Revenue Office for gross misconduct, does not lie where the misconduct was committed in the capacity, not of a mukhtar, but as a private individual and came to light in a proceeding wherein he was not a party but only a witness. 23 I. C. 746=19 C.L.J. 100. A proceeding under this Act which is not properly initiated is not a judicial proceeding in the course of which a prosecution may be directed by the Court under S. 476, Cr.P. Code. 15 C. W. N. 269=13 C.L.J. 457=9 I.C. 225. Proceedings against several pleaders are to be separate and distinct. 15 C.W.N. 764=9 I.C. 247. An inquiry into the professional misconduct of a pleader being of a quasi judicial nature the Court must have strict proof of the pleader's misbehaviour. 11 Bom.L.R. 1150=4 I.C. 266. The section does not limit the consideration of a charge to the Court in which the misconduct is alleged to have been committed. 188 P. L.R. 1901. R. 37 of the Chapter XXI of the General Rules Civil (1911) applies even to a pleader of the High Court when he is practising in the Subordinate Courts. 17 I.C. 539=13 Cr.L.J. 794. (b) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons;

(c) the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct;

(d) the suspension and dismissal of such mukhtars; and

(e) declaring what shall be deemed to be their functions, powers and duties;

and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules, not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

MISCONDUCT—APPEARANCE FOR OPPOSITE SIDE.—Proper professional conduct is not a mere matter of compliance with technical rules. It is one of which every one who aspires to be called a gentleman should have an instinctive appreciation. The conduct of a pleader who had already taken instructions from defendant and received his confidence in the matter of the genuineness of a Small Cause Court suit but who notwithstanding that confidence accepts the instructions of the other side in a title suit referring to same subject-matter, deserves the severest censure. 15 P.L.T. 305=150 I.C. 16=1934 P. 352 (S.B.). See also 1938 Pat. 28 (S.B.); 1928 Mad. 592; 13 A.L.J. 475; 1938 Mad. 276; 1928 Lah. 65; 1930 Rang. 355; 1934 Oudh 58; 1938 Pat. 28=1938 P. W.N. 115. Reinstatement after disbarment.—Practice as to. See 1939 Rang. 78.

Sec. 15.—As to applicability of section see 46 L.W. 599=1937 Mad. 672. Where a subordinate Court dismisses a petition against a pleader charging him with professional misconduct, it has no power to award costs. But when the matter is taken up by the High Court under S. 15 of the Legal Practitioners Act, the High Court can, if it deems just—as for instance where the complaint is found to be vexatious—itsself pass an order for payment of costs. See now Mad. Legal Practitioners' Act III of 1943, S. 2. I.L.R. (1943) Mad. 385=56 L.W. 57=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 250=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 121 (S. B.).

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer and shall continue in force to the end of the current year.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority.

Provided that any person duly authorized in this behalf may, with the sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, or of an officer empowered by the Provincial Government in this behalf, transact all or any business in which his principal may be concerned in any revenue-office.

The sanction mentioned in this section may be general or special, and may at any time be revoked or suspended by the Authority or officer granting the same.

in the Court of any Munsif, the officer at the head of such office, or such Munsif, as the case may be, shall send him a copy of the charge, and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such a charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least fifteen days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established, and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Any Revenue-officer not inferior to a Collector, and, with the Collector's sanction, any Revenue-officer subordinate to him, or any Munsif in his district, may, pending the investigation and the orders of the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority, suspend from practice any revenue-agent charged before him under this section.

Where any officer acting under this section is subordinate to the Commissioner of a Division, he shall transmit the report through such Commissioner, who shall forward with the same an expression of his own opinion on the case.

Provided that a certificate issued on or after the first day of July in any year may be written on stamped paper of half the value so prescribed:

OF THE REMUNERATION OF PLEADERS, MUKHTARS AND REVENUE-AGENTS.

27. The High Court shall, from time to time, fix and regulate the fees payable by any party in respect of the fees of his adversary's advocate, pleader, vakil, mukhtar or attorney upon all proceedings (a) on the appellate side of such Court (b) in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, on its original side, and (c) in subordinate Courts ¹[and in respect of the fees of his adversary's revenue-agent appearing, pleading or acting under section 10].

SEC. 27.—This Act does not impose any limitation upon the fees which are recoverable by practitioners from their own clients as regulated by agreement between them. 29 I.C. 763; 17 C.W.N. 45=15 C.L.J. 660; 13 I.C. 43. Where several pleaders are employed the fees allowable under the rules framed by the High Court under this section should be equally divided amongst all of them. 7 C.W.N. 300. Where a pleader who has been engaged in the suit is re-engaged by the assignee decree-holder, no pleader's fee can be allowed in execution afresh—C.P. Rules. 144 I.C. 379=1933 N. 360.

SEC. 28: ORAL AGREEMENT INVALID.—A suit by a pleader for fees based upon an alleged oral agreement cannot succeed because it is not a valid agreement as it is a special agreement and any special agreement is to be in writing under the provisions of sec. 28. 26 C.W.N. 709=67 I.C. 874=1922 C. 567. See also 20 I.C. 47=20 C.L.J. 424.

FAILURE TO FILE AGREEMENT.—Even an illegal agreement if not actually filed under sec. 28 cannot be acted on and if the pleader acted bona fide and in good faith no action ought to be taken on it. 12 Gr.L.J. 12=9 I.C. 130=8 A.L.J. 151.

Repeal of sec. 28, Legal Practitioners Act, is not retrospective. 6 P. 614=101 I.C. 559=1927 P. 178. The repeal of the section does not affect rights created before it came into force. 1927 P. 178. As to a recent ruling under the repealed section, see 26 A.L.J. 258=1928 A. 274. See also 1930 P. 61; 30 L.W. 876=57 M.L.J. 756; 113 I.C. 93; 123 I.C. 408.

SEC. 32.—The term "practising" in sec. 32 does not connote the doing of acts habitually or often, but signifies the performance of an act by a person as a professional man which as a private individual, he could not do. 26 A. 380=1904 A.W.N. 57. Where a pleader does not apply for renewal of his sanad within the time prescribed, he fails to comply with R. 11 of the rules under the Legal Practitioners Act. He has therefore no right to appear in a case until his sanad is actually renewed, though if he applies within time complying with R. 6, he would as a matter of practice be permitted to appear in cases pending renewal of his sanad. If a pleader who has not complied with R. 11, appears in a case before renewal of his sanad he renders himself liable to punishment under sec. 32. I.L.

He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for, or enforcing any lien with respect to, any fee or reward for, or with respect to, anything done or any disbursement made by him as pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent, whilst he has been contravening the provisions of either of such sections.

33. Any pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent failing to deliver up his certificate as required by section 26 shall be liable, by order of the Court, authority or officer to which or to whom, or according to whose orders, the delivery should be made, to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and in default of payment to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to three months.

34. Any pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent who, under the provisions of this Act, has been suspended or dismissed, and who, during such suspension or after such dismissal, practises as a pleader, mukhtar or revenue-agent in any Court or revenue-office, shall be liable, by order of such Court or the officer at the head of such office to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, and in default of payment to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

35. Every order under section 32, 33 or 34 shall be subject to revision by the High Court where the order has been passed by a subordinate Court, and by the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority where the order has been passed by an officer subordinate to such Authority.

¹[36. SEC. 36: SCOPE OF SECTION.—See 6 A.L.J. 22. Sec. 36 creates a special jurisdiction but does not define the details of the mode in which that jurisdiction is to be exercised. The course to be adopted should be such as would do substantial justice to the parties brought before the Court. An enquiry under sec. 36 cannot be conducted in the manner prescribed in Cr. P. Code, regarding enquiries altogether of a different nature. 44 M.L.J. 437=69 I.C. 433=1923 M. 188 (2). to be touts any rules framed by the Association are relevant. 1928 All. 334.

JURISDICTION AND PROCEDURE.—Proceedings to declare a man a tout are not judicial ones but are only of a departmental nature. 166 I.C. 643=38 Cr.L.J. 316=1937 Sind 4. Under sec. 36 of the Act it is not necessary that there should be a petition at all; it does not contemplate the case of a party making definite allegations against an alleged tout. 44 M.L.J. 437=69 I.C. 433=1923 M. 188 (2). The proceedings, under sec. 36 are of a quasi criminal nature and it is doubtful whether consent of the persons claimed against can validate any irregularity in the procedure. 1931 Cr.C. 137=1931 L. 57. See also 62 I.C. 829=22 Cr.L.J. 589. The exhibition of the copy of the list referred to in sec. 36, Cl. (3) of the Act is necessary to constitute a man a proclaimed tout. The principles applicable in cases under sec. 110 of the Cr. P. Code apply to cases under sec. 36. 40 A. 153=44 I.C. 125. An order under sec. 86 declaring a person to be tout is not valid if made by a District Magistrate on evidence recorded by a Subordinate Magistrate. 60 I.C. 321=24

C. W.N. 1074. An inquiry under sec. 36 must be made by the District Magistrate himself and cannot be delegated to any subordinate officer. 13 Cr.L.J. 510=15 I.C. 654 (C.). See also 84 I.C. 462=1925 L. 225; 1931 Nag. 187. The insertion of names of persons in the list of touts should be made after conducting a proper enquiry under sec. 36. 132 I.C. 41=1930 A. 796. Before directing inclusion of a person's name in the list of touts it is necessary under sec. 36 to give the person an opportunity of showing cause against the inclusion. The duties cannot be delegated by any of the officers mentioned therein to their subordinates. 22 Cr.L.J. 66=59 I.C. 322 (S.B.). Notice to show cause why a person should not be declared a tout must be given to him and evidence should be taken in his presence to show that he is a tout. 42 I.C. 996 (F.B.). The District Judge is bound to examine witnesses named by the person sought to be declared as a tout. The District Judge ought not to impart his own personal knowledge in a case unless he informs the person of the nature and source of information and allows himself to be cross-examined thereupon. 120 P.L.R. 1909. Where the District Judge sends to the Senior Subordinate Judge the names of persons suspected to be touts for the purpose of enquiry and report, the District Judge should on receipt of such report pass final orders as to the inclusion of the persons in the list of touts. 32 Punj.L.R. 9.

PROOF.—Proof by general repute or otherwise is necessary before a person can be declared a tout under the section. 11 P. L.R. 1912=15 I.C. 307; 44 I.C. 125=40 All. 153; 3 I.C. 982. If a resolution is based on general repute the Court may attach less weight to it, but it cannot be said that such a resolution is invalid or legally inadmissible in evidence and cannot be taken into consideration by the Court. 1931 A. 711. If a number of respectable pleaders in a particular district are found to be of opinion that a person is a tout, the fact is sufficient to justify the District Judge in holding that the person charged is by general repute a tout. 3 I.C. 982. In a proceeding under sec. 36 certain legal practitioners who had been produced as defence witnesses by some of the persons proceeded against gave evidence in favour of those who had cited them and at the same time deposed that the rest were known to them by reputation or otherwise as touts. Held, that such evidence could not be relied on as evidence against those persons on whose behalf the witnesses had not been cited. 12 Lah. 385=1931 L. 57. Where it appeared to the High Court, on evidence, that certain persons habitually acted as touts, they were asked to show cause why an order should not be made under sec. 36 and, on their failing to give evidence that they were living by honest and legitimate means, they were included in the list of touts and a copy thereof ordered to be hung up in every Court. 1896 A.W.N. 107. The decision of a Court determining that a person is a tout must be based on substantial legal evidence. 13 Cr.L.J. 510=15 I.C. 654 (C.). The person against whom the evidence is directed must have an opportunity of cross-examining the witnesses. 15 I.C. 654 (C.). See also 3 I.C. 982.

ILLEGAL GRATIFICATION FOR FURNISHING CASES.—A letter written by a High Court Vakil to another practising in the mofussil asking the latter to send up cases to him and agreeing to share the fees, renders him culpable under sec. 36 and the High Court has jurisdiction to take up the case and suspend the pleader, as his conduct amounts to a "reasonable cause" within sec. 8 of the Letters Patent of March 17, 1866. 17 A. 498=22 I.A. 193 (P.C.).

POWER OF JUDICIAL COMMISSIONER'S COURT TO INTERFERE IN REVISION.—In cases under sec. 36, the Judicial Commissioner's Court has power to interfere in revision in the exercise of its general power of superintendence and control over Subordinate Courts. 28 N.L.R. 4=137 I.C. 66=1932 N. 50. See also 1941 Lah. 1=I.L.R. REVISIONAL JURISDICTION OF HIGH COURT, CONFLICT OF AUTHORITIES.—Proceedings under sec. 36 are not governed by the Civil or the Criminal Procedure Codes and cannot be revised under the civil or criminal jurisdiction. But the High Courts have held that they have jurisdiction to interfere under sec. 15 of the High Courts Act. 18 P.R. (Cr.) 1914=25 I.C. 513; 45 A. 676=1924 A. 69. See also 1941 Lah. 1=I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 133; I.L.R. 1938 M. 488=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 100. The only provision under which the High Court would interfere with the order of a subordinate Court under sec. 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act is 15 of the High Courts Act. The High Court ought not to interfere with the order of the Sessions Judge under sec. 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act on the ground that the finding of the latter was against the weight of evidence. 21 A. 181. The jurisdiction to revise is of an exceptional character and cannot be invoked except in furtherance of justice. If the Judge in passing the order had no clear conception of the law on the subject or if he has failed to apply the law to the facts of the case and bases his finding on mere suspicion or conjecture, the High Court would interfere with the order. I.L.R. 1938 Mad. 988=1938 M. 634=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 100. Sec. 36 confers a special jurisdiction on Subordinate Courts; and an order passed by a District Judge under sec. 36 declaring a person a tout is an order which the High Court has power to revise under sec. 115. C. P. Code, being a case decided by a Court subordinate to the High Court. Sec. 439 of the Cr. P. Code does not apply to such a case. Nor can it be revised under the Government of India Act, 1935. I.L.R. 1938 M. 988=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 100. See also 1932 Nag. 50. The High Court cannot in its revisional jurisdiction interfere under sec. 115; C. P. Code, with an order under sec. 36. 56 I.C. 433= 13 S.L.R. 212. An order under sec. 36 does amount to a judgment contemplated by sec. 224 (2), Government of India Act and is not open to revision under sec. 115, C. P. Code, any more than under the Cr. P. Code. Sec. 224 (2), Government of India Act, 1935, bars the interference by the High Court on the administrative side and hence the High Court has no power to question a decision under sec. 36. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 133=192 I.C. 363=1941 Lah. 1. (Case law discussed.) The intention of the Legislature was not to allow anything of the nature of an appeal against the decision of a competent Court under sec. 36. 45 A. 676=21 A.L.J. 671=1924 A. 69. The High Court has power to revise orders passed under sec. 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act by reason of power of superintendence vested in the Court by sec. 107 of the Government of India Act, but this power is of a very exceptional nature and cannot be invoked except in furtherance of justice. 129 I.C. 487=1930 L. 889. See also 56 B. 577=34 Bom.L.R. 1281=1932 B. 596. See also 3 I. C. 982; 3 I.C. 977; 1937 Sind 4=30 S.L.R. 346.

SEC. 36 (1), EXPL.—Under sec. 36 (1) Explanation, the resolution is valuable evidence even though the facts on which the resolution is based are not disclosed. 28 N.L.R. 159=139 I.C. 900=1932 N. 141. A resolution or report of a Sub-Committee of only seven members out of an Association of about 22 members declaring certain persons to be touts is not a resolution by a majority of the members, and hence it cannot be used as evidence of general repute under the Explanation, 6 P. 567=1927 P. 282. Held, that revision lies to High Court from an order of the District Magistrate including the name of a person in the list of touts under sec. 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act. 1930 A.L.J. 961=1930 A. 641. The law does not require that all the members should be present at the meeting but requires that a meeting of the association should be convened for the purpose of considering whether a certain person is a tout; and if by a majority of the members present at such a meeting a resolution is passed, it is sufficient. 56 C. 800=115 I.C. 602 (2)=1929 C. 196. See also 28 N.L.R. 159=1932 N. 141. Nor does it matter that some of the members who voted had lost their voting capacity for non-payment of subscriptions, according to the rules of the Association. 105 I.C. 963=1936 Lah. 382. Nor does the fact that opportunity was not given to the persons to be declared touts to appear before the association to show cause why the resolution should not be passed. 1936 L. 382. To determine regularity or otherwise of a Bar Association declaring certain persons to be touts any rules framed by the Association are irrelevant. See 118 I.C. 524. In order to enable a Court to admit in evidence the resolution of the Bar Association declaring certain persons to be touts, it is necessary to establish that it was meeting specially convened for the purpose of passing the resolution in question. Where it is not proved that all the members of the Association who were able to attend had been notified nor is it shown that those who were not notified were otherwise not capable of attending the meeting, the special meeting convened to declare certain persons touts cannot be said to have been properly convened and consequently the resolution passed thereat is not a valid resolution, as is contemplated by explanation to sec. 36 (1). 12 L. 385=1931 L. 57. For a meeting being specially convened within sec. 36, it is not necessary to state in the notice of the meeting, the particular nature of the charges made against the tout. 44 Cr.L.J. 582=A. I.R. 1943 Pesh. 54. After the amendment of the Act in 1926, while it is open to proceed under sec. 36 in the old way and call evidence, it can also avoid the calling of witnesses once a resolution is presented to it which satisfies the requirements of Act XV of 1926. 130 I.C. 629=1931 A. 315. The expression "majority of members present" in the Explanation to sec. 36 of the Legal Practitioners Act is not the same thing as majority of members voting. Where the only evidence on which a person was declared a tout was a resolution of the Bar Association and it appeared that at the meeting of the Association 64 were present but only 26 voted in favour of the resolution, 14 votes being against it and the rest being neutral, held, that there was no legal evidence on which the person could be declared a tout. 1930 A.L.J. 977=1930 A. 752. On this Explanation, see also 26 A.L.J. 790=1928 A. 334. The words 'any person', mean any named or specified person. So, the name of the person to be declared or not to be a tout should be before the meeting, 166 I.C. 643=1937 Sind 4. It is not proper for the

That the order under sec. 36 (2) was passed by the District Magistrate without giving the applicant an opportunity of appearing before him and being heard is sufficient ground for revision. (45 A. 676, Foll.) 27 N.L.R. 398=1931 N. 187.

SEC. 36 (2-A).—Order declaring person to be tout when he is not proved to be so, is illegal. 31 P.L.R. 212=1930 L. 405. The Senior Subordinate Judge was asked by the District Judge to hold an enquiry with regard to certain persons named in the list framed by a Bar Association. The name of the petitioner was included in the list and the matter was so reported. Held, that under sec. 36 (2-A) it was the duty of the petitioner who knew that he was included in the list to enter appearance before the District Judge and apply to be heard and it was not the duty of the District Judge to issue notice to him. 132 I.C. 846=1931 L. 543 (2). Proceedings under sec. 36 (2-A) are of a quasi-criminal nature. An order declaring a person to be a tout is one which very seriously affects his character and living. It is therefore incumbent upon the District Judge to satisfy himself that the conditions laid down by the Explanation to sub-sec. (1) for the admissibility of a resolution, are duly fulfilled and satisfied. 34 Bom.L.R. 1281=1932 B. 596=56 Bom. 577.

SEC. 36 (2-A) PROVISOR.—The District Magistrate delegating an inquiry to a subordinate cannot act on the report submitted by the latter recommending that a person should be declared a tout, if the person appears and desires to be heard. The District Magistrate cannot delegate the matter of hearing a person against whom a report has been made. 27 N.L.R. 398=1931 N. 187.

SEC. 36: REVISION—INTERFERENCE.—It is not for the Judicial Commissioner to interfere with the finding of the District Judge that a particular person acts as a tout unless it is shown that there has been some irregularity which amounts to a denial of justice. 44 Cr.L.J. 582=A.I.R. 1943 Pesh. 54.

39. When any person who holds a certificate as a mukhtar under section 7 and a certificate as a revenue-agent under section 18 is suspended or dismissed in one of such capacities, he shall be deemed to be suspended or dismissed, as the case may be, also in the other.

40. Notwithstanding

(2) Every advocate so enrolled shall be entitled to appear for the suitors of the Court, and to plead or to act, or to plead and act, for those suitors according as the Court may by its rules determine, and subject to those rules.

⁵ The words within brackets after 'Royal Charter' were inserted by Act XXXVIII of 1926.

SEC. 40: SCOPE OF THE SECTION.—The provisions of sec. 40 apply to interim orders of suspension passed under sec. 14, para. 5; before an interim order of suspension is passed under sec. 14 (5) he must be asked to show cause under sec. 40 and a report must be sent to the High Court under sec. 14 (4). 15 C.W.N. 269=9 I.C. 225. SEC. 41: SUSPENSION OF PRACTICE OF ENTERING GOVERNMENT SERVICE.—APPLICATION FOR RENEWAL OF SANAD.—Where a practitioner is suspended from practice owing to his accepting a Government service, and he applies for renewal of the permission after his discharge from such service, he should make a full and true disclosure of the facts which led to his removal from service. 62 I.O. 831 (C.)=22 Cr.L.J. 591. In the enquiry under Legal Practitioners Act of an advocate, the conviction of the advocate by a competent Magistrate must be accepted as proper, and cannot be reopened. 44 A. 352=65 I.C. 560=1922 A. 140 (F.B.). The power to rescind order under sec. 41 possessed by the Court of the Judicial Commissioner of Oudh vests in the Chief Court. But as the order passed by the Bench of the Judicial Commissioner's Court was confirmed by the Local Government, it should not be rescinded without its confirmation. 148 I.C. 299=1934 O. 140 (S.B.). Where a legal practitioner has been sufficiently punished by having remained debarred from practice for about fifteen years and he has tendered an unconditional apology the order under sec. 41 should be rescinded. 148 I.C. 299=1934 O. 140 (S.B.). There is inherent power in the High Court to restore a pleader whose name has been struck off the rolls although there is no express provision for a review of an order made under the Legal Practitioners Act. 1935 A. 321 (F.B.).

(3) The High Court may dismiss any advocate so enrolled or suspend him from practice.

(4) Provided that an advocate shall not be dismissed or suspended under this section unless he has been allowed an opportunity of defending himself before the High Court which enrolled him, and ¹[except in the case of the Chief Court of Oudh] unless the order of the High Court dismissing or suspending him has been confirmed by the Provincial Government.

SECS. 3 AND 4.—A legal practitioner can not only by private agreement settle with a client the terms and fee but also sue for his fee due under that agreement and the former cannot be said to stand in any confidential relation towards the latter in view of the plain language of secs. 3 and 4. Such a private agreement can be impugned like any other contract and in case the agreement is avoided then the fee would have to be computed according to the rules for the time being in force as provided in sec. 4. 132 I.C. 719=1931 R. 104. Where the fee payable is not settled with the client under sec. 3 then under sec. 4 the pleader is entitled only to such fee as would come to on computation, in accordance with the law for

When there are several gentlemen retained by a client in the same vakalatnama, each of the vakils is entitled to claim his client the full fee stipulated for by him and not merely a share in the single fee allowed as against the losing party. 14. Any two members of the Board, one of whom shall be the Medical Officer, may at any time, by an order in writing in Form E set forth in the schedule and signed by them, direct the discharge from the leper asylum of any leper detained therein under the provisions of this Act.

15. Any person, other than a pauper leper, in respect of whom an Inspector of Lepers has issued a certificate, in Form B set forth in the schedule, declaring him to be a leper, or has refused to issue a certificate in Form A set forth in the schedule, may ap-

CL. 22: CALCUTTA CASES.—Sec. 106 of the Government of India Act leaves the definition of the High Court's original criminal jurisdiction to be made by the Letters Patent and the High Court derives a particular original criminal jurisdiction from cl. 22, Letters Patent. It is within the power of the Indian Legislature to alter and

24. And We do further ordain that the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, [Bombay], [Fort William in Bengal] shall have extraordinary original criminal jurisdiction over all persons residing in places within the jurisdiction of any Court now subject to the superintendence of the said High Court, and shall have authority to try at its discretion any such persons brought before it on charges preferred by the Advocate-General, or by any Magistrate or other officer specially empowered by the Government in that behalf.

25. And We do further ordain that there shall be no appeal to the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, [Bombay], [Fort William in Bengal] from any sentence or order passed or made in any criminal trial before the Courts of original criminal jurisdiction which may be constituted by one or more Judges of the said High Court. CLS. 24 AND 29: CALCUTTA CASES.—Extraordinary criminal jurisdiction is conferred on the High Court under cl. 24. Under that section however the High Court has no power to take proceedings against persons, one of whom is not in India at all and the others are either Indian subjects or else residing within the original jurisdiction. 35 C. W. N. 1088. See also 35 C.W.N. 782; 35 C.W.N. 1086. Where certain British Indian subjects resident within the original jurisdiction were accused of offences committed outside British India, the complaint cannot be entertained by the High Court on its appellate side, cls. 24 and 29 not being applicable to such a case. 35 C. W. N. 1082. Where the Advocate-General appears on behalf of the accused and does not commence proceeding under cl. 24 it cannot be said that he ceased to be Advocate-General and an application by counsel for a private party to be clothed with the powers of the Advocate-General cannot be maintained. 35 C. W.N. 1082.

CLS. 25 AND 26: MADRAS CASES.—REVIEW.—The judgment of a special Criminal Bench of the High Court constituted under sec. 6 (b) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1908, is open to review on a certificate granted by the Advocate-General under cl. 26. 14 I.C. 896=53 Mad. 379 (F.B.). The expression "point of law" in cl. 26 means the same thing as matter of law in sec. 418 of the Cr. P. Code. It includes such misdirection or non-direction as would permit an appeal against the verdict of a jury. And misdirection includes not only an error in laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided but also a defect in summing up the evidence or in not summing it up or in summing it up erroneously. 1930 M.W.N. 249. As to whether presiding Judge can reserve question when point was raised after reading out charge and accused called upon to plead, see 1936 M.W.N. 281=1936 M. 353=70 M.L.J. 635 (F.B.).

CALCUTTA CASES.—Under cls. 25 and 26 the Full Bench is not competent to order a retrial but should finally decide the matter on review. 47 Cal. 671=31 C.L.J. 402=24 C.W.N. 501 (F.B.). (44 Cal. 177; 2 Bom. 61; 17 Cal. 642, Ref.) As to right of appeal or revision in the case of trials on the Sessions side of a High Court, see 44 Cal. 723=21 C.W.N. 167.

CL. 26: BOMBAY CASES.—The failure of the Judge to comply with S. 297, Cr.P. Code, is an error of law which brings the case within cl. 26 of the Letters Patent. But that clause does not entail that wherever any misdirection is found to exist, the Court has no option but to set aside the verdict. 60 B. 599=38 Bom. L. R. 19=1936 B. 52 (F. B.). Although the wording of S. 537, Cr. P. Code, does not apply to a case dealt with under cl. 26 of the Letters Patent, the Court ought to apply to such a case the principle which underlies that section, that is, that where there has been no illegality in the mode of trial, but some irregularity in the process of trial, the High Court is not entitled to set aside the verdict or judgment unless it is satisfied that that irregularity has led to a miscarriage of justice, or has preju-so reserved as aforesaid, or on its being certified by the said Advocate-General that, in his judgment, there is an error in the decision of a point or points of law decided by the Court of original criminal jurisdiction, or that a point or points of law which has or have been decided by the said Court should be further considered, the said High Court shall have full power and authority to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such point or points of law, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment and sentence as to the said High Court shall seem right.

diced the accused. 60 Bom. 599. It is clearly open to the Court to consider, not so much what effect the misdirection has upon its mind sitting in place of a jury, but what the effect of the misdirection was or may have been upon the minds of the jury which tried the case; and in so doing, it must assume that the jury was a reasonably competent jury, though it must remember that a jury consists of lay-men and that a misdirection may have more effect upon the minds of laymen than upon the mind of a trained Judge. 60 Bom. 599. According to the language of Cl. 26, the High Court must be satisfied that there has been an error in the decision of a point or points of law or that there is a point or points of law requiring further consideration before any question can arise of interference with the verdict of the jury. To justify such interference, the point of law in question must clearly be a substantial and important one and it must appear that there has been some error by which the accused has been prejudiced and the fair trial of the case affected. 44 Cr.L.J. 534=45 Bom.L.R. 281=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 150. See also 46 Bom. L. R. 566=1944 Bom. 274 (F.B.). (Question not covered by certificate of the Advocate-General—High Court has no jurisdiction to consider). See also 44 Bom.L.R. 27=1942 Bom. 71 (F.B.).

CALCUTTA CASES.—The powers of the High Court are limited under cl. 26. 28 C. W. N. 170=38 C. L. J. 411=A.I.R. 1924 Cal. 257 (F.B.). Where a Judge in his discretion under sec. 239, Cr. P. Code, desires to try a number of accused jointly it is not a matter for interference on a certificate of the Advocate-General under cl. 26. 38 C. L. J. 309 (F.B.). A defective summing up to the jury, unless it causes a failure of justice is not ground for reversing a conviction. (Ibid.) Where there was a misdirection to the jury and it appeared that the accused was prejudiced thereby and the Advocate-General granted a certificate under cl. 26 of the Letters Patent, held, that the conviction must be set aside. Per C. C. Ghose, J.—Under cl. 26 the Court can review the entire case and determine the point of law reserved or certified; the word 'thereupon' means that the point is in favour of the prisoner. The Court cannot order a re-trial if the point is held in favour of the accused. Where improper evidence has been admitted the Court must consider whether such evidence could possibly have considerably influenced the minds of the jury and whether it was reasonably certain that the jury would, not might, have acted on the unobjectionable evidence if the wrongly admitted evidence or matter had not also been presented to them. A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 617 (F.B.). Per Rankin, C.J.—The phrase "to review the case" as used in cl. 26 of the Letters Patent applies as much where a point of law is reserved by the trial Judge as where the Advocate-General has given a certificate. I am far from saying that inordinate delay may not be a matter for consideration by the Advocate-General at the time when he is called upon to consider whether a certificate should be granted. Per Jack, J., dissenting.—In a proceeding under cl. 26, the Court can examine the evidence for itself and determine without reference to the probable verdict of a jury whether excluding the inadmissible evidence the residue is sufficient to justify the conviction. The fact that a retrial cannot be ordered ought to make the Court careful to avoid setting aside a conviction on immaterial grounds. 33 C.W.N. 1121=119 I.C. 193=A.I.R. 1929 Cal. 617 (F.B.). Where the accused was prosecuted for offences under Ss. 406 and 477, I. P. Code, but it appeared that the judge had misdirected the jury on the question of law namely, as to the ingredients forming the offence. Held, that it was fit case for interference under cl. 26. Accused acquitted. 58 Cal. 1051=35 C.W.N. 425=A.I.R. 1931 Cal. 184 (S.B.). A certificate under cl. 26—What should it contain. 21 C.L.J. 377=30 I.C. 113=16 Cr.L.J. 561 (F.B.). Once the Advocate-General grants a certificate the Court has to deal with the case. The statement of the trial Judge as to what took place before him is conclusive. (Ibid.)

When the Advocate-General, after considering the matter and exercising his judgment, refuses a certificate it is not within the province of the High Court to issue a Rule to call upon him to show cause why he should not issue a certificate. 63 C. 838. The refusal by the Advocate-General to give a certificate is not a matter which can be called in question by any proceeding in the High Court. The revisional jurisdiction of the High Court in criminal matters is limited to matters arising in the Criminal Courts subject to the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court. 63 Cal. 838.

And We do further ordain that all persons brought for trial before the said High Court of Judicature at Madras, [Bombay], [Fort William in Bengal] either in the exercise of its original jurisdiction, or in the exercise of its jurisdiction as a Court of appeal, reference or revision, charged with any offence for which provision is made by Act No. XLV of 1860, called the "Indian Penal Code," or by any Act amending or excluding the said Act which have been passed prior to the publication of these presents, shall be liable to punishment under the said Act or Acts, and not otherwise.

majority (Madhavun Naik and Curgenven, JJ., dissenting) :—A point of law referred to in cl. 26 of the Letters Patent means a point of law submitted to and decided by the trial Judge or any direction as to the law given by him in the course of his summing up to the jury. The word "decision" cannot be read so as to cover cases where the Judge has never applied his mind to the matter and has not pronounced an opinion on it.—All questions which have to be necessarily decided in a trial and which in effect have been decided by the Judge, though not expressly, would fall within the meaning of the word "decision". 68 M.L.J. (Supp.) 1 (F.B.). In an enquiry following the grant of a certificate by the Advocate-General the High Court has jurisdiction to say that the Advocate-General's certificate should not have been granted on the ground that there was no decision on a point of law involved in the case and if it came to that conclusion, the petition could straightaway be dismissed without any further consideration of the merits of the case. 68 M.L.J. (Supp.) 1 (F.B.).

All cases of difference of opinion among the Judges composing the Division Bench are governed by Cl. 26, Letters Patent, and the Division Bench should state expressly the points of difference. 15 L. 425=149 I.O. 575=35 P.L.B. 760=1304 L. 371 (F.B.).

Appeals to Privy Council.

39. And We do further ordain that from any judgment, order or sentence of the High Court of Judicature at Rangoon made in the exercise of original criminal jurisdiction or in any criminal case where any point or points of law have been reserved for the opinion of the said High Court, in manner provided by the 24th clause of these presents, by any Court which has exercised original jurisdiction, it shall be lawful for the person aggrieved by such judgment, order or sentence to appeal to Us, Our heirs and successors, in Our or Their Privy Council, provided the said High Court shall declare that the case is a fit one for such appeal, and that the appeal be made under such conditions as the said High Court may establish or require, but subject always to such rules and orders as are now in force, or may from time to time be made, respecting appeals to Ourselves in Council from the Courts of the Province of Burma.

CL. 39: LEAVE TO APPEAL IN CRIMINAL CASES—GRANT OF—CONSIDERATION. — The grant of the leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council is a step ancillary to the determination of the appeal, and the principles which regulate the ultimate decision of the appeal cannot obviously be ignored when an application for leave is examined. Leave to appeal is not granted "except where some clear departure from the requirements of "justice" exists, nor unless "by a disregard of the forms of legal process, or by some violation of the principles of natural justice or otherwise, substantial and grave injustice has been done". Misdirection as such, even irregularity as such, will not suffice. There must be something which, in the particular case, deprives the accused of the substance of fair trial and the protection of the law, or which, in general, tends to divert the due and orderly administration of the law into a new course, which may be drawn into an evil precedent in future. The admission of inadmissible evidence would, therefore, form no ground upon which an application under Cl. 39 could be based, if the course of the trial was in no way thereby deflected. 13 Rang. 141. An application by a person convicted and sentenced at the Sessions of the High Court for a declaration "that the case is a fit one" for appeal to His Majesty in Council lies under Cl. 39. Ibid.

SEC. 38.—The Original Side of the Calcutta High Court has no jurisdiction to direct an inquisition or appoint a guardian of person or property in the case of an Indian not resident in Calcutta. 58 C. 919=

38. (1) The Court may upon application by order direct an inquisition whether a person subject to the jurisdiction of the Court who is alleged to be insane, is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

(2) Such order may also contain directions for inquiries concerning the nature of the property belonging to the alleged lunatic, the persons who are his relatives, the time during which he has been of unsound mind, or such other matters as to the Court may seem proper.

Application by whom to be made.

39. Application for such inquisition may be made by any relative of the alleged lunatic, or by the Advocate-General.

Notice of time and place of inquisition.

40. (1) Notice shall be given to the alleged lunatic of the time and place at which it is proposed to hold the inquisition.

(2) If it appears that personal service on the alleged lunatic would be ineffectual, the Court may direct such substituted service of the notice as it thinks fit.

(3) The Court may also direct a copy of such notice to be served upon any relative of the alleged lunatic and upon any other person to whom in the opinion of the Court notice of the application should be given.

41. (1) The Court may require the alleged lunatic to attend at such convenient time and place as it may appoint for the purpose of being personally examined by the Court, or by any person from whom the Court may desire to have a report of the mental capacity and condition of such alleged lunatic.

Powers of Court in respect of attendance and examination of lunatic.

(2) The Court may likewise make an order authorizing any person or persons therein named to have access to the alleged lunatic for the purpose of a personal examination.

42. The attendance and examination of the alleged lunatic under the provisions of section 41 shall, if the alleged lunatic be a woman who, according to the manners and customs of the country, ought not to be compelled to appear in public, be regulated by the law and practice for the examination of such persons in other civil cases.

133 I.C. 188. In an application for an order directing an inquisition under the Lunacy Act, what has to be found is that the person is of unsound mind and that the unsoundness of mind is such as to make him incapable of managing his affairs. The Court must hold that both unsoundness of mind and incapacity to manage his affairs are present and that the latter is due to the former. 152 I.C. 882=40 L.W. 710=67 M.L.J. 797.

The section in terms refers only to the attendance and examination of the lunatic in Court but the principle would equally apply to her attendance and examination

43. (1) If the alleged lunatic is not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, and the inquisition cannot conveniently be made in the manner hereinbefore provided, the Court may direct the inquisition to be made before the District Court within whose local jurisdiction the alleged lunatic may be; and such District Court shall accordingly proceed to make such inquisition in the same manner as if the alleged lunatic were subject to its jurisdiction, and shall certify its finding upon the matters of inquisition to the Court directing the inquisition.

44. If the finding of the District Court appears to the Court directing the inquisition to be defective or insufficient in point of form, it may either amend the same or refer it back to the Court which made the inquisition to be amended.

45. The finding of the Court on the inquisition or the finding of the District Court to which the inquisition may have been referred under the provisions of section 43 with such amendments as may be made under the provisions of section 44, as the case may be, shall have the same effect, and be proceeded on in the same manner in regard to the appointment of a guardian of the person and a manager of the estate of the lunatic as the findings referred to in section 12 of the Lunacy (Supreme Courts) Act, 1858, immediately before the commencement of this Act.

SEC. 48.—The language of S. 48 is not mandatory but permissive. By the use of the word "may" a discretion is given to the Court to make an order under the section. The words "concerning any matter whatsoever connected with the lunatic or his estate" are very wide, and empower the Court by the proceedings mentioned in the section to decide a question as to whether the properties referred to in the application before the Court form part of the estate of the lunatic. The intention of the legislature is to provide a summary procedure in regard to matters concerning lunatics and their estates. The Court should, however, refer the parties to a regular suit in cases which it considers likely to be complex or lengthy or properly matters which should be voiced by way of a suit and which cannot conveniently be dealt with by the summary procedure indicated in sec. 48. 1938 M.W.

N. 1143=48 L.W. 856=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 1072. The use of the word "petition" in S. 48 of the Act is used in contradistinction to a "suit" and indicates that matters properly the subject of the provisions of the section can be brought before the Court by a proceeding other than a suit. The Court having been seized of the matter regarding the lunatic and his estate by means of an original petition under which it is found that the person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing his affairs, it is not necessary that any further proceedings arising in respect of the matter should have to be prosecuted by means of an original petition. 1938 M.W.N. 1143=48 L.W. 856=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 1072.

of the estate to execute such conveyances and to do such other acts in fulfilment of contract as it shall think proper.

Dissolution and disposal of property of partnership on a member becoming lunatic.

52. (1) Where a person, being a member of a partnership firm, is found to be a lunatic, the Court may, on the application of the other partners, or of any person who appears to the Court to be entitled to require the same, dissolve the partnership.

(2) Upon such dissolution or upon a dissolution by decree of Court or otherwise by due course of law, the manager of the estate may, in the name and on behalf of the lunatic, join with the other partners in disposing of the partnership property upon such terms, and shall do all such acts for carrying into effect the dissolution of the partnership, as the Court shall think proper.

53. Where a lunatic has been engaged in business the Court may, if it appears to be for the lunatic's benefit that the business premises should be disposed of, order the manager of the estate to sell and dispose of the same, and the moneys arising from such sale shall be applied in such manner as the Court may direct.

54. Where a lunatic is entitled to a lease or under-lease, and it appears to be for the benefit of his estate that it should be disposed of, the manager of the estate may, by order of the Court, surrender, assign or otherwise dispose of the same to such person for such valuable or nominal consideration, and upon such terms, as the Court thinks fit.

55. If a lunatic is possessed of any immovable property situate beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which by the law in force in the Province wherein such property is situated, subjects the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the said Court of Wards may assume the charge of such property and manage the same according to the law for the time being in force for such management;

Assumption of charge by Court of Wards of land belonging to a lunatic in certain cases.

Provided that—

(2) the surplus of the income of such property, after providing for the payment of the Government revenue and expenses of management, shall be disposed of from time to time in such manner as the High Court may direct;

(3) nothing contained in this section shall affect the powers given to the High Court by sections 49, 50 and 51 or (except so far as relates to the management of the said immovable property which so subjects the proprietor as aforesaid) the powers given by any other section.

56. (1) If it appears to the Court, having regard to the situation and condition in life of the lunatic and his family and the other circumstances of the case to be expedient that his property should be made available for his or their maintenance in a direct and inexpensive manner it may, instead of appointing a manager of the estate, order that the property if money or if of any other description the produce thereof, when realized, be paid to such person as the Court may think fit, to be applied for the purpose aforesaid.

(2) The receipt of the person so appointed shall be a valid discharge to any person who pays any money or delivers any property of the lunatic to such person.

Vesting orders.

57. Where any stock or Government securities or any share in a company (transferable within British India or the dividends of which are payable there) is or are standing in the name of, or vested in, a lunatic, beneficially entitled thereto, or in a manager of the estate of a lunatic, or in a trustee for him, and the manager dies intestate, or himself becomes lunatic, or is out of the jurisdiction of the Court, or it is uncertain whether the manager is living or dead, or he neglects or refuses to transfer the stock, securities or shares, or to receive and pay over thereof the dividends to a new manager or as the Court directs, within fourteen days after being required by the Court to do so, then the Court may order some fit person to make such transfer, or to transfer the same, and to receive and pay over the dividends in such manner as the Court directs.

58. Where any such stock or Government securities or share in a company is or are standing in the name of, or vested in, any person residing out of British India and not in any part of the United Kingdom, the Court upon being satisfied that such person has been declared lunatic, and that his personal estate has been vested in a person appointed for the management thereof, according to the law of the place where he is residing, may order some fit person to make such transfer of the stock, securities or shares or of any part thereof, to or into the name of the person so appointed or otherwise, and also to receive and pay over the dividends and proceeds as the Court thinks fit.

General.

59. If it appears to the Court that the unsoundness of mind of a lunatic is in its nature temporary, and that it is expedient to make temporary provision for his maintenance or for the maintenance of such members of his family as are dependent on him for their maintenance, the Court may, in like manner as under section 56, direct his property or a sufficient part of it to be applied for the purpose aforesaid.

60. (1) When any person has been found under this Chapter to be of unsound mind, and it is subsequently shown to the Court that there is reason to believe that such unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court may make an order for inquiring whether such person is still of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

(2) The inquiry shall be conducted as far as may be in the manner prescribed in this Chapter for an inquisition into the unsoundness of mind of an alleged lunatic; and if it is found that the unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court shall order all proceedings in the lunacy to cease or to be set aside on such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem fit.

61. The Court may, from time to time, make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter in matters of lunacy.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEEDINGS IN LUNACY OUTSIDE PRESIDENCY TOWNS.

Inquisition.

62. Whenever any person not subject to the jurisdiction of any of the Courts mentioned in section 37 is possessed of property and is alleged to be a lunatic, the District Court, within whose jurisdiction such person is residing may, upon application, by order direct an inquisition for the purpose of ascertaining whether such person is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

Power of District Court to institute inquisition as to persons alleged to be lunatic.

Sec. 62.—Adjudication of lunatic, when made. 30 C.W.N. 180=1926 C. 155. Under S. 65 it is open to the Courts to find that a man is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others. Both conditions must be satisfied before a man can be found to be a lunatic under the Act. The mere fact that a man's mental condition is weak will not enable such an order being passed. 90 I.C. 878=30 C.W.N. 180. It is indubitable that an order directing an inquisition into a man's state of mind is a very serious thing and that such an order is intended by the statute to be a judicial determination carefully made upon adequate materials. It will not be wise to make such an order without serving a notice upon the lunatic first. In such an application the Judge should then consider carefully whether the case is one which calls for an order directing an inquisition. 54 C. 836. Where lunatic is served with notice, inquisition can proceed ex parte, even though the lunatic cannot be traced thereafter. See 96 I.C. 956=1926 S. 223. Orders for the custody of lunatic and for the management of their estate do not come into question at all until there has been a finding of lunacy as a result of an inquisition. There is no question of interim orders on such matters pending the determination as to the person's state of mind. Where notices were issued on a petition for inquisition and on the date of hearing evidence was recorded and orders were passed simultaneously ordering an inquisition and declaring the person to be a lunatic. Held, that the procedure adopted was wrong in law. 54 C. 836=103 I.C. 725=1927 C. 636. Applicants in cases under S. 62 should come into Court fortified with a valid medical certificate of insanity. 96 I.C. 778=24 A.L.J. 906. Where the fact of lunacy is being disputed, Court should not have its conclusions on mere personal observation, but follow the procedure laid down in this section. 27 Punj.L.R. 649=1926 L. 586. [See also cases under Ss. 38 and 41, supra.] An inquisition under S. 62 once started must be prosecuted to the very end. Before such an inquisition is ordered or started, there ought to be a careful and thorough preliminary enquiry and the Judge ought to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for an inquisition. An application for an inquisition should ordinarily be supported by affidavit or by examination on oath of the applicant and by a medical certificate of some doctors as to the condition of the alleged lunatic. It would also be desirable in many cases that the Judge should seek some personal interview with the alleged lunatic with a view to satisfy himself that there is a real ground for supposing the existence of an abnormal mental condition which might bring the person within the Lunacy Act. 42 A. 504=58 I.C. 617; 49 A. 3=1927 A. 225 (1). On the section, see also 29 M. 310.

JURISDICTION.—The alleged lunatic was a person ordinarily residing within the District Court of Nadia where he had his house and family. In 1927, however, he was for sometime living temporarily in Calcutta for the purpose of his treatment and during that time the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Calcutta had passed an order directing the authorities of the mental hospital to receive the alleged lunatic. In 1928 an application was made to the District Court, Nadia, for an inquisition under the Lunacy Act. Held, that it could not be said that at the date of the application the alleged lunatic was subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court of Calcutta so as to take away the jurisdiction of the District Court to make an order for inquisition. 35 C.W.N. 543=134 I.C. 1135=1931 C. 711. Where a lunatic is a permanent resident within the jurisdiction of a particular District Court and has properties in that district and his wife applies to the District Court for the appointment of a person as manager of his properties, that District Judge has jurisdiction to take cognizance of the application, and to direct inquisition under S. 62, notwithstanding the fact that the lunatic temporarily resides in a mental hospital outside the jurisdiction of that Court. 1929 C. 512. Temporary removal of a lunatic to the mofussil does not oust the jurisdiction of the High Court over the lunatic and an application under S. 62 in relation to such lunatic must be made on the Original Side of the High Court. 57 I.C. 768=32 C.L.J. 314. A temporary removal vests jurisdiction over the lunatic in the District Court in whose jurisdiction he is removed unless the lunatic is at the same time subject to the jurisdiction of the High Court. It is not necessary that the property of the lunatic must be within the jurisdiction of Lunacy.

63. (1) Application for such inquisition may be made by any relative of the alleged lunatic or by any public Curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act, 1841 (hereinafter referred to as the Curator), or by the Government Pleader, as defined in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, or if the property of the alleged lunatic consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, by the Collector of the District in which it is situate.

Application by whom to be made.

(2) If the property or any part thereof is of such a description that it would by the law in force in any Province where such property is situate subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the application may be made by the Collector on behalf of the Court of Wards.

Regulation of proceedings of District Courts.

64. The provisions of sections 40, 41 and 42 shall regulate the proceedings of the District Court with regard to the matters to which they relate.

Inquisition by District Court and finding thereon.

65. (1) The District Court, if it thinks fit, may appoint two or more persons to act as assessors to the Court in the said inquisition.

(2) Upon the completion of the inquisition, the Court shall determine whether the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs or may come to a special finding that such alleged lunatic is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others.

66. (1) If the alleged lunatic resides at a distance of more than fifty miles from the place where the District Court is held to which the application is made, the said Court may issue a commission to any subordinate Court to make the inquisition, and such subordinate Court shall thereupon conduct the inquisition in the manner hereinbefore provided in this Chapter.

the District Judge. 57 I.C. 768=32 C.L.J. 314.

SECS. 62 AND 65.—Where an application is made to ascertain whether certain persons are of sound mind by an inquisition, the Judge should form his independent judgment on the point. After examining the parties he may reject the petition in limine if he thinks that no prima facie case for enquiry is disclosed. Or he may after examining the pleadings of the parties or as a result of his own personal interview with the alleged lunatic come to the conclusion that there are grounds for supposing that the mental condition is such as to bring him within the Lunacy Act. In that case he must order an "inquisition" and proceed in the manner mentioned in S. 65 (a) on the materials before him. It is only when these findings have been arrived at as a result of the inquisition that the jurisdiction of the Court to proceed further with the case arises. In determining these questions the paramount consideration is the benefit of the lunatic. 122 I.C. 570=1930 L. 289.

Sec. 63.—See cases under Ss. 61 and 62. See also 1926 Sind 223.

SECS. 63 AND 80: "CURATOR"—MEANING OF.—The word "curator" is used in the Lunacy Act in the sense of a public curator appointed under the Succession (Property Protection) Act. Hence a person who has not been appointed curator in the above sense can be removed from guardian of the lunatic under S. 80, Lunacy Act. 146 I.C. 553=1933 L. 626.

ORDER IN LUNACY—BINDING NATURE OF.—Although an order in lunacy is not a judgment which is conclusive against the world as one of the judgments enumerated in S. 41 of the Evidence Act, it is still relevant and binding upon the parties thereto and those who claim under them just like any other judgment of a Civil Court. 56 M. 904=1933 M. 624=65 M.L.J. 279.

FINDING AS TO LUNACY—INTERFERENCE BY HIGH COURT.—A person who is not sufficiently intelligent to manage his own affairs, is not necessarily of unsound mind. Under S. 65 there must be a finding that the alleged lunatic is of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs. The High Court has power to interfere to correct a wrong finding under S. 65 (2). 30 N.L.R. 224=148 I.C. 462=1934 N. 27.

SECS. 65 AND 67.—For purposes of S. 65 the degree of unsoundness of mind of a person has to be found in relation to his capacity to manage the affairs of his estate. Where it is found that a person could not look after property, whether big or small but could at best only look to his physical needs, a Court would be stultifying the scope of the Act if it deprived such a person of the protection that law gives him. A suitable person should be appointed for his

(2) On the completion of the inquisition, the subordinate Court shall transmit the record of its proceedings with the opinions of the assessors if assessors have been appointed, and its own opinion on the case; and the District Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the application in the manner provided in section 65, sub-section (2):

Provided that the District Court may direct the subordinate Court to make such further or other inquiries as it thinks fit before disposing of the application.

Judicial powers over person and estate of lunatic.

Custody of lunatics and management of their estates.

67. (1) The Court may make orders for the custody of lunatics so found by inquisition and the management of their estates.

(2) When upon the inquisition it is specially found that the person to whom the inquisition relates is of unsound mind so as to be incapable of managing his affairs, but that he is capable of managing himself and is not dangerous to himself or to others, the Court may make such orders as it thinks fit for the management of the estate of the lunatic including proper provisions for the maintenance of the lunatic and of such members of his family as are dependent on him for maintenance, but it shall not be necessary to make any order as to the custody of the person of the lunatic.

68. If the estate of a lunatic so found or any part thereof consists of property which, by the law for the time being in force, subjects the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the Court of Wards shall be authorized to take charge of the same.

Court of Wards to be authorized in certain cases to take charge of estate of lunatic.

69. (1) If the estate of a lunatic so found consists in whole or in part of land or any interest in land, but is not of such a nature that it would subject the proprietor, if disqualified, to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, the District Court may direct the Collector to take charge of the person and estate of the lunatic:

Power to direct Collector to take charge of person and estate of lunatic in certain cases.

Provided that no such order shall be made without the consent of the Collector previously obtained.

(2) The Collector shall thereupon appoint a manager of the estate, and may appoint a guardian of the person of the lunatic.

70. All proceedings of the Collector in regard to the person or estate of a lunatic under this Chapter shall be subject to the control of the Provincial Government or of such authority as it may appoint in this behalf.

Control over proceedings of Collector.

Power of District Court to appoint guardian and manager and take security from manager.

The guardian of a lunatic's property appointed under S. 67 is not competent to maintain a suit after the lunatic's death for recovery of arrears of rent accrued due subsequent to the lunatic's death. The right of action in respect of such rent would rest in the heir entitled to take the property after the death of the lunatic. Whether or not the manager appointed under S. 67 would have power to realise assets outstanding at the time of the lunatic's death in respect of the claim arising subsequent to the death of the lunatic, the Court has no jurisdiction to sanction the institution of proceedings. 56 L.W. 129=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 265=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 22 (2). There is no provision in the Lunacy Act, which would empower the Court to appoint an interim curator of a lunatic. 45 Bom.L.R. 782=A.I.R. 1943 Bom. 387.

Provided that a District Court may, instead of appointing a manager of the estate of a lunatic, exercise any of the powers conferred on the High Court under sections 56 and 59.

(2) Any person who has been appointed by the District Court or Collector to manage the estate of a lunatic shall, if so required, enter into a bond in such form and with such sureties as to the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, may seem fit, engaging duly to account for what he may receive in respect of the property of the lunatic.

Restriction on appointment of legal heir of lunatic to be guardian of his person.

72. The legal heir of a lunatic shall not be appointed to be the guardian of the person of such lunatic unless the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing, considers that such an appointment is for the benefit of the lunatic.

73. A guardian of the person of a lunatic or a manager of his estate appointed under this Chapter shall be paid such allowance, if any, as the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties.

Duties of guardian.

74. (1) The person appointed to be guardian of a lunatic's person shall have the care of his person and maintenance.

(2) When a distinct guardian is appointed, the manager shall pay to the guardian such allowance as may be fixed by the District Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for the maintenance of the lunatic and such members of his family as are dependent on him for their maintenance.

75. (1) Every manager of the estate of a lunatic appointed as aforesaid may exercise the same powers in the management of the estate as might have been exercised by the proprietor if not a lunatic, and may collect and pay all just claims, debts and liabilities due to or by the estate of the lunatic:

Provided that no manager so appointed shall without the permission of the Court—

(a) mortgage, charge, or transfer by sale, gift, exchange or otherwise any immovable property of the lunatic,

(b) lease any such property for a term exceeding five years.

Such permission may be granted subject to any condition or restriction which the Court thinks fit to impose.

On this section, see 33 I.C. 106; 24 C. 133; 16 B. 132; 6 M. 380; 39 A. 158. A person who has been appointed guardian of the person of a lunatic under S. 71 is, in the absence of every special circumstances, entitled to the custody of the lunatic and the Court appointing the guardian has power to give such custody. 40 L.W. 712=1934 M. 724=67 M. L. J. 661. The Legislature never intended that a manager appointed under S. 9 of the Lunacy Act should be competent to interfere with the personal law of a lunatic member of a joint Hindu family. 1.L.R. All. 267 (2).

SEC. 72.—See 39 A. 158; 23 C. 512; 15 A. 29. Section does not apply where near relations only can be appointed guardians of lunatic. 85 I.C. 276=1925 O. 642. S. 72 operates as a kind of warning that particular care should be exercised by the Court, where a person is entitled to inherit part of the property of a lunatic and would therefore benefit by his death, to see that the appointment of such person as the guardian of a lunatic is a beneficial one. Hence a legal heir whose interest would be greater if the lunatic dies should not be appointed guardian of the person of the minor in preference to another who is a non-heir. (15 A. 29 and 39 A. 158, Ref.) 152 I.C. 512=1934 R. 164.

SEC. 75.—See 20 B. 150. .

(2) Before granting any such permission, the Court may cause notice of the application for such permission to be served on any relative or friends of the lunatic, and may make or cause to be made such inquiries as to the Court may seem necessary in the interests of the lunatic.

76. (1) Every person appointed by the District Court or by the Collector to be manager of the estate of a lunatic shall, within six months from the date of his appointment, deliver in Court or to the Collector, as the case may be, an inventory of the immovable property belonging to the lunatic and of all such money, or other movable property, as he may receive on account of the estate, together with a statement of all debts due by or to the same.

(2) Every such manager shall also furnish to the Court or to the Collector annually, within three months of the close of the year of the era current in the district, an account of the property in his charge, exhibiting the sums received and disbursed on account of the estate and the balance remaining in his hands.

77. If any relative of the lunatic, or the Collector by petition to the Court, impugns the accuracy of the said inventory and statement, or of any annual account, the Court may summon the manager and inquire summarily into the matter and make such order thereon as it thinks fit; or the Court, at its discretion, may refer any such petition to any subordinate Court or to the Collector if the manager was appointed by the Collector.

78. All sums received by a manager on account of any estate in excess of what may be required for the current expenses of the lunatic or of the estate, shall be paid into the public treasury on account of the estate, and shall be invested from time to time in any of the securities specified in section 20 of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, unless the Court or the Collector, as the case may be, for reasons to be recorded in writing, directs that such sums be in the interest of the lunatic otherwise invested or applied.

79. Any relative of a lunatic may with the leave of the District Court sue for an account from any manager appointed under this Chapter, or from any such person after his removal from office or trust, or from his legal representative in case of his death, in respect of any estate then or formerly under

SEC. 77.—Where accounts filed by manager of lunatic's estate are impugned under this section, some kind of inquiry and record should be made. Reasons also should be shown in passing orders, as the orders are appealable. 161 I.C. 591 (2)=1936 Rang. 51.

SECS. 77 AND 83.—Order passed under S. 77 simply to the effect that the accounts are passed, implies that the objections to the accounts are rejected, and hence appeal lies to the High Court under S. 83. 161 I.C. 591 (2)=1936 Rang. 51.

SECS. 77 AND 79: SCOPE.—CLAIM FOR ACCOUNTS AGAINST MANAGER.—APPLICATION OR SUIT.—Where there are very large number of items of expenditure by the manager of the estate of a lunatic which are questioned and it appears to be also necessary to inquire into the amount of profits likely to have been realised from the estate, it is not a matter that can be enquired into conveniently by the District Judge in an application, and leave should be granted to file a suit against the manager for account or against his legal representatives as the case may be. (1944) 2 M.L.J. 377.

SEC. 79: APPLICABILITY AND SCOPE.—SUIT AGAINST SURETY FOR MANAGER.—LEAVE OF COURT.—NECESSITY.—ASSIGNMENT OF SECURITY BOND.—DUTY OF COURT.—No sanction is necessary to sue a surety who has executed a security bond along with the manager. Nor is there any express provision in the Act for the assignment of the security as in cases under the Guardians and Wards Act. If there are sufficient circumstances to indicate that some amount is likely to be due from the manager to the estate, the proper course would be to assign the security bond even before the suit is filed, if there be a prima facie case, as it would be necessary and desirable to have the matter decided in the presence of the sureties and the manager or his legal representatives as to whether any amount had become payable from the manager to the estate of the lunatic. (1944) 2 M.L.J. 377.

his care or management or of any sums of money or other property received by him on account of such estate.

80. (1) The District Court, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager appointed by it not being the Curator, and may appoint such Curator or any other fit person in his place, and may compel the person so removed to make over the property in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

(2) The Court may also for any sufficient cause, remove any guardian of the person of the lunatic appointed by it, and may appoint any other fit person in his place.

(3) The Collector, for any sufficient cause, may remove any manager of the estate of a lunatic or guardian of the person of a lunatic appointed by him and may appoint any other fit person in place of such manager or guardian; and the District Court, on the application of the Collector, may compel any manager removed under this section to make over the property and all accounts in his hands to his successor and to account to such successor for all money received or disbursed by him.

81. The District Court may impose a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees on any manager of the estate of a lunatic who wilfully neglects or refuses to deliver his accounts or any property in his hands within the time fixed by the Court, and may realize such fine as if it were a sum due under a decree of the Court, and may also commit the recusant to the civil jail until he delivers such accounts or property.

82. (1) When any person has been found under this Chapter to be of unsound mind, and it is subsequently shown to the District Court that there is reason to believe that such unsoundness of mind has ceased, such Court may make an order for inquiring whether such person is still of unsound mind and incapable of managing himself and his affairs.

(2) The inquiry shall, as far as may be, be conducted in the same manner as is prescribed in this Chapter for an inquisition into the unsoundness of mind of an alleged lunatic, and if it is found that the unsoundness of mind has ceased, the Court shall order all proceedings in the lunacy to cease or to be set aside on such terms and conditions as to the Court may seem fit.

SEC. 81: ORDER IMPOSING FINE ON GUARDIAN FOR CONTUMACIOUS CONDUCT.—If "DECREE" UNDER SCH. II, ART. 2, COURT-FEES ACT.—Although the fine imposed on a guardian of a lunatic by the Court for contumacious conduct under S. 81 can be recovered as if it were due under a decree of Court, it is doubtful if the order imposing the fine can be said to have the force of decree under Sch. II, Art. 2, Court-Fees Act, for the purposes of appeal. 150 I.C. 664=36 P.L.R. 179=1934 L. 853 (1).

SEC. 82.—The District Judge under this Act is partly a judicial and partly an administrative authority. The enquiry into the state of mind of a person affected is to satisfy his own mind, the relatives to whom notices are issued, being merely amici curiæ and not parties to the proceedings. They are allowed to be heard and have no right to be heard. 36 I.C. 705=19 O.C. 353. Where material is placed before a Judge to show that a lunatic had come to his normal soundness of mind, the Judge should proceed with the inquiry prescribed by law irrespective of the fact that certain proceedings were pending in Court relating to his rights as if he were a lunatic. 88 I.C. 580=1925 L. 533. It is sufficient to invite the application of S. 88 if the father as the manager of a joint Hindu family is liable to maintain his son as a member thereof. In that case he is a person legally bound to maintain the lunatic within the meaning of the section and it does not matter for the purposes of the section whether under the Hindu Law his liability is limited to the extent of the joint family property in his hands. 51 B. 120=29 Bom. L. R. 52=1927 B. 91.

Appeals.

83. An appeal shall lie to the High Court from any order made by a District Court, under this Chapter.

CHAPTER VI.

ESTABLISHMENT OF ASYLUMS.

84. The Provincial Government may establish or licence the establishment of asylums at such places as it thinks fit ¹[if it is satisfied that provision has been or will be made for the curative treatment therein of persons suffering from mental diseases].

Provincial Government may establish or license the establishment of asylums.

²[84-A. If in any licensed asylum no provision for curative treatment has been made, or the Provincial Government considers that the provision made is insufficient, the Provincial Government may require the person in charge of the asylum to take such measures for making or supplementing such provision as it may deem necessary, and, if such person does not comply with the requisition within a reasonable time, the Provincial Government may revoke the licence.]

Power to cancel licence if provision for curative treatment is insufficient.

The Magistrates or Courts exercising jurisdiction in any province may send lunatics or any class of lunatics to any asylum situate in any other province in accordance with any general or special order of the Provincial Government made in that behalf with the consent of the Provincial Government of such other province.]

CHAPTER VII.

EXPENSES OF LUNATICS.

86. (1) When any lunatic is admitted to a licensed asylum under a reception order or an order under section 25, and no engagement has been taken from the friends or relatives of the lunatic or order made by the Court for the payment of expenses under the provisions of this Act, the cost of maintenance of such lunatic shall, subject to the provision of any law for the time being in force, be paid by the Government to the person in charge of such asylum.

Payment of cost of maintenance in licensed asylums in certain cases by Government.

(2) The paymaster of the military circle within which any asylum is situated shall pay to the officer in charge of such asylum the cost of maintenance of every lunatic received and detained therein under an order made under section 12.

87. Any money in the possession of a lunatic found wandering at large may be applied by the Magistrate towards the payment of the cost of maintenance of the lunatic or of any other expenses incurred on his behalf, and any movable property found on the person of the lunatic may be sold by the Magistrate, and the proceeds thereof similarly applied.

Application of property in the possession of a lunatic found wandering.

this section is limited by sec. 488, Cr. P. Code. This Act confers no jurisdiction on Magistrates in India to award any sum they think fit as maintenance payable to wife and children who are in India and whose husbands or fathers are in England. This Act is merely an extension of the principle laid down in sec. 488, Cr. P. Code, and was enacted to meet cases where the wife and children are in India and the husband in England and vice versa. 1937 M. W. N. 1127.

(2) The Central Government may, by like notification, declare that this Act applies in respect of any British protectorate, or in respect of any State in India, and where such a declaration has been made, this Act shall apply as if such protectorate or State were a reciprocating territory.

4. (1) Where a maintenance order has, whether before or after the passing

India for registration, and, on receipt thereof, the order shall be registered in the prescribed manner.

(2) The Court in which an order is to be so registered as aforesaid shall, if the Court by which the order was made was, in the opinion of the Central Government, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a High Court, and, if the Court was not, in its opinion, a Court of superior jurisdiction, be a Court of summary jurisdiction.

such case the order shall be provisional only and shall have no effect unless and until confirmed by a competent Court in such territory.

(2) The evidence of every witness who is examined on any such application shall be reduced to writing, and such deposition shall be read over to, and signed by, him.

evidence and its powers are not delimited to the provisions of sec. 7; evidence of desertion subsequent to the date of the provisional order is admissible for purposes of confirmation of the said order. 52 B. 262—30 Bom.L.R. 350.

(3) Where such an order is made, the Court shall send to the Central Government, for transmission to the proper authority of the reciprocating territory in which the person against whom the order is made is alleged to reside, the depositions so taken and a certified copy of the order together with a statement of the grounds on which the making of the order might have been opposed if the person against whom the order is made had been duly served with a summons and had appeared at the hearing and such information as the Court possesses for facilitating the identification of that person and ascertaining his whereabouts.

(4) Where any such provisional order has come before a Court in a reciprocating territory for confirmation, and the order has by that Court been remitted to the Court of summary jurisdiction which made the order for the purpose of taking further evidence, the Court shall, after giving the prescribed notice, proceed to take the evidence in like manner and subject to the like conditions as the evidence in support of the original application.

(5) If it appears to the Court hearing such evidence that the order ought not to have been made, the Court may rescind the order but in any other case the depositions shall be sent to the Central Government and dealt with in like manner as the original depositions.

(6) The confirmation of an order made under this section shall not affect any power of a Court of summary jurisdiction to vary or rescind that order:

Provided that, on the making of a varying or rescinding order, the Court shall send a certified copy thereof to the Central Government for transmission to the proper authority of the reciprocating territory in which the original order was confirmed, or to which it was sent for confirmation and that, in the case of an order varying the original order, the order shall not have any effect unless and until confirmed in like manner as the original order.

7. (1) Where a maintenance order has been made by a Court in a reciprocating territory and the order is provisional only, and has no effect unless and until confirmed by a Court of summary jurisdiction in British India, and a certified copy of the order, together with the depositions of the witnesses and a statement of the grounds on which the order might have been opposed, has been transmitted to the Central Government, and it appears to the Central Government that the person against whom the order has been made is resident in British India, the Central Government may send the said documents to the prescribed officer of a Court of summary jurisdiction, with a requisition that a summons be issued calling upon the person to show cause why that order should not be confirmed, and, upon receipt of such documents and requisition, the Court shall issue such a summons and cause it to be served upon such person.

(2) A summons issued under sub-section (1) shall for all purposes be deemed to be a summons issued by the Court in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction.

(3) At the hearing it shall be open to the person to whom the summons was issued to raise any defence which he might have raised in the original proceedings had he been a party thereto, but no other defence, and the certificate from the Court which made the provisional order stating the grounds on which the making of the order might have been opposed if the person against whom the order was made had been a party to the proceedings shall be conclusive evidence that those grounds are grounds on which objection may be taken.

(4) If at the hearing the person served with the summons does not appear or, on appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that the order ought not to be confirmed, the Court may, notwithstanding any pecuniary limit imposed on its power by any law for the time being in force in British India, confirm the order either without modification or with such modifications as to the Court after hearing the evidence may seem just:

Provided that no sum shall be awarded as maintenance under this section, or shall be recoverable as such, at a rate exceeding that proposed in the provisional order.

(5) If the person to whom the summons was issued appears at the hearing and satisfies the Court that for the purpose of any defence it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the taking of any further evidence the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings.

(6) Where a provisional order has been confirmed under this section, it may be varied or rescinded in like manner as if it had originally been made by the confirming Court, and where on an application for rescission or variation the Court is satisfied that it is necessary to remit the case to the Court which made the provisional order for the purpose of taking any further evidence, the Court may for that purpose send a certified copy of the record to the Central Government for transmission to that Court through the proper authority of the reciprocating territory, and may adjourn the proceedings.

8. (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, where an order has been registered under this Act in a High Court, the order shall, from the date of such registration, be of the same force and effect, and all proceedings may be taken thereon as if it had been an order originally obtained in the High Court in the exercise of its civil jurisdiction, or in such Civil Court subordinate to that High Court as may be named by the High Court in this behalf, and that Court shall have power to enforce the order accordingly.

(2) A Court of summary jurisdiction in which an order has been registered under this Act or by which an order has been confirmed under this Act, and the officers of such Court, shall have such powers and perform such duties, for the purpose of enforcing the order, as may be prescribed.

9. A Court in registering or confirming an order for maintenance in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall direct that the charges for the transmission to the Court, from which the order has been received or in which the provisional order has been made, as the case may be, of the sum awarded as maintenance shall be borne by the person against whom the order has been so made or confirmed, and shall be recovered from him in addition to the sum awarded as maintenance and in addition to, and in the same manner as, such other costs and charges as may be awarded or levied by the Court.

10. For the purposes of this Act, any document purporting to be signed by a judge or officer of a Court outside British India shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been so signed without proof of the signature of judicial or official character of the person appearing to have signed it, and the officer of a Court by whom a document is signed shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been the proper officer of the Court to sign the document.

11. Depositions taken in a Court in any reciprocating territory may, for the purposes of this Act, be received in evidence in proceedings before Courts of summary jurisdiction under this Act.

12. The Central Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the purposes of this Act, and in particular may make rules, for the levy of the costs or charges for anything done under this Act and for all matters which are directed or permitted to be prescribed.

The word 'offence' means the offence in respect of which the prosecution is launched. 16. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, issue instructions¹ for observance by Criminal Courts in giving effect to any of the provisions of this Act.

is nothing in the rest of the Act to control the natural meaning of the words. The starting point of limitation in all cases under S. 15 is the date of the offence charged. I. L. R. (1937) Bom. 183=38 Bom. L. R. 1164=1937 Bom. 1 (F. B.). Limitation for prosecution under S. 15 runs from the date of the offence with which the accused is charged. The fact that he had been manufacturing and selling the articles in question earlier, does not bar a prosecution for a latter manufacture and sale. 1939 N.L.J. 55. S. 15 provides that a prosecution for an offence under S. 486 of the Penal Code should be launched within three years from the date of the offence charged. There is nothing in the section to suggest that in a case of series of infringements the prosecution should be commenced within three years from the date of the first offence. 1931 M. 276=131 I.C. 848. See also 1930 Cal. 275; 1928 Cal. 495. The owner of a trade mark should not wait for several years while his trade mark is infringed continuously and then bring a criminal complaint in respect of some recent infringement. 36 I. C. 168=17 Cr. L. J. 488. If the goods of a manufacturer from the mark he has used are known by a particular name the adoption by a rival trader of any mark which would cause his goods to bear the same name in the market may be as much a violation of the rights of that rival as an actual copy of his device. In such cases dissimilarity of the rival mark is not a complete defence. 36 I.C. 168=17 Cr. L. J. 488. A trade mark applied by a shirt maker to his shirts may be an infringement of a similar mark applied by a manufacturer to his cloth. 36 I.C. 168=17 Cr.L. J. 488. Sec. 17.—Cf. the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887 (50 and 51 Vict., c. 28, S. 17).

18. (1) Nothing in this Act shall exempt any person from any suit or other proceeding which might, but for anything in this Act, be brought against him.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall entitle any person to refuse to make a complete discovery or to answer any question or interrogatory in any suit or other proceeding, but such discovery or answer shall not be admissible in evidence against such person in any such prosecution as is mentioned in section 14.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to render liable to any prosecution or punishment any servant of a master resident in British India who in good faith acts in obedience to the instructions of such master, and on demand made by or on behalf of the prosecutor, has given full information as to his master and as to the instructions which he has received from his master.

For the purpose of section 12 of this Act and clause (f) of section 18 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, as amended by this Act, the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, declare what classes of goods are included in the expression 'piece-goods, such as are ordinarily sold by length or by the piece.'

LEG. REF.

SEC. 2: DEFINITIONS.—“The alterations made by the Select Committee in the various definitions are aimed generally at attaining greater clarity. We have inserted a new definition, that of ‘fares,’ and have removed an unnecessary definition of ‘Regional Transport Authority’. The alteration of the definition of ‘heavy transport vehicle’ has the effect of raising the limit of weight at which a transport vehicle passes from the category of light transport vehicles to that of ‘heavy transport vehicles.’ (Select Com. Rep.).

(12) "licensing authority" means an authority empowered to grant licences, appointed by the Provincial Government by rule made under section 21;

(13) "light transport vehicle" means any public service vehicle other than a motor cab, or any goods vehicle other than a heavy transport vehicle or a delivery van;

(14) "locomotive" means a motor vehicle which is itself not constructed to carry any load (other than equipment used for the purpose of propulsion), the unladen weight of which exceeds 16,000 pounds avoirdupois; but does not include a road-roller;

(15) "motor cab" means any motor vehicle constructed, adapted or used to carry not more than six passengers excluding the driver, for hire or reward;

(16) "motor car" means any motor vehicle other than a transport vehicle, locomotive, road-roller, tractor, motor cycle or invalid carriage;

(17) "motor cycle" means a motor vehicle, other than an invalid carriage, with less than four wheels, the unladen weight of which, inclusive of any side-car attached to the vehicle, does not exceed 900 pounds avoirdupois;

(18) "motor vehicle" means any mechanically propelled vehicle adapted for use upon roads whether the power of propulsion is transmitted thereto from an external or internal source and includes a chassis to which a body has not been attached and a trailer; but does not include a vehicle running upon fixed rails or used solely upon the premises of the owner;

(19) "owner" means, where the person in possession of a motor vehicle is a minor, the guardian of such minor, and in relation to a motor vehicle which is the subject of a hire purchase agreement, the person in possession of the vehicle under that agreement;

(20) "permit" means the document issued by a Provincial or Regional Transport Authority authorising the use of a transport vehicle as a contract carriage, or stage carriage, or authorising the owner as a private carrier or public carrier to use such vehicle;

(21) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Act;

(22) "private carrier" means an owner of a transport vehicle other than a public carrier who uses that vehicle solely for the carriage of goods which are his property or the carriage of which is necessary for the purposes of his business not being a business of providing transport, or who uses the vehicle for any of the purposes specified in sub-section (2) of section 42;

SEC. 2, CL. (16).—See 25 C.W.N. 21=33 C. L.J. 19=61 I.C. 641.

CL. (18): DEFINITIONS AND DESCRIPTIVE TERMS.—USE OF THE TERM "MOTOR VEHICLES".—A motor car or vehicle is an automobile; and an automobile may be defined as a "wheeled vehicle, propelled by steam, electricity, or gasoline, and used for the transportation of persons or merchandise. The Courts, without making clear distinctions, have generally used the terms automobile, motor vehicle, motor-car, and in the earlier cases, horseless carriage, as being synonymous with each other. Except where special provision is made to the contrary, a motor cycle is considered as falling within statutes which use such terms and the same is generally true of a traction engine. Questions frequently arise as to whether statutes regulating the use of various classes of vehicles and not directly referring to automobiles are broad enough to apply to these machines, which, in many instances, were unknown at the time of the passage of the law. The better view seems to be that an automobile is to be classed as a vehicle, and it may properly be considered as being a vehicle for hire under the terms of ordinances prohibiting the standing of such vehicle in the streets elsewhere than at public hack stands. Whether an automobile falls within the meaning of the word "carriage" depends somewhat on the nature of the statute in which it is used. (See 25 C.W.N. 21=61 I.C. 641). In a penal statute it may not be so included, while in a statute which should receive a liberal construction it will be so included. An automobile is a "carriage" within the broad meaning of that word, but it has been held not to be a carriage within the meaning of a law requiring municipalities to keep their highways reasonably safe and convenient for travellers, with their horses, teams, and carriages. (See 36 I.C. 877—a case under a taxing Act).

(23) "public carrier" means an owner of a transport vehicle who transports or undertakes to transport goods, or any class of goods, for another person at any time and in any public place for hire or reward, whether in pursuance of the terms of a contract or agreement or otherwise, and includes any person, body, association or company engaged in the business of carrying the goods of persons associated with that person, body, association or company for the purpose of having their goods transported;

(24) (Cf. Madras Traffic Control Act) "public place" means a road, street, way or other place, whether a thoroughfare or not, to which the public have a right of access, and includes any place or stand at which passengers are picked up or set down by a stage carriage;

(25) (Cf. English Act, 1930, S. 121) "public service vehicle" means any motor vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers for hire or reward, and includes a motor cab, contract carriage, and stage carriage;

(26) "registered axle weight" means in respect of any vehicle the axle weight certified and registered by the registering authority as permissible for that vehicle;

(27) "registered laden weight" means in respect of any vehicle the total weight of the vehicle and load certified and registered by the registering authority as permissible for that vehicle;

(28) "registering authority" means an authority empowered to register motor vehicles under Chapter III;

(29) "stage carriage" means a motor vehicle carrying or adapted to carry more than six persons excluding the driver which carries passengers for hire or reward at separate fares paid by or for individual passengers, either for the whole journey or for stages of the journey;

(30) "tractor" means a motor vehicle which is not itself constructed to carry any load (other than equipment used for the purpose of propulsion) the unladen weight of which does not exceed 16,000 pounds avoirdupois; but excludes a road-roller;

(31) (See Sch. IX) "traffic signs" includes all signals, warning sign posts, direction posts, or other devices for the information, guidance or direction of drivers of motor vehicles;

(32) "trailer" means any vehicle other than a side-car drawn or intended to be drawn by a motor vehicle;

(33) "transport vehicle" means a public service vehicle, a goods vehicle, a locomotive or a tractor other than a locomotive or tractor used solely for agricultural purposes;

(34) "unladen weight" means the weight of a vehicle or trailer including all equipment ordinarily used with the vehicle or trailer when working, but excluding the weight of a driver or attendant; and where alternative parts or bodies are used the unladen weight of the vehicle means the weight of the vehicle with the heaviest such alternative part or body;

(35) "weight" means the total weight transmitted for the time being by the wheels of a vehicle to the surface on which the vehicle rests.

SEC. 2 (24): 'PUBLIC PLACE'—TEST.—The mere fact that a place would be styled as a public place for the purposes of the Gambling Act and the Penal Code, does not necessarily mean that it is a public place as defined in sec. 2, Motor Vehicles Act. To make it a public place under the Motor Vehicles Act, it must be a road, street, way or a place over which the public have a right to pass or to which the public are granted access. On the two sides of the motor stand of the petitioners there were houses while the city wall ran along the third side. The fourth side, however, was open and looked towards a public street. The land was privately owned and had been leased by the petitioners. Through the portion leased by them ran a deep city drain which could only be crossed by means of a bridge and it was over the bridge that the lorries of the petitioners were parked. Thus to all intents and purposes the petitioners were keeping their lorries in an enclosed place except that apparently there was no gate at the bridge. Held, that the place was not a public place within the meaning of sec. 2, Motor Vehicles Act. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 817.

CHAPTER II.

LICENSING OF DRIVERS OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

3. (Cf. English Act, S. 4.) (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place unless he holds an effective licence

Necessity for driver to be licensed. Issued to himself authorising him to drive the vehicle; and no person shall so drive a motor vehicle as a paid employee or shall so drive a public service vehicle unless his licence specifically entitles him so to do.

(2) A Provincial Government may prescribe the conditions subject to which sub-section (1) shall not apply to a person receiving instruction in driving a motor vehicle.

[(3) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shall for a period of twelve months after the commencement of this Act invalidate a licence to drive a motor vehicle issued by a competent authority under the provisions of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914.—This sub-section is omitted by Act XX of 1942.]

Age limit in connection with driving of motor vehicles. 4. (Cf. English Act, S. 9.) (1) No person under the age of eighteen years shall drive a motor vehicle in any public place.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 14, no person under the age of twenty years shall drive a transport vehicle in any public place.

[(3) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) shall prevent any person who, before the commencement of this Act, possessed a licence to drive a motor vehicle from obtaining a licence to drive a motor vehicle of the same class.—This sub-section is omitted by Act XX of 1942.]

Responsibility of owners of motor vehicles for contraventions of sections 3 and 4.

5. No owner or person in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit any person who does not satisfy the provisions of section 3 or section 4 to drive the vehicle.

SEC. 3.—“This section makes a distinction between professional and private drivers. Some provinces already have the distinction and others have an implied distinction in that drivers who intend to work as chauffeurs have photographs on their licences.” Statement of Objects and Reasons. 1

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The amendment in sub-cl. (1) is merely a drafting amendment, and the revision of sub-cl. (2) merely clarifies the intention. The added sub-cl. (3) makes explicit provision for the continuance for one year of licences issued under the superseded Act of 1914. It is then intended that all such licences shall be replaced by licences issued under the new Act, in the manner and in the form provided by the Act.”

Where a person whose licence for driving a car has expired, does not apply for a renewal of his licence until some days afterwards, he must be held to be guilty of the offence of contravening sec. 3 (1), if he drives the car after the expiry and before the renewal of his licence. The subsequent application for and grant of the licence cannot have the effect of cancelling the offence committed by him before he obtained a renewal. 54 L.W. 730=1942 Mad. 196=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 1040.

R. 24 (b) of the Burma Motor Vehicles Rules does not treat the conductor of a bus as a person in charge of it though in practice he attends to the passengers. In the case of overloading or carrying passengers on the footboard, the person to be prosecuted, would seem to be the owner or person in charge of the vehicle, and not the conductor. 1941 Rang.L.R. 587. There is no provision in the Motor Vehicles Rules or in the Act which authorises a head-constable to demand the name and address of a person who has committed an offence under R. 7 (1). 197 I.C. 136=A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 422.

SEC. 4.—“Although most provinces agree to the 21-year minimum age limit for drivers of transport vehicles and have such provision in their existing rules, one or two others see no necessity for this restriction. Sub-cl. (3) will therefore enable them to allow drivers under 21 to drive transport vehicles, particularly delivery vans, within the province only.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons).

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have reduced the minimum age qualifying a person to drive a locomotive tractor or transport vehicle from 21 years to 20 years. We have eliminated the provision allowing Provincial Governments to modify the requirements of sub-cl. (2), and we have provided that any person who possessed a licence under the pre-existing law should not by reason of the change in the law be deprived of his licence.”

SEC. 5.—This section deals with the responsibility of owners of motor vehicles for contravention of the rules as to the necessity of driving licence (sec. 3) and age limit for driver (sec. 4). The Select Committee "have eliminated the provision that the owner of a vehicle may be presumed to have consented to the illegal use of his car." (Select Committee Report.)

RESPONSIBILITY OF OWNER FOR DRIVER'S ACTS.—The question often arises as to the responsibility of the owner of an automobile for injuries occasioned by the machine while in the hands of his servants. Cases of this character must be decided by applying to the particular facts in each case the established rules as to the responsibility of a master for the acts of his servant. The general test of the master's liability is whether there was authority expressed or implied for doing the act in question. If it is done in the course of, and within the scope of, his employment, the master will be liable for the act, but a master is not liable for every wrong which the servant may commit during the continuance of the employment, and liability can occur only when that which is done is within the real or apparent scope of the master's business. The driver of an automobile, employed by the owner, is the servant and agent of the latter, and his acts in operating an automobile within the lines of his employment are the acts of a servant for which his employer is responsible. Whether a driver, at the time of an accident, was acting within the scope of his employment generally involves an inquiry into the contract of employment and the relation of his acts at the time of accident to the service he actually performed pursuant to his employment. The owner of an automobile is not liable to one who is injured, by the negligence of his chauffeur while operating the machine without his knowledge or permission, and for a purpose other than that for which he was employed, as where the driver is on an errand personal to himself, or is making a travel for his own purposes; and if a chauffeur takes out his master's automobile in violation of instructions that it must not be taken out without the express orders of himself or his wife, the owner may be relieved from liability in the event of the occurrence of an accident. It is usually held that a chauffeur may act on directions to take out the machine, given by a member of his employer's immediate family and household whose authority to give him orders would naturally be presumed. A statute regulating the speed and operation of motor vehicles may, however, expressly make the owner liable for any violation of the Act. Where a motor bus owner allowed his driver to drive his omnibus without a licence and, when charged, pleaded that the expiry of the licence was without his knowledge, held, that he was guilty. A man cannot entrust his car to another person and plead that he presumed that he was licensed. He must assure himself that he is licensed. 105 I.C. 674 (1)=1927 M. 1080=53 M.L.J. 757 (1)=51 M. 187. The word "allow" does not mean "does not prevent". The word "ordinary" involves permission, express or implied from the circumstances. Where the owner of a motor car was charged for having "allowed" his car to be taken by his driver into British India without a licence, held, that, in the absence of evidence that the car had ever been used in that way before or that the owner knew it would be used in that way on the occasion in question, the owner was not liable. 34 Bom.L.R. 897=139 I.C. 270=1932 B. 474. Where particular intent or state of mind is not of the essence of an offence, a master can be made criminally liable for his servant's acts if an act is expressly prohibited, but not otherwise; and he cannot be so made liable if the act provides for liability for permitting and causing a certain thing unless it can be shown that the act was done with the master's knowledge and assent, express or implied. Where a motor bus is driven by a person who has no licence, without the knowledge of the owner, the owner cannot be convicted. Nor can he be convicted on the ground that his licensed driver had given the unlicensed driver permission to drive. (1924 C. 985, Rel. on; 38 C. 415 and 45 C. 430, Dist.) 110 I.C. 326=47 C.L.J. 460=29 Cr.L.J. 694=1928 C. 410. On this subject, see also 7 Pat.L.T. 542=1926 P. 446. (As to owner's liability in case of contravention of rules, see 45 C. 430=42 I.C. 601=26 C.L.J. 37. As to the liability of owner who was not present and who had prohibited driving at excessive speed, see 51 C. 948=82 I.C. 137=1924 C. 985).

RESPONSIBILITY OF OWNER FOR CHILD'S ACTS.—In several cases the courts have been called upon to decide the question whether children of the owner of an automobile are servants within the meaning of the rules making a master responsible for the acts of his servants. It has been decided that the young son of the owner may be found to be the agent of his father in operating the latter's automobile, where it was purchased mainly at his solicitation, with the understanding that he was to learn to run it for the benefit of the family; and when the son of the owner of an automobile with his father's permission uses the machine while a member of his father's family, to take on a pleasure ride guests or other members of the family, the son is considered to be acting as the servant of the owner, and the father may be held liable in damages for an accident occasioned by the son's negligence. If the son disobeys his father's express commands, his actions in using his father's automobile may be beyond the scope of his authority, and accordingly the owner may not be held responsible for injuries occasioned by the son's negligent management of the car. It has been decided that in the case of a daughter, accustomed to drive her father's automobile whenever she so desires, asking permission when the father is at home, but sometimes taking it without permission when he is away from home, she cannot be considered as being in her father's employ at a time when she is driving for her own pleasure and negligently injures a person in the highway.

FATHER PLACING MOTOR-CYCLE IN COMPLETE CONTROL OF MINOR SON IN VIOLATION OF STATUTE.—In the case of Hopkins v. Droppers, (195 N.W. 738), an American Supreme Court held a father liable who had placed a motor-cycle under complete control of 15 year old son and permitted him to drive the motor-cycle on a public highway in violation of the rules. In the course of the opinion the Court said: "But it is claimed by the defendant's counsel that the statute imposes no liability upon any one except the operator of the machine and that the penalties for violation are imposed on him alone and that the minor alone is responsible for breaches of the criminal law. It is probably true that under the terms of the statute the adult defendant would not be liable in a criminal action for any of the acts stated in the complaint. But this is beside the point. The real question is whether under such a state of facts he has incurred any 'civil liability' * * * The Court concludes: 'There remains to be considered the question what is the rule of liability when a father places under the complete control of his son a car or motor-cycle knowing its use by him is forbidden by statute as a criminal act. This is a new problem and the precedents are few in number. In Wilson v. Brauer, 97 N.J. Law 482, it appeared that the owner of an automobile authorized a beginner, who had no driver's permit and knew nothing of the operation of the car, to run it upon the streets of a city for the purpose of learning. By reason of his inexperience, injury was caused to a pedestrian. It was held that the owner was liable and that such liability rested, not upon his ownership, but upon the combined negligence of the owner and that of the driver. These cases do not stand on any theory that motor machines are dangerous instrumentalities, or of agency, but are based on the ground that if a father knows that his minor child under his control is committing a tort or violating a statute, and makes no effort to restrain him, he will be regarded as authorizing or consenting to the act and held civilly liable for the consequences if that act is the proximate cause of injury to others. These cases apply the principle that a father might be held responsible for injury caused by the negligent acts of his sons committed with his consent. (50 Am. Rep. 381). From the averments in this case it appears, among other things, that the defendant father brought and placed in the complete control of his son, whom he knew or ought to have known was an inexperienced driver, for his free use in a crowded city, a machine which, if carelessly managed might cause serious injury to others, and that by so doing he knowingly countenanced and encouraged his minor son to violate a statute of the state; and that these acts and the negligence of the son were the proximate cause of the injury complained of. The general object of these statutes are clear. These statutes amount to a legislative declaration that a minor is unfit to drive motor machines on the public street's unless accompanied by an adult, and a violation of the statute is negligence. When the father authorized this violation of law, he failed in that duty which every good citizen owes to the public. He failed to observe for the safety of other persons that degree of care which the circumstances justly demanded. Although the motor-cycle was not in itself a dangerous instrumentality, it was a machine of such a nature that when negligently driven it might menace the safety of other persons. This is a well-known fact and one which in the exercise of ordinary care the father could reasonably anticipate. If it is argued the parent in this case could hardly foresee or anticipate the injury complained of. This argument is met by repeated decisions of Courts. 'It is not required that the 'specific' injury or 'such' an injury as is complained of was or ought to have been specifically anticipated as the natural and probable consequences of the wrongful act. It is sufficient if the facts and circumstances are such that the consequences attributable to the wrongful conduct charged were within the field of reasonable anticipation; that such consequences might be the natural and probable results thereof, though they may not have been specifically contemplated or anticipated by the person so causing them'. (Chicago Legal News.)

AUTOMOBILES.—THE FAMILY PURPOSE DOCTRINE.—The following extracts from a recent American Law Journal may also be read in this connection:—"Courts have in all recent cases uniformly upheld the family purpose doctrine either by actual decision or by dictum. The doctrine places liability on the owner of an automobile, which is purchased and maintained for the pleasure of his, or her family for negligent injuries inflicted by the vehicle while it is being used by some member with his consent, express or implied, on the theory that it is the owner's business to furnish pleasure for the family. The Court has based its decisions mainly on the principal and agent, and master and servant theory. It is preferable rather to support the doctrine on the relationship of master and servant, rather than on that of principal and agent, since a principal is liable only for torts (expressly or impliedly) authorized, while a master is liable for all torts committed by the servant, while engaged within the scope of the master's employment. (Salmond on Torts, p. 93.) However, the status of master and servant does not exist, unless one of the family is employed in the owner's business. It cannot be seriously contended that it is the father's business or employment to furnish his family with an automobile for their convenience and pleasure, because it is not

6. (1) No person shall, while he holds any licence for the time being looked upon as a necessity. It can hardly be said that it is the father's business to furnish his son such pleasure as driving at a reckless speed over a dangerous road, or while intoxicated. A case contrary to the doctrine explodes this idea with this sly bit of sarcastic humor, "if son took his best girl riding, prima facie it was father's little outing by proxy".

The conclusion, therefore, must be reached that the owner is simply making a gift of the use of the automobile to one of his family, and that a bailor and bailee relation only exists. It is a well-known principle of law that the negligence of the bailee cannot be attributed to the bailor. Certainly this was the law before the automobile became a widely used source of locomotion. The automobile has not been regarded as an inherently dangerous instrument, so as to cause the owner to be liable as an insurer, since it plays such an integral part in our daily economic life. The automobile, being a lawful means of travel, is not a nuisance per se. There is the ground of public policy. This ground, it is admitted, should be availed of only where no other logical theory presents itself on which to rest liability, and weighty reasons exist for its utilization. The frequent accidents, which occur on account of the negligent operation of a parent's car by a member of his family, who is likely to be financially irresponsible, has been given a considerable amount of thought in coming to a decision on this point. Practically, an uncollectible judgment is an empty form, and constitutes a valueless remedy for the evil. While an automobile is not dangerous per se, its potential danger in the hands of a careless driver, especially a member of the family who has permission to use the car at his own pleasure, should have an important bearing on the result. Likewise the family purpose doctrine puts the financial responsibility of the owner behind the car, and relieves the injured party from the difficult task of meeting the owner's claim that at the time of the accident the car was not being used for his pleasure or business. It also protects the injured person as fully as if the owner were driving the car himself, thus achieving justice in his case. For these reasons it seems that the advantages to be gained completely outweigh any disadvantages that might accrue from its adoption. And public policy has been used in other branches of the law".

RESPONSIBILITY FOR ACTS OF DRIVER OF LOANED AUTOMOBILE.—Although the general rule is well established that a master may lend a servant, with his consent, to another person for services in the business of the latter, and that while he is engaged in the business of the borrower and subject to his directions and control, he is considered as being a servant of the new master, who accordingly becomes liable for his negligence, nevertheless the courts have refused to apply this rule to cases in which an automobile and driver have been temporarily loaned by the owner and employer to another. This is due to the fact that the operation of an automobile can be trusted safely only to an expert, and it is of importance that the control and management of the machine should not be abandoned to the hirer. Accordingly it has been decided that when the owner of an automobile lends it, with a licensed driver in charge, under an agreement for a specified amount for the use of the car with the driver for a definite period, although the chauffeur is to be under the general directions of the hirer as to route and kindred matters, the owner is liable for an injury to a third person caused by the negligence of the chauffeur while operating the car for the borrower. In like manner, a person who has hired an automobile as a delivery wagon, together with a driver, is not responsible for injuries occasioned to a third person from a defect in the machine, especially when the hirer of the car had no right to make repairs. When an automobile is loaned without a chauffeur the foregoing rules are not applied, and the owner ordinarily is not responsible for the negligence of the chauffeur of the borrower during the time it is loaned, but the person to whom the machine has been loaned assumes responsibility for accidents occurring through its negligent use while it is in his possession and the owner is not liable. (Ame. Bul. Case Law.)

AUTOMOBILES AS INHERENTLY DANGEROUS MACHINES—LIMITATION ON THE OBLIGATIONS OF THE OWNER.—An automobile is not inherently a dangerous machine, and the rules requiring extraordinary care of dangerous instrumentalities do not apply to such a means of conveyance. Therefore the owner is not responsible for injuries which may be sustained by strangers from its careless and wrongful use while in the possession of another who is using it without his consent. The owner of an automobile may keep it at a public garage, where it is possible for his chauffeur or others to obtain it without his authority, and in the event of their doing so he is not accountable to a person who may be run over by it in consequence of the negligence of the driver, for it is not enough to show that the accident would not have occurred without the facilities afforded by the owner of the motor vehicle, or that the owner made it possible for another person to take out the machine without permission and operate it at pleasure. A servant has no implied authority to engage a stranger to do work on behalf of his master so as to render the master liable for the stranger's acts or defaults except in a case of necessity. Where a driver who was in charge of a bus allowed a third person who did not have a licence to drive the bus without the knowledge of the owner, the owner could not be convicted and his licence could not be cancelled. 47 C.L.J. 460=1928 C. 410.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent a licensing authority having the jurisdiction referred to in sub-section (1) of section 7 from adding to the classes of vehicle which the licence authorises the holder to drive.

(3) Where the application is for a licence to drive as a paid employee or to drive a transport vehicle, or where in any other case the licensing authority for reasons to be stated in writing so requires, the application shall be accompanied by a medical certificate in Form C, as set forth in the First Schedule, signed by a registered medical practitioner.

(4) Every application for a licence to drive as a paid employee and every application for a licence to drive a transport vehicle shall be accompanied by three clear copies of a recent photograph of the applicant.

SEC. 6: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—

"The change in sub-clause (1) is consequential on the omission of original sub-clause (3) of clause 4. We have added to sub-clause (2) a provision allowing a Court to presume that a licence used by a person other than the holder of the licence was so used with the consent of the holder, because we think that without this provision this very prevalent improper practice cannot be successfully checked. The new sub-clause (3) explicitly saves the power to add further classes of vehicle to those specified in an existing licence."

SEC. 7, CL. (1): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The insertion made is to facilitate the obtaining of a licence by a person employed in a place far from his ordinary residence. It seems appropriate that he should be able to apply to the licensing authority of the locality in which his employment lies."

CL. (2).—We have omitted the word "left." (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (3).—The consensus of opinion of Provincial Governments is that medical certificates should be obligatory for all drivers other than owner drivers, and even from the latter the licensing authority should be empowered to demand a medical certificate if he is not satisfied as to the applicant's general appearance of fitness. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "We think a licensing authority which exacts a medical certificate should state its reasons for the demand." (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (4).—The consensus of opinion of Provincial Governments is that photographs should be submitted by these two classes of applicants. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) "By substituting 'transport vehicle' for 'public service vehicle' we have extended the scope of the provisions of this sub-clause to vehicles used for the carriage of goods. The other change made is self-explanatory." (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (5).—"The diseases and disabilities which disqualify a person for obtaining a licence are set forth in the Second Schedule. We have accordingly substituted a reference to this Schedule for the reference to Form C. We have also provided that a person confronted with the danger of being held disqualified on the grounds mentioned in that Schedule should have a right to appeal to a Medical Board before he is actually refused a licence." Provided that—

(a) a licence limited to driving an invalid carriage may be issued to the applicant, if the licensing authority is satisfied that he is fit to drive such a carriage,

(b) the applicant may, except where he suffers from a disease or disability specified in the Second Schedule, claim to be subjected to a test of his fitness or ability to drive a motor vehicle of a particular construction or design, and, if he passes such test to the satisfaction of the licensing authority and is not otherwise disqualified, the licensing authority shall grant him a licence to drive such motor vehicle as the licensing authority may specify in the licence.

(6) No licence shall be issued to any applicant unless he passes to the satisfaction of the licensing authority the test of competence to drive specified in the Third Schedule, [or

Provided that, where the application is for a licence to drive a motor cycle or a motor car, the licensing authority shall exempt the applicant from Part I of the test specified in the Third Schedule if the licensing authority is satisfied that the applicant has previously held a licence to drive and has had not less than twelve months' recent experience of driving a motor cycle or a motor car, as the case may be:

(7) The test of competence to drive shall be carried out in a vehicle of the type to which the application refers, and, for the purposes of Part I of the test,—

(a) a person who passes the test in driving a motor car or a motor cab or a delivery van shall be deemed to have passed the test for all of these vehicles;

(b) a person who passes the test in driving a light transport vehicle shall be deemed also to have passed the test in driving the vehicles referred to in clause (a); and

CL. (6).—“Since the intention is that licences should be valid throughout British India, all applicants for new licences should pass the test specified in the Third Schedule in driving the class of vehicle specified in the application. An exception is made of existing licences under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, as it would be impracticable to insist on their passing the driving test. The proviso will meet the case of applicants particularly from overseas who have previously held licences granted in their own countries. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) “The change made in cl. (b) is for the purpose of avoiding hardship in cases where a licence issued under the 1914 Act might have expired for lack of renewal. It would be unreasonable that an applicant in such a case should have to undergo a test. We have slightly amplified the condition to be satisfied by an applicant for a motor car licence before he can be exempted from the test: and we have made a provision similar to that contained in the Madras Motor Vehicle Rules for the acceptance of certificates given by recognised automobile associations.” (Select Committee Report.)

CL. (7).—“The change made in sub-clause (a) ensures that the test for driving a heavy transport vehicle will cover locomotives and tractors”. (Select Committee Report.)

(c) a person who passes the test in driving a heavy transport vehicle shall be deemed also to have passed the test in driving any motor vehicle other than a motor cycle.

(8) When an application has been duly made to the appropriate licensing authority and the applicant has satisfied such authority of his physical fitness and of his competence to drive and has paid to the authority a fee of five rupees, the licensing authority shall grant the applicant a licence unless the applicant is disqualified under section 4 for driving a motor vehicle or is for the time being disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence:

Provided that '[* * *] a licensing authority may issue a licence to drive a motor cycle or a motor car notwithstanding that it is not the appropriate licensing authority, if the licensing authority is satisfied that there is good reason for the applicant's inability to apply to the appropriate licensing authority.

8. (1) Every licence, except a licence issued under section 14, shall be in Form D as set forth in the First Schedule and shall have affixed thereto one of the signatures or thumb impressions given on the form of application for the licence and, in the case of a licence to drive as a paid employee or to drive a transport vehicle, one of the photographs referred to in sub-section (4) of section 7.

(2) A licence shall specify whether the holder is entitled to drive as a paid employee and whether he is entitled to drive a public service vehicle and shall further be expressed as entitling the holder to drive a motor vehicle of one or more of the following classes, namely:—

- (a) motor cycle,
- (b) motor car,
- (c) motor cab,
- (d) delivery van,
- (e) light transport vehicle,
- (f) heavy transport vehicle,
- (g) locomotive,
- (h) tractor,
- (i) road-roller,
- (j) invalid carriage, or
- (k) motor vehicle of a specified description.

9. (1) Subject to any rules made by a Provincial Government under sub-section (3), a licence issued under the foregoing sections shall be effective throughout British India.

CL. (8).—"We have omitted the reference to residence in the last two lines of the clause preceding the proviso. The change made in clause 7 (1) would necessitate an alteration in any case, but the words are unnecessary since an application cannot be duly made except to the licensing authority specified in clause 7 (1). The other changes are consequential on the omission: the appropriate authority being the authority specified in clause 7 (1)". (Report of Select Committee.)

SEC. 8, CL. (1).—"The words omitted in the first line are superfluous in view of the definition of "licence". The second change is consequential on the change made in clause 7 (4)". (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 9, CL. (1).—"There are varying opinions as to how far licences should have all-India validity. One or two provinces are in favour of extending all-India validity to all licences including those to drive public service vehicles. On the other hand, one province would not extend all-India validity to a licence to drive a goods vehicle. One or two would like power to impose special restrictions in special areas. The majority however feel that drivers of public service vehicles should be under stricter supervision in view of their responsibility for the safety of the public. It is therefore pro-

(2) Subject, in the case of international driving permits issued in pursuance of the International Convention relative to motor traffic concluded at Paris on the 24th day of April, 1926, or of any Convention modifying the same, to any rules made by the Central Government under section 92 and subject in any other case to the provisions of sub-section (4), a licence to drive a motor vehicle issued by a competent authority in any Indian State or in the French or Portuguese Settlements bounded by India shall, if the holder is ordinarily resident in the State or Settlement in which the licence was issued, be valid throughout British India as if it were a licence issued under this Act:

Provided that such holder is not disqualified under any of the provisions of this Act for holding or obtaining a licence in British India.

(3) A Provincial Government may, by rules made under section 21,—

(a) provide that a specification entitling the holder of a licence to drive a public service vehicle shall be made in the licence only by or under the authority of the Regional Transport Authority constituted under Chapter IV,

(b) regulate the submission of applications for such licences to the said authority, or

(c) require as a condition of its validity in a province that a licence entitling the holder to drive a public service vehicle shall be counter-signed by a prescribed authority in the province.

(4) If the Central Government is satisfied that licences issued in British India under this Act are not effective in any Indian State or French or Portuguese Settlement bounded by India or are effective subject to unreasonable conditions or that like conditions and requirements to those imposed by this Act are not imposed in a reasonable degree upon the issue of licences in any State or Settlement as aforesaid, the Central Government shall, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that licences generally or any particular class of licence issued in any such State or Settlement shall not be valid in British India.

posed that licences to drive public service vehicles should by provincial rules only be valid in the province when endorsed to that effect, and that, in view of the stringency of the specified test for drivers, all-India validity should be extended to all other forms of licences". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—The position in respect of the validity of licences issued in States is chaotic. Most provinces have rules extending validity to licences issued in States specified in a schedule to the rules but these have not been uniformly amended and frequently differ in consequence. It is proposed therefore that licences issued by States to bona fide residents should generally be valid. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (3).—The general opinion is that while the licensing authority should judge as to a person's competence and physical fitness to drive, the transport authority in the discharge of its special responsibility for the control of public service vehicles should have the final say as to the persons by whom such vehicles should be driven. There is however some difference of opinion in this matter, and it is therefore left to the rule-making powers of Provincial Governments. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"We have recast this clause in order to secure that there shall be reciprocity in connection with the recognition in British India of licences issued outside it. For this purpose we have provided that the privilege of having its licences recognised as valid in British India may be withdrawn from any State or Territory if it is found that the recognition is not mutual, or that the issue of licences in that State or Territory is not adequately controlled. In consequence of these changes the references in sub-clauses (2) and (3) to controlling rules to be made by the Provincial Government, and to prescribed conditions have been removed. The other small changes of wording and arrangement made in sub-clause (3) are drafting changes only".

SEC. 10: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The added words make it clear that a renewal of a licence operates only for twelve months."

11. (1) Any licensing authority may on application made to it renew a licence issued under the provisions of this Act.

(2) An application for the renewal of a licence shall be made in Form B as set forth in the First Schedule and shall contain the declaration required by that form: provided that where the applicant does not or is unable to subscribe to the said declaration the provisions of sub-section (5) of section 7 shall apply.

(3) The fee payable for the renewal of a licence shall be three rupees, if the application for renewal is made previous to, or not more than fifteen days subsequent to, the date on which the licence is due to expire and shall be five rupees in any other case, unless the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder was prevented by good cause from applying for the renewal of the licence within fifteen days after its expiry.

(4) When the authority renewing the licence is not the authority which issued the licence, it shall intimate the fact of renewal to the authority which issued the licence.

12. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing sections, a licensing authority may at any time revoke a licence issued by it, or may require, as a condition of continuing to hold such licence, the holder thereof to furnish a fresh medical certificate in Form C as set forth in the Revocation of licence on grounds of disease or disability.

First Schedule signed as required by sub-section (3) of section 7, if the licensing authority has reasonable grounds to believe that the holder of the licence is, by virtue of any disease or disability, unfit to drive a motor vehicle.

13. (1) Where the licensing authority refuses to issue or revokes or refuses to renew any licence, it shall do so by an order communicated to the applicant or the holder, as the case may be, giving the reasons in writing for such refusal or revocation.

Orders refusing or revoking licences and appeals therefrom.

(2) Any person aggrieved by the refusal of a licensing authority to grant or renew a licence or by the revocation of a licence may, within thirty days of the service on him of the order of such refusal or revocation, appeal to the prescribed authority, who shall decide the appeal after giving the licensing authority an opportunity of being heard, and the decision of the appellate authority shall be binding on the licensing authority.

SEC. 11.—“A uniform renewal fee is necessary. Provision is made for the renewal at ordinary rates of an expired licence by a person who, for example, has been ill for a sustained period or out of India on long leave and so genuinely unable to renew his licence in time”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“The added words are intended to secure that licences under the superseded law will not be renewed, but will be replaced by licences issued under the new Act”.

CL. (3).—We have allowed a more generous period of grace after the expiry of a licence. (Select Committee Report.)

Sec. 11 (3) has nothing whatever to do with the effectiveness of the licence. It merely enables a licensee to obtain his licence at a lower rate, if he applies within fifteen days of the expiration of his old licence. Accused, a motor driver, had a driving licence which expired on 2nd February, 1941. On 17th February, 1941, his licence was examined and was found to have expired. On the same day, however, he got a renewal of his licence with effect from 2nd February, 1941. On 13th June, 1941, a complaint was filed against him under sec. 11 (3) read with sec. 112 of the Act and convicted. Held, that, though the accused could not claim renewal except for one year from the date of application, the licensing authority having issued him a renewal as from 2nd February, 1941, there was an effective licence on the date of the alleged offence and hence he was not guilty. 201 I.C. 770=15 R.B. 121=43 Cr.L.J. 778=44 Bom.L.R. 449=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 216.

SEC. 12.—The change made by the Select Committee is merely a drafting improvement. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 13.—Sub-clause (2) provides the necessary check upon irregular or arbitrary use of power by licensing authorities. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have inserted a period of limitation for the making of an appeal. We have also removed the reference to District Magistrates and Presidency Magistrates as appellate authorities, and have provided that the appellate authority should be determined by the Provincial Government”.

(3) The order of a licensing authority shall, unless the appellate authority, conditionally or unconditionally, directs otherwise, be in force pending the disposal of an appeal under sub-section (2).

14. (1) The authority specified in Part A of the Fourth Schedule may grant licences, valid throughout British India, to persons who have completed their eighteenth year to drive motor vehicles which are the property ¹[or for the time being under the exclusive control] of the Central Government.

Licences to drive motor vehicles, the property of the Central Government.

(2) A licence issued under this section shall specify the class or classes of vehicle which the holder is entitled to drive and the period for which he is so entitled.

(3) A licence issued under this section shall not entitle the holder to drive any motor vehicle except a motor vehicle which is the property ¹[or for the time being under the exclusive control] of the Central Government.

(4) The authority issuing any licence under this section shall at the request of any Provincial Government furnish such information respecting any person to whom a licence is issued as that Government may at any time require.

Power of licensing authority to disqualify for holding a licence.

15. (1) If a licensing authority is satisfied after giving him an opportunity of being heard that any person,—

(a) is a habitual criminal or a habitual drunkard, or

(b) is using or has used a motor vehicle in the commission of a cognisable offence, or

(c) has by his previous conduct as driver of a motor vehicle shown that his driving is likely to be attended with danger to the public, it may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, make an order disqualifying that person for a specified period for holding or obtaining a licence.

(2) Upon the issue of any such order a person affected, if he is the holder of a licence, shall forthwith surrender his licence to the licensing authority making the order, if the licence has not already been surrendered, and the licensing authority shall—

(a) if the licence is a licence issued under this Act, keep it until the disqualification has expired or has been removed, or

(b) if it is not a licence issued under this Act, endorse the disqualification upon it and send it to the licensing authority by which it was issued.

(3) Any person aggrieved by an order made by a licensing authority under this section may, within thirty days of the receipt of the order, appeal to the prescribed authority, and such appellate authority shall give notice to the licensing authority and hear either party if so required by that party and may make such inquiry into the matter as it thinks fit. An order made by any such appellate authority shall be final.

SEC. 14.—The intention of this is to continue and regularise the present arrangement under which Army and Air Force drivers are licensed by Army and Air Force authorities. This is done at present by a long-standing agreement with Provincial Governments, who have tacitly accepted the arrangement or formally granted exemption under sec. 13 of the existing Act of 1914. The holders of these licences will however be subject to the ordinary law (including punishment by Courts, suspension and endorsement of licence) and in addition will not be enabled by the licences to drive any vehicle other than one owned by the Central Government. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 15.—This repeats, in a form amplified to meet present requirements, the provision in sec. 18 (1) of the old Act of 1914. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The clause has been recast, so as to state specifically the reasons for which a disqualification under this section may be ordered, and the power of disqualification has been given to the licensing authority instead of to the Provincial Government. A right of appeal against any such order is also given”.

may for reasons to be recorded in writing and subject to any prescribed conditions declare any person disqualified, for a specified period, for holding or obtaining a license to drive a public service vehicle in the province.

(2) Any person aggrieved by an order of a Regional Transport Authority made under sub-section (1) may within thirty days of the receipt of intimation of such order appeal against the order to the prescribed authority.

offence under this Act, or of an offence in the commission of which a motor vehicle was used, the Court by which such person is convicted may, subject to the provisions of this section, in addition to imposing any other punishment authorised by law, declare the person so convicted to be disqualified, for such period as the Court may specify, for holding any licence or for holding a licence to drive a particular class or description of vehicle.

(2) A Court shall not order the disqualification of an offender convicted for the first or second time of an offence punishable under section 115.

SEC. 16.—“Transport authorities are responsible for seeing that public service vehicles are run in the best interests of and to the safety of the travelling public. It seems only reasonable therefore that they should have a deciding word as to the persons by whom public service vehicles are driven”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have provided that reasons are to be stated for a disqualification made under this clause, and that the disqualification shall be for a specified period only. We have also provided for an appeal”. The practice of issuing summons under sec. 16 of the charging the accused merely with an offence under that section without indicating the nature of the charge against him, should be condemned. Where such a summons was issued to the accused and the case itself was taken up before the date fixed and the accused was not granted time to produce his defence, his conviction is not legal and is liable to be set aside. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 678=A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 114. On this section. see also 1941 Lah. 422; 1941 Rang.L.R. 587.

SEC. 17.—“Some Provincial Governments have made rules under sec. 18 (1-A) of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, delegating to licensing authorities power to suspend or cancel licences. Since disqualification is a severe punishment it is considered more satisfactory to leave its infliction to the decision of the Court, after a proper trial. The offences themselves, however, are grouped in two categories: those for which disqualification should be obligatory, and those for which disqualification may be left to the discretion of the Court”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The words omitted from sub-clause (1) we consider to be unnecessary, and to be dangerously wide. The verbal change in sub-clauses (2) and (3) is for clarity only. We have omitted sub-clause (4). We consider that it would be unfair thus to penalize the driver of an uninsured vehicle in many cases, as the primary responsibility for insuring the vehicle rests on the owner. We have also omitted sub-clause (9) which applied the provisions of this clause to abettors of certain offences. By our amendment of sub-clause (10) we have deprived the Appellate Court of power to make an order of disqualification which the lower Court did not see fit to make”.

DEGREE OF CARE REQUIRED OF OPERATORS.—Although automobiles are comparatively new in use, there is nothing novel in the principles of law to be applied with respect to travel in them on the highways. The general principles applicable to the use of all vehicles upon public highways apply to automobiles and may be summarised in the statement that a driver must use that degree of care and caution which an ordinarily careful and prudent person would exercise under the same circumstances. The right of the driver of a horse and that of the driver of a motor vehicle to use the highway are equal, and each is equally restricted in the exercise of his rights by the corresponding rights of the other. Each is required to regulate his own use by the observance of ordinary care and caution to avoid receiving injury, or inflicting injury upon the other. The degree of care required in the use and operation of an automobile upon the streets of a city depends not only upon the condition of the streets, but also upon the dangerous character of the machine or vehicle, and its liability to do injury to others lawfully using such streets. The more dangerous its character, the greater is the degree of care and caution required in its use and operation. The duty of care which an operator of an automobile is bound to exercise is commensurate with the risk of injury to other vehicles and pedestrians.

trians on the road; and this risk of injury is considered to be as great as, if not greater than, the risk of injury to vehicles and pedestrians travelling on and across streets upon which street cars are operated by electric power.

In the application of these principles conditions frequently arise under which conduct amounting to reasonable care in the case of a light and slow moving wagon does not amount to proper and necessary care in the operation of a heavy and rapidly moving automobile. All operators of motor vehicles in addition to exercising reasonable care and caution for the safety of others who have the right to use the highways must do whatever the rules and statute require whenever the conditions therein referred to arise; and a failure to comply with regulations imposed by law or ordinance may, in itself, constitute negligence and render the operator liable for consequential damages. Nevertheless, if the driver of an automobile complies with all the requirements of a statute regulating the operation of motor vehicles, he may yet be liable for the failure to exercise ordinary care to avoid injury to another traveller on the highway.

ANTICIPATION OF PRESENCE OF OTHERS.—

It is part of the duty of an operator of a motor vehicle to keep his machine always under control so as to avoid collisions with pedestrians and other persons using the highway. He has no right to assume that the road is clear, but under all circumstances and at all times he must be vigilant and must anticipate and expect the presence of others. Accordingly, the fact that he did not know that any one was on the highway is no excuse for conduct which would have amounted to recklessness if he had known that another vehicle or person was approaching. Drivers of motor vehicles must be specially watchful in anticipation of the presence of others at places where other vehicles are constantly passing, and where men, women, and children are liable to be crossing, such as corners, at the intersection of streets, or near street cars from which passengers may have alighted or may be about to alight, or in other similar places or situations where people are likely to fail to observe an approaching automobile. It will be the duty of the driver of an automobile, when he has occasion to turn the corner of a street, to slow down the machine in anticipation of the presence of persons in the highway at the street crossing. The duty to anticipate the presence of others applies to private lanes which are open to the public use, and reasonable care must be taken in operating an automobile in such a lane, as not to injure even a person who, as a mere licensee, may be driving a horse and carriage through the lane as a short cut between two highways.

PRESUMPTION THAT OTHERS WILL EXERCISE DUE CARE.—The duty of care between persons using the highway is mutual, and each person may assume that others travelling on the highway will comply with this obligation. Hence a pedestrian has a right to assume that the driver of an automobile will exercise proper caution in approaching crossings, and that he will not turn a sharp corner and run without warning against a person travelling on foot. In like manner a person operating an automobile has the right to act upon the assumption that every person whom he meets will also exercise ordinary care and caution according to the circumstances, and will not negligently or recklessly expose himself to danger, but rather make an attempt to avoid it; but when an operator of a motor vehicle has had time to realize, or by the exercise of a proper care and watchfulness should realize that a person whom he meets is in a somewhat helpless condition or apparently unable to avoid the approaching machine, he must exercise increased exertion to avoid a collision. A person cannot always rely upon another to use his utmost effort to escape from a place of danger, and if the driver of an automobile sees another in danger of being run down, he should not rely on the other's alertness in getting out of the way, but he must slacken speed and if necessary stop.

DUTY OF PEDESTRIANS.—It is the duty of a pedestrian, travelling in public streets of the city, reasonably to exercise for his personal safety the faculties with which he is endowed by nature, for self-protection, and a person is not entitled to walk the streets with closed eyes and inattentive mind.

DUTY AS TO RIDERS ON BICYCLES.—A person operating an automobile and one riding a bicycle owe to each other the duty to use reasonable care to avoid collision. A bicycle rider must be vigilant under all circumstances and keep a proper lookout for automobiles.

DUTY AS TO FRIGHTENED HORSES.—Whenever a person operating an automobile knows, or in exercise of ordinary care should know, that his machine is frightening the horse of an approaching team and that his further progress will increase the peril of the persons in the carriage, it is his duty, apart from the provisions of any statute, to take such steps for their safety as ordinary prudence may suggest, including the moderation of his pace, or, when necessary, the stopping of automobile especially when he has received a signal requesting him to stop. (See sec. 86). As a matter of prudence and ordinary caution, at the indication of a horse becoming alarmed the person in charge of a motor vehicle must go as far as practicable to the side of the road and remain stationary until the horse has passed. It is the duty of the driver of an automobile to stop it when a horse or other animal becomes frightened, or shows that it is about to become frightened, by the approach of the motor vehicle, and the failure to stop upon the signal as required by statute is usually regarded as negligence. However, it is sometimes considered necessary that a signal be actually made in order to establish

(3) A Court shall order the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence punishable under section 117, and such disqualification shall be for a period of not less than six months.

(4) A Court shall order the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence against the provisions of clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 87 or of section 89, and such disqualification shall be for a period of not less than one month.

(5) A Court shall unless for special reasons to be recorded in writing it thinks fit to order otherwise, order the disqualification of an offender—

(a) who having been convicted of an offence punishable under section 116 is again convicted of an offence punishable under that section,

(b) who is convicted of an offence punishable under section 120, or

(c) who is convicted of an offence punishable under section 123:

Provided that the period of disqualification shall not exceed, in the cases referred to in clauses (a) and (b), two years, or, in the case referred to in clause (c), one year.

(6) A Court ordering the disqualification of an offender convicted of an offence punishable under section 116 may direct that the offender shall, whether he has previously passed the test of competence to drive specified in the Third Schedule or not, remain disqualified until he has subsequent to the making of the order of disqualification passed that test to the satisfaction of the licensing authority.

(7) The Court to which an appeal lies from any conviction of an offence of the nature specified in sub-section (1) may set aside or vary any order of disqualification made by the Court below, and the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie from any Court may set aside or vary any order of disqualification made by that Court, notwithstanding that no appeal lies against the conviction in connection with which such order was made.

18. (1) A person in respect of whom any disqualification order is made shall be debarred to the extent and for the period specified in such order from holding or obtaining a licence and the licence, if any, held by such person at the date of the order shall cease to be effective during such period.

a case of negligence. The degree of care required in the use of motor cycles appears to be intermediate between that required in the use of automobiles and of bicycles. The operator of a motor cycle upon the streets of a city is not required to anticipate that a horse will be frightened at his cycle, although it is his duty to stop the machine when he discovers that the horse is frightened by it and likely to get beyond control. Where the accused had been driving cars regularly for about 13 years and had obtained a large number of good certificates from a variety of masters, and where he had never before had a conviction for bad driving, held, that the verdict that he was unfit to hold a licence because he was not a good driver was ridiculous in view of his record and must be cancelled. 88 I.C. 998=23 A. L.J. 790=26 Cr.L.J. 1254=A.I.R. 1925 All. 798. The general rule is that the fine imposed on an accused person should not be excessive, having regard to his pecuniary means. The best way to stop dangerous driving by persons, who earn their livelihood by driving motor vehicles, is for the Court, on conviction of the offender, to exercise its powers under which such Court "shall cause particulars of the conviction to be endorsed" on any licence held by the accused, and may (1) cancel or suspend that licence, or even (2) declare the accused disqualified for obtaining a licence either permanently or for such period as it thinks fit. The exercise of that power will have a very deterrent effect, especially in the case of persons who earn their livelihood by driving motor vehicles. 26 Cr.L.J. 1536=27 Bom.L.R. 1056=A.I.R. 1925 Bom. 526.

APPEAL—ORDER OF DISQUALIFICATION—IF PUNISHMENT.—An order of disqualification for holding a driving licence which is passed on conviction under secs. 78, 86 and 116 of the Motor Vehicles Act in addition to sentences of fine amounting to Rs. 45 in all, cannot be regarded as a punishment. The punishment which has to be specified under sec. 367 (2), Cr. P. Code, cannot include an order of disqualification for holding a licence. Hence no appeal lies in such a case. 57 L.W. 469=(1944) 2 M.L.J. 152.

SEC. 18.—The change made in sub-clause (2) by the Select Committee transfers to the Appellate Court the power to stay an order of disqualification pending appeal. In sub-clause (3) we have removed the reference

(2) The operation of a disqualification order made under section 17 shall not be suspended or postponed while an appeal is pending against such order or against the conviction as a result of which such order is made, unless the appellate Court so directs.

(3) Any person in respect of whom any disqualification order has been made may at any time after the expiry of six months from the date of the order apply to the Court or other authority by which the order was made, to remove the disqualification; and the Court or authority, as the case may be, may, having regard to all the circumstances, either remove or vary the order of disqualification:

Provided that where an application has been made under this section a second application thereunder shall not be entertained before the expiry of a further period of three months.

of disqualification shall endorse or cause to be endorsed upon the licence, if any, held by the person disqualified particulars of the order of disqualification and of any conviction of an offence in respect of which an order of disqualification is made; and particulars of any removal or variation of an order of disqualification made under sub-section (3) of section 18 shall be similarly so endorsed

(2) A Court by which any person is convicted of an offence specified in the Fifth Schedule shall, whether or not an order of disqualification is made in respect of such conviction, endorse or cause to be endorsed particulars of such conviction on any licence held by the person convicted.

(3) Any person accused of an offence specified in the Fifth Schedule shall when attending the Court bring with him his licence if it is in his possession.

transferred to any new or duplicate licence obtained by the holder thereof until the holder becomes entitled under the provisions of this section to have a licence issued to him free from endorsement.

(2) Where a licence is required to be endorsed and the licence is at the time not in the possession of the Court or authority by which the endorsement is to be made then—

(a) if the person in respect of whom the endorsement is to be made is at the time the holder of a licence, he shall produce the licence to the Court or to conduct of the person disqualified subsequent to the order of disqualification, leaving the decision to be based on general circumstances of which such conduct might be one. (Select Committee Report). "In order to secure a reasonable measure of uniformity in respect of the endorsement of licences, the offences in respect of which the Courts shall be bound to endorse licences are specified in the Fifth Schedule. Licences will therefore invariably be endorsed by the Courts for these offences and by the Courts or other competent authority in respect of any period of disqualification. The offences specified in the Schedule will be those in respect of which endorsement is necessary. Other offences not specified will be of a technical nature and, although no specific provision is made, the intention is that they should not be endorsed." (Statements of Objects and Reasons).

SEC. 20.—"In order to secure uniformity in respect of the issue of a clean licence after three years' clean driving, in conformity with the views expressed by the majority of Provincial Governments, it is proposed that in the Schedules specifying offences convictions in respect of which are to be endorsed on licences, shall be divided into two parts—Part A will contain the more serious offences, endorsements in respect of which should never be expunged and must be repeated on any new licence issued, and Part B will specify the offences the endorsements in respect of which can be expunged after three years' clean period of driving. Thus, in the event of any person being prosecuted for an offence under this Act, his licence will furnish a record of all previous convictions of a serious nature as well as recent convictions of a less serious nature, and upon demand by the prosecution for the disqualification of the holder the Courts may normally be expected to disqualify a habitual offender. The power of licensing authorities to disqualify will therefore not be as necessary as it is held to be at present." (Statements of Objects and Reasons).

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change made in sub-clause (3) liberalises the provi-authority within five days, or such longer time as the Court or authority may fix, or

(h) if, not being then the holder of a licence, he subsequently obtains a licence, he shall within five days after obtaining the licence produce it to the Court or authority; and if the licence is not produced within the time specified it shall on the expiration of such time be of no effect until it is produced for the purpose of endorsement.

(3) A person whose licence has been endorsed shall, if during a continuous period of three years since the last endorsement was made no further order of endorsement has been made against him, be entitled, on surrendering his licence and on payment of a fee of five rupees, to receive a new licence free from all endorsements. If the endorsement was only in respect of exceeding a speed limit, he shall be entitled to have a clean licence issued on the expiration of one year from the date of the order:

Provided that in reckoning the said period of three years and one year, respectively, any period during which the said person was disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence shall be excluded.

(4) When a licence is endorsed by or an order of endorsement is made by any Court, the Court shall send particulars of the endorsement or order, as the case may be, to the licensing authority by which the licence was last renewed and to the licensing authority which granted the licence.

(5) Where the holder of a licence is disqualified by the order of any Court for holding or obtaining a licence, the Court shall take possession of the licence and forward it to the licensing authority by which it was granted or last renewed and that authority shall keep the licence until the disqualification has expired or has been removed and the person entitled to the licence has made a demand in writing for its return to him:

Provided that, if the disqualification is limited to the driving of a motor vehicle of a particular class or description, the Court shall endorse the licence to this effect and shall send a copy of the order of disqualification to the licensing authority by which the licence was granted and shall return the licence to the holder.

(6) Where on an appeal against any conviction or order of a Court which has been endorsed on a licence, the appellate Court varies or sets aside the conviction or order, the appellate Court shall inform the licensing authority by which the licence was last renewed and the licensing authority which granted the licence, and shall amend or cause to be amended the endorsement of such conviction or order.

The other changes made are aimed at making explicit provision for certain additional matters requiring to be prescribed."

CHAPTER III.

REGISTRATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

22. (1) No person shall drive any motor vehicle and no owner of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit the vehicle to be driven in any public place or in any other place for the purpose of carrying passengers or goods unless the vehicle is registered in accordance with this Chapter and the certificate of registration of the vehicle has not been suspended or cancelled and the vehicle carries a registration mark displayed in the prescribed manner.

(2) Nothing in this section shall apply to a motor vehicle while being driven within the limits of jurisdiction of one registering authority to or from the appropriate place of registration for the purpose of being registered under section 23, 25 or 39 or to a motor vehicle exempted from the provisions of this Chapter while in the possession of a dealer in motor vehicles.

SEC. 22.—Cf. Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, sec. 10. Sub-Cl. (2) usually appears at present in provincial rules. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“The change made in sub-Cl. (1) has the effect of bringing within the scope of this clause vehicles used for the carriage of passengers or goods in such areas as privately owned mill areas, tea gardens, and mine areas to which we think it is desirable that the provisions regarding registration should extend. The change made in sub-Cl. (2) is intended to make it impossible for a person residing upcountry to drive an unregistered car for long distances from a port.”

LICENCING OF MOTOR VEHICLES.—The identification of automobiles by a system of licensing and the requirement that each machine must carry a registration number conspicuously displayed is one of the precautions taken to reduce the danger of injury to pedestrians and other travellers from the careless management of automobiles, and to furnish a means of ascertaining the identity of persons violating the laws and ordinances regulating the speed and the operation of machines upon the highways. Registration laws applying to motor vehicles generally include almost all kinds of vehicles propelled by mechanical power. Motor cycles are also generally included. The legislature has enacted rules requiring every automobile to be registered and to display a registration number in such a manner that it may be plainly visible, and prohibits the operation of an automobile in a street or other public place unless it complies with such regulations. The licence which is issued at the time of registration of a machine is sometimes to the operator, and in other instances to the owner of the machine, and occasionally to both. The business of operating a motor vehicle is one which the legislature regulates in all its details. As an incident to the enforcement of a system of registering and licensing motor vehicles the state or municipality exacts a fixed fee upon the issuing of each licence and such charges are usually treated as reasonable licence fees and not as taxes.

THE PROPER WAY OF PROTECTING AN ENTRY IN THE REGISTER OF MOTOR VEHICLES would be either that the Register itself should be produced by a proper officer or a duly authenticated copy of the material part of the Register placed before the Court. A mere statement by the Commissioner of Police made in answer to a letter written by the Corporation, without his being called or the Register produced, cannot be accepted in proof of the ownership of a car. 36 C.W. N. 1147. It is ultra vires of the local Government to fix a time limit in the registration certificate and to make a corresponding change in the Schedule D as no power was given by sec. 11 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act to make rules for that purpose. R. 6 of the Bombay Motor Vehicle Rules as amended is invalid and inoperative. 46 B. 646=24 Bom.L.R. 50=23 Cr.L.J. 169=1922 B. 42. See also 1933 Bom. 460. R. 7 framed by the Bombay Government under sec. 11, Motor Vehicles Act, is not ultra vires as the words "incidental to registration" in sec. 11 are wide enough to cover renewal of certificates. 146 I.C. 6=35 Bom.L.R. 1027=1933 B. 460 (F.B.). See also 1922 B. 42.

INJURY TO UNREGISTERED AUTOMOBILE OR OCCUPANT.—There has been considerable discussion in the cases as to the liability for injuries to persons riding on the highway in an automobile which has not been registered as required by law, and some close distinctions have been sought to be drawn. It is, of course, a general principle of law that a person who does an unlawful act is not thereby necessarily put outside the protection of the law, and merely because he is a law-breaker he is not barred of redress for an injury which he may sustain, nor liable for an injury suffered by another. To put him beyond the pale of the law for the purposes of a recovery by or against him the unlawful act must have a connection with the injury suffered. Notwithstanding this salutary principle it has been laid down by some Courts that where the statutes prohibit the use of unregistered automobiles on the highways, a person riding in such an automobile is a trespasser on the highway and the only duty owing to him by persons lawfully on the highway is not wantonly or wilfully to injure him.

The rule which in effect renders an unlicensed automobile and its occupants outlaws on the highways can hardly be said to have the support of reason, and where the statute requires the registration of automobiles merely on pain of a penalty for a violation, the rules have been held not to apply. (Ame. Rul. Case-law.)

REGULATIONS AS TO NON-RESIDENTS.—The highways, whether urban or rural, are primarily intended for the use of the public; and the absolute dominion over them is lodged in the legislature although the control of the roads and streets is commonly delegated to the local municipalities within which they are located. Nevertheless their use remains in the public at large, subject only to such limitations as the municipalities are authorised by law to impose. The local authorities generally have power to lay a licence tax upon automobiles of residents of the municipality and upon persons residing outside of the corporate limits who employ their machines in furtherance of business or occupations carried on within the city limits; but they do not have the right to levy such tax on motor vehicles of non-residents whose business or pleasure casually carries them into or through the city, since this might result in compelling the owners of automobiles to obtain licences not only from the authorities of the place where their business had its headquarters, but also from every neighbouring town into which their casual engagements might call them. (Ame. Rul. Case-law.)

SECS. 22 & 42.—If a lorry is permitted to be driven on a particular day without registration and permit contrary to the provisions of secs. 22 (1) and 42 (1) of the Motor Vehicles Act, the owner cannot be charged for a number of separate offences, although it is seen at different places on the same day. The offence is using the lorry on the particular day and it is only one offence. 43 Cr.L.J. 673=44 P.L.R. 101=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 125.

SECS. 23, 28 AND 29.—The increasing interprovincial circulation of vehicles makes it very desirable that registration shall have all-India validity. The object of these sections therefore is that a certificate of registration as such when once taken out shall be valid in perpetuity throughout British India, and shall remain as a history of the vehicle during the vehicle's life. But if the vehicle is transferred from one province to another for a period greater than twelve months, the owner will have to apply in the new province for the allotment of a fresh distinguishing mark (registered number) which will be entered in the certificate of registration. The documents and record of registration will then be transferred to the new province. This will necessitate amendment of some Provincial Taxation Acts, but it is felt that the disadvantages of linking registration to taxation outweigh the ad-

We have provided that a registration already in existence shall for a limited period be deemed to be a registration made under the new law, and have given to owners a right during that period to have it converted into a registration under the new law without payment of a registration fee. As the new law requires certain particulars to be carried exhibited on a vehicle, and to be entered in certificates of registration, we have provided by the new sub-cl. We have added a proviso affording the Provincial Government a means of securing when it thinks necessary a record of the particulars regarding transport vehicles which are required under sec. 37 (old 36). Cls. (2) and (3) have been recast in order to provide that the recognition of a registration effected in a State of Foreign Settlement shall, as has already been provided in sec. 9 in the case of licencees, be conditional on reciprocal treatment in such States or Settlements of a registration effected in British India, and on the existence of adequate measures for the control of registration.”

respect of any particular class of motor vehicle issued in any such State or Settlement shall not be effective in British India.

29. (1) When a motor vehicle registered in one province has been kept in another province for a period exceeding twelve months, the owner of the vehicle shall apply to the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle then is, for the assignment of a new registration mark and shall present the certificate of registration to that registering authority.

(2) The registering authority, to which application is made under sub-section (1), shall assign the vehicle, a registration mark in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to be carried thenceforth on the vehicle and shall enter the mark upon the certificate of registration before returning it to the applicant and shall, in communication with the registering authority by whom the vehicle was previously registered, arrange for the transfer of the registration of the vehicle from the records of that registering authority to its own records.

(3) A Provincial Government may make rules under section 41 requiring the owner of a motor vehicle not registered within the province, which is brought into or is for the time being in the province, to furnish to a prescribed authority in the province such information with respect to the motor vehicle and its registration as may be prescribed.

30. (1) If the owner of a motor vehicle ceases to reside or have his place of business at the address recorded in the certificate of registration of the vehicle, he shall, within thirty days of any such change of address, intimate his new address to the registering authority by which the certificate of registration was issued, or, if the new address is within the jurisdiction of another registering authority, to that other registering authority, and shall at the same time forward the certificate of registration to the registering authority in order that the new address may be entered therein.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the altered address to the original registering authority.

(3) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply where the change of the address recorded in the certificate of registration is due to a temporary absence not intended to exceed six months in duration or where the motor vehicle is neither used nor removed from the address recorded in the certificate of registration.

31. (1) Within thirty days of the transfer of ownership of any motor vehicle registered under this Chapter, the transferee shall report the transfer to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward the certificate of registration to that registering authority together with the prescribed fee in order that particulars of the transfer of ownership may be entered therein.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority

SEC. 29.—A minor drafting change has been made by the Select Committee. (Select Committee Report.)

SECS. 30 AND 32.—“These reproduce the substance of what already appears in provincial rules, but to facilitate matters for the vehicle owner they enable him to report a change of address or of ownership, or alteration in the vehicle to a registering authority who is convenient for the purpose.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 30: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—In Cl. (1) we have extended the time-limit given for compliance with the provisions of the clause. The change made in Cl. (2) and repeated in the similar secs. 31 (2), 32 (2), 33 (3), 34 (2) is merely a simplification of the wording, made possible by the insertion of the explanatory Cl. (7) in sec. 34.

SEC. 31.—In cl. (1) the Select Committee had extended the time-limit for compliance with the provisions of the section.

SECS. 31 AND 34.—As to necessity for fresh registration on change of ownership of vehicle, see 45 C.W.N. 111.

making any such entry shall communicate the transfer of ownership to the original registering authority.

32. (1) If a motor vehicle is so altered that the particulars contained in the certificate of registration are no longer accurate, the owner of the vehicle shall, within fourteen days of the making of any such alteration, report the alteration to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward the certificate of registration to that authority together with the prescribed fee in order that particulars of the alteration may be entered therein:

Alteration in motor vehicle.
Provided that it shall not be necessary to report any change in the unladen weight of the motor vehicle consequent on the addition or removal of fittings or accessories, if such change does not exceed two per cent. of the weight entered in the certificate of registration.

(2) A registering authority other than the original registering authority making any such entry shall communicate the details of the entry to the original registering authority.

33. (1) A registering authority or other prescribed authority, which has reason to believe that any motor vehicle within its jurisdiction is in such a condition that its use in a public place would constitute a danger to the public, or that it fails to comply with the requirements of Chapter V or of the rules made thereunder, may, after giving the owner an opportunity of making any representation he may wish to make, for reasons to be recorded in writing suspend the certificate of registration of the vehicle until the defects are remedied to its satisfaction.

Suspension of registration.
(2) An authority other than a registering authority shall, when making a suspension order under sub-section (1), intimate in writing the fact of suspension and the reasons therefor to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction the vehicle is at the time of the suspension.

(3) Where the registration of a motor vehicle has been suspended under sub-section (1) for a continuous period of not less than one month, the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle was when the registration was suspended, shall, if it is not the original registering authority, inform that authority of the suspension; and when the suspension has continued without interruption for a period of not less than six months, the registering authority, within whose jurisdiction the vehicle was when the registration was suspended, may, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the registration, and, if it is not the original registering authority, shall forward the certificate of registration to that authority which may cancel it forthwith.

(4) The owner of a motor vehicle shall, on the demand of a registering authority or other prescribed authority which has suspended the certificate of registration of the vehicle under this section, surrender the certificate of registration and any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

(5) A certificate of registration and any token or card surrendered under sub-section (4) shall be returned to the owner when the order suspending registration has been rescinded and not before.

Sec. 32.—The proviso added to cl. (1) makes a provision to be found in certain Provincial rules. The changes in Cl. (2) are formal only. (Select Committee Report.)

Sec. 33.—This appears in substance in provincial rules, but additional provision is included requiring that if a defective vehicle is not repaired within a reasonable period its registration shall be cancelled. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (1): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have provided for the recording of reasons, as an appeal is now given against an order of suspension.”

CL. (3).—“We have altered the wording so as to make the original registering authority in every case the authority which may make an order of suspension”. (Select Committee Report.)

34. (1) If a motor vehicle has been destroyed or has been rendered permanently incapable of use, the owner shall, within fourteen days or as soon as may be, report the fact to the registering authority within whose jurisdiction he resides and shall forward to that authority the certificate of registration of the vehicle together with any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

(2) The registering authority shall, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the registration and the certificate of registration, or, if it is not, shall forward the report and the certificate of registration to the original registering authority and that authority shall cancel the registration and the certificate of registration.

(3) Any registering authority may order the examination of a motor vehicle within its jurisdiction by such authority as the Provincial Government may by order appoint and, if upon such examination and after giving the owner an opportunity to make any representation he may wish to make it is satisfied that the vehicle is in such a condition that its use in a public place would constitute a danger to the public and that it is beyond reasonable repair, may cancel the registration of the vehicle.

(4) If a registering authority is satisfied that a motor vehicle has been permanently removed out of British India, the registering authority shall cancel the registration.

(5) A registering authority cancelling the registration of a motor vehicle under section 33 or under this section shall communicate the fact in writing to the owner of the vehicle and the owner of the vehicle shall forthwith surrender to that authority the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any token or card issued to authorise the use of the vehicle in a public place.

(6) A registering authority making an order of cancellation under this section shall, if it is the original registering authority, cancel the certificate of registration and the entry relating to the vehicle in its records, and, if it is not the original registering authority, forward the certificate of registration to that authority, and that authority shall cancel the certificate of registration and the entry relating to the motor vehicle in its records.

(7) The expression "original registering authority" in this section and in sections 30, 31, 32 and 33 means the registering authority in whose records the registration of the vehicle is recorded.

35. (1) Any owner of a motor vehicle aggrieved by an order of refusal under section 27 to register a motor vehicle or under sub-section (1) of section 38 to issue a certificate of fitness or by an order of suspension or cancellation made under section 33 or 34 or by an order of cancellation under sub-section (3) of section 38 may, within thirty days of the date on which he has received notice of such order, appeal against the order to the prescribed authority.

(2) The appellate authority shall give notice of the appeal to the original authority and after giving opportunity to the original authority and the appellant

SEC. 34: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—
"The provision relating to cancellation of registration on permanent removal of the vehicle from British India has been removed from Cl. (1) and reproduced as a separate clause. The period allowed for report to the registering authority under cl. (1) has been extended. In cl. (3) we have provided for the appointment of the examining authority by order of the Provincial Government instead of by rule made after previous publication, and have provided that an owner shall have an opportunity of being heard. In cl. (4) the change made ensures that all orders of suspension or cancellation shall be communicated in writing to owners of vehicle. Cl. (5) follows the principle followed in our revision of sec. 33 (3)". See 45 C.W.N. 111.

SEC. 35.—"We have made cl. (6) of sec. 34 into a separate clause, and have elaborated it so as to provide for an appeal against any order of suspension or cancellation, and also against an order refusing under sec. 27 to register a vehicle". (Select Committee Report.)

Provided that orders of the original authority shall remain in force pending the disposal of the appeal unless the appellate authority otherwise directs.

36. (1) [* * ] A registering authority shall refuse to register any transport vehicle other than a motor cab, unless the application for registration is accompanied by a document in Form F as set forth in the First Schedule signed by the maker of the vehicle or an assembler duly authorised by the maker in this behalf stating the greatest laden weight and greatest axle weights for which the vehicle is and the several axles are designed: [ * *]¹

(2) Where a transport vehicle or chassis, as the case may be, has affixed to it a metal plate, bearing the stamp of the maker or assembler and identified as appertaining to the particular vehicle or chassis to which it is attached, which contains the particulars specified in sub-section (1), that plate may at the discretion of a registering authority be deemed to be the document referred to in sub-section (1).

37. (1) A registering authority, when registering a transport vehicle other than a motor cab shall enter in the record of registration and shall also enter in the certificate of registration of the vehicle the following particulars, namely:—

- (a) the unladen weight of the vehicle;
 - (b) the number, nature and size of the tyres attached to each wheel;
 - (c) the registered laden weight of the vehicle and the registered axle weights pertaining to the several axles thereof fixed in accordance with sub-section (2) with reference to the particulars of the tyres entered in the certificate of registration; and
 - (d) if the vehicle is used or adapted to be used for the carriage of passengers solely or in addition to goods, the number of passengers for whom accommodation is provided;
- and the owner of the vehicle shall have the said particulars exhibited in the prescribed manner on the vehicle.

(2) Notwithstanding any statement contained in the document referred to in sub-section (1) of section 36 as supplied by the maker or assembler of a transport vehicle, the registered weight to be recorded by the registering authority for any axle shall not exceed the permissible weight for that axle calculated in accordance with the Seventh Schedule, nor shall the registered laden weight of the vehicle exceed the sum of the several axle weights as so determined:

Provided that where it appears to a Provincial Government that heavier weights than those specified in the Seventh Schedule may be permitted in a particular locality for vehicles of a particular type, the Provincial Government may by notification in the Official Gazette direct that the provisions of this sub-section shall apply with such modifications as may be specified in the notification.

LEG. REF.

SECS. 36 AND 37.—“In order to check overloading the maximum permissible weight and axle weights must be specified in the registration certificate. The registering authority has no means of determining these and it is proposed therefore to require the manufacturer to certify in respect of every chassis. To guard against the possibility of the certified weight being incorrectly specified, it is proposed that the legal weight on any axle shall be governed by the size of the pneumatic tyres attached to the wheels of that axle in accordance with scheduled permissible loads on tyres of different sizes”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 36: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“In addition to the minor formal amendments, we have by an added proviso to cl. (1) excluded from the operation of the section transport vehicles already registered, owing to the practical difficulty that might be experienced in complying with the requirements contained in the section. We have omitted cls. (2) and (3) dealing with the import of cars and have accordingly omitted the reference to Customs Collector in cl. (4).”

(3) When by reason of an alteration in the number, nature or size of tyres attached to the vehicle the registered laden weight or any registered axle weight recorded in the certificate of registration no longer accords with the laden weight or the axle weight as determined in accordance with sub-section (2), the provisions of section 32 shall apply, and the registering authority shall enter in the certificate of registration a revised registered laden weight and registered axle weights.

38. (1) Subject to the provisions of section 39, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 22, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in Form H as set forth in the First Schedule, issued by the prescribed authority, to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of Chapter V and the rules made thereunder. Where the prescribed authority refuses to issue such certificate it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), a certificate of fitness shall remain effective for three years, unless a shorter period, not being in any case less than six months, is specified in the certificate by the prescribed authority.

(3) The issuing authority or other prescribed authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing cancel a certificate of fitness at any time, if satisfied that the vehicle to which it relates no longer complies with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder; and on such cancellation the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any permit granted in respect of the vehicle under Chapter IV shall be deemed to be suspended until a new certificate of fitness has been obtained.

[(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), a Provincial Government may, until the expiry of one year from the commencement of this Act, by rules made under section 41, dispense with the necessity for a certificate of fitness in the case of all or any transport vehicles in respect of which certificates of registration and permits had already been issued before the commencement of this Act.] (Sub-section (4) omitted by Act XX of 1942.)

If the gross load on the smaller tyres exceeded the maximum load calculated in accordance with the provisions of the Tenth Schedule an offence of overloading would arise. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 38.—A registration is not to be renewed annually, it is necessary to provide that transport vehicles shall be brought up periodically, or as required, for mechanical inspection. It is proposed to do this by attaching to the registration certificate a certificate of fitness which will specify the date by which the vehicle has to be re-examined. One real advantage to be derived from these certificates is that the inspection will take place as and when due, and there will be no necessity for any disorganisation of passenger service due to all vehicles being called up for examination at a particular time. CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have introduced a reference by way of a saving clause to sec. 39. We have added provision for communication in writing of the reasons for a refusal to grant a certificate of fitness.

CL. (2) has been revised so as to secure that while a certificate issued in respect of a new vehicle shall remain effective for three years, any other certificate shall require annual renewal. (Select Committee Report.)

The accused had not obtained a certificate of fitness as required by sec. 38 (1) or a special permit as required by sec. 42 (1) Held, that the accused was guilty under secs. 38 (1) and 42 (1) of the Act and liable to conviction under the same. CONTROL OF TRANSPORT VEHICLES.

42. (1) No owner of a transport vehicle shall use or permit the use of the vehicle in any public place, save in accordance Necessity for permits. with the conditions of a permit granted or countersigned by a Regional or Provincial Transport Authority authorising the use of the vehicle in that place in the manner in which the vehicle is being used:

Provided that a stage carriage permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the use of the vehicle as a contract carriage:

LEG. REF.

¹Added and inserted by Act XX of 1942.

SECS. 42, 52 AND 53.—The bona fide private carrier should not be required to justify his application in the face of opposition by other providers of transport although the private carrier will, in other respects, e.g., weight and speed limits, and safety regulations, be under the same obligation as the public carrier. All provinces, save one, have agreed that a differentiation between the two classes is necessary and that a private carrier should have a permit for identification on the road and to show that the vehicle is being rightly used. One province would make no distinction but the Bill follows the English practice in which this distinction is made. In England a private carrier's permit is easily obtained because the granting of the permit is not open to opposition by providers of public transport.

SEC. 42: GENERAL.—This Chapter legislates specifically for the control of transport vehicles, i.e., vehicles carrying passengers for hire or reward, or goods whether for hire or reward or otherwise. Such vehicles are divided into four classes, namely:—

(a) Stage carriages, i.e., motor buses on regular or quasi regular services;

(b) contract carriages, i.e., taxis and other motor cabs, and buses used for special occasions;

(c) private carriers (of goods); and

(d) public carriers (of goods).

The general scheme is that the control of these separate classes of vehicles should be in the hands of transport authorities constituted for specified areas within the provinces; and that for the purpose of co-ordination, hearing appeals, e.c., there should also be constituted a transport authority for the province. The constitution of these bodies is a matter upon which the Provincial Governments have particularly been consulted.

All motor transport vehicles must be covered by a permit issued by the transport authority of an area, and the effectiveness of every permit will depend on the observance by the holder of recognised general conditions such as the satisfactory maintenance of the vehicle, the observance of prescribed speed limits, and the avoidance of overloading the vehicle or overworking the drivers". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Provided further that a public carrier's permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the holder to use the vehicle for the carriage of goods for or in connection with a trade or business carried on by him.

(2) In determining, for the purposes of this Chapter, whether a transport vehicle is or is not used for the carriage of goods for hire or reward,—

(a) the delivery or collection by or on behalf of the owner of goods sold, used or let on hire or hire-purchase in the course of any trade or business carried on by him other than the trade or business of providing transport,

(b) the delivery or collection by or on behalf of the owner of goods which have been or which are to be subjected to a process or treatment in the course of trade or business carried on by him, or

(c) the carriage of goods in a transport vehicle by a manufacturer of or agent or dealer in such goods whilst the vehicle is being used for demonstration purposes shall not be deemed to constitute a carrying of the goods for hire or reward; but the carriage in a transport vehicle of goods by a person not being a dealer in such goods who has acquired temporary ownership of the goods for the purpose of transporting them to another place and there relinquishing ownership shall be deemed to constitute a carrying of the goods for hire or reward.

(3) Sub-section (1) shall not apply—

(a) to any transport vehicle owned by or on behalf of the Central Government or a Provincial Government other than a vehicle used in connection with the business of an Indian State Railway;

(b) to any transport vehicle owned by a local authority or by a person acting under contract with a local authority and used solely for road cleansing, road watering or conservancy purposes;

(c) to any transport vehicle used solely for public, fire brigade or ambulance purposes;

(d) to any transport vehicle used solely for the conveyance of corpses;

(e) to any transport vehicle used for towing a disabled vehicle or for removing goods from a disabled vehicle to a place of safety;

SEC. 42 (4).—This sub-clause will enable Provincial Governments to deal with the private bus, control over which they may deem desirable. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SUB-CL. (1) AND CLS. (a) AND (b) OF SUB-CLAUSE (2).—The alterations are formal. The new clause inserted in sub-cl. (2) is a provision contained in the English Road Traffic Act, 1933, which we consider desirable. In sub-cl (3) we have added two new classes of vehicle to those exempted from the provisions of sub-cl. (1), namely, vehicles used for certain public purposes, and vehicles used for State purposes by the Governments of Indian States or the Foreign Settlements. Certain minor changes of a formal or consequential nature, are also made in the sub-clause". (Select Committee Report.) See 55 L.W. 754=1943 Mad. 41 =(1942) 2 M.L.J. 577 (as to the meaning of the term "using" the car and "permitting the use" of the car).

VEHICLE REGISTERED AS CAR BUT HAVING SHAPE AND APPEARANCE OF VAN—USE BY OWNER FOR TRANSPORT OF GOODS—FAILURE TO OBTAIN CERTIFICATE OF FITNESS AND SPECIAL PERMIT—OFFENCE.—See (1943) 2

M.L.J. 197.

SECS. 42 AND 48.—An agent of manager of the owner cannot be considered to be the owner within the meaning of that term occurring in sec. 42 (1) and 48 (d). I.L.R. (1943) Nag. 64. See also 1942 N.L.J. 308 =1943 Nag. 22.

SECS. 42 AND 123.—There is no rule under the Motor Vehicles Act placing upon the driver or the conductor the duty of seeing that goods are not carried in a vehicle contrary to the conditions of its permit, but it is the duty of the conductor under R. 218 of the Rules to exercise supervision over the loading of the vehicle with passengers, luggage and goods. Secs. 42 (1) and 123 of the Act are controlled by the rules under the Act which separately lay down the responsibilities of the driver and the conductor. The driver of a vehicle cannot therefore be convicted under Secs. 42 (1) and 123 (1) for carrying goods contrary to the conditions of the permit, for contravention of a rule from the due observance of which he has been statutorily exempted and responsibility solely rests upon the conductor. 56 L.W. 110 =A.L.B. 1943 Mad. 347=(1943) 3 M.L.J. 176.

(f) to any transport vehicle used for any other public purpose prescribed in this behalf;

(g) to any transport vehicle owned by, and used solely for the purposes of, any educational institution which is recognised by the Provincial Government or whose managing committee is a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860;

(h) subject to any prescribed conditions, to any transport vehicle owned by the Government of any Indian State or French or Portuguese Settlement bounded by India used for Government purposes unconnected with any commercial enterprise; or

(i) to any trailer used for any purpose other than the carriage of goods for hire or reward when drawn by a motor vehicle constructed for the carriage of not more than six passengers excluding the driver.

(4) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), sub-section (1) shall, if the Provincial Government by rule made under section 68 so prescribes, apply to any motor vehicle adapted to carry more than nine passengers excluding the driver.

Power to Provincial Government to control road transport.

43. (1) A Provincial Government, having regard to—

SEC. 43: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—

"This new clause vests in the Provincial Government certain powers of co-ordinating road and rail transport. In the provisions of the Bill relating to Transport Authorities we have revised the references to transport generally by using such expressions as "road transport" and "road passenger transport", indicating thereby that these Authorities will, in considering the relevant factors which are to be weighed by them, confine themselves to the interests of road traffic. We consider that under existing conditions, the Provincial Government itself is the authority in the best position to weigh against each other the conflicting interests of rail traffic and road traffic. The clause contains the considerations to which in our opinion regard should be had, and the powers which we think should be exercisable".

The following extracts from Disney's Carriage by Railway may be read in this connection.

THE RAILWAY COMPANIES' NEW ROAD TRANSPORT POWERS—ORIGIN OF THESE POWERS IN ENGLAND.—"No railway company has ever been expressly prohibited by any Act of Parliament from engaging in road transport in the fullest sense of the term. But no railway company has ever been in the same position as an ordinary limited company. A limited company which requires no compulsory powers can avail itself of the Companies Act, to arrogate to itself by its Memorandum of Association power which embraces every form of activity on the face of the globe. But you cannot build a railway without acquiring land compulsorily and therefore a railway company cannot come into existence without a special Act of Parliament. In granting compulsory powers, Parliament always stands on its dignity and the public interest, and no Act of Parliament authorising a company to make a railway has ever empowered that company to do more than carry on the railway as an effective enterprise. It is and always has been for the Courts to determine what objects the company may lawfully pursue in furtherance of that—its main—purpose. In arriving at this determination the Courts have always held that the objects a railway company may lawfully pursue, and the powers they lawfully use in furtherance of these objects, must either be expressly conferred or derived by reasonable implication from its provisions. In other words, any operations in which at railway company may engage, must be either expressly authorised or impliedly authorised as incidental to the main purpose for which the company was created. From the first the railway companies were fettered by the difficulty of proving that it could be incidental to the main purpose for which a railway company was created to engage in road transport in the full sense of the term. It was, however, soon found that the railway companies could not be confined to the metals. Goods must be brought to the point where the railway journey begins and must be taken from the point at which the journey terminates; for the world at large does not live at Ry. Stats. It was, therefore, recognised at an early stage in the history of railways that it was appropriate to the railway companies that they should bring the goods to the point where the railway journey begins, and that they should on the completion of the journey distribute what they had carried by rail to the various consignees on the road. Collection and delivery services were mentioned and recognised in a very early English statute the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, and the Railway Commissioners were empowered by that enactment to decide what was a reasonable sum to be paid to any railway company therefor. By 1888 a large collection and delivery traffic had grown up, and in the Rates and Charges Order of that year "the collection or delivery of merchandise outside the terminal station" is enumerated among the services for which a railway company may undertake and charge for. The Railways Act, 1921, carried the matter still further; for sec. 49 of that Act not only authorised a railway company to make reasonable charges for collection and delivery, but imposed a general obligation to collect and deliver at any place such merchandise as is for the time being ordinarily collected and delivered by the company at that place—Quite apart from this very important and substantial service of collection and delivery, many of the old railway companies in England (which are now amalgamated or absorbed in the four great companies) had from time to time acquired by special Acts of Parliament certain very limited powers of engaging in road transport, i.e., to convey passengers and their luggage (but not goods) to or from any of the Company's railways by road vehicles mechanical or horse-drawn. Apart from these limited powers, which were not of much use, and without any statutory authority, in the beginning of 1928, the Great Western Railway fleet of omnibuses, 287 in number, ran a mileage of 3,814,013 miles and conveyed over 8 million passengers. This was done openly for many years, and the services were advertised in the company's time tables; and though it would have been difficult for the company to establish that what they were doing was legal, no one did in fact apply for an injunction to restrain them. By 1928 the English Railway Companies found themselves seriously threatened by competition in the shape of mechanically propelled long-distance road transport. The invention of the motor car had gradually resulted in one of those commercial revolutions which Cobden—the only English statesman who began life as a commercial traveller—declared to be more important than the political revolutions chronicled by history. Great road transport companies had been built up, and the business of carrying goods for long distances and over wide areas by heavy lorries had been developed on an extensive scale. Motor omnibuses and motor coaches carried passengers on inviting terms from one end of the country to another. The railway monopoly, if it ever existed, had become a thing of the past. In fact, the railway companies were faced with the gravest of human misfortunes, a steady withdrawal of custom. They accordingly represented to Parliament that as a result of this new and growing competition they were suffering materially in their financial resources. They pointed out that the new traffic bade fair to become as extensive and as highly organised and capitalised as railway traffic itself; that whereas the railway companies were subject to public control at every turn, this formidable new rival of theirs was subject to little, if any; and that whereas the road transport undertaker had his track provided for him, the railway companies not only had to provide their own, but had to pay rates on it when provided, and then to contribute to the maintenance of the competitive tract. The railway companies further pointed out that the whole system of railway rates, charges and fares had been fundamentally changed since the war. The consequence is that for the future, if a railway company is rendered less prosperous by having its traffic taken away from it, it will be not only the shareholder as in the past, but all the users of railways, passengers as well as traders, who will suffer. Thus the prosperity of the railway companies are also matters of public concern. Such were the reasons which induced Parliament to pass the Four Railway (Road Transport) Act of 1928 and to confer on each of the four great railway companies a general power to act as a carrier by road, subject to certain statutory restrictions. Parliament was impressed by the twin facts that there was a real menace to the railway industry in the country and that the prosperity of the whole trading community is now dependent on the prosperity of the railways. The Acts, which are in substance identical, begin by authorising each of the companies to convey by road passengers and passenger's luggage, parcels and merchandise in any district to which access is afforded by its system.

GENERAL PROVISIONS OF THE ENGLISH ACTS.—The general power to engage in road transport within a specified sphere thus conferred on each of the railway companies is subject to the following restrictions:—(a) None of the companies may convey by any road vehicle any passenger who on any one journey is both taken up and set down in the area consisting of the Metropolitan Police District and the City of London; (b) Where a local authority is maintaining an adequate and satisfactory service of tramcars or omnibuses, no railway company is to compete; (c) No road vehicle run by a railway company is to use any railway bridge whose use under like circumstances is prohibited to similar vehicles not belonging to the company; (d) If the Local authority is at any time of opinion that the interests of the public are prejudicially affected by the exercise of the new powers by any one of the railway companies, he may after inquiry direct the company in question to make provision to his satisfaction for the protection of the public interest; and if the company fails to do so, the authorities may by proper procedure withdraw the concession. In the case of every regular service of electrical or mechanical vehicles, the railway company must provide such reasonable

(a) the advantages offered to the public, trade and industry by the development of motor transport, and

(b) the desirability of co-ordinating road and rail transport, and

(c) the desirability of preventing the deterioration of the road system, and

(d) the desirability of preventing uneconomic competition among motor vehicles, and after having heard the representatives of the interests affected and having consulted the Provincial and Regional Transport Authorities concerned, may, by notification in the Official Gazette,—

(i) prohibit or restrict throughout the province or in any area or on any route within the province, subject to such conditions as it may think desirable, the conveying of long distance goods traffic generally or of prescribed classes of goods, by private or public carriers; or

(ii) fix maximum or minimum fares or freights for stage carriages and public carriers to be applicable throughout the province or within any area or on any route within the province.

(2) The Provincial Government shall permit, at such intervals of time as it may fix, the interests affected by any notification issued under sub-section (1) to make representations urging the cancellation or variation of the notification on the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the railways are not giving reasonable facilities or are taking unfair advantage of the action of the Provincial Government under this section; or

(b) that conditions have changed since the publication of the notification;

or services in regard to the conveyance of mails as the Postmaster-General may from time to time require. Each company may demand and take in respect of the new traffic the fixed rates or such reasonable fares, rates and charges as they may think fit. All passenger fares must be exhibited in a conspicuous position inside the vehicle. In the case of passenger fares any local authority interested, and in the case of merchandise charges any trader interested or any representative body of traders, may apply to the Railway Rates Tax Tribunal to reduce any fare, rate or charge on the ground that it is unreasonable; and the tribunal, after hearing all parties whom they consider entitled to be heard, may make such modification as may to them seem just. Any such modification may be reviewed by the tribunal at any time upon the railway company's application. The Acts confer on the railway companies extensive powers of entering into working agreements with local authorities, companies, bodies and persons owning or running road vehicles for hire or as public service vehicles. Any such agreement must be notified to the State Officer in charge of traffic and transport and he must be informed whether or not such agreement is an agreement whereby the business of any company, body or person is controlled by the railway company through shareholding or nomination of directors or as the result of a loan or other financial transaction or otherwise. Any road transport service provided by a company, body or person whose business is for the time being thus controlled is subject to the provision of the Acts as regards fares, rates and charges, withdrawal of service, and competition with local authorities. In the interests of the motor manufacture industry each of the railway companies is expressly prohibited from manufacturing any part of any road motor vehicle to be used in pursuance of the new road transport powers, except the body. The Acts repeal all the pre-existing special express powers of engaging in road transport conferred by earlier private Acts. The railway companies recognise that a considerable amount of rail traffic has been permanently diverted on to the road: but they believe that by a proper co-ordination of road and rail services they will be able to recover for the rails some traffic that is at present on the roads, and to share in the traffic which was once rail traffic, but has now left the rails for ever". (Disney's Carriage by Railway, Chap. XVIII, pp. 269-274.)

SEC. 51-A of the Indian Railways Act may also be read in this connection. The section runs as follows:—

"51-A. (1) Any railway company, not being a company for Additional Power which the Statute 42 to provide and main- and 43 Vict., Chap. 41 tain transport ser- provides, may frame a vices. scheme for the provision and maintenance of a motor transport or air-craft service for passengers, animals or goods with a terminus at or near a station on the railway owned or managed by such company.

(2) The scheme shall be submitted to the general controlling authority, which may sanction it, subject to such modifications and conditions as it may prescribe.

(c) that the special needs of a particular industry or locality require to be considered afresh.

(3) If the Provincial Government, after considering any representation made to it under sub-section (2) and having heard the representatives of the interests affected and the Provincial and Regional Transport Authorities is satisfied that any notification issued under sub-section (1) ought to be cancelled or varied, it may cancel the notification or vary it in such manner as it thinks fit.

44. (1) The Provincial Government shall, by notification in the Official Gazette, constitute for the province a Provincial Transport authorities. Transport Authority to exercise and discharge the powers and functions specified in sub-section (3), and shall in like manner constitute Regional Transport Authorities to exercise and discharge throughout such areas (in this Chapter referred to as regions) as may be specified in the notification, in respect of each Regional Transport Authority, the powers and functions conferred by or under this chapter on such Authorities:

Provided that in the North-West Frontier Province and in Chief Commissioners' Provinces the Provincial Government may abstain from constituting any Regional Transport Authority:

Provided further that the area specified as the region of a Regional Transport Authority shall in no case be less than an entire district, or the whole area of a Presidency-town.

(2) A Provincial Transport Authority or a Regional Transport Authority shall consist of such number of officials and non-officials as the Provincial Government may think fit to appoint; but no person who has any financial interest whether as proprietor, employee or otherwise in any transport undertaking shall be appointed as or continue as a member of a Provincial or Regional Transport Authority, and, if any person being a member of any such Authority acquires a financial interest in any transport undertaking, he shall, within four weeks of so doing, give notice in writing to the Provincial Government of the acquisition of such interest and shall vacate office.

(3) A Provincial Transport Authority shall exercise and discharge throughout the province the following powers and functions, namely:—

(3) The scheme shall be published in the Official Gazette and thereupon the railway company shall, subject to sub-sec. (4), have the power to provide and maintain a service in accordance therewith.

(4) In respect of any service provided and maintained by any railway company under this section.—

(a) the company shall be deemed not to be a railway administration for the purposes of this Act or of any other enactment affecting railways, and no property used exclusively for purposes of the service shall be deemed to be included in the railway or its rolling-stock; and

(b) all enactments and rules for the time being in force relating to motor vehicles, air-craft and roads shall apply accordingly.

(5) The general controlling authority may, by notification in the Official Gazette after giving to the railway company six months' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw its sanction to any scheme sanctioned under sub-sec. (2) or may modify the scheme or impose further conditions on it.

SEC. 44 (1).—"The extent of the region and the constitution of the regional authorities are left entirely to Provincial Governments, as it is impossible to specify in the Bill, except by way of the general indication given in cl. (3), a constitution which would suit the different conditions, sizes of region, etc., prevailing in each province". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—The constitution of the provincial authority is permissive. It may be required for purposes of co-ordination or to settle differences between regional authorities or to increase control over through routes. Some statutory basis is therefore required. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CLS. (3) AND (4).—"This indicates how authorities may be constituted. What may suit one province may not suit another; but if a composite authority is constituted containing representatives of transport interests then it is only equitable that the main transport interests should be accorded equal representation". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The clause has been recast to make it mandatory on Provincial Governments to establish Provincial Transport Authorities, and except in the smaller provinces Regional Transport Authorities also, and to secure that the area of jurisdiction of the Regional Authorities shall be reasonably large. We have provided that both Provincial and Regional Autho-

(a) to co-ordinate and regulate the activities and policies of the Regional Transport Authorities, if any, of the province;

(b) to perform the duties of a Regional Transport Authority where there is no such Authority and, if it thinks fit or if so required by a Regional Transport Authority, to perform those duties in respect of any route common to two or more regions;

(c) to settle all disputes and decide all matters on which differences of opinion arise between Regional Transport Authorities; and

(d) to discharge such other functions as may be prescribed.

(4) For the purpose of exercising and discharging the powers and functions specified in sub-section (3), a Provincial Transport Authority may, subject to such conditions as may be prescribed, issue directions to any Regional Transport Authority and the Regional Transport Authority shall be guided by such directions.

[(5) The Provincial Transport Authority and any Regional Transport Authority, if authorized in this behalf by rules made under section 68, may delegate such of its powers and functions to such authority or person and subject to such restrictions, limitations and conditions as may be prescribed by the said rules.] (Added by Act XX of 1942.)

45. Every application for a permit shall be made to the Regional Transport Authority of the region or of one of the regions in which it is proposed to use the vehicle and, if the applicant resides or has his principal place of business in any one of those regions, to the Regional Transport Authority of that region.

(a) the type and seating capacity of the vehicle in respect of which the application is made;

(b) the route or routes on which or the area within which it is intended to use the vehicle;

(c) the time table, if any, of the service to be provided; and

(d) such other matters as may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for stage carriage permit.

47. (1) A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a stage carriage permit, have regard to the following matters, namely:—

rities shall be bodies composed of officials and non-officials but have not otherwise fettered the discretion of the Provincial Government in constituting them except by excluding persons having a financial interest in a transport undertaking. We have set forth more fully the functions of Provincial Transport Authorities, and have given them a power to issue directions to Regional Transport Authorities".

SEC. 45.—See 1943 N.L.J. 190.

SEC. 46: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have omitted the requirement that proposed fares are to be disclosed. Such a provision would encourage rival applicants to underbid each other. The other alteration is formal”.

SECS. 47, 48 AND 55 “lay down the general principles which should guide transport authorities in granting permits for stage or contract carriages or public carriers. These embody the accepted principles of public necessity and convenience, the prevention of uneconomic competition, and the suitability of the roads to carry the forms of transport requiring the permits. In the case of public goods traffic, the principle adopted is that, while the transport of perishables by short distance transport by road in order to avoid delay and damage caused by terminal transhipment should not be interfered with, long distance traffic should be left primarily to railways”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 47 (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“The words omitted from clause (a) are redundant, and would, if retained, include a reference to rail transport, which we desire to eliminate. We similarly eliminate a reference to rail transport by our insertion of the word “road” in cl. (d). We have omitted as irrelevant the provision requiring consideration of the character, qua-

- (b) fix in the case of motor cabs the fares which may be charged;
- (c) require that every motor cab shall carry a copy of the fare table for inspection by passengers;
- (d) require that any motor cab shall be fitted with a taxi meter; or
- (e) impose on the use of a contract carriage any other condition which may be prescribed.

52. An application for a permit to use a transport vehicle for the carriage of goods for or in connection with a trade or business carried on by the applicant (in this Chapter referred to as a private carrier's permit) shall contain the following particulars namely:—

- (a) the type and carrying capacity of the vehicle;
- (b) the nature of the goods which the applicant expects normally to carry in connection with his trade or business;
- (c) the area for which the permit is required; and
- (d) any other particular which may be prescribed.

53. (1) A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a private carrier's permit, have regard to the condition of the roads to be used by the vehicle or vehicles in respect of which the application is made, and shall satisfy itself that the vehicle or vehicles for which the permit is required will not be used except in connection with the business of the applicant.

(2) The Regional Transport Authority may in granting a private carrier's permit impose conditions to be specified in the permit relating to the description of goods which may be carried, or the area in which the permit shall be valid, or the maximum laden weight and axle weights of any vehicle used.

(3) If the applicant is the holder of a private carrier's permit which has been suspended or has been the holder of a private carrier's permit which has been revoked, the Regional Transport Authority may at its discretion notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1) refuse the application.

54. An application for a permit to use a motor vehicle for the carriage of goods for hire or reward (in this Chapter referred to as a public carrier's permit) shall contain the following particulars, namely:—

ensure that the Provincial Government will control the nature of any additional conditions imposed."

SEC. 52: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The change in clause (a) follows that made in sec. 49. The omission of the words 'within the region' in clause (d) is necessitated by the fact that a permit might be required for two or more regions."

SEC. 53 (1).—The roads generally are not fit for sustained heavy traffic and this is a consideration which must be taken into account. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (2).—For instance, the owner of a sugar mill might hold a private carrier's permit to carry cane, sugar, coal and mill stores within a radius of fifty miles from his mill. If found outside that radius or carrying other goods, breach of the conditions would occur. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The omission removes a reference to rail transport, a matter whose consideration we have transferred by the new clause (43) to the Provincial Government. The other changes are formal."

CL. (2).—A reference to axle weights has been inserted. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC 54 (c) to (e).—The justification for using the roads for heavy goods traffic where alternative facilities exist depends to a large extent on the nature of the goods to be carried. For some the longer time taken by rail or water will be sufficient justification, for others the time factor can be largely discounted. Regional authorities will have to exercise their discretion. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) It is desirable that the applicant should be called upon to show public need, i.e., with reference to particular classes of goods, or that certain firms had agreed to employ him. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 54.—"The change in clause (b) follows that already made in secs. 49 and 52. We have omitted two clauses requiring the weight of the vehicle and the classes of goods carried to be stated, and have in their place inserted two requirements contained

(a) the routes on which or the area in which it is intended to use the vehicle;

(b) the type and carrying capacity of the vehicle;

(c) the manner in which it is claimed that a public need will be served by the vehicle;

(d) such particulars as the Regional Transport Authority may require with respect to any business as a carrier of goods for hire or reward carried on by the applicant at any time before the making of the application, and of the rates charged by the applicant;

(e) particulars of any agreement or arrangement, affecting in any material respect the provision within the region of the Regional Transport Authority of facilities for the transport of goods for hire or reward, entered into by the applicant with any other person by whom such facilities are provided, whether within or without the region; and

(f) any other particulars which may be prescribed.

Procedure of Regional Transport Authority in considering application for public carrier's permit.

55. A Regional Transport Authority shall, in deciding whether to grant or refuse a public carrier's permit, have regard to the following matters, namely:—

(a) the interests of the public generally;

(b) the advantages to the public of the service to be provided and the convenience afforded to the public by the provision of such service;

(c) the adequacy of existing road transport services for the carriage of goods upon the routes or within the area to be served and the effect upon those services of the service proposed;

(d) the benefit to any particular locality or localities likely to be afforded by the service;

(e) the need for providing for occasions when vehicles are withdrawn from service for overhaul or repair; and

(f) the condition of the roads included in the proposed routes or area; and shall also take into consideration any representations made by persons already providing road transport facilities along or near to the proposed route or routes or by any local authority within whose jurisdiction any part of the proposed route or routes lies.

Power to restrict the number of and attach conditions to public carrier's permits.

56. The Regional Transport Authority may, after consideration of the matters set forth in section 55,—

(a) limit the number of transport vehicles or transport vehicles of any specified type for which public carrier's permits may be granted in the region or in any specified area or on any specified routes within the region; or

(b) attach to a public carrier's permit all or any of the following conditions namely:—

(i) that the vehicle shall be used only on specified routes or in a specified area,

(ii) that the laden weight and the axle weights of any vehicle used shall not exceed a specified maximum,

(iii) that such records as may be prescribed relating to the plying of the vehicle shall be maintained, and

(iv) any other prescribed condition appropriate to the service to be pro-

in the English Road Traffic Act, 1933." (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 55.—These conditions are of common application; (a) is intended to indicate that regional authorities should consider any representation that if they allow much highly rated traffic to be diverted from rail to road other railway freights will inevitably be raised. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—Changes made are mainly in accordance with those already made in such sections as 47 and 53. Clause (h) has been omitted because the substance is sufficiently covered by clauses (a) and (c).

vided by the vehicle which the Regional Transport Authority thinks proper to impose in the public interest or with a view to prevent uneconomic competition between road transport services.

Procedure in applying for and granting permits. 57. (1) An application for a contract carriage permit or a private carrier's permit may be made at any time.

(2) An application for a stage carriage permit or a public carrier's permit shall be made not less than six weeks before the date on which it is desired that the permit shall take effect, or, if the Regional Transport Authority appoints dates for the receipt such applications, on such dates.

(3) On receipt of an application for a stage carriage permit or a public carrier's permit, the Regional Transport authority shall make the application available for inspection at the office of the Authority and shall publish the application or the substance thereof in the prescribed manner together with a notice of the date before which representations in connection therewith may be submitted and the date, not being less than thirty days from such publication, on which, and the time and place at which, the application and any representations received will be considered.

(4) No representation in connection with an application referred to in sub-section (3) shall be considered by the Regional Transport Authority unless it is made in writing before the appointed date and unless a copy thereof is furnished simultaneously to the applicant by the person making such representation.

(5) When any representation such as is referred to in sub-section (3) is made, the Regional Transport Authority shall dispose of the application at a public hearing at which the applicant and the person making the representation shall have an opportunity of being heard either in person or by a duly authorised representative.

(6) When any representation has been made by the persons or authorities referred to in section 50 to the effect that the number of contract carriages for which permits have already been granted in any region or any area within a region is sufficient for or in excess of the needs of the region or of such area, whether such representation is made in connection with a particular application for the grant of a contract carriage permit or otherwise, the Regional Transport Authority may take any such steps as it considers appropriate for the hearing of the representation in the presence of any persons likely to be affected thereby.

(7) When a Regional Transport Authority refuses an application for a permit of any kind, it shall give to the applicant in writing its reasons for the refusal.

58. (1) A permit other than a temporary permit issued under section 62

SEC. 57 (3): WHETHER MANDATORY.—The provisions of sec. 57 (3) are unequivocal and mandatory. A permit granted without complying with these provisions is, therefore, liable to be cancelled. 1943 N.L.J. 388.

Sec. 57 (7) is mandatory that when a representation has been made the R. T. A. shall dispose of the application at a public hearing. 1943 N.L.J. 194.

SECS. 57 AND 58: PERMIT OTHER THAN TEMPORARY PERMIT ISSUED WITHOUT FOLLOWING PROCEDURE.—If a permit which is not a temporary permit issued under sec. 62 is issued by a competent Transport Authority without an application from the owner of the vehicle and without following the procedure laid down in sec. 57 of the Act, that permit will be a valid permit if not revoked or till revoked by the appellate tribunal. Such a permit will attract to it the provisions of the first paragraph of sec. 58 and will be valid for a period of three years even though on the face of it is for a shorter term. It is not competent to the Civil Court to determine whether such a permit is a good permit or not. 48 C.W.N. 142.

SECS. 57 AND 64.—The R. T. A. after refusing to grant a permit to a party becomes "functus officio" in respect of that matter. It would be acting without jurisdiction in granting the permit some time later to the same party, which had failed to avail itself of its remedy to appeal under sec. 64, and which had presented no fresh application under sec. 57, to the R. T. A. 1943 N.L.J. 188. See also 1943 N.L.J. 115.

SEC. 58.—"The period of validity of a permit has been fixed at a minimum of three years with a possible maximum of five years and a saving proviso has been inserted secu-

Duration and renewal of permits. shall be effective without renewal for such period, not less than three years and not more than five years, as the Regional Transport Authority may in its discretion specify in the permit:

Provided that in the case of a permit issued or renewed within two years of the commencement of this Act, the permit shall be effective without renewal for such period of less than three years as the Provincial Government may prescribe.

(2) A permit may be renewed on an application made and disposed of as if it were an application for a permit:

Provided that, other conditions being equal, an application for renewal shall be given preference over new applications for permits.

59. (1) Save as provided in section 61, a permit shall not be transferable from one person to another except with the permission of the transport authority which granted the permit and shall not without such permission operate to confer on any person to whom a vehicle covered by the permit is transferred any right to use that vehicle in the manner authorised by the permit.

(2) The holder of a permit may, with the permission of the authority by which the permit was granted, replace by another vehicle of the same nature and capacity any vehicle covered by the permit.

(3) The following shall be conditions of every permit—

(a) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of Chapter V and the rules made thereunder;

(b) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are not driven at a speed exceeding the speed lawful under this Act;

(c) that any prohibition or restriction imposed and any maximum or minimum fares or freights fixed by notification made under section 43 are observed in connection with any vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates;

(d) that the vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates are not driven in contravention of the provisions of section 72;

(e) that the provisions of this Act limiting the hours of work of drivers are observed in connection with any vehicle or vehicles to which the permit relates; and

(f) that the provisions of Chapter VIII so far as they apply to the holder of the permit are observed.

60. (1) The transport authority which granted a permit may cancel the permit or may suspend it for such period as it thinks fit—

(a) on the breach of any conditions specified in sub-section (3) of section 59, or of any condition contained in the permit, or ring preference for holders of permits over applicants for new permits." (Select Committee Report.) See Notes under secs. 57 and 64. See 1943 N.L.J. 117.

SEC. 59: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The changes made in sub-clause (1) enable permits to be transferred with the permission of the Transport Authority. In sub-clause (3) we have added two additional conditions to those deemed to be attached to the holding of a permit."

SECS. 59 AND 60.—A motor service to which a permit was issued lost all its vehicles. It then included in its service vehicles belonging to another service and the 'B' parts issued to them on those vehicles. The address and the Managing Director of the service were all changed. The R. T. A. cancelled the permit. Held, that the service had ceased to exist, that the permit was transferred without permission and vehicles replaced without permission as required by sec. 59 (1) and (2), Motor Vehicles Act and that a contravention of sec. 60 (1) (b), Motor Vehicles Act, had occurred for which cancellation of the permit was appropriate. 1943 N.L.J. 193.

SEC. 60: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The changes made in sub-clauses (1) and (2) are formal. Sub-clause (3) has been omitted as unnecessary, particularly in view of the new provisions now inserted as sec. 61."

(b) if the holder of the permit uses or causes or allows a vehicle to be used in any manner not authorised by the permit, or

(c) if the holder of the permit ceases to possess the vehicle or vehicles covered by the permit, or

(d) if the holder of the permit has obtained the permit by fraud or misrepresentation:

Provided that no permit shall be cancelled unless an opportunity has been given to the holder of the permit to submit his explanation.

(2) Where a transport authority cancels or suspends a permit, it shall give to the holder in writing its reasons for the revocation or suspension.

61. (1) Where the holder of a permit dies, the person succeeding to the possession of the vehicles covered by the permit may, for a period of three months, use the permit as if it had been granted to himself:

Transfer of permit on death of holder.

Provided that such person has, within thirty days of the death of the holder, informed the transport authority which granted the permit of the death of the holder and of his own intention to use the permit:

Provided further that no permit shall be so used after the date on which it would have ceased to be effective without renewal in the hands of the deceased holder.

(2) The transport authority may, on application made to it within three months of the death of the holder of a permit, transfer the permit to the person succeeding to the possession of the vehicles covered by the permit.

62. ¹[(1)] A Regional Transport Authority may, at its discretion, and without following the procedure laid down in section 57, grant permits, to be effective for a limited period not in any case to exceed four months, to authorise the use of a transport vehicle temporarily—

(a) for the conveyance of passengers on special occasions such as to and from fairs and religious gatherings, or

(b) for the purposes of a seasonal business, or

(c) to meet a particular temporary need, and may attach to any such permit any condition it thinks fit.

¹[(2) * * * *].

63. (1) Except as may be otherwise prescribed, a permit granted by the Regional Transport Authority of any one region shall not be valid in any other region, unless the permit has been countersigned by the Regional Transport Authority of that other region, and a permit granted in any one province shall not be valid in any other province unless countersigned by the Provincial Transport Authority of that other province or by the Regional Transport Authority concerned.

Validation of permits for use outside region in which granted.

(2) A Regional Transport Authority when countersigning the permit may attach to the permit any condition which it might have imposed if it had granted the permit, and may likewise vary any condition attached to the permit by the Authority by which the permit was granted.

LEG. REF.

SEC. 61: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“Provision is here made on comprehensive lines for the temporary transfer of permits on the death of a holder.”

SEC. 62: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have reduced the period of validity of a temporary permit from six to four months. Cl. (a) has been omitted as unnecessary; but we have added a power to delegate the function of issuing temporary permits so that they may be issued without the necessity for a formal meeting of the Transport Authority”.

SEC. 63.—“Provision has been made for rules whereby provincial authorities may make mutual arrangements for validating permits outside their jurisdiction without countersignature”.

(3) The provisions of this Chapter relating to the grant, revocation and suspension of permits shall apply to the grant, revocation and suspension of counter-signatures of permits.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), a Regional Transport Authority of one region may issue a temporary permit under clause (a) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 62 to be valid in another region or province with the concurrence given generally or for the particular occasion, of the Regional Transport Authority of that other region or of the Provincial Transport Authority of that other province, as the case may be.

Appeals.

64. Any person—

(a) aggrieved by the refusal of the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority to grant a permit, or by any condition attached to a permit granted to him, or

(b) aggrieved by the revocation or suspension of the permit or by any variation of the conditions thereof, or

(c) aggrieved by the refusal to transfer the permit to the person succeeding on the death of the holder of a permit, or

(d) aggrieved by the refusal of the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority to countersign a permit, or by any condition attached to such counter-signature, or

(e) aggrieved by the refusal of renewal of a permit, or

(f) being a local authority or police authority or an association which, or a person providing transport facilities who, having opposed the grant of a permit, is aggrieved by the grant thereof or by any condition attached thereto, or

(g) being the holder of a licence, who is aggrieved by the refusal of a Regional Transport Authority to grant an authorisation to drive a public service vehicle, may, within the prescribed time and in the prescribed manner, appeal to the prescribed authority who shall give such person and the original authority an opportunity of being heard.

CL. (4).—This is necessary particularly for temporary permits for vehicles for feasts, weddings, funerals, etc. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“In sub-cl. (1) the added words clarify the procedure where the permit is to be used in two separate provinces. The alteration in sub-cl. (4) adds a necessary reference which was omitted in the Bill”.

FIXATION OF PERMIT FEES.—The Local Government has nothing to do with the fixation of the permit fees. That falls within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Transport Authority. 48 C.W.N. 142.

SEC. 64: REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“A reference to the Provincial Transport Authority has been inserted in cl. (a), and an additional ground of appeal has been added by the new cl. (c). The change in original cl. (c), now (d), is consequential on that made in sec. 47 (1)”. See notes under sec. 57.

SECS. 64 AND 44 (3) (a)—DUTY OF APPELLATE TRIBUNAL.—The duty of the appellate tribunal is only to consider appeals preferred under sec. 64, Motor Vehicles Act. It cannot issue directions under sec. 44 (3) (a). 1943 N.L.J. 190.

SECS. 64 (f) AND 57—RIGHT OF APPEAL—PERSON NOT OPPOSING GRANT OF PERMIT.—It is only the person, or authority who has validly opposed the grant of a permit who can make an appeal under sec. 64 (f) of the Motor Vehicles Act. If an authority or person does not oppose the grant of a permit, as provided in sec. 57, Motor Vehicles Act, he cannot be said to be aggrieved if the R. T. A. passes an order which turns out to be to his prejudice; when power is given under law to oppose in a certain way, then that power must be exercised in that particular way, and cannot be exercised in a manner not warranted by law. 1943 N.L.J. 115.

SECS. 64 AND 58—RIGHT OF APPEAL—PERSON AGGRIEVED BY THE SANCTION OF A RENEWAL.—Sec. 64 of the Motor Vehicles Act provides for an appeal by a person aggrieved by refusal to grant a permit, by a person, who opposed the grant of a permit, aggrieved by the grant thereof and by a person aggrieved by the refusal of renewal of a permit. The provision in sec. 58 is procedural and can have no effect on the clear provisions of sec. 64. The Act provides for no appeal against the sanction of renewal of a permit. 1943 N.L.J. 117.

SECS. 64 AND 59 (1)—RIGHT OF APPEAL—ORDER OF R. T. A. TRANSFERRING A PERMIT FOR A SERVICE OF STAGE CARRIAGE.—There is no provision in sec. 64, Motor Vehicles Act for an appeal against an order of the R. T. A. transferring, under sec. 59 (1), Motor Vehicles Act, read with B. 68 of the C.P. and Berar Motor Vehicles Rules 1940, a per-

65. (1) No person shall cause or allow any person who is employed by him for the purpose of driving a transport vehicle or who is subject to his control for such purpose to work—

(a) for more than five hours before he has had an interval of rest of at least half an hour; or

(b) for more than nine hours in one day; or

(c) for more than fifty-four hours in the week.

(2) The Provincial Government may by rule made under section 68 grant such exemptions from the provisions of sub-section (1) as it thinks fit, to meet cases of emergency or of delays by reason of circumstances which could not be foreseen.

(3) The Provincial Government¹ [or, if authorized in this behalf by the Provincial Government by rules made under section 68, the Provincial or a Regional Transport Authority], may require persons employing any persons whose work is subject to any of the provisions of sub-section (1) to fix beforehand the hours of work of such persons as to conform with those provisions, and may provide for the recording of the hours so fixed.

(4) No person shall work or shall cause or allow any other person to work outside the hours fixed or recorded for the work of such persons in compliance with any rule made under sub-section (3).

(5) The Provincial Government may prescribe the circumstances under which any period during which the driver of a vehicle although not engaged in work is required to remain on or near the vehicle may be deemed to be an interval for rest within the meaning of sub-section (1).

66. Any contract for the conveyance of a passenger in a stage carriage or contract carriage, in respect of which a permit has been issued under this Chapter, shall, so far as it purports to negative or restrict the liability of any person in respect of any claim made against that person in respect of the death of, or bodily injury to, the passenger while being carried in, entering or alighting from the vehicle, or purports to impose any conditions with respect to the enforcement of any such liability, be void.

Power to make rules as to stage carriages and contract carriages.

67. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules to regulate, in respect of stage carriages and contract carriages,—

(a) the conduct of persons licensed to act as drivers of, and the licensing of and the conduct of conductors of, such vehicles when acting as such; and

(b) the conduct of passengers in such vehicles.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision, such rules may—

(a) authorise the removal from such vehicle of any person infringing the rules by the driver or conductor of the vehicle, or, on the request of the driver or conductor, or any passenger by any police officer;

(b) require a passenger who is reasonably suspected by the driver or conductor, of contravening the rules to give his name and address to a police officer or to the driver or conductor on demand;

mit for a service of stage carriage from one company to another. 1943 N.L.J. 117.

SEC. 65.—“These provisions are desirable but are not likely to be generally enforced until more regularly times services are established. But they will be used against an owner in the event of an accident where the driver has been grossly over-worked, and also in well known cases of abuse.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The clause has been recast and expanded. A limit of fifty-four hours’ work per week has been introduced. The limit for a period of continuous work has been raised from ten to eleven hours. Provision has been made for the keeping of records of working hours in order to facilitate enforcement of the provisions of the clause”.

(c) require a passenger to declare, if so requested by the driver or conductor, the journey he intends to take or has taken in the vehicle and to pay the fare for the whole of such journey and to accept any ticket provided therefor;

(d) require, on demand being made for the purpose by the driver or conductor or other person authorised by the owner of the vehicle, production during the journey and surrender at the end of the journey by the holder thereof of any ticket issued to him;

(e) require a passenger, if so requested by the driver or conductor, to leave the vehicle on the completion of the journey the fare for which he has paid;

(f) require the surrender by the holder thereof on the expiry of the period for which it is issued of a ticket issued to him;

(g) require the maintenance of complaint books in stage carriages and prescribe the conditions under which passengers can record any complaints in the same.

68. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules under this section may be made with respect to all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the period of appointment and the terms of appointment of and the conduct of business by Regional and Provincial Transport Authorities and the reports to be furnished by them;

(b) the conduct and hearing of appeals that may be preferred under this Chapter, [the fees to be paid in respect of such appeals and the refund of such fees]¹

(c) the forms to be used for the purposes of this Chapter, including the forms of permits;

(d) the issue of copies of permits in place of permits lost or destroyed;

(e) the documents, plates and marks to be carried by transport vehicles, the manner in which they are to be carried and the languages in which any such documents are to be expressed;

(f) the badges and uniform to be worn by drivers and conductors of stage carriages and contract carriages;

(g) the fees to be paid in respect of permits, duplicate permits, plates and badges;

²[(gg) the exemption of prescribed persons or prescribed classes of persons from payment of all or any or any portion of the fees payable under this Chapter;]

(h) the custody, production and cancellation on revocation or expiration of permits, and the return of permits which have become void or have been revoked;

(i) the conditions subject to which a permit issued in one region shall be valid in another region;

(j) the authorities to whom, the time within which and the manner in which appeals may be made;

(k) the construction and fittings of, and the equipment to be carried by stage and contract carriages, whether generally or in specified areas;

CHAPTER V.

CONSTRUCTION, EQUIPMENT AND MAINTENANCE OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

General provision regarding construction and maintenance.

69. Every motor vehicle shall be so constructed and so maintained as to be at all times under the effective control of the person driving the vehicle.

SEC. 69: MANUFACTURERS' LIABILITY.—Since automobiles are manufactured for the purpose of travelling over highways at a rapid speed, it is indispensable to their being so employed that they should be safely and properly constructed with reference to the use for which they are intended. The danger of injury to their occupants from defects in material or construction is so great that there is imposed upon manufacturers a duty of exercising a high degree of care in their construction and equipping them in such manner as will make them reasonably safe when used with proper care. If an automobile is defectively or insufficiently constructed it becomes immediately dangerous to life and limb, because no matter how competent the drivers employed to operate it, they are helpless to protect themselves from undiscovered and unknown defects. Accordingly a manufacturer of an automobile will normally be charged with notice of the unsafe condition in a machine if the faulty construction is so patent that no person engaged in its manufacture could fail to observe it. If a defect of this cha-

Power to make rules. 70. (1) A Provincial Government may make rules regulating the construction, equipment and maintenance of motor vehicles and trailers.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, rules may be made under this section governing any of the following matters either generally in respect of motor vehicles or trailers or in respect of motor vehicles or trailers of a particular class or in particular circumstances, namely:—

(a) the width, height, length and overhang of vehicles and of the loads carried;

(b) seating arrangements in public service vehicles and the protection of passengers against the weather;

(c) the size, nature and condition of tyres;

(d) breaks and steering gear;

(e) the use of safety glass;

(f) signalling appliances, lamps and reflectors;

(g) speed governors;

(h) the emission of smoke, visible vapour, sparks, ashes, grit or oil;

(i) the reduction of noise omitted by or caused by vehicles;

(j) prohibiting or restricting the use of audible signals at certain times or in certain places;

(k) prohibiting the carrying of appliances likely to cause annoyance or danger;

(l) the periodical testing and inspection of vehicles by prescribed authorities;

(m) the particulars other than registration marks to be exhibited by vehicles and the manner in which they shall be exhibited; and

(n) the use of trailers with motor vehicles.

CHAPTER VI.

CONTROL OF TRAFFIC.

71. (1) No person shall drive a motor vehicle or cause or allow a motor vehicle to be driven in any public place at a speed exceeding the maximum speed fixed for the vehicle by or under this Act or by or under any law for the time being in force:

racter is concealed from the purchaser at the time of sale and is unknown to him at the time of an accident which it causes, the manufacturer may be held responsible in damages to any one who is thereby injured.

SEC. 70.—“The rule-making powers outlined in this section are unavoidable. Although uniformity, in respect of rules in this Chapter, is desirable, such rules cannot conveniently be incorporated in the Bill owing to periodical changes in the design of vehicles from time to time”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have added a power to regulate seating accommodation and provision for the comfort of passengers in passenger-carrying vehicles”.

REGULATIONS AS TO SAFETY APPLIANCES AND STOPPING.—Acts governing motor vehicles generally provide that automobiles must be equipped with safety devices such as lamps, bells and horns, and require them to carry lighted lamps between sunset and sunrise, and to give warning of danger by sounding a horn; and in like manner a municipal corporation is also authorised to carry signal and other safety appliances.

SEC. 71, CL. (1), AND THE EIGHTH SCHEDULE.—“It may with some force be argued that speed limits are connected with the local strength of roads and should be left for local prescription. But, as in the case of permissible weights, there are advantages in making speeds uniform. It is true that motor transport vehicles will ply within the province but there will always be a good deal of traffic across provincial borders. There are other practical reasons why general speed limits should be uniform and imposed by the Act, e.g., insurance risks may vary with permissible speed and it is desirable that premium rates should be uniform throughout India. If mechanical speed governors are introduced, as is to be hoped, they must be set for a certain speed and be sealed by some authority. A governor set for the legal speed in one province may be illegal in another if there is a difference in speed limits. Uniform reasonable speed limits coupled with the compulsory use of speed governors will tend to reduce not only accidents but also premium rates”. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Provided that such maximum speed shall in no case exceed the maximum fixed for the vehicle in the Eighth Schedule.

(2) The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, if satisfied that it is necessary to restrict the speed of motor vehicles in the interests of public safety or convenience or because of the nature of any road or bridge, by notification in the official Gazette, fix such maximum speed limits as it thinks fit for motor vehicles or any specified class of motor vehicles or for motor vehicles to which a trailer is attached, either generally or in a particular area or on a particular road or roads.

72. (1) The Provincial Government may prescribe conditions for the issue of permits for heavy transport vehicles by the Provincial or Regional Transport Authorities and may prohibit or restrict the use of such vehicles in any area or route within the province:

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The changes made are intended to express more clearly the intention of the clause as drafted. In the case of certain vehicles the Eighth Schedule fixes no maximum speed limit. But where such maximum speeds are fixed they are to be effective for the purposes of sub-cl. (1)”.

REGULATION AS TO SPEED.—Limitation upon the speed of automobiles operated on the public streets and highways are primarily intended for the protection of travellers and drivers of bullock and horse-drawn vehicles. The law establishes a uniform maximum rate of speed, such as so many miles per hour, for all motor vehicles operated anywhere in the country roads, or it may make special regulations for particular localities, such as a prohibition against driving faster than 5 miles per hour or a “common travelling pace” in a designated congested locality. The state may also expressly leave to the municipalities the right of determining within certain limits the proper maximum speed of motor vehicles. In the absence of express or implied prohibition by the legislature a municipality may also pass ordinances fixing within reasonable limits the speed at which motor vehicles may be operated within its boundaries, and it is within the province of a city corporation to prescribe different rates of speed for automobiles in different portions of the city according to the width of the streets, their use, and the density of population. In view of the danger to traffic involved in the use of automobiles on country roads, especially in the night time, an ordinance prohibiting the running of automobiles on country roads between sunset and sunrise may be not unreasonable under certain conditions. (Am. Bul. Case-law.)

Under sec. 71 (2) which permits the restricting of speed within certain areas, the notification is the fixing, and therefore until the restriction has been notified, the speed limit is not fixed. A notification is therefore a condition precedent to the commission of an offence of exceeding the speed limit and is not merely a method of publishing the speed fixed. 55 L.W. 827 (2) = (1942) 2 M.L.J., 670 = 1943 M. 217.

SEC. 71 (2) is mandatory and it is necessary before the imposition of a speed limit can be enforced that there should be a prior notification in the Gazette. 56 L.W. 73 = A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 391 (1) = (1943) 1 M.L.J. 153.

To sustain a conviction under sec. 71 (1) it must be shown that the speed limit has been “fixed” under sec. 71 (2) and that the accused exceeded it. The fixing of the speed by the proper authority, such as the Road Transport Board is the publication in the Official Gazette. Publication in the District Gazette is not publication in the “Official Gazette” under sec. 71 (2). When there has been no publication or notification in the Gazette of India or in the Gazette of the Province, a notification in the District Gazette does not amount to “fixing” the speed limit and a person exceeding such limit published in the District Gazette is not guilty of exceeding the speed “fixed” and cannot be convicted under sec. 71 (1). 56 L.W. 326 = A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 491 = (1943) 1 M.L.J. 344.

SEC. 72.—“The object is two-fold. Firstly to put a stop to gross overloading by specifying a maximum permissible weight and axle weight which is reasonable for vehicles at present in general use. Secondly, a reasonable limit is imposed which will generally apply but can be varied upwards or downwards by Provincial Governments to suit local conditions.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have omitted sub-clause (1) which imposed maximum limits on the laden weight and axle weight of motor vehicles, while retaining the prohibition of the driving in public places of vehicles not fitted with pneumatic weight, which we have increased, respectively, from 12,500 and 9,000 pounds to 14,500 and 10,600 will be found included in the definition in cl. 2 (8) of a “heavy transport vehicle”. For the prohibition (subject to a power to prescribe otherwise) of the driving of vehicles exceeding these weights, which was contained in sub-clause (1) which we have omitted, we have substituted a provision enabling the Provincial Government to prescribe condi-

Provided that any permit issued before the commencement of this Act may be continued or renewed by the competent authority for a period not exceeding three years under the conditions upon which the permit was originally issued, unless the Provincial Government directs otherwise.

(2) Except as may be otherwise prescribed, no person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle which is not fitted with pneumatic tyres.

(3) No person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle or trailer—

(a) the unladen weight of which exceeds the unladen weight specified in the certificate of registration of the vehicle, or

(b) the laden weight of which exceeds the registered laden weight specified in the certificate of registration, or

(c) any axle weight of which exceeds the maximum axle weight specified for that axle in the certificate of registration.

(4) Where the driver or person in charge of a motor vehicle or trailer driven in contravention of sub-section (2) or clause (a) of sub-section (3) is not the owner, a Court may presume that the offence was committed with the knowledge of or under the orders of the owner of the motor vehicle or trailer.

73. Any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government Power to have vehicle weighed. may, if he has reason to believe that a goods vehicle or trailer is being used in contravention of section 72, require the driver to convey the vehicle to a weighing device, if any, within a distance of one mile from any point on the forward route or within a distance of five miles from the destination of the vehicle for weighing; and if on such weighing the vehicle is found to contravene in any respect the provisions of section 72 regarding weight, he may, by order in writing, direct the driver to convey the vehicle or trailer to the nearest place, to be specified in the notice, where facilities exist for the storage of goods and not to remove the vehicle or trailer from that place until the laden weight or axle weight has been reduced or the vehicle has otherwise been treated so that it complies with section 72.

74. The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, if satisfied that it is necessary in the interests of public safety or convenience, or because of the nature of any road or bridge, may by notification in the official Gazette prohibit or restrict, subject to such exceptions and conditions as may be specified in the notification, the driving of motor vehicles or of any specified class of motor vehicles or the use of trailers either generally in a specified area or on a specified road.

tions for the issue by Transport Authorities of permits to drive heavy transport vehicles, and to prohibit or restrict their use in the Province, adding a saving clause to cover any such vehicles which are already plying under permits when the Act comes into force."

SUB-CLAUSE (4).—"We have confined the presumption of knowledge to those cases only in which it seems to be equitable to suppose that the driver would have that knowledge." (Select Committee Report.)

Rule 50-A of the C. P. Motor Vehicles Rules, cannot apply to the case of a motor omnibus carrying passengers and luggage, for it applies only to motor vehicles used exclusively for the carriage of goods. R. 63 (3) seems to suggest that it is the duty of the conductor to calculate the number of passengers allowed after extra luggage has been put on the bus, and any way R. 60 makes it clear that in all cases, where the driver is not responsible, the conductor is held responsible, for the fulfilment of the rules. Where both the conductor and driver are charged for carrying luggage in excess of the weight allowed, as the rule requires the conductor to see that the weight of the luggage carried is not in excess of the weight allowed, the conductor alone is liable. 1939 N.L.J. 95.

SEC. 73: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—
"The first change confines the scope of the clause to goods vehicles, the class of vehicle really concerned. The second change provides against the possibility of a vehicle being diverted from its route and thus unreasonably delayed on its journey."

75. (1) The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may cause or permit traffic signs to be placed or erected in any public place for the purpose of regulating motor vehicle traffic.

(2) Traffic signs erected under sub-section (1) for any purpose for which provision is made in the Ninth Schedule shall be of the size, colour and type and shall have the meanings set forth in the Ninth Schedule, but the Provincial Government or any authority empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government may make or authorise the addition to any sign set forth in the said Schedule, of transcriptions of the words, letters or figures thereon in such script as the Provincial Government may think fit, provided that the transcriptions shall be of similar size and colour to the words, letters or figures set forth in the Ninth Schedule.

(3) Except as provided by sub-section (1) no traffic sign shall, after the commencement of this Act, be placed or erected on or near any road; but all traffic signs erected prior to the commencement of this Act by any competent authority shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be traffic signs erected under the provisions of sub-section (1).

(4) A Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette empower any District Magistrate or Superintendent of Police ¹[or in the Presidency towns), the Chief Presidency Magistrate or the Commissioner of Police,] to remove or cause to be removed any sign or advertisement which is so placed in his opinion as to obscure any traffic sign from view or any sign or advertisement which is in his opinion so similar in appearance to a traffic sign as to be misleading.

76. The Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, in consultation with the local authority having jurisdiction in the area concerned, determine places at which motor vehicles may stand either indefinitely or for a specified period of time, and may determine the places at which public service vehicles may stop for a longer time than is necessary for the taking up and setting down of passengers.

77. A Provincial Government or any authority authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette or by the erection at suitable places of the appropriate traffic sign referred to in Part A of the Ninth Schedule designate certain roads as main roads for the purposes of the regulations contained in the Tenth Schedule.

78. (1) Every driver of a motor vehicle shall drive the vehicle in conformity with any indication given by ¹[a mandatory traffic sign] and in conformity with the driving re-

SEC. 75 (2): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The alteration of sub-clause (2) is designed to ensure that the use of additional traffic-directions such as glass reflectors or other signs not contained in the Ninth Schedule is still possible, while securing at the same time that the more important signs which are set out in the Ninth Schedule are uniform throughout the road systems of British India. Should any new signs be subsequently added to these later by an amendment of the Schedule, the wording of the sub-clause will require them to be adopted uniformly for the purpose for which they are intended.”

SECS. 75 AND 78 AND NINTH SCHEDULE.—The signs included in the Ninth Schedule have from time to time been standardised for use in India in consultation with Provincial Governments. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SECS. 78 AND 79 AND THE TENTH AND ELEVENTH SCHEDULES.—“The substance of these Schedules appears in varying form in provincial rules, but it is desirable that driving regulations and signals should be uniform in respect of motor vehicles. For instance, a driver coming to a strange town should not be liable to commit an offence in passing a tram-car owing to local variations in traffic rules.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 78.—It is an essential feature of the section imposing a liability on drivers to gulations set forth in the tenth Schedule and shall comply with all directions given him by any police officer for the time being engaged in the regulation of traffic in any public place.

[(2) In this section "mandatory traffic sign" means a traffic sign included in Part A of the Ninth Schedule, or any traffic sign of similar form (that is to say, consisting of or including a circular disc displaying a device, word or figure and having a red ground or border) erected for the purpose of regulating motor vehicle traffic under sub-section (1) of section 75.] (Added by Act XX of 1942.)

Signals and signalling devices.

79. The driver of a motor vehicle shall on the occasions specified in the Eleventh Schedule make the signals specified therein:

Provided that the signal of an intention to turn to the right or left or to stop may be given by a mechanical or an electrical device of a prescribed nature affixed to the vehicle.

80. No person shall drive or cause or allow to be driven in any public place any motor vehicle with a left hand steering control unless it is equipped with a mechanical or electrical signalling device of a prescribed nature and in working order.

81. No person in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or allow the vehicle or any trailer to remain at rest on any road in such a position or in such a condition or in such circumstances as to cause or be likely to cause danger, obstruction or undue inconvenience to other users of the road.

82. No person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall carry any person or permit any person to be carried on the running board or otherwise than within the body of the vehicle.

Where there is no evidence to the effect that the police officer whose signal was disobeyed was in uniform a conviction under the rules for disobeying the signal cannot be sustained. 43 C.W.N. 278.

SECS. 78 AND 112: BURDEN OF PROOF—CHARGE OF EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT.—In a prosecution for an offence under sec. 78 read with sec. 112 for exceeding the speed limit laid down under sec. 71 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Act, it is the duty of the prosecution, in order to bring home the offence to the accused to prove (1) that a certain speed has been laid down under the Act as the maximum speed that a vehicle should attain, and (2) that the accused exceeded that speed limit. It is not sufficient to prove merely that there were two posts on the road on which the number "10" was painted to indicate that the speed should not exceed 10 miles an hour. It has further to be proved that the speed had been fixed by some authority empowered to fix a speed under sec. 71 (2). When that is not proved, a conviction is unsustainable. 55 L.W. 722=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 61=(1942) 2 M.L.J. 629.

SEC. 79: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"As we have omitted clause (115) which made the driving of a vehicle without due care and attention a separate offence, we have deleted the second proviso to this clause as a consequential amendment."

83. No person driving a motor vehicle shall allow any person to stand or sit or any thing to be placed in such a manner or position as to hamper the driver in his control of the vehicle.

Obstruction of driver.

No person driving or in charge of a motor vehicle shall cause or allow the vehicle to remain stationary in any public place unless there is in the driver's seat a person duly licensed to drive the vehicle or unless the mechanism has been stopped and a brake or brakes applied or such other measures taken as to ensure that the vehicle cannot accidentally be put in motion in the absence of the driver.

Stationary vehicles.

SEC. 85: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have omitted the reference to riding astride. It is unnecessary in Indian conditions to require that a pillion passenger shall be seated astride the cycle.”

SEC. 86: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“The addition to sub-clause (2) makes a provision regarding the certificate of fitness which was not adequately provided for in the sub-clause as originally drafted. In sub-clause (3) consequential amendments are made, the necessity for personal appearance is dispensed with, and the period allowed for production of the required documents is extended. The redraft of the proviso to sub-clause (3) expresses more clearly the degree to which the relaxation given by sub-clause (3) may be extended to the drivers who are normally expected to have such documents with them.” “Upon demand” means then and there on the spot. 18 A.L.J. 933=21 Cr.L.J. 724=58 I.C. 148. The term should not be interpreted to mean “within a reasonable time after demand.” The word “demand” connotes something imperative that brooks no delay. I.L.R. 1936 Nag. 164=164 I.C. 351=37 Cr.L.J. 1012=A.I.R. 1936 Nag. 150. Where the driver of a motor vehicle fails to produce his licence immediately on demand having kept it in a not easily accessible part of the car but produces it subsequently after very little delay, the offence committed is of a technical nature and it is a case in which the prosecution might properly have been waived. (Ibid.) No person is a driver unless driving. Further it is only a police officer who can demand the licence, and an order requiring the driver to attend a Magistrate's house or Court with his licence is illegal. 19 A. 754; 101 I.C. 668=25 A.L.J. 574=1927 A. 478. But see also 1926 P. 446. Under sec. 8 (of the old Act) the failure to produce the driving licence on demand by the police officer is an offence but not the mere non-carrying of it on person. 33 P.L.R. 278. Secs. 8 and 9 (old Act) do not apply to permit under R. 24 but to driving licence prescribed by sec. 6 of the Act and R. 22—Failure of a driver of a motor vehicle to produce on demand a permit issued to him under R. 24 is not an offence. 1928 A. 492. The section does not contemplate that police officer cannot ask a driver of a motor vehicle for his licence in the private grounds of a private person and that he can only do so when a car is actually being driven by the person, whose licence is demanded, whilst on the public road. 97 I.C. 48=7 P.L.T. 542=27 Cr.L.J. 1072=A.I.R. 1926 P. 446. Non-production of licence when demanded, by police is a trivial and technical offence under sec. 8 of the Act. There is no prohibition against the driving of a car by a properly licensed person who has not got his licence with him and it is no offence to do so. The order of suspension along with the fine, is appealable. 65 I.C. 425=23 Cr. L.J. 73=A.I.R. 1922 N. 71. It is compulsory upon a driver of a motor vehicle to carry his licence with him; he is bound to produce it at once, directly a police constable calls upon him to do so, and failure to produce immediately upon such demand is punishable under the Act. 43 A. 123=1921 A. 277; see also I.L.R. 1936 Nag. 164. Non-production of licence—Technical offence—Order of suspension appealable. 23 Cr.L.J. 73=65 I.C. 425=1922 N. 71. any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, produce the certificate of registration of the vehicle and, where the vehicle is a transport vehicle, the certificate of fitness referred to in section 38.

(3) If the licence or certificates, as the case may be, are not at the time in the possession of the person to whom demand is made, it shall be a sufficient compliance with this section if such person produces the licence or certificates within ten days at any police station in British India which he specifies to the police officer or authority making the demand:

Provided that, except to such extent and with such modifications as may be prescribed, the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply to a driver driving as a paid employee, or to the driver of a transport vehicle or to any person required to produce the certificate of registration or the certificate of fitness of a transport vehicle.

(a) when required to do so by any police officer in uniform, or

(b) when required to do so by any person in charge of an animal if such person apprehends that the animal is, or being alarmed by the vehicle will become, unmanageable, or

(c) when the vehicle is involved in the occurrence of an accident to a person, animal or vehicle or of damage to any property, whether the driving or management of the vehicle was or was not the cause of the accident or damage, and he shall give his name and address and the name and address of the owner of the vehicle to any person affected by any such accident or damage who demands it provided such person also furnishes his name and address.

(2) The driver of a motor vehicle shall, on demand by a person giving his own name and address and alleging that the driver has committed an offence punishable under section 116, give his name and address to that person.

(3) In this section the expression "animal" means any horse, cattle, elephant, camel, ass, mule, sheep or goat.

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"The change in clause (b) is designed to secure that the mere alarm of an animal will not justify the person in charge in stopping the driver of a vehicle."

CL. (2).—The redraft makes it clear that the allegation regarding commission of an offence must be one made at the time by the person demanding the driver's name, and that such person must himself be ready to supply his own name and address.

CL. (3).—We consider it advisable to exclude dogs from the denotation of animal, particularly in view of clause (c) of sub-clause (1). (Select Committee Report.) The law provides that the operator of any motor vehicle on any public highway must stop upon signal by a police officer or by the driver of any vehicle drawn by horses, and that upon signal by any one riding or driving a horse which appears frightened, such operator must stop the motor of the machine and all motive power, and remain stationary unless a movement forward shall be deemed necessary to avoid accident or injury, until the horse appears to be under control. Where the statute requires the operator of an automobile to stop upon signal, there must be an actual signal before he will be held responsible for negligence for violating the law. As a matter of common prudence when an automobile approaches or comes up behind a vehicle drawn by horses, the driver must manage and control his machine in such a manner as to exercise every reasonable precaution to prevent the frightening of the horses, and to ensure the safety and protection of any person riding or driving them or even that the driver of a motor vehicle at the indication of a horse becoming alarmed must go to the side of the road and remain stationary until the horse has passed. Where there was no evidence to show that the driver of a motor vehicle knew that an accident had as a matter of fact taken place or had reason to so believe, his failure to stop his vehicle cannot amount to an offence. 173 I.C. 860=39 Cr.L.J. 382=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 268.

offence under this Act shall, on the demand of any police officer authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government, give all information regarding the name and address of and the licence held by the driver which is in his possession or could by reasonable diligence be ascertained by him.

Duty of driver in case of accident and injury to a person.

89. When any person is injured as the result of an accident in which a motor vehicle is involved, the driver of the vehicle or other person in charge of the vehicle shall—

(a) take all reasonable steps to secure medical attention for the injured person, and, if necessary, convey him to the nearest hospital, unless the injured person or his guardian, in case he is a minor, desires otherwise;

(b) give on demand by a police officer any information required by him, or, if no police officer is present, report the circumstances of the occurrence at the nearest police station as soon as possible, and in any case within twenty-four hours of the occurrence.

90. When any accident occurs in which a motor vehicle is involved, any person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, on production if so required of his authority, inspect the vehicle and for that purpose may enter at any reasonable time any premises where the vehicle may be and may remove the vehicle for examination:

Provided that the place to which the vehicle is so removed shall be intimated to the owner of the vehicle, and the vehicle shall be returned without unnecessary delay.

Power to make rules.

91. (1) The Provincial Government may make rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the nature of the mechanical or electrical signalling devices which may be used on motor vehicles;

(b) the removal and the safe custody of vehicles including their loads which have broken down or which have been left standing or have been abandoned on roads;

SEC. 89.—“This is very necessary and it is proposed that the penalty for its breach should include disqualification—vide clause 17 (6).” (Statement of Object and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have omitted the opening words of clause (a) because there might be no police officer present and the injured person might be unconscious. We have also provided that an injured person shall not be taken to hospital against his will.”

REPORTING ACCIDENT.—If there is no police officer present, the driver or person in charge of the motor vehicle shall report the accident without delay at the nearest police station. 1929 A.L.J. 1044=30 Cr. C., but does not apply to an offence under a totally different Act such as the Motor Vehicles Act. 28 Bom.L.R. 297=27 Cr.L.J. 528=1926 Bom.

“ACCIDENT.” MEANING OF.—The word “accident” is not defined in the Motor Vehicles Act or in any of the rules framed thereunder. Ordinarily it means an event which takes place without one’s foresight or expectation. SEC. 91. CL. (2): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have redrafted clause (2) without altering the substance. We have added ‘stands’ for which partial provision is made in sec. 68 to parking-places in clause (c). We have added two specific rule-making powers, and a general rule-making power in clause (f) which is reproduced from the 1914 Act.

- (c) the installation and use of weighing devices;

CHAPTER VII.

MOTOR VEHICLES TEMPORARILY LEAVING OF VISITING BRITISH INDIA.

Power of Central Government to make rules.

92. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules for all or any of the following purposes, namely:—

(a) the grant and authentication of travelling passes, certificates or authorisations to persons temporarily taking motor vehicles out of British India to any place outside India or to persons temporarily proceeding out of British India to any place outside India and desiring to drive a motor vehicle during their absence from British India;

(b) prescribing the conditions subject to which motor vehicles brought temporarily into British India from outside India by persons intending to make a temporary stay in British India may be possessed and used in British India; and

(c) prescribing the conditions subject to which persons entering British India from any place outside India for temporary stay in British India may drive motor vehicles in British India.

(2) No rule made under this section shall operate to confer on any person any immunity in any province from the payment of any tax levied in that province on motor vehicles or their users.

(3) Rules made under clauses (b) and (c) of sub-section (1) shall, in case of motor vehicles and persons entering British India from the French and Portuguese Settlements bounded by India, be applicable only to motor traffic to which The International Convention relating to motor traffic concluded at Paris on the 24th day of April, 1926¹ [or any convention modifying the same], applies.

(4) Nothing in this Act or in any rule made thereunder by a Provincial Government relating to—

(a) the registration and identification of motor vehicles, or

(b) the requirements as to construction, maintenance and equipment of motor vehicles, or

(c) the licensing and the qualifications of drivers of motor vehicles shall apply to any motor vehicle to which or to any driver of a motor vehicle to whom any rules made under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (1) apply.

CHAPTER VIII.

INSURANCE OF MOTOR VEHICLES AGAINST THIRD PARTY RISKS.

Definitions.

93. In this Chapter—

LEG. REF.

SEC. 92.—“Under this, rules can be made not only to deal with vehicles, covered by an International Convention but also those

(a) "authorised insurer" means an insurer in whose case the requirements of the Insurance Act, 1938, with respect to the registration of and deposits by insurers are complied with, and

(b) "certificate of insurance" means a certificate issued by an authorised insurer in pursuance of sub-section (4) of section 95; and includes where more than one certificate has been issued in connection with a policy, or where a copy of a certificate has been issued, all those certificates or that copy, as the case may be.

94. (1) No person shall use except as a passenger or cause or allow any other person to use a motor vehicle in a public place, unless there is in force in relation to the use of the vehicle by that person or that other person, as the case may be, a policy of insurance complying with the requirements of this Chapter.

Explanation.—A person driving a motor vehicle merely as a paid employee, while there is in force in relation to the use of the vehicle no such policy as is required by this sub-section, shall not be deemed to act in contravention of the sub-section unless he knows or has reason to believe that there is no such policy in force.

(2) This section shall not apply to any vehicle owned by or on behalf of the Central Government or a Provincial Government or local authority notified in this behalf by the Provincial Government, or a State-owned railway, at any time when the vehicle is driven by a servant of the owner in the course of his employment, or is otherwise subject to the control of the owner.

Requirements of policies . 95. (1) In order to comply with the requirements of this Chapter, a policy of insurance must be a policy which—

(a) is issued by a person who is an authorised insurer, and

(b) insures the person or classes of person specified in the policy to the extent specified in sub-section (2) against any liability which may be incurred coming from and going to countries which are not signatories to any Convention." (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 94: GENERAL.—The provisions relating to compulsory insurance in respect of third party risks follows closely the recommendations of the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee and are almost wholly adapted from the English law. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—"The change made in the first line confines liability for a contravention of the clause to the owner of the vehicle, who is the person in possession of knowledge whether the vehicle is or is not insured".

SUB-CL. (2).—"We have removed the proviso for the making of deposits instead of insuring. We see little prospect of such a provision being extensively utilised, and none but wealthy corporations could avail themselves of it. We have added local authorities to the bodies exempted under the sub-clause, as these are accorded exemption in the English Act. We have also added State-owned railways in the view that their financial position makes it unnecessary for them to insure against third party risks. (Select Committee Report.)

SEC. 95.—"The limits of cover are those recommended by the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee. In sub-sec. (3) power is given to Provincial Governments to require, in addition, that the liability of an owner in respect of claims arising under the Workmen's Compensation Act shall also be covered by insurance". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SUB-CL. (1).—"The changes in cl. (b) are formal, and clarifying only. Those in the proviso, cl. (i), are formal also. In cl. (4) the wording has been altered to agree with that used in sub-cl. (2) (b) and a reference has been inserted to cover workmen being conveyed to work. This follows the English Act. The new additional cl. (4a) is also taken from the English Act. In sub-cl. (2) we have reduced the limit of liability fixed by the clause in two cases. We have inserted the words "in respect of any one accident" to clarify the intention of the sub-clause. The other change in cl. (b) is consequential on that made in sub-cl. (1), proviso cl. (ii). In sub-cl. (4) we have made a formal amendment, and we have inserted a provision allowing cover-notes to serve in lieu of a certificate of insurance. The changes in sub-cl. (5) are formal only". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.) by him or them in respect of the death of or bodily injury to any person caused by or arising out of the use of the vehicle in a public place:

Provided that a policy shall not, except as may be otherwise provided under sub-section (3), be required—

(i) to cover liability in respect of the death, arising out of and in the course of his employment, of the employee of a person insured by the policy or in respect of bodily injury sustained by such an employee arising out of and in the course of his employment, or

(ii) except where the vehicle is a vehicle in which passengers are carried for hire or reward or by reason of or in pursuance of a contract of employment, to cover liability in respect of the death of or bodily injury to persons being carried in or upon or entering or mounting or alighting from the vehicle at the time of the occurrence of the event out of which a claim arises, or

(iii) to cover any contractual liability.

(2) Subject to the proviso to sub-section (1), a policy of insurance shall cover any liability incurred in respect of any one accident up to the following limits, namely:—

(a) where the vehicle is a vehicle used or adapted to be used for the carriage of goods, a limit of twenty thousand rupees;

(b) where the vehicle is a vehicle in which passengers are carried for hire or reward or by reason of or in pursuance of a contract of employment, in respect of persons other than passengers carried for hire or reward, a limit of twenty thousand rupees; and in respect of passengers a limit of twenty thousand rupees in all, and four thousand rupees in respect of an individual passenger, if the vehicle is registered to carry not more than six passengers excluding the driver or two thousand rupees in respect of an individual passenger, if the vehicle is registered to carry more than six passengers excluding the driver;

(c) where the vehicle is a vehicle of any other class, the amount of the liability incurred.

(3) A Provincial Government may prescribe that a policy of insurance shall in order to comply with the requirements of this Chapter cover any liability arising under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, in respect of the death of or bodily injury to any paid employee engaged in driving or otherwise in attendance on or being carried in a motor vehicle.

(4) A policy shall be of no effect for the purposes of this Chapter unless and until there is issued by the insurer in favour of the person by whom the policy is effected a certificate of insurance or a cover note in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars of any conditions subject to which the policy is issued and of any other prescribed matters; and different forms, particulars and matters may be prescribed in different cases.

(5) Notwithstanding anything elsewhere contained in any law, a person issuing a policy of insurance under this section shall be liable to indemnify the person or classes of person specified in the policy in respect of any liability which the policy purports to cover in the case of that person or those classes of person.

96. (1) If, after a certificate of insurance or a cover note has been issued under sub-section (4) of section 95 in favour of the person by whom a policy has been effected, judgment in respect of any such liability as is required to be covered by a policy under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95 (being a liability covered by the terms of the policy) is obtained against any person insured by the policy,

Duty of insurers to satisfy judgments against persons insured in respect of third party risks.

Sec. 96.—“Sub-cl. (2) is a variation of sec. 38 of the English Road Traffic Act, 1930, and sec. 12 of the English Road Traffic Act, 1934. Those sections provide that an insurer could not repudiate liability on account of the breach of certain specified conditions that the insurer might have inserted in the policy. The general effect of this provision has been given close attention by the Cassel Committee whose report then, notwithstanding that the insurer may be entitled to avoid or cancel or may have avoided or cancelled the policy, the insurer shall, subject to the provisions of this section, pay to the person entitled to the benefit of the decree any sum not exceeding the sum assured payable thereunder, as if he were the judgment-debtor, in respect of the liability, together with any amount payable in respect of costs and any sum payable in respect of interest on that sum by virtue of any enactment relating to interest on judgments.

(2) No sum shall be payable by an insurer under sub-section (1) in respect of any judgment unless before or after the commencement of the proceedings in which the judgment is given the insurer had notice through the Court of the bringing of the proceedings, or in respect of any judgment so long as execution is stayed thereon pending an appeal; and an insurer to whom notice of the bringing of any such proceedings is so given shall be entitled to be made a party thereto and to defend the action on any of the following grounds, namely:—

(a) that the policy was cancelled by mutual consent or by virtue of any provision contained therein before the accident giving rise to the liability, and that either the certificate of insurance was surrendered to the insurer or that the person to whom the certificate was issued has made an affidavit stating that the certificate has been lost or destroyed, or that either before or not later than fourteen days after the happening of the accident the insurer has commenced proceedings for cancellation of the certificate after compliance with the provisions of section 105; or

(b) that there has been a breach of a specified condition of the policy, being one of the following conditions, namely:—

(i) a condition excluding the use of the vehicle—

(a) for hire or reward, where the vehicle is on the date of the contract of insurance a vehicle not covered by a permit to ply for hire or reward, or

(b) for organised racing and speed testing, or

(c) for a purpose not allowed by the permit under which the vehicle is used, where the vehicle is a public service vehicle or a goods vehicle, or

(d) without side-car being attached, where the vehicle is a motor cycle;

or

(ii) a condition excluding driving by a named person or persons or by any person who is not duly licensed, or by any person who has been disqualified for holding or obtaining a driving licence during the period of disqualification; or

(iii) a condition excluding liability for injury caused or contributed to by conditions of war, civil war, riot or civil commotion; or

(c) that the policy is void on the ground that it was obtained by the non-disclosure of a material fact or by a representation of fact which was false in some material particular.

has recently been published and they have recommended that, instead of specifying conditions for breach of which an insurer would not be able to avoid liability, it would be better to specify those for breach of which liability could be avoided. The draft of sub-cl. (3) follows their recommendations in this respect. It is more satisfactory as it defines the exact position of the insurer in relation to the conditions he may impose". (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—"Sub-cl. (2), (3) and (4) of the Bill have been replaced by two new sub-clauses which together with the new sub-clause now numbered sub-cl. (6) have the effect of considerably simplifying legal proceedings in connection with any contested claim. The effect of our provisions is to secure that such proceedings shall be confined to one suit only, in which the insurer shall have a right on receiving notice through the Court to contest his liability on certain of the grounds contained in the Bill as drafted. We have, however, excluded several of the conditions contained in the draft Bill for breach of which an insurer might have a licence declared cancelled. Sub-cl. (1), (6) and (7), now numbered (1), (4) and (5), remain unchanged except for formal and consequential amendments".

(3) Where a certificate of insurance or cover note has been issued under sub-section (4) of section 95 to the person by whom a policy has been effected, so much of the policy as purports to restrict the insurance of the persons insured thereby by reference to any conditions other than those in clause (b) of sub-section (2) shall, as respects such liabilities as are required to be covered by a policy under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95, be of no effect:

Provided that any sum paid by the insurer in or towards the discharge of any liability of any person which is covered by the policy by virtue only of this sub-section shall be recoverable by the insurer from that person.

(4) If the amount which an insurer becomes liable under this section to pay in respect of a liability incurred by a person insured by a policy exceeds the amount for which the insurer would apart from the provisions of this section be liable under the policy in respect of that liability, the insurer shall be entitled to recover the excess from that person.

(5) In this section the expressions "material fact" and "material particular" mean, respectively, a fact or particular of such a nature as to influence the judgment of a prudent insurer in determining whether he will take the risk and, if so, at what premium and on what conditions, and the expression "liability covered by the terms of the policy" means a liability which is covered by the policy or which would be so covered but for the fact that the insurer is entitled to avoid or cancel or has avoided or cancelled the policy.

(6) No insurer to whom the notice referred to in sub-section (2) has been given shall be entitled to avoid his liability to any person entitled to the benefit of any such judgment as is referred to in sub-section (1) otherwise than in the manner provided for in sub-section (2).

97. (1) Where under any contract of insurance effected in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter a person is insured against liabilities which he may incur to third parties then—

Rights of third parties against insurers on insolvency of the insured.

(a) in the event of the person becoming insolvent or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors, or

(b) where the insured person is a company, in the event of a winding up order being made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up being passed with respect to the company or of a receiver or manager of the company's business or undertaking being duly appointed, or of possession being taken by or on behalf of the holders of any debentures secured by a floating charge of any property comprised in or subject to the charge, if, either before or after that event, any such liability is incurred by the insured person, his rights against the insurer under the contract in respect of the liability shall notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any provision of law, be transferred to and vest in the third party to whom the liability was so incurred.

(2) Where an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased debtor is made according to the law of insolvency, then, if any debt provable in insolvency is owing by the deceased in respect of a liability to a third party against which he was insured under a contract of insurance in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter, the deceased debtor's rights against the insurer in respect of that liability shall, notwithstanding anything to the contrary in any provision of law, be transferred to and vest in the person to whom the debt is owing.

(3) Any condition in a policy issued for the purposes of this Chapter purporting either directly or indirectly to avoid the policy or to alter the rights of the parties thereunder upon the happening to the insured person of any of the events specified in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1) or upon the making of an order for the administration of the estate of a deceased debtor according to the law of insolvency shall be of no effect.

(4) Upon a transfer under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) the insurer shall be under the same liability to the third party as he would have been to the insured person, but—

(a) if the liability of the insurer to the insured person exceeds the liability of the insured person to the third party, nothing in this Chapter shall affect the rights of the insured person against the insurer in respect of the excess, and

(b) if the liability of the insurer to the insured person is less than the liability of the insured person to the third party, nothing in this Chapter shall affect the rights of the third party against the insured person in respect of the balance.

98. (1) No person against whom a claim is made in respect of any liability referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95 shall on demand by or on behalf of the person making the claim refuse to state whether or not he was insured in respect of that liability by any policy issued under the provisions of this Chapter, or would have been so insured if the insurer had not avoided or cancelled the policy, nor shall he refuse, if he was or would have been so insured, to give such particulars with respect to that policy as were specified in the certificate of insurance issued in respect thereof.

(2) In the event of any person becoming insolvent or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors or in the event of an order being made for the administration of the estate of a deceased person according to the law of insolvency, or in the event of a winding up order being made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up being passed with respect to any company or of a receiver or manager of the company's business or undertaking being duly appointed or of possession being taken by or on behalf of the holders of any debentures secured by a floating charge on any property comprised in or subject to the charge, it shall be the duty of the insolvent debtor, personal representative of the deceased debtor or company as the case may be, or the official assignee or receiver in insolvency, trustee, liquidator, receiver or manager, or person in possession of the property to give at the request of any person claiming that the insolvent debtor, deceased debtor or company is under such liability to him as is covered by the provisions of this Chapter, such information as may reasonably be required by him for the purpose of ascertaining whether any rights have been transferred to and vested in him by section 97, and for the purpose of enforcing such rights, if any; and any such contract of insurance as purports whether directly or indirectly to avoid the contract or to alter the rights of the parties thereunder upon the giving of such information in the events aforesaid, or otherwise to prohibit or prevent the giving thereof in the said events, shall be of no effect.

(3) If, from the information given to any person in pursuance of sub-section (2) or otherwise, he has reasonable ground for supposing that there have or may have been transferred to him under this Chapter rights against any particular insurer, that insurer shall be subject to the same duty as is imposed by the said sub-section on the persons therein mentioned.

(4) The duty to give the information imposed by this section shall include a duty to allow all contracts of insurance, receipts for premiums, and other relevant documents in the possession or power of the person on whom the duty is so imposed to be inspected and copies thereof to be taken.

99. (1) No settlement made by an insurer in respect of any claim which might be made by a third party in respect of any liability of the nature referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95 shall be valid unless such third party is a party to the settlement.

(2) Where a person who is insured under a policy issued for the purposes of this Chapter has become insolvent, or where, if such insured person is a company, a winding up order has been made or a resolution for a voluntary winding up has been passed with respect to the company, no agreement made between the insurer and the insured person after liability has been incurred to a third party and after the commencement of the insolvency or winding up, as the case may be, nor any waiver, assignment or other disposition made by or payment made to the insured person after the commencement aforesaid shall be effective to defeat the rights transferred to the third party under this Chapter, but those rights shall be the same as if no such agreement, waiver, assignment or disposition or payment has been made.

100. (1) For the purposes of sections 97, 98 and 99, a reference to "liabilities to third parties" in relation to a person insured under any policy of insurance shall not include a reference to any liability of that person in the capacity of insurer under some other policy of insurance.

Saving in respect of sections 97, 98 and 99.

(2) The provisions of sections 97, 98 and 99 shall not apply where a company is wound up voluntarily merely for the purposes of reconstruction or of an amalgamation with another company.

101. Where a certificate of insurance has been issued to the person by whom a policy has been effected, the happening in relation to any person insured by the policy of any such event as is mentioned in sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 97 shall, notwithstanding anything in this Chapter, not affect any liability of that person of the nature referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 95; but nothing in this section shall affect any rights against the insurer conferred under the provisions of sections 97, 98 and 99 on the person to whom the liability was incurred.

Insolvency of insured persons not to affect liability of insured or claims by third parties.

102. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 306 of the Indian Succession Act, 1925, the death of a person in whose favour a certificate of insurance or cover note had been issued, if it occurs after the happening of an event which has given rise to a claim under the provisions of this Chapter, shall not be a bar to the survival of any cause of action arising out of the said event against his estate or against the insurer.

Effect of death on certain causes of action.

Effect of certificate of insurance.

103. When an insurer has issued a certificate of insurance in respect of a contract of insurance between the insurer and the insured person, then—

(a) if and so long as the policy described in the certificate has not been issued by the insurer to the insured, the insurer shall, as between himself and any other person except the insured, be deemed to have issued to the insured person a policy of insurance conforming in all respects with the description and particulars stated in such certificate; and

(b) If the insurer has issued to the insured the policy described in the certificate, but the actual terms of the policy are less favourable to persons claiming under or by virtue of the policy against the insurer either directly or through the insured than the particulars of the policy as stated in the certificate, the policy shall, as between the insurer and any other person except the insured, be deemed to be in terms conforming in all respects with the particulars stated in the said certificate.

104. (1) Whenever the period of cover under a policy of insurance

Duty to surrender certificate on cancellation of policy. issued under the provisions of this Chapter is terminated or suspended by any means before its expiration by effluxion of time, the insured person shall within seven days after such termination or suspension deliver to the insurer by whom the policy was issued the latest certificate of insurance given by the insurer in respect of the said policy, or, if the said certificate has been lost or destroyed make an affidavit to that effect.

(2) Whoever fails to surrender a certificate of insurance or to make an affidavit, as the case may be, in accordance with the provisions of this section shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifteen rupees for every day that the offence continues subject to a maximum of five hundred rupees.

105. Whenever a policy of insurance issued under the provisions of this Chapter is cancelled or suspended by the insurer who has issued the policy, the insurer shall within seven days notify such cancellation or suspension to the registering authority in whose records the registration of the vehicle covered by the policy of insurance is recorded or to such other authority as the Provincial Government may prescribe.

106. (1) Any person driving a motor vehicle in any public place shall on being so required by a police officer in uniform produce the certificate of insurance relating to the use of the vehicle:

Production of certificate of insurance. Provided that if the driver of a motor vehicle within seven days from the date on which the production of the certificate of insurance was so required produces the certificate at such police station as may have been specified by him at the time its production was required, he shall not be liable to conviction under this sub-section by reason only of failure to produce the certificate to the police officer.

(2) If, where owing to the presence of a motor vehicle in a public place an accident occurs involving bodily injury to another person, the driver of the vehicle does not at the time produce the certificate of insurance to a police officer, he shall produce the certificate of insurance at the police station at which he makes the report required by section 89:

Provided that no person shall be liable to conviction under this sub-section by reason only of failure to produce his certificate of insurance if within seven days from the occurrence of the accident he produces the certificate at such police station as may be specified by him to the police officer at the site of the accident or to the officer in charge of the police station at which he reported the accident.

(3) The owner of a motor vehicle shall give such information as he may be required by or on behalf of a police officer empowered in this behalf by the Provincial Government to give for the purpose of determining whether the vehicle was or was not being driven in contravention of section 94 and on any occasion when the driver was required under this section to produce his certificate of insurance.

(4) In this section the expression "produce his certificate of insurance" means produce for examination the relevant certificate of insurance or such other evidence as may be prescribed that the vehicle was not being driven in contravention of section 94.

SEC. 106, CL. (1): REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—We have extended the time limit allowed for production of the certificate of insurance. In sub-cl. (2) we have removed the provision enabling a person other than a police officer to demand production of the certificate of insurance. The other changes made are formal or self-explanatory.

107. A Provincial Government may make rules requiring the owner of any motor vehicle when applying whether by payment of a tax or otherwise for authority to use the vehicle in a public place to produce such evidence as may be prescribed by those rules to the effect that either—

(a) on the date when the authority to use the vehicle comes into operation there will be in force the necessary policy of insurance in relation to the use of the vehicle by the applicant or by other persons on his order or with his permission, or

(b) the vehicle is a vehicle to which section 94 does not apply.

108. (1) A Provincial Government may, on the application of a co-operative society of public service vehicle owners registered or deemed to have been registered under the Co-operative Societies Act, 1912, or under an Act of a Provincial Legislature governing the registration of Co-operative Societies and subject to the control of the Registrar of Co-operative Societies of the province, allow the society to transact the business of an insurer for the purposes of this Chapter as if the society were an authorised insurer, subject to the following conditions, namely:—

(a) the society shall establish and maintain a fund of not less than twenty-five thousand rupees for the first fifty vehicles or fractional part thereof and pro rata for every additional vehicle in the possession of members of the society and the said fund shall be lodged in such custody as the Provincial Government may prescribe and shall not be available for meeting claims or other expenses except in the event of the winding up of the society;

(b) the liability of the society shall be limited as specified in clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 95;

(c) the society shall, if required by the Provincial Government, re-insure against claims above a prescribed amount;

(d) the provisions of this Chapter, in so far as they relate to the protection of third parties and to the issue and production of certificates, shall apply in respect of any insurance effected by the society;

(e) an independent authority not associated with the society shall be appointed by the Provincial Government to facilitate and assist in the settling of claims against the society;

(f) the society shall operate on an insurance basis, that is to say,—

(i) it shall levy its premiums in respect of a period not exceeding twelve months, during which period the insured shall be held covered in respect of all accidents arising, subject to the limits of liability specified in clause (b) of sub-section (2) of section 95;

(ii) it shall charge premiums estimated to be sufficient, having regard to the risks, to meet the capitalised value of all claims arising during the period of cover, together with an adequate charge for expenses attaching to the issue of policies and to the settlement of claims arising thereunder;

(g) the society shall furnish to the Superintendent of Insurance the returns required to be furnished by insurers under the provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938, and the Superintendent of Insurance may exercise in respect thereof any of the powers exercisable by him in respect of returns made to him under the said Act; and

(h) any provisions of law applicable to the winding up of authorised insurers shall be equally applicable to the society.

SEC. 108.—“This is as recommended by the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee and incorporates the recommendations of the Cassel Committee in respect of mutual indemnity associations”. (Statement of Ob- jects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have revised and clarified the wording of the sub-clauses without affecting their substance materially”.

(2) Except as provided in sub-section (1), the Insurance Act, 1938, shall not apply to any co-operative society of public service vehicle owners allowed to transact the business of an insurer under this section.

109. A registering authority or the officer in charge of a police station shall, if so required by a person who alleges that he is entitled to claim compensation in respect of an accident arising out of the use of a motor vehicle, or if so required by an insurer against whom a claim has been made in respect of any motor vehicle, furnish to that person or to that insurer, as the case may be, on payment of the prescribed fee any information at the disposal of the said authority or the said police officer relating to the identification marks and other particulars of the vehicle and the name and address of the person who was using the vehicle at the time of the accident or was injured by it.

and report on accidents involving the death of or bodily injury to any person arising out of the use of motor vehicles and the extent to which their claims to compensation have been satisfied and to advise and assist such persons or their representatives in presenting their claims for compensation:

Provided that nothing in this section shall confer on any such person or body of person the right to adjudicate in any way on the liability of the insurer or on the amount of damages to be awarded except at the express desire of the insurer concerned.

110. A Provincial Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, rules for the purpose of carrying into effect the provisions of this Chapter.

Power to make rules.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for—

(a) the forms to be used for the purposes of this Chapter;

(b) the making of applications for and the issue of certificates of insurance;

(c) the issue of duplicates to replace certificates of insurance lost or destroyed;

(d) the custody, production, cancellation and surrender of certificates of insurance;

(e) the records to be maintained by insurers of policies of insurance issued under this Chapter;

(f) the identification by certificates or otherwise of persons or vehicles exempted from the provisions of this chapter;

(g) the furnishing of information respecting policies of insurance by insurers;

(h) the carrying into effect of the provisions of section 108;

(i) adapting the provisions of this Chapter to vehicles brought into British India by persons making only a temporary stay therein by applying those provisions with prescribed modifications; and

(j) any other matter which is to be or may be prescribed.

SEC. 109.—This is as recommended by the Motor Vehicles Insurance Committee and incorporates sec. 17 of the English Road Traffic Act, 1934. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SEC. 110.—“This, as drafted, will enable Provincial Governments to take such action as they deem fit to ascertain that the purposes of this part of the Act are being generally fulfilled. Judicious action under this clause would lead to insurers relying on an authority of this nature for an unbiased verdict as to the liability, and to a decrease in law suits. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have omitted this clause which gave power to set up machinery for assisting third parties in presenting claims. We have, however, inserted in the rule-making clause adequate provision in place of the clause omitted”.

CHAPTER IX.

OFFENCES, PENALTIES AND PROCEDURE.

112. Whoever contravenes any provision of this Act or of any rule made thereunder shall, if no other penalty is provided for the offence, be punishable with fine which may extend to twenty rupees, or, if having been previously convicted of any offence under this Act he is again convicted of an offence under this Act, with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

SEC. 112: CRIMES INCIDENT TO OPERATION.—Where the legislature has power to prohibit the operation of motor vehicles on the highways the prohibition is generally enforced by providing for fines or other punishment to be imposed upon a violation of the regulations properly established. Laws regulating the use of automobiles are generally enforced, among other methods by making it an offence to operate a motor vehicle faster than at designated rates of speed (sec. 115), or without complying with the registration laws, and by providing that whoever operates a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition shall be liable to punishment (sec. 117.) So also, if a person knows that an accident has occurred through his operation of an automobile, it shall amount to an offence if he leaves the place of accident without stopping and giving his name, residence, including street and house number, and operator's licence number to the injured party, or to a police officer (see sec. 88). As part of the penalty for violating the provisions of the statutes and ordinances regulating the speed and operation of automobiles the legislature provides for the suspension of the right to run the machine for a given period (sec. 17). For absence of name-plate on the car only the owner can be convicted, not the person who from time to time may have the use of the car. 7 Pat.L. T. 542=97 I.C. 48=1926 P. 446. Separate sentences cannot be passed under sec. 5 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) and sec. 337 of the Indian Penal Code, for they are the same offences. 1931 M.W.N. 397. It is not sufficient to absolve drivers of motor vehicles from the consequences of rash driving merely to show that the person to whom or to whose property they have caused injury was himself negligent. 133 I.C. 601=1931 A.L.J. 770=1931 A. 708. Driver proved to have been under the influence of liquor—Collision as the result of rash driving—Separate offences—Separate conviction valid. 30 Bom.L.R. 636=1928 B. 231=112 I. C. 101. Reckless driving—Endorsement of particulars of conviction on the licence. See 5 Cr.R. 247. Sec. 5 of the old Act has not specified the definition of reckless and negligent driving. Where there is nothing to show that at the time complained of, the traffic on the road was such that the speed at which the accused was driving the motor vehicle can be considered to be either negligent or reckless, a conviction under sec. 5 cannot be sustained. 173 I.C. 860. An error of judgment alone is not sufficient to convict a man. There must be "criminal negligence" which means "gross or culpable neglect or failure to exercise reasonable and proper care". 59 C. 113=36 C.W.N. 246 (2)=1932 C. 461. The accused was driving on a wrong side of the road at a sharp corner entering into a thoroughfare of considerable traffic with the result that he came into collision with a motor bicycle, the side-car of which was damaged. It was due to the presence of mind of the person who was riding the motor bicycle that no further damage occurred. Held, that an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, was committed. The offence of the accused was more serious than that contemplated by sec. 5 of Act VIII of 1914. That section refers to a person who is driving a car in a manner which would in ordinary circumstances be proper, but owing to the special condition of the road at the time he is riding on it, is improper. 84 I.C. 253=16 S.L.R. 147=26 Cr.L.J. 253=1921 Sind 97. The words in sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act "convicted of any offence under this Act" mean only convicted of an offence under the present Act and does not include convictions under the old Act of 1914 and so the latter be taken into consideration in fixing the fine payable. 1941 O.W.N. 351. Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is unquestionably guilty of an offence under R. 138 of the Motor Vehicles Rules which is punishable under sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act. 52 L.W. 948.

'THIS ACT'—CONSTRUCTION.—The words in sec. 112 'convicted of any offence under this Act' mean only convicted of an offence under the present Act and does not include convictions under the old Act of 1914 and so the latter cannot be taken into consideration in fixing the fine payable. 16 Luck. 644=1941 O.W.N. 351=A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 250.

SUMMONS UNDER THE ACT IS TO BE IN THE FORM PRESCRIBED UNDER SEC. 68, CR. P. CODE.—The procedure of issuing summonses by the Magisterial Courts purporting to charge motorists, owners or drivers of offences under the Act without giving the slightest particulars of the offence alleged is not justified by law. Sec. 68, Cr. P. Code, incorporates the form of summons, which is a statutory form, contained in Sch. 5 to the Code, which summons is to be issued to accused persons. 108 I.C. 230=26 A.L.J. 331=29 Cr.L.J. 357=1928 A. 261. The practice of issuing summonses under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) charging the accused merely with an offence under that section without indicating the nature of the charge against him, should be condemned. Where such a summons was issued to the accused and the case itself was taken up before the date fixed and the accused was not granted time to produce his defence, his conviction is not legal and is liable to be set aside. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 678.

CHARGE, FORM OF.—Where the offence with which accused was charged was really one under sec. 5 of the Act of 1914, but the charge mentioned in secs. 16 and 17 and fully stated the facts and the offence he was alleged to have committed, held, that as the accused knew the charge he had to meet, the mistake in the number of the sections could not be said to have prejudiced the accused. 59 C. 113=36 C.W.N. 246 (2)=1932 C. 461. Prosecutions for motoring offences should be lodged promptly; otherwise the motorist may be unable to recollect as to what happened and to give his own explanation. 1939 A.M.L.J. 94.

EVIDENCE AND PROOF.—See (1942) 2 M.L.J. 629 cited under sec. 78. The Courts will take judicial knowledge of facts which are commonly and generally known with reference to automobiles, such as the fact that their use as vehicles for travelling is comparatively recent, that they make an unusual noise, and can be and usually are made to travel on public highways at a speed many times greater than that of ordinary vehicles drawn by animals, and that many of them can be operated at the rate of at least forty miles an hour. Certain facts concerning automobiles will be presumed in the absence of evidence to the contrary. Thus a person using a public highway with his automobile will be presumed to have registered and to have obtained a licence for his machine. Certain other facts must be directly proven, such as negligence on the part of a person operating an automobile, and the burden of proof is on the person alleging that he has sustained an injury from such negligence. Since it is not negligence per se to use an automobile on a public highway, and since damage alone will never support an action for negligence, there is no presumption as to the negligence of a driver of an automobile arising from the mere fact that while it was being operated on a public street it collided with another vehicle or a pedestrian, and proof of such fact alone does not make out a prima facie case of negligence. The common law rule in this respect may be changed by statute, which may expressly provide that where any person suffers loss or damage by reason of a motor vehicle on a highway, the burden of proof shall be on the owner or driver.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—Apart from express statutory provision, a plaintiff claiming damages for personal injury in a running down case would have to prove that he was injured, that his injury was due to the defendant's fault and the fact and extent of his loss and damage; hence unless he succeeds in establishing all these matters, he must fail. It may be by virtue of a statute, he need only establish the first and the third elements, i.e., that he was injured by the defendant and the extent of his damages. If he establishes those two matters, the onus is removed from him and it is then for the defendant to establish to the reasonable satisfaction of the Court or jury, that the loss, damage or injury did not arise through the negligence or improper conduct of himself or his servants. This the defendant may do in various ways, as for instance by satisfactory proof of a latent defect, or by proof that the plaintiff was the author of his own injury; or by proof that the circumstances were such that neither party was to blame because neither party could avoid the other. But the onus placed on the defendant is not in law a shifting or transitory onus. It remains on the defendant until the very end of the case when the question must be determined whether or not the defendant has sufficiently shown that he did not in fact cause the accident by his negligence. If, on the whole of the evidence, the defendant establishes this to the satisfaction of the jury, he will be entitled to judgment; if however the issue is left in doubt or the evidence is balanced, even then defendant will be held liable in virtue of the statutory onus, whereas in that event but for the statute the plaintiff would fail, because but for the statute the onus would be on him. A fortiori the defendant will be held liable, if the evidence actually establishes his negligence. 1932 A.C. 690=139 I.C. 663=1932 P.C. 246 (P.C.) (case under Manitoba Motor Vehicles Act). See also (1942) 2 M.L.J. 629=1943 Mad. 61.

SENTENCE.—It is inequitable to exact from a person the enhanced fine under sec. 112 unless he has suffered a first conviction and after that conviction he has again offended. 44 P.L.R. 101=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 125.

BOMBAY MOTOR VEHICLE RULES (1940), R. 93 (2) AND (4).—Sub-rule (2) of R. 93 of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules lays down unconditionally the number of persons that may be carried in a goods vehicle, this provision applies not only when the goods vehicle is loaded with goods but also even when it does not happen to carry any goods. This is clear from sub-rule (4) which contemplates a goods vehicle being used for carrying persons when it is not loaded with goods at all. Where the driver of a motor lorry used as a goods vehicle carries more than six persons in it without a permit though the vehicle is not loaded with goods at the time, he is guilty of a breach of R. 93 (2) of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules, and is liable to conviction under sec. 112. 44 Bom. L.R. 225=A.I.R. 1942 Bom. 184.

MADRAS MOTOR VEHICLES RULES, R. 138.—Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is unquestionably guilty of an offence under R.

AND U. P. MOTOR VEHICLES RULES (1940) RR. 2 (g) AND 79 (viii).—R. 2 (g) of the Motor Vehicles Rules merely means that the word 'Magistrate' means a stipendiary Magistrate where this word is used in the rules. The mere fact that a person was charged with certain acts made offences by R. 79 (viii) is no reason for holding that the Magistrate trying the case must be such a Magistrate as is defined in the rules and that an Honorary Special 'Magistrate' is incompetent to try it. 1941 O.W.N. 193 (1) =A.I.R. 1941 Oudh 266.

SEC. 115: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—(Old clause 115).—We have omitted this clause penalising careless driving. We consider its terms too wide and we regard as misguided the attempt to instil road-courtesy by coercion.

[See notes under sec. 71, supra.] While a speed of eighteen or twenty miles an hour in a sparsely settled portion of a city may not be negligence, and motorman may assume that automobiles preceding him and travelling in the same direction will not pass on to the tracks without precautions to ascertain whether a car is approaching, yet similar conduct in a densely populated and busy portion of a city would be indefensible.

HOMICIDE.—One who wilfully or negligently drives automobile on a public street at a prohibited rate of speed or in a manner expressly forbidden by statute, and thereby causes the death of another, may be guilty of homicide; and this is true although the person who is recklessly driving the machine uses, as soon as he sees a pedestrian in danger, every effort to avoid injuring him, provided that the operator's prior recklessness was responsible for his inability to control the car and prevent the accident which resulted in the death of the pedestrian. With reference to the responsibility for a homicide so caused, it may be stated that the owner of an automobile, who is an occupant thereof at the time of a collision, is not responsible criminally where it is operated by a driver over whom he has only general control, and where he could have done nothing to prevent the collision. (Ame. Bul. Case-law).

EVIDENCE OF SPEED.—An adult person of reasonable intelligence and ordinary experience in life is presumed to be capable, without proof of further qualification, to express an opinion as to how fast an automobile which came under his observation was going at a particular time, and the Courts have liberally admitted as evidence of speed the opinions of witnesses who actually saw the machine in motion at the time in question; and the force of such evidence does not appear materially to be weakened by vague expressions such as that the automobile was "going like an express train" or that it went "very fast" the rate thereafter being "estimated as being twenty-five or thirty miles an hour". (Ame. Bul. Case-law.) When the speed of a motor vehicle is described by such general expressions as that it went a good deal "faster than a horse trots," it went "pretty fast,"—it has been decided that excessive speed is not proved, especially where the machine in question actually ran but little more than its length after striking a pedestrian. (Ibid.)

(2) Whoever causes any person who is employed by him or is subject to his control in driving to drive a motor vehicle in contravention of section 71 shall be punishable with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

(3) No person shall be convicted of an offence punishable under sub-section (1) solely on the evidence of one witness to the effect that in the opinion of the witness such person was driving at a speed which was unlawful, unless that opinion is shown to be based on an estimate obtained by the use of some mechanical timing device.

(4) The publication of a time table under which, or the giving of any direction that, any journey or part of a journey is to be completed within a specified time shall, if in the opinion of the Court it is not practicable in the circumstances of the case for that journey or part of a journey to be completed in the specified time without infringing the provisions of section 71, be prima facie evidence that the person who published the time table or gave the direction has committed an offence punishable under sub-section (2).

116. (Cf. Eng. Act, section 15.) Whoever drives a motor vehicle at a speed ^{Driving recklessly or} or in a manner which is dangerous to the public, ^{dangerously.} having regard to all the circumstances of the case including the nature, condition and use of the place where the vehicle is driven and the amount of traffic which actually is at the time or which might reasonably be expected to be in the place, shall be punishable on a first conviction for the offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and for a subsequent offence if committed within three years of the commission of a previous similar offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both.

SEC. 116.—“This is at present only an offence against provincial rules with the penalty specified in sec. 16 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, and possible suspension of the licence under sec. 18. The offence is one which should be penalised heavily and be accompanied by disqualification (suspension of licence). This has been provided for in sec. 17 (5). It has also been made cognisable, but the proviso has been added to sec. 128 to prevent undue detention of an accused person in custody.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have extended the scope of the clause by omitting the words ‘in a public place’. We consider that dangerous driving anywhere should be punishable. We have also omitted the word ‘recklessly’, with the intention of confining the clause to the clear case where danger is or is likely to be caused to the public. We have provided here and in other offences where an enhanced penalty is provided for a subsequent conviction that that conviction must be within three years of a previous conviction.”

RECKLESS DRIVING—FACTS TO BE PROVED. Sec. 5 of the old Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, has not specified the definition of reckless and negligent driving. Where there is nothing to show that at the time complained of, the traffic on the road was such that the speed at which the accused was driving the motor vehicle can be considered to be either negligent or reckless, a conviction cannot be sustained. 173 I.C. 880=39 Cr.L.J. 382=

OFFENCE UNDER SEC. 5 OF THE ACT OF 1914 AND OFFENCE UNDER SEC. 279, I. P. CODE.—DISTINCTION BETWEEN.—Per Baquerly, J.—Sec. 5, Motor Vehicles Act (1914), deals with reckless driving dangerous to the public having regard to all the circumstances of the case. Sec. 279, Penal Code, refers to driving in a manner so rash or negligent as to endanger human life or to be likely to cause hurt or injury to any other person. The difference between these two sections seems to be this. A man may drive a motor vehicle in a manner dangerous to the public, even if there is no person actually on the spot to be endangered, the public being regarded as some kind of an all-pervading presence which may reasonably be expected to be at the place at the time. For instance, if a man drives out of a side-road and dashes across a main road into another side-road at sixty miles an hour he may not endanger any person at all because there happened at the moment to be—nobody there to be endangered, but he is certainly driving in a manner ‘dangerous to the public’ having regard to the amount of traffic which may reasonably be expected to be there. Still his offence cannot come under sec. 279, Penal Code, because there is not “any other person” who is likely to be hurt. For an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, there must definitely be some other person to be endangered. So, if in driving across the main road in this manner some passer-by only saves his life by a wild leap to safety, then the driver of the vehicle is driving in a manner so rash and negligent as at least to be likely to cause hurt to that person who only saved his life by his agility and an offence under sec. 279, Penal Code, has been committed. 175 I.C. 539=39 Cr.L.J. 642=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 161.

ARREST OF OFFENDER—LEGALITY.—For the commission of an offence under the Motor Vehicles Act a person cannot be arrested. The power of arrest given under sec. 57, Cr. P. Code, will also be of no avail unless and until such offender fails to give his correct name and address. 175 I.C. 639=39 Cr.L.J. 645=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 161.

SECS. 116 & 117: RECKLESS AND DANGEROUS DRIVING—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES UNDER THE OLD ACT.—Driving an automobile along a thickly populated city at a speed in excess of that permitted by law is usually sufficient evidence of negligence when the action is against the operator of an automobile for damages sustained in a collision with the machine. While running at night an automobile should carry proper lights, so that others may see it, and to enable its operator, in connection with such other means of illumination as may be available, to see far enough ahead to do whatever ordinary care may demand in order to avoid a collision with any other vehicle. The statutes require the display of lights on automobiles. Running at night without proper lights, in violation of the statutory requirements, is evidence of negligence, and such disregard of the safety of others may, independently of the provisions of any statute, amount to negligence at common law. Since it is the duty of the operator of an automobile to give reasonable warning of his approach, his silent approach behind a horse-drawn vehicle and failure to sound his horn may amount to negligence, but the blowing of a horn or whistle, or the ringing of a bell or gong without any attempt to moderate the speed, will not be a sufficient compliance with the duty of care imposed upon the operators of automobiles if the circumstances demand that the speed should be slackened or the machine stopped, and if such a course is practicable. Noises which are incident to the normal operation of motor vehicles are not of themselves evidence of negligence, and if a horse is frightened by ordinary noises such as are usually made when an automobile is propelled at the legal speed, there ordinarily can be no recovery for injuries which may result. Apart from the provisions of any statute it seems to be the duty of the operator of an automobile, when he begins to "crank up" a noisy machine, to keep a watchful eye on horses standing near by, and if they manifest symptoms of fright, to stop at once until they can be removed. Automobiles, in the absence of any special statutory directions are governed by the same rules of the road as apply to the management of other vehicles using the highway. By these rules, it is the duty of a traveller to avoid collision with those whom he meets and to yield way enough for others to pass in safety. A driver disregarding the rules of the road and choosing to go on the wrong side of the street on account of an obstruction on the other side, is bound to exercise greater care to avoid accident than is normally required of one proceeding on the right side of the street. The mere fact of deviating from the line of traffic does not necessarily amount to rashly or negligently or recklessly or dangerously driving. 28 Bom.L.R. 1066=97 I.C. 978=1926 B. 564. See also 170 I.C. 860. The law or usage of the road is not the criterion of negligence. The test is whether the accident could have been avoided by the accused if he had exercised that care and diligence which ordinarily cautious persons using the road in similar circumstances would have done. 30 N.L.R. 317=148 I.C. 541=35 Cr.L.J. 696=1934 N. 65. The person in charge of the car, though he may not be the owner, to whose orders the driver is in fact submitting at the time of the accident, or immediately thereafter, is amendable to this section. 108 I.C. 230=26 A.L.J. 331=29 Cr. L.J. 357=1928 A. 261. Where there was no evidence to show that the driver of a motor vehicle knew that an accident had as a matter of fact taken place or had reason to so believe, his failure to stop his vehicle cannot amount to an offence. 173 I.C. 860. Where two automobiles are travelling in the same direction, the one ahead has the superior right and may maintain its position in the centre of the highway, if there is sufficient space on its left to enable the machine approaching from its rear safely and conveniently to pass. If there is not room for passage then it must, upon request or equivalent notice, if practicable and safe, turn aside so as to leave sufficient room, and if at the moment this is not possible, it becomes the duty of the rear car to wait until a place is reached where it may be done. Two cars were going under 15 miles per hour along the road from South to North, and while another car came in the opposite direction from North to South, G's baby car, passed the two cars going towards the North. G was going about 25 miles per hour. The road was at the place 40 to 50 feet wide as would give ample room for 4 cars to pass abreast with any amount of room to spare. There was no traffic of any kind on the road at the time except the 4 cars. G was not shown to be over the wrong side of the road. Held, that there would be ample room for a very small car like that of G to pass without trenching on the right hand side of the road. Even if he did go slightly over the middle line the car coming in the opposite direction had 20 feet in which to swing to its left. G's driving could not therefore be assumed to be reckless or negligent; an estimate speed of 25 mile per hour could not be regarded as anything out of the ordinary, on that road. 115 I.C. 900=30 Cr.L.J. 539=1929

R. 14. A motor driver is bound not to drive in a manner which would be dangerous to the public. In determining whether the manner of driving was dangerous to the public or not regard must be had to all the circumstances of the case and the amount of traffic which actually was at the time in the place. 97 I.C. 973=28 Bom.L. R. 1066=27 Cr.L.J. 1213=1926 Bom. 564. Where the accused saw another car approaching him on its proper side of the road and where he ought to have drawn in behind the water-cart passing in the same direction as the accused and not have attempted to force his way past it in front of the oncoming car, held, that such conduct on the part of the accused came within the purview of old sec. 5 and that the conviction was proper. 23 A.L.J. 790=26 Cr.L.J. 1254=1925 A. 798. Since an automobile is not inherently a dangerous machine, in the absence of statute the law does not impose on the owner or operator of an automobile the duty of chaining it to a post or otherwise fastening it so as to make it impossible for persons tampering with the machine to start it; but statutes and rules generally provide that every motor vehicle shall be equipped with a lock, key or other device to prevent it from being set in motion by unauthorised persons while standing unattended in any highway, park or other public place. Apart from the requirement of rules of this character it is not negligence to leave an automobile unattended for a reasonable time in the street, after disconnecting the power from the batteries and setting the brakes.

ACTS UNDER STRESS OF SUDDEN DANGER.—

The general principles which require one to act in such a manner as to avoid injury to himself or others, and to take those steps to avoid accidents which would be taken by a reasonably prudent person under like circumstances, are not enforced in all their rigour as to situations of sudden danger. This is in recognition of the fallibility of human nature in sudden crises and the greater probability of errors of judgment occurring where a danger is imminent, and where a person is compelled instantly, without delaying for deliberation, to adopt some course of conduct to avoid injury. The frequent use of automobiles on public highways continually gives rise to situations which involve sudden danger, where one or more persons, without an instant's delay, must determine on and adopt a mode of proceeding which will minimize the chance of collision and injury to themselves and others. Frequently a pedestrian may be compelled to act quickly when he suddenly sees an automobile approaching, and if he decides that he has sufficient time to escape in a given direction he will not necessarily be held to be guilty of contributory negligence, although his judgment is shown to have been erroneous and in consequence he is run down and injured. But where a pedestrian deliberately attempts to cross in front of an approaching car, knowing that his chances of getting over to the other side in safety are about evenly balanced he may be charged with having assumed the risk of injury and may be guilty of contributory negligence. However, the driver of an automobile may be found to be negligent in turning from side to side, instead of stopping the machine to avoid hitting a pedestrian, who, warned by a signal of the approach of the car, has become confused and is dodging back and forth to avoid being hit, and the pedestrian will not necessarily be charged with contributory negligence. (Ame. Bul. Case-law.)

SECS. 117 AND 118.—"It is obviously necessary that persons who become temporarily unfit, e.g., through a broken arm, extreme fatigue or illness should be barred from driving, and in case of accident from pleading temporary unfitness as the cause of the accident". Punishment for abetment of certain offences.

119. Whoever abets the commission of an offence under section 116, 117 or 118, shall be punishable with the punishment provided for the offence.

Whoever without the written consent of the Provincial Government Racing and trials of speed. permits or takes part in a race or trial of speed between motor vehicles in any public place shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may extend to three hundred rupees, or with both.

SEC. 120: USE OF HIGHWAY FOR RACES AND SPEED CONTESTS.—Highways are constructed for public travel, and their exclusive use cannot be lawfully granted, even temporarily, by a municipality to any individual or association for the purpose of holding races and speed contests. Such a use of the roads and streets of a community amounts to a nuisance at common law, and the operation on them of motor vehicles travelling at dangerous speeds is illegal, and constitutes gross negligence as to any person who may be injured. Such a use of the public highways cannot be justified by the passage of an ordinance by the local authorities, and where a state law has fixed a maximum rate of speed for motor vehicles which is necessarily exceeded in the races, the ordinance itself is wholly void, and may operate to make the municipality a participator in the violation of the law, so that it may become liable in damages for injuries which persons may sustain during the races. an illegal act. But it is undesirable to exact a fine from all the owners separately. 44 P.L. B. 101=A.I.R. 1942 Lah. 125.

The driving of a transport vehicle on the public road without a licence or permit authorising the use of that vehicle in that place contravenes sec. 42 (1) of the Act; and whoever drives such a vehicle in a public place without such a permit is punishable under sec. 123 (1) of the Act. That the permit is to be obtained by the owner makes no difference and a driver cannot escape liability for such driving on that ground. 54 L.W. 480=1941 Mad. 845=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 349.

The sanctioned carrying capacity of a vehicle is determined under the rules framed under sec. 68 of the Act and the responsibility of exceeding it exclusively belongs to the conductor; under Rr. 218 and 219, this duty devolves on the driver only in the absence of the conductor. In the case of a driver of a vehicle who holds a permit in Form P. S. P., which contains no express condition for the use of the vehicle that its seating capacity shall not be exceeded, overloading is not a breach of the conditions of the permit punishable under sec. 123 (1) read with sec. 42 (1) of the Act, and the driver cannot therefore be convicted when there is a conductor on the vehicle. 56 L.W. 72=(1943) M.W.N. 60 (2)=A.I.R. 1943 Mad. 283=(1943) 1 M.L.J. 130. Sec. 42 (1) applies only to the owners of transport vehicles, but sec. 123 applies to any one who drives a motor vehicle or causes or allows a motor vehicle to be used in contravention of the provisions of sec. 42 (1). Sec. 123 is clearly much wider than sec. 42 (1) and a person who is responsible for charging increased fares commits an offence under sec. 123 (1), even though he is not the owner of the vehicle in question. I.L.R. (1944) Nag. 173=1944 N.L.J. 29=A.I.R. 1944 Nag. 89.

USE OF BRIDGES BY HEAVY MOTOR VEHICLES.—As a general rule, bridges are constructed for ordinary use in an ordinary manner, and not for an unusual or extraordinary use, either by crossing at great speed, or by the passing of vehicles of unusual weight, and the duty imposed on public authorities to keep the local bridges in repair is properly performed by keeping a bridge in a reasonably safe condition for travel by the ordinary methods in vogue in the neighbourhood, and by the people who commonly use the bridge. (Am. Rule. Case-law). A person undertaking to use or travel upon a bridge in an unusual or extraordinary manner, or with a traction engine or a very heavy vehicle not suitable or adapted for the public use in the transaction of usual and ordinary affairs of business, takes every possible risk of loss and damage upon himself; and he can have no remedy for injuries sustained, although they are the direct result of defects and imperfections for which there would be a liability in case of injury to individuals in the lawful and proper use of the highway. (Ibid., 1171.) The proper test is not whether a traction engine or motor vehicle was of greater weight, and more dangerous, than ordinary wagons and teams, but whether the bridge was at the time being put to an unusual use and method of travel involving extraordinary peril, or whether the circumstances were such that a person of ordinary prudence, in the exercise of ordinary care in the situation, would reasonably apprehend Provided that no accused person shall be convicted under this section if the Court is satisfied that the accused acted in the reasonable belief that he had lawful authority or in the reasonable belief that the owner would in the circumstances of the case have given his consent if he had been asked therefor.

127. Whoever otherwise than with lawful authority or reasonable excuse enters or mounts any stationary motor vehicle or tampers with the brake or any part of the mechanism of a motor vehicle shall be punishable with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Provided that any person so arrested in connection with an offence punishable under section 117 shall be subjected to a medical examination by a registered medical practitioner within two hours of his arrest or shall then be released from custody.

(2) A police officer in uniform may arrest without warrant—and anticipate that it would be dangerous to go in such manner upon the bridge. Surely, no man would be justified in driving a heavily laden motor bus over a temporary rude bridge on a small stream made by villagers for the easy passage of workmen engaged in normal agricultural operations.

RIGHT TO USE STEAM ROLLERS ON HIGHWAYS.—A municipality or a contractor acting under its authority may lawfully use steam rollers or other machines operated by steam, for the purpose of constructing or repairing streets and roads. Certain noises normally accompany the operation of a steam roller, and these do not of themselves constitute a nuisance on negligence, and, generally, there can be no recovery against a municipality for frightening a horse to death by negligently starting a roller and suddenly blowing off steam and smoke, since a claim for death from fright is generally considered as being too speculative and too remote to furnish the basis of an action for damages in the absence of any direct injury. (2 Ame. Bul. Case-law, 1170). However, if the engineer of a steam roller sees the initial signs of fright and uneasiness in a horse, and, giving no heed to them, continues the blowing of the whistle and the original cause of the fright, until the horse breaks entirely away from control, liability for consequential injuries may ensue although the noise were usual and normal. (Ibid.)

SEC. 128 (2) has been introduced as much difficulty is encountered in getting offenders to comply with the summons served on them. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

Before sub-sec. (2) of sec. 128 applies, it is the duty of the prosecution to establish that the offending driver was required under the provisions of the Act to give his name and address. 197 I.C. 136=A.I.R., 1941 Lah. 422.

(3) A police officer arresting without warrant the driver of a motor vehicle shall, if the circumstances so require, take or cause to be taken any steps he may consider proper for the temporary disposal of the vehicle.

129. (1) Any police officer authorised in this behalf or other person authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, if he has reason to believe that any identification mark carried on a motor vehicle or any licence, permit, certificate of registration, certificate of insurance or other document produced to him by the driver or person in charge of a motor vehicle is a false document within the meaning of section 464 of the Indian Penal Code, seize the mark or document and call upon the driver or owner of the vehicle to account for his possession of or the presence in the vehicle of such mark or document.

(2) Any police officer authorised in this behalf by the Provincial Government may, if he has reason to believe that the driver of a motor vehicle who is charged with any offence under this Act may abscond or otherwise avoid the service of a summons, seize any licence held by such driver and forward it to the Court taking cognizance of the offence.

(3) A police officer seizing a licence under sub-section (2) shall give to the person surrendering the licence a temporary acknowledgment therefor and such acknowledgment shall authorise the holder to drive until the licence has been returned to him or the Court has otherwise ordered.

130. (1) A Court taking cognizance of an offence under this Act may, unless the offence is an offence specified in Part A of the Fifth Schedule, state upon the summons to be served on the accused person that he—

(a) may appear by pleader and not in person, or
(b) may by a specified date prior to the hearing of the charge plead guilty to the charge by registered letter and remit to the Court such sum not exceeding twenty-five rupees as the Court may specify.

(2) Where the offence dealt with in accordance with sub-section (1) is an offence specified in Part B of the Fifth Schedule, the accused person shall, if he pleads guilty to the charge, forward his licence to the Court with the letter containing his plea in order that the conviction may be endorsed on the licence.

(3) Where an accused person pleads guilty and remits the sum specified and has complied with the provisions of sub-section (2), no further proceedings in respect of the offence shall be taken against him, nor shall he be liable to be disqualified for holding or obtaining a licence by reason of his having pleaded guilty.

SEC. 130.—This provides for speedy action in technical prosecutions. (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“The new sub-clause inserted as sub-clause (2) is intended to secure the presentation of the 131. No person prosecuted for an offence punishable under section 115 or section 116 shall be convicted unless—

(a) he was warned at the time the offence was committed that the question of prosecuting him would be taken into consideration, or

(b) within fourteen days from the commission of the offence, a notice specifying the nature of the offence and the time and place where it is alleged to have been committed was served on or sent by registered post to him or the person registered as the owner of the vehicle at the time of the commission of the offence, or

(c) within twenty-eight days of the commission of the offence, a summons for the offence was served on him:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply where the Court is satisfied that—

(a) the failure to serve the notice or summons referred to in this subsection was due to the fact that neither the name and address of the accused nor the name and address of the registered owner of the vehicle could with reasonable diligence have been ascertained in time, or

(b) such failure was brought about by the conduct of the accused.

(2) All rules made under this Act shall be published in the official Gazette and shall, unless some later date is appointed, come into force on the date of such publication.

(3) All rules made under this Act by the Central Government or by any Provincial Government shall be laid for not less than fourteen days before the Central or Provincial Legislature, as the case may be, as soon as possible after they are made, and shall be subject to such modifications as the Legislature may make during the session in which they are so laid.

SEC. 131.—“This provision is reasonable in the interest of the motorist, to prevent him from being charged, after an unduly lengthy period, in connection with an alleged offence the circumstances of which may no longer be easily remembered.” (Statement of Objects and Reasons.)

REPORT OF SELECT COMMITTEE.—“We have omitted the sub-clause which provided for a presumption that the provisions of the clause had been complied with until the contrary was proved.”

SEC. 133 -(3): SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“We have added a sub-clause requiring rules made under the Act to be submitted to the Legislature concerned after they are made and have given to the Legislature power to modify them.” See Notes under sec. 112.

SEC. 133: CASES UNDER THE OLD ACT.—See 47 I.C. 444; 27 P.R. (Cr.) 1918; 53 I.C. 895=10 L.W. 399; 55 Mad. 187. In respect of a motor cycle, if a breach of R. 40 of the rules framed under the Act is alleged, the cycle should, if possible, be examined by a police officer with some knowledge of motor cycles, to see whether the silencer was defective. Irrespective of the fact whether the rider is the owner of the motor cycle or not, it is an offence to ride a motor vehicle without a silencer, 1939 A.M.L.J. 94. Before the new rules under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, came into operation, the old rules must be read subject to the provisions of the Act of 1939 after that Act has come into force. Under Rr. 4 (4) and 6 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Rules of 1930 read in the light of secs. 31 and 34 of the Act of 1939, a motor vehicle must be registered afresh when its ownership is transferred, unless the vehicle in question has been destroyed or has become permanently incapable of use. The mere fact that it was not in use at the time when the ownership changed in not enough. 45 C.W.N. 111. Sec. 16, Motor Vehicles Act (1914), has not any necessary ingredient of rashness or negligence in it and R. 27, Motor Act Rules, merely lays down the rule of the road, breach of which need not necessarily involve rashness or negligence. Consequently where rashness or negligence enters into the offence, the conviction under sec. 279, I. P. Code, is not only proper but more appropriate. 136 I.C. 571=1932 A. 69. The fact that an unlicensed person was charged with driving a motor car without a licence and pleaded guilty to that charge is not sufficient to justify a Court in convicting the motor driver of having allowed him to drive, where he was not specifically charged with that offence under Motor Vehicles Act. 119 I.C. 536=30 Cr.L.J. 1077=1930 Sind 64. Where the owner of a motor car was sentenced to a fine on his pleader admitting him to be "guilty" for not having given information as to the death of a person by motor accident, held, (1) that there was no such offence as that for which the owner was convicted either under sec. 16 (old Act) or under any other provision of the Act; (2) that the summons issued by the Magistrate did not contain the necessary particulars and was invalid in law and consequently need not have been obeyed; (3) that the admission as to guilty by the pleader did not constitute an estoppel or admission preventing the person proceeded against from impugning the validity of the proceedings; (4) that the practice of persons summoned absenting themselves and pleading "guilty" deserved condemnation, and would really go in aggravation of an offence. Essentials of a valid summons pointed out. 26 A.L.J. 331; 108 I.C. 230=1928 A. 261. Omission in a summons to specify the sections of the Act, or rules made thereunder for breach of which a person was being prosecuted is a serious defect. 1928 A. 492=50 A. 876=111 I.C. 127=29 Cr.L.J. 799. Sec. 16 (old Act) is a penal clause, and it is the duty of a Court issuing a summons to specify in it what particular rules the accused had contravened. The procedure of issuing summonses by Magistrates purporting to charge motorists, owners or drivers of offences under the Act, without giving the slightest particulars of the offence charged, is not justified by law. A summons not in the prescribed form may be disregarded, and proceedings thereon will be invalid. 150 I.C. 241=85 Cr.L.J. 1161 (3)=31 O.W.N.

828=1934 Oudh 370 (2). Where the accused was hauled before the Court on a summons under sec. 16 (old Act) in which he was not given notice of the charge, and was tried, convicted and sentenced in one day without an opportunity being given to him of meeting the prosecution case after the close of the prosecution evidence, the conviction and sentence are liable to be set aside in revision. 165 I.C. 716 (1)=1936 A.W.R. 874=1936 A.L.J. 1011=A.I.R. 1936 A. 761. The "B" permit granted to the driver is only valid within the district of the Superintendent of Police and if it is driven into another district, it must be countersigned by the Superintendent of the latter district. 151 I.C. 727=35 Cr.L.J. 1400=36 Bom.L.R. 366=1934 B. 201. As to power of municipalities to tax motor vehicles plying for hire, see 88 I.C. 1045=41 C.L.J. 566=26 Cr.L.J. 1269=1925 C. 1026. Taking petrol charges from a person who uses the accused's motor lorry does not amount to hiring. The mere payment to the accused of the cost of petrol used while his lorry is at the disposal of the person so paying such charges is not payment for the use of the lorry. It is equivalent to mere replacement in the petrol tank of the petrol used. The accused therefore cannot be convicted of an offence of plying his lorry for hire, though he had no G Permit. 41 L.W. 498=68 M.L.J. 481. See also I. L.R. (1939) Kar. 391=A.I.R. 1939 Sind 85; A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 233=46 L.W. 959=1938 M.W.N. 30. "Plying for hire" means the act of soliciting custom. Where a person who owned a motor lorry purchased goods at one place and after transporting them to another place sold the goods there to their customers but did not appear that he solicited custom at any time, the owner of the lorry was not liable to be convicted for breach of the Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules. 132 I.C. 702=1931 L. 569. See also A.I.R. 1939 Sind 85. The expression "to ply for hire" ordinarily means to exhibit a vehicle in such a way as to invite those who may desire to do so to hire it or to travel in it on payment of the usual fares, and also to offer its use on payment to any member of the public, thereby soliciting custom. The owner of a bus driving it on a private errand cannot therefore be said to have been using it as a motor vehicle plying for hire. 32 Bom.L.R. 337=1930 B. 161; 116 I.C. 885=30 Cr.L.J. 700=10 L. 505=1929 L. 422. The owner of a lorry plying for hire without a renewal of registration or permit and without any directions painted on the body was charged and convicted under sec. 16, Motor Vehicles Act. The rules alleged to have been contravened were rules 78, 79 and 81, U. P. Motor Rules, and sec. 8 of the Motor Vehicles Act. The judgment did not contain a discussion of the Rules, and it appeared from the judgment that the Magistrate had got confused with rule 16 and sec. 16 of the Act, and that the case proceeded as though the accused was being charged with having contravened R. 16 of the U. P. Motor Rules. The summons merely informed the accused that he had to appear and answer to a charge under sec. 16 of the Act. Held, the proceedings were invalid and must be set aside. 150 I.C. 941 = 35 Cr.L.J. 1161 (2) = 11 O.W.N. 828 = 1934 Oudh 370.

BOMBAY RULES.—R. 21 of the Bombay Motor Vehicles Rules framed by the Local Government under sec. 11 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) is not ultra vires of the Local Government. A notification issued by a District Magistrate under R. 21, prohibiting the driving on certain roads of the District of, inter alia, any motor vehicle, public or private, the maximum weight of goods in which exceeds one and a half tons is a valid notification and a breach of it amounts to an offence. 40 Bom.L.R. 1099 = A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 506.

BURMA RULES.—Burma Motor Vehicles Rules—R. 24 (b)—Conductor, if in charge of the bus—Over loading—Who is to be charged. See A.I.R. 1942 Rang. 51 (2).

CALCUTTA RULES.—Absent master is not criminally liable for fast driving where he had cautioned the driver not to exceed the regulation speed and to drive with due care and caution. 51 C. 948 = 28 C.W.N. 854 = 25 Cr.L.J. 1209 = 1924 C. 985. See also 25 C.W.N. 21. Before the new rules under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1939, came into operation, the old rules must be read subject to the provisions of the Act of 1939 after that Act has come into force. Under Rr. 4 (4) and 6 (2) of the Motor Vehicles Rules of 1930 read in the light of secs. 31 and 34 of the Act of 1939, a Motor Vehicle must be registered afresh when its ownership is transferred, unless the Vehicle in question has been destroyed or has become permanently incapable of use. The mere fact that it was not in use at the time when the ownership changed is not enough. 45 C.W. N. 111.

C. P. RULES.—The rules framed by the Governor-in-Council, Central Provinces, under the Motor Vehicles Act, do not proprio vigore apply to the subject of any State. They become applicable by virtue of a reciprocity arrangement concluded in 1930 with the Central Provinces States. 1939 N.L.J. 355.

(C. P. and BERAR), R. 70—STANDARD RATE OF FARES—VARIATION—SANCTION^o OF.—A variation in the standard rate of fares originally quoted and accepted by the R.T.A. requires the sanction of the R.T.A. A variation of the rate is a variation of a condition under R. 70 of the C. P. and Berar Motor Vehicles Rules, 1940. A refusal to sanction an application under R. 70, Motor Vehicles Rules, for a subsequent variation of conditions of a permit does not amount to such imposition of conditions of a permit as would afford grounds for an appeal. 1943 N.L.J. 411.

MADRAS RULES.—Though R. 30 (a) may be primarily intended to apply to motor vehicles which are used for the express purpose of letting for hire, yet even if a motor vehicle is used only once for such a purpose, then on that one occasion it is none the less let for hire even though the owner does not ordinarily use his lorry for the purposes of reward. The not taking out of a 'G' permit in such a case constitutes an offence under sec. 16 of the old Act. 46 L.W. 959 = 1938 M.W.N. 30. See also A.I.R. 1939 Sind 85. In a prosecution of the owner of a motor lorry under sec. 16 of the old Act for overloading the lorry in contravention of R. 15-A, of the Motor Vehicle Rules, the burden is on the prosecution to show that the accused knew that the lorry was overloaded. When the lorry in question with the load is shown to be proceeding from a place far away from the place where the owner of the lorry has his business, it cannot be held that the accused knew of the overloading. 48 L.W. 319 = 1938 M.W.N. 867 = (1938) 2 M.L.J. 582. See also A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 743 = (1938) 1 M.L. J. 800.

"LETTING FOR HIRE".—In R. 30 (a) (1) (i) of the Madras Rules framed under the Motor Vehicles Act of 1914, need not be one definite and localised act. When a motor lorry is engaged for a journey from Calicut in the district of Malabar to Pollachi in the district of Coimbatore for hire, the vehicle must be said to have been let for hire not merely at Calicut, but along the public roads in the Presidency of Madras in the districts of Malabar and Coimbatore, and, therefore, the owner who obtains no special permit in Form G commits an offence under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) not only in the District of Malabar but also in the district of Malabar but also in the district of Coimbatore if the lorry gets beyond the limits of the districts of Malabar on its journey to Pollachi. The framers of the rules must reasonably be held to have intended that permits should be taken out for every area through which vehicles engaged or plied for hire travel. 177 I.C. 314 = 1938 M.W.N. 822 = 47 L.W. 774 = A.I. R. 1938 Mad. 743 = (1938) 1 M.L.J. 800. In a prosecution under sec. 16 of the Motor Vehicles Act (1914) for violation of R. 30 (a) (1) (i) of the Madras Motor Vehicles Rules, it is incumbent on the prosecution to prove by evidence that the vehicle in question was not provided with G permit. Failure to let in evidence of this essential fact is a fatal defect. 177 I.C. 314 = 1938 M. W.N. 822 = 47 L.W. 774 = A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 743 = (1938) 1 M.L.J. 800. Where the registered owner of a motor lorry for private use suffers his driver to carry goods of another person for hire, he is unquestionably guilty of an offence under R. 138 of the Motor Vehicles rules which is punishable under sec. 112 of the Motor Vehicles Act.

PATNA RULES.—Conditions of the permit apply to the licensed vehicles for the period of the licence irrespective of whether it was in use at the time as a carriage standing or plying for hire or the use was gratuitous. 9 P. 169=1929 P. 522. The person responsible for having a board fixed upon the vehicle under r. 12 is owner and not the person who, from time to time, may have the use of the car. Where a car is purchased by an estate for the use of its manager the manager cannot be said to be the owner under r. 12. 97 I.C. 48=7 P.L.T. 542=27 Cr.L.J. 1072=1926 P. 446. As to r. 20 (5) regarding reflecting mirrors, see 18 Pat.L.T. 62=166 I.C. 741=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 3. In r. 46, a person merely driving his vehicle cannot be said to be 'plying' his vehicle. It means that the person driving, stops to take up or put down passengers for reward. 17 Pat.L.T. 378=163 I.C. 399=A.I.R. 1936 Pat. 321 (1). In r. 61 'attendant' does not mean a mere cleaner. 17 Pat.L.T. 162=161 I.C. 703 (1)=A.I.R. 1936 P. 172.

U. P. RULES.—There is nothing in the wordings of the U. P. Rules to show that r. 11 applies to cars registered outside the United Provinces. It is clear from the definition of "Registering Authority" in r. 3 that this expression, as used in r. 11 means the authority who had registered the car under the rules in force in the United Provinces. Where therefore the applicant's car is not registered in the United Provinces but brought there for a short period, r. 11 has no application to his case. 120 I.C. 272=31 Cr.L.J. 40=1930 A.L.J. 527=1930 A. 34. See also 150 I.C. 941=1934 Oudh 370; 1927 A. 478. Violation of rules under this section—Rules framed by U. P. Government—r. 12 cl. (a)—"Front portion of vehicle"—Meaning of. 40 I.C. 1004=19 Cr.L.J. 860=12 A.L.J. 613. The permit accorded permission to the owner of the lorry to ply within the district and the road on which it was permitted to ply was also specified therein. The permit did not, however, specify the maximum number of passengers. The road on which the lorry was driven was not specified in the permit and it was also then carrying a greater number of passengers than could be taken in a lorry. The owner was thereupon convicted for violation of rr. 79 and 81 of the Motor Vehicles Rules. Held, that (i) as the maximum number of passengers was not specified in the permit, the conviction for violation of r. 81 was bad; (ii) the words "within the district" were merely descriptive of the route specifically described and did not justify the lorry being plied in other routes within the district; and that the conviction for violation of r. 81 was correct. 143 I.C. 582=34 Cr.L.J. 620=1933 A.L.J. 499=1933 A. 465. R. 22 applies only to a person licensed to drive in another province and not licensed in the United Provinces. 101 I.C. 668=49 A. 754=25 A.L.J.

574=28 Cr.L.J. 492=1927 A. 478. U. P. Government Rules No. 22 applies only to a person licensed in United Provinces. 49 A. 754=101 I.C. 668=25 A.L.J. 574=1927 All. 47,8

ODDH RULES.—R. 2 (g) of the Motor Vehicles Rules merely means that the word 'Magistrate' means a stipendiary Magistrate where this word is used in the rules. The mere fact that a person was charged with certain acts made offences by r. 79 (viz) is no reason for holding that the Magistrate trying the case must be such a Magistrate as is defined in the rules and that an Honorary Special Magistrate is incompetent to try it. 1941 O.A. 145=1941 O.W. N. 193 (1).

PUNJAB RULES.—Where the driver of a motor lorry does not use the lorry in conformity with the conditions specified in the road certificate, the owner of the lorry is guilty of an offence under sec. 16, read with r. 3, Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules, 1922, even though he is not present when the breach of the condition takes place. Where, therefore, a driver was found carrying 17 (when only ten could be carried under the road certificate) and one passenger was sitting on mudguard, which was prohibited. Held, that there being clear breach of the road certificate, the owner was liable under r. 3, Punjab Motor Vehicles Plying for Hire Rules, 1922, although he was not present. (38 C. 415; 45 C. 430 and 1924 C. 985, Rel. on; 27 P.R. 1918; 1928 C. 410 and 1924 R. 63, Dist.) 1930 L. 865. Unless the wording of the rules is beyond doubt, the manufacturers' specifications regarding maximum load which can be carried cannot be read as part of the rules made by the Punjab Government. When the rule-making authority has deliberately made a distinction between private lorries and public lorries and has specified that public lorries shall not carry more than a specified amount of weight, it is reasonable to assume that it was not intended that any such limitation should apply to vehicles which are not public motor vehicles. Hence the owner of private lorries cannot be convicted under r. 23 of the Punjab Motor Vehicles Rules read with sec. 16, on the ground that his lorry was carrying a load in excess of its carrying capacity. A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 691=40 P.L.R. 942. R. 23 of Punjab Rules makes the driver as well as owner responsible for breach of rules. Driver cannot escape liability in case of overloading on the ground of the presence of the checker and ticket seller. 17 Lah. 604=38 P.L.R. 1015. Rule 49—Superintendent of Police fixing only week for inspection but not date—Inspector fixing particular date within that week—Lorry driver failing to produce his lorry on that date but producing it on subsequent date during that week—Driver not liable to conviction. 39 P.L.R. 130=169 I. (2) Every such officer shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

(3) The Provincial Government may make rules to regulate the discharge by officers of the Motor Vehicles Department of their functions and in particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power to prescribe the uniform to be worn by them, the authorities to which they shall be subordinate, the duties to be performed by them, the powers (including the powers exercisable by police officers under this Act) to be exercised by them, and the conditions governing the exercise of such powers.] (Inserted by Act XX of 1942.)

[(2) Notwithstanding the repeal of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, rules made by any Provincial Government under section 11 of that Act, other than rules prescribing the fees payable in respect of the grant or renewal of licences to drive motor vehicles, shall, whether or not they are consistent with this Act but subject to the provisions of sub-section (3) of this section, continue to be in force for a period of nine months from the commencement of this Act, unless before the expiry of that period they are cancelled by the Provincial Government by notification in the Official Gazette:] (Sub-section (2) omitted by Act XX of 1942.)

(3) Notwithstanding the repeal of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914, rules made or purporting to be made by a Provincial Government under sub-section (2) of section 11 of that Act, requiring or relating to the insurance of motor vehicles, being rules in force at the commencement of this Act, shall, until Chapter VIII of this Act takes effect in the province, have effect as if enacted in this Act.

[(4) Nothing contained in this Act shall, until the expiry of a period of nine months from the commencement of this Act, operate to invalidate any provisions relating to the taxation of motor vehicles contained in any Provincial enactment or rules made thereunder in force at the commencement of this Act.

driver in driving the car without properly illuminated rear light, if the owner has made provision for such illumination. A taxi driver who was convicted was fined Rs. 60 and was suspended for one year. Held, that the order of suspension of licence was part of the sentence and the conviction was appealable. Held, further, that no proceedings by way of revision could be entertained where no appeal was brought. 146 I.C. 545 (2) = 1933 Cr.C. 1146 = 1933 R. 329.

Per Baguloy, J.—The power to seize a licence given under rules framed by Local Government from its owner and keep it for a certain time cannot in any way help to carry into effect the provisions of the Act. It is not even a temporary suspension of the licence because it provides that a temporary substitute is to be given for it, and sec. 18 only provides for a licence to be cancelled or suspended by Local Government or by a Court trying the holder of a licence for an offence. R. 38-B must therefore be held to be ultra vires. 175 I.C. 639 = 39 Cr. L.J. 642 = A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 161.

THE SCHEDULES: SELECT COMMITTEE REPORT.—“A new form for Drivers' Licence has been substituted in the First Schedule for Form D contained in the Bill. Other forms in that Schedule have been amended either for the purpose of bringing the contents and the wording into harmony with the provisions of the Bill as now amended, or to remove superfluities, or to supply omissions. In the Fifth Schedule, the amendments made by us to cl. 20 abolishing perpetual endorsement have rendered the headings to Parts A and B unnecessary. We have eliminated from the list of offences entailing endorsement that of driving an uninsured vehicle, and we have also removed ten minor offences from Part B. In the Sixth Schedule we have provided for a system of Registration Marks consisting of three letters followed by four figures, the first two letters being indicative of the Province, the third possibly indicative of the registering authority. In the Eighth Schedule, we have inserted a speed limit for a class of vehicle not already provided for. In the Tenth Schedule, we have added an additional driving signal.”

¹[(5) While, under the provisions of sub-section (2), any rules made by a Provincial Government under section 11 of the Indian Motor Vehicles Act 1914, continue to be in force—

(a) section 112 shall be construed as if after the words “any rule made thereunder” there were inserted the words and figure “or of any rule made under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914 and continuing in force,” and

(b) section 113 shall be construed as if after the words “under this Act”, wherever they occur; there were inserted the words and figure “or under any rule made under the Indian Motor Vehicles Act, 1914 and continuing in force.” (Sub-sections 4 and 5 omitted by Act XX of 1942.)

The actual sectional diameter of the tyre when mounted on its appropriate rim and inflated shall in no case be less than the nominal sectional diameter.

Note.—Tyres may be calibrated in so-called metric sizes, for example, "170×120". In that case the first number represents the sectional diameter of the tyre in millimetres and the second number represents the diameter of the rim in inches. The permissible weight in pounds for each such tyre shall be determined by dividing the nominal sectional diameter of the tyre in millimetres by the figure 25.4, the quotient being the nominal sectional diameter in inches.
